Selectmen Quiz School Board On Contract

Ask Why $3000 Needed For Plans; Stulgis Will Rule One Contract Clause Is Illegal

The selectmen have sharply questioned members of the school committee and the school superintendent about the new $3000 contract for South school plans.

A meeting Tuesday morning found Chairman Roy Russell and Secretary William A. Doherty, plus Supt. Edward Erickson, answering rapid-fire questions from Selectmen Chairman Sidney P. White, who wanted to know all about the new contract and when it was signed.

Brochure Payments Still Illegal - Stulgis

"Legally you can't spend it." That was the flat statement given the school committee by Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis last week in relation to the $1200 South school brochure payment.

Further, the town counsel told the board that others in town have spent funds illegally for brochures if they were not provided for in authorizing articles.

Asked by members of the board if he couldn't have warned the committee that such an expenditure would be illegal, the town counsel said "You're supposed to be aware of the law. It's not for me to tell you unless you ask

Police Investigate Two Breaks; House Ransacked; Store Entered

Police are continuing to investigate two weekend breaks - one in a Main st. business house and the other in a home on Clark rd.

Hill's Hardware store was the victim on Main st., with police reporting that entrance was gained through a rear door. Some $22 was taken, they said, from a cash register. Patrolman Russell Berthel discovered the forced door while making his rounds about 10 p.m. Sunday night.

The house break, reported by John T. Andrew Jr., 72 Clark rd., is under investigation by Patrolman Henry B. Smith. He said the premises were ransacked, with a toaster, waffle iron, electric razors, electric clock, record player and many records taken. Entry was gained sometime between 5 and 8 p.m. police said, while the family was away from the house. They had planned to leave for Florida Monday.

State police were called in to check fingerprints. Police said a single set of footprints in the snow leading from the Main st. hardware store towards Essex st. were followed until they were lost.

Following the business meeting, there will be a plant exhibit. Any person interested in plants is asked to bring theirs. Prizes will be awarded. Mrs. Roy Brown is in charge.

Girl Scout Notes

Mrs. Marc Sweet, leader, has one of the groups meeting at her home and they are working on their second class badge. Mrs. George Forsythe, assistant leader, and her group are meeting at the home of Mrs. George Grant on Dale st. and are working on their cooking badge.

Meeting Postponed

The meeting of the Golden Age Circle scheduled for Monday afternoon was postponed out of respect for their late member and secretary, Mrs. Frances Benson, who died Saturday morning.

Decision Expected Soon On Requests For Funeral Homes

An appeals board decision on the applications of two undertakers to establish funeral homes — one on Main st. and the other on Punchard ave. — is expected shortly.

At a hearing April 5, the applications of Frederick E. Allen for permission to use the Andover Manse, 109 Main st., as a funeral home and of John Breen to use a house on Punchard ave. for the same purpose attracted considerable opposition from neighbors.

They argued that congestion would result from cars going to the homes for calling hours and funerals. The November club on Locke st., a prospective neighbor of Mr. Allen, recorded itself as not opposed but several residents called attention to difficulties in passing on the street now and said it would be worse if the petition was granted. Residents in the Punchard ave. section also pointed to traffic problems, pointing out that the street is used by the school buses and by cars going to the schools on Bartlett st. Many shoppers also use the street, it was explained.

Both Mr. Allen and Mr. Breen said their business is a profession rather than a business in the legal sense and that it is allowed in a residential area from a place of residence. They said no more than 50 cars would be attracted to the locations as the result of visiting hours but some persons disagreed, pointing out that the number might be doubled because people here know each other better than they do in Lawrence. One property owner near Mr. Allen's proposed home wrote the board registering approval, pointing out that he has lived in the section for two months and could see no harm in the establishment of such a business there.

"Land of Dreams Come True"

An imaginative and colorful operetta entitled "The Land of Dreams Come True" was presented by the students of the Shawsheen school before a large audience of parents and friends Wednesday evening in the school hall. The program, presented by grades five and six, told of the adventures of four mortal school children who ate magic berries and were transported to "The Land of Dreams Come True". The Flutophone choir, composed of Anne Burns, Louisa Manning, Linda Neil, Moira Prout and the pupils of grade four combined with the Chorus, made up the musical portion of the operetta.

The children who ate the magic berries were played by Joanne Bravacos, Lee Weiner, Kathrin Krakauer and Raymond Collins and the rest of the cast is as follows: Children's Playmates, Phyllis Kates and Richard Close; Mother Goose; Thelma Watson; The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe, Linda Watters; Bo-Peep, Judith McKinnon; Jack Horner, William Leone; Queen of Hearts, Patricia Roberge; Boy Blue, George Snow; Miss Muffet, Kathleen Gaudette; Son John, Timothy Flaherty; Jack and Jill, James and Jane Carpentier; Contrary Mary, Dorothy Minzner; Nimble Jack, David Bell.

The pixies were played by Georgine Bird, Gayle Dufton, Carolejean Locke, Carol Masse, Beth McGovern, Lisa Thompson. Rose Esile and Cathleen Riley played the part of roses. Blue bells were played by Nancy Baker and Veryl Dufton. Edith Clark and Margaret Hatem played the part of daises.

Members of the chorus were Katherine Annon, Susan Ander-

Ushers for the evening were Robert Baillie, Peter Beaven, Douglas Howe, Richard Lacey and James O'Reilly.

The program, one of the most enjoyable ever presented by the students, was under the direction of Miss Anne Harnedy, principal. Miss Florence McCarthy and Miss Joan Sullivan directed the Flutophone choir and the entire musical portion of the program was under the direction of Mrs. Frank McArdle, director of music in the Andover school system. Costumes and finishing touches were added by the combined efforts of teachers of all grades.

All Day Tour

The American Home and Antique Study department of the Shawsheen Village Woman's club will make an all day pilgrimage to "The Barretts" in Groton after which members will enjoy luncheon at the Groton Inn. Plans have also been made for an afternoon tour of various antique homes in the area so rich in historical background. Mrs. G. Edgar Best, Mrs. Arthur Steinert and Mrs. Edwin Bramley are in charge of reservations for the pilgrimage which will take place this Friday with members meeting at 10 a.m. in the village square as a starting point.

Plant Seeds-Reap Friendship

The Shawsheen Camp Fire girls under the direction of their leaders are busy working on their 1956 birthday project "Plant Seeds-Reap Friendship". This project requires that each girl send many seed packets containing okra, egg plant, soy beans, or other seeds suitable to the country to which they are being sent, as a useful and practical message showing people of foreign countries that we are concerned about their needs and welfare.

Camp Reunion

Shawsheen was well represented at the annual Camp Lawrence reunion held at the Y.M.C.A. in Lawrence last Saturday. Following the banquet David Stickland, Robert Stickland, Clifford Howe, Douglas Howe, Clayton Smith and David Noyes, as members of the Early Bird club, were awarded Early Bird pennants for being among the first 36 boys to register for the 56 camping season at Lake Winnepesaukee, N.H.

Plant Seeds-Reap Friendship

The Shawsheen Camp Fire girls under the direction of their leaders are busy working on their 1956 birthday project "Plant Seeds-Reap Friendship". This project requires that each girl send many seed packets containing okra, egg plant, soy beans, or other seeds suitable to the country to which they are being sent, as a useful and practical message showing people of foreign countries that we are concerned about their needs and welfare.

Camp Reunion

Shawsheen was well represented at the annual Camp Lawrence reunion held at the Y.M.C.A. in Lawrence last Saturday. Following the banquet David Stickland, Robert Stickland, Clifford Howe, Douglas Howe, Clayton Smith and David Noyes, as members of the Early Bird club, were awarded Early Bird pennants for being among the first 36 boys to register for the 56 camping season at Lake Winnepesaukee, N.H.

For additional details, see the bulletin board at the rear of room 6, or inquire at the guidance office.

The Benzene Ring chemical society at Merrimack College extended an invitation to any Punchard seniors interested in attending their annual stunt night that was held last night at 8 p.m.

A prominent American chemist was the speaker for the evening. A social hour followed the speaker.

New Reference Books

Students should be aware that two new reference books are available in the Goldsmith library. One is the new edition of the "Lincoln Library of Essential Information" and the other is "The Century Cyclopedia of Names." Both are especially helpful in general reference work.

Library Visit

Five members of the Punchard High School Library Club, accompanied by Miss Muriel Shaw, school librarian, recently visited the Stoneham High School as guests of Miss Miriam Marsh, the librarian there.

Miss Marsh arranged for the Punchard Girls to be taken on a general tour of the new school building. They had an opportunity to meet several of the student assistants in the Stoneham High School library. The girls were interested in learning that becoming a student librarian is put on a voluntary basis, as it is at Punch-

ard. They compared general library regulations in the two schools. The group spent an enjoyable day there.

Those who went with Miss Shaw were Mary Bonanno, Patricia Doyle, Judith Goldman, Patience Lewin and Joan Wilson.

Barnard Essay

Last Tuesday the Barnard Essay Contest was held in the Punchard Memorial auditorium.

Those that participated were Margaret Watson, Leigh Henderson, Brenda Kelly, Sheila Serio, Donald Wescott, Joyce Dunlop, Susan Bird and Julia Grecoe. Each gave a most interesting and enjoyable essay.

After much consideration the judges awarded the three prizes to the following people, Susan Bird, first prize; Sheila Serio, second prize; Joyce Dunlop, third prize.

The Judges were the Rev. Mr. Hugh Penney of the West Parish church, Miss Eileen Carson, Junior High Teacher, and Miss Francis Brainerd, former Lawrence High School teacher. Rev. Penney gave out the awards.

While the judges were making their decisions, Miss Patricia Smalley, accompanied by Miss Joyce Dunlop at the piano, sang "Day and Night" and "Over the Rainbow".

Others participating in the assembly were George Durant and William Vickers.

Congratulations to all!!!

$7 Raise Needs Thought

Some grave problems arise from the request of the police and fire department employees for a $7 raise.

First of all, we believe all town employees should be treated alike — if the policemen and firefighters get a raise it should also be granted to all full-time employees.

It was only a few weeks ago that the annual town meeting voted a $3 pay raise to all employees. The voters had an opportunity to grant a larger sum but followed the advice of the Finance committee and the Taxpayers association.

Since then, of course, Methuen has given an across-the-board 10 percent increase to all employees and North Andover has voted a 12½ percent increase. That makes Andover's three dollars look small by comparison, to be sure.

This newspaper long ago approved the suggestion for a $6 weekly pay increase for all town employees. We thought that amount was justified by increased costs and the necessity of keeping qualified men on the town payroll rather than lose them to private business.

We still feel that such a figure would be sound — but now the two departments have asked for another $7, which, if granted, would boost them by $10 a week. That seems to be a very sizeable boost — one that will require much serious thought from all voters before the special town meeting.

Building Permit Rationing

Slow down the building boom.

That's the aim and purpose of many town officials. And perhaps, in many ways, they're right.

But in one respect we disagree.

It has been suggested that building permits be rationed — so many to a builder each year and that's it. The town of Stoughton uses that method to keep building from getting out of hand. But there has been no court test of the procedure. It has been reported that some state officials feel the method to be illegal. One or two local lawyers have also said it is illegal, a clear violation of the law. Are we to put ourselves in the middle of a court test?

In Stoughton, it is reported that outside developers have come to town, heard of the limitations and left — all without involving themselves financially. But here we have a case where an outside builder is already committed to the extent of thousands of dollars. We suspect that firm will not withdraw without testing the method of restricting permits.

It seems to us that the procedure, of doubtful legality, should be laid aside until it is tested somewhere. Then we will be able to either adopt it, being sure of its legality, or cast it aside.

Pike Trustees Accept Resignation

MRS. MARGARET J. LITTLE

Mrs. Margaret J. Little, headmistress at Pike school for six years, has resigned.

Trustees of the private school accepted her resignation at the April meeting. She will remain on the faculty to teach English and take charge of the seventh grade home room.

Mrs. Little assumed the headmistress' duties when Mrs. Cynthia E. Pike, founder of the school, resigned. Mrs. Little is a graduate of Smith college.

DR. PRATT'S WILL LISTS LEGACIES

A daughter, Mrs. Sylvia P. Kemper, was bequeathed $4100 under the terms of the will of Dr. Joseph G. Pratt, according to that document which was recorded in the Salem registry of probate.

Charitable bequests totalling $15,000 were contained in the will. They included $5000 each to the Boston Medical library and the Episcopal Theological school; $4000 to John Hopkins university for the work of its school of medicine and $1000 was left to St. Paul's Episcopal church of Brookline for its altar guild.

A son, Dr. T. Dennie Pratt of New York city was given $3500 and another daughter, Mrs. Joan P. Cuyler of New York city received $500. The residue of the property was awarded to these three children and to another daughter, Mrs. Rosamond P. Walcott of Wooster, Ohio.

Melville Chapin was named executor and no estimated value of the estate was given.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — April 1906

The first annual grand concert and ball, under the auspices of the Andover Council, Knights of Columbus, was held in the town hall Wednesday evening. About 250 couples attended.

A very successful supper and entertainment was held in the church vestry in Ballardvale last Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Congregational Ladies Aid society.

Nearly 40 fire alarms kept firemen busy during the past week. An unoccupied house in Shawsheen village and the garage of Dr. John Hartigan on Locke st. were victims of fire; 75 acres of woodland in Ballardvale burned over and many brush and grass fires have been extinguished. Some are alleged to have been set. Chief Charles Emerson and his men fought the Shawsheen blaze with the knowledge that a dynamite dump was located 100 yards away, with the fire working its way towards the explosive.

the committee, during the discussion, "You got caught in a wedge." He pointed out that he had not been asked about similar bills in the past and does not see the bills as a regular procedure. It was then that Mr. Allis asked about others in the past being illegal, with Stulgis agreeing that brochure bills in past years would have been ruled illegal if the same set of facts existed as do in this case.
"This is the dawn of a new era," commented Secretary Doherty - "a new precedent." Supt. Edward I. Erickson commented that he hoped other departments will act accordingly and Stulgis replied "I can't be an angel guardian." He said money specified in articles for specific purposes can't be spent for any other purpose and that was the basis for the ruling on the South school brochure.

"If I was a judge," Stulgis asserted, "I wouldn't interpret it as a plan to present to the town. It is an advertisement."
School board member Frederick Allis Jr. had pointed out that "you can't hide the plans", emphasizing that the brochure was a necessary method of presenting the plans to the voters.
Mrs. Reta Buchan asked if a special town meeting article would clear the way for payment but was told it would not. Stulgis said the brochure is outside the contract with the architects and that he would rule, if asked, that payment under authority of a special town meeting would still be illegal.

Mrs. Buchan queried him about occasional articles calling for payment of funds contracted for by departments but was told that such a case is legal because there was authority existing for the original contract whereas none exists in the brochure case.

No Mind Reader
Chairman Roy Russell told the lawyer: "You and others are civic minded enough to know it is procedure to submit a brochure to the town. I would think you would have advised us then rather than now."
"I'm no mind reader," Stulgis replied. "I approve your contracts in form because I don't take part in your negotiations. I can't tell what's in your mind - what am I, Mr. Houdini?"
"It seems very strange that this should come up now," commented Chairman Russell. He asked: "The only reason it was noticed was the keen eye of the accountant?" Stulgis said he didn't know who noticed it but he was asked for a ruling by the accountant. Secretary William Doherty said he was told by someone that the accountant was advised to question the bill, even before it came to his desk, but the veteran school committee member said he didn't recall who told him about it. He suggested that the school board could always take the question to a special town meeting and ask the people for a ruling. "If they vote to pay it then counsel can always rule it illegal. It would make an interesting procedure," the board secretary commented.

Ethics, Religion, Morals -- Food For Souls Of Early P.A. Students

By Kay Noyes

Ethics, religion and morals were food for the souls of Phillips academy's early students and Latin, Greek and English were the kindling to ignite the brain with a fiery thirst for knowledge. Such was part of the early doctrine of Phillips academy and it was the main curricula of the students. Although the sciences and associated subjects were taught, it was the purpose of the faculty to instill in the students a Christian education which would teach them the virtues of piety.

Supplied Gun Powder

These concepts of education were the personal beliefs of its founder, Judge Samuel Phillips, who influenced his father and uncles to make substantial donations towards the founding of the Free school. The Judge's ancestors were early immigrants in the days of colonialism and endured hardships and heartaches that played an important part in the moulding of his character. He was the product of a stern upbringing and, as an educated man who attended Dummer Academy and graduated from Harvard college with the class of 1771, he saw the need for an educational institution in this area. While still a young man he became successful in business ventures and was respected by the town citizenry and the statesmen with whom he associated. Although he did not serve in the Revolutionary War as a soldier, he did much towards hastening its end by supplying Washington's poorly equipped soldiers with gun powder from his local mill.

Saw School Need

While this country was still in the throes of the Revolutionary repercussions, Judge Phillips became greatly interested in founding a school and although the present location of the academy was not the Judge's original preference, the required acreage could not be found in a suitable tract of land in his native North Parish. Soon afterwards, in 1777, he purchased 187 acres from the Solomon Wardwell and George Abbot estates in the South Parish and so his plans for a school got under way.

Original Building

The wooden building on the right was situated on the 187 acres on the site of the present Archaeological building and was the original school and the beginning of Phillips academy. In 1778, this former carpentry shop became known as the Phillips school and was arranged to accommodate 30 boys but proved to be too small the following year when 60 boys enrolled for that semester. The school was maintained largely by donations from various members of the Phillips clan but in 1780, the schools funds proved to be inadequate to support the growing institution. And so the first step towards establishing a tuition fee was taken when each student was assessed two and one half dollars.

Oldest In U.S.

In the same year, the passage of an act of incorporation established the name of the school as Phillips academy giving it the distinction of being the oldest incorporated academy in the country. At the same time, history was being made throughout the country as the Boston newspapers carried the startling news that General Benedict Arnold, the commander at West Point, was a traitor.

Since that April 30th, 176 years ago, when the school first received its charter there have been many changes as the academy was destroyed by fire on several occasions and it was only through generous endowments that it has kept from becoming entailed in serious financial difficulties.

Exuberant Youth

Although monetary matters posed problems at many times, the Headmaster also was beset by the inevitable exuberance of youth such as the undergraduate humor of the class of 1875, when it achieved fame by stealing a professor's copy of Cicero and cremating it on the campus. The ashes were then carefully placed in a glass jar and sealed with wax. The impressive label read "M. Tulli Ciceronis, Cato Major de Senectute" and the jar remained in the academy library for many years apparently preserved as a relic of great value.

On the night of celebration and any occasion was a celebration, no outhouse or gate in the town was safe without a guard. But with all their practical joking, the boys at the academy rarely showed deliberate malice in their pranks.

Mecca For Knowledge

The school has now reached magnificent proportions with 70 boys, from 24 foreign countries and 41 states, attending classes as compared with the original enrollment of 30 students. A sharp contrast may also be seen between the initial tuition fee of two and one-half dollars as compared with the present fee of $1400.

The achievements this school has made in the educational field would have been gratifying to the original founders, who labored diligently to make "the school on the hill" a mecca for knowledge for hungry men.

board is only authorized to prepare preliminary plans for a contract for payment of the building later.

The timing of the contract was also debated for it had been reported that the contract was in the possession of the selectmen. At a meeting April 11, the selectmen discussed the matter and the following hearing on the South Parish.

Atty. Stulgis was called to the stand to explain why he wasn't asked to appear and discuss it.

Mr. Erickson said he would like to draw and sign a contract but the document was made that Wednesday and he had to wait until Thursday, when he sent to town counsel.

Stulgis said he had been asked by the superintendent if he would prepare the approval of the form. He said he couldn't do just that because the clause committing the selectmen to a quarter of the full cost of the building was not approved at the town meeting.

Contract Terminated

All three school plans were explained that Mr. Stulgis had earlier in the April meeting that the first contract was terminated when the plans were presented — thus it was necessary to have a new contract.

Why, Mr. White was asked, was $3000 necessary for the building? Kiernan, a member of the board, had said he thought the building should go along under the old plan but the board had a new document for the building that cost more than $3000 with the kitchen and the expressed willingness of the architects to work under the old document?

Late In Meeting

At that April 4 meeting following the public hearing, the board agreed with the selectmen that three plans should be presented for a revision of the present two-story plan and a floor design. There were many members of the board who were present and the press were present for the work.

When the reporters were present there was to be any more over the school, they were there with none expected. The board left, with members of the committee and three members of the selectmen around the meeting table discussing other matters.

Secretary William T. told the selectmen that the agreement with the architect came later in the evening.

board is only authorized to prepare preliminary plans, not contract for payment on work to come later.

The timing of the second contract was also debated at length, for it had been reported that the contract was in the school board's possession April 4 when they discussed the matter with the architects following the public hearing on the South school plans.

Atty. Stulgis wanted to know, if the contract was there then, why he wasn't asked to look it over and discuss it at the time.

Mr. Erickson said the decision to draw and sign a new contract was made that Wednesday night but the document wasn't given him until Thursday, when it was sent to town counsel for approval.

Stulgis said he had asked the superintendent if he wanted approval of the form and was told yes — but the counsel said he couldn't do just that when he saw the clause committing the town to a quarter of the full architect's fee on approval of the school by town meeting.

Contract Terminated

All three school personnel explained that Mr. Stulgis had ruled, earlier in the April 4 meeting, that the first contract was terminated when the present plans were presented — thus, they said, it was necessary to have another contract.

Why, Mr. White wanted to know, was $3000 necessary when Frank Kiernan, a member of the firm, had said he thought they should go along under the old contract — couldn't the board have approved a new document for much less than $3000 with the knowledge of the expressed willingness of the architects to work under the old document?

Late In Meeting

At that April 4 meeting, following the public hearing, the board agreed with the architects that three plans should be drawn — a revision of the present one, a two-story plan and a new one-floor design. There was no agreement, while members of the working press were present, to pay $3000 for the work.

When the reporters asked if there was to be any more debate over the school, they were told there was none expected. They left, with members of the school committee and three representatives of the architects seated around the meeting table but discussing other matters.

Secretary William A. Doherty told the selectmen Tuesday that the agreement with the architects came later in the evening. He said, under questioning from Mr. White, that there was no disagreement from any of the four board members present.

School Responsibility

Doherty stressed several times that "this is still a school committee matter" and that town counsel was expected to give a written opinion on the contract, which the school committee could consider before signing the document. Stulgis agreed to do so and said he would certainly note in his letter that the clause for payment of 25 percent of the total fee is not legal, under the authority granted to the committee by town meeting.

The request of Gerard C. Proulx for a zoning variance to allow construction of a cement block building, to be used as a riding ring, at 74 Salem st. brought a crowd to town hall April 5.

The hearing before the appeals board found the audience about evenly divided on the subject.

Proulx said the ring would not increase his business but would allow the most productive use of his horses, even in bad weather. He said he now has 41 horses but has a capacity for 50.

Atty. Charles Hatch, representing objectors, told the board he feels the zoning law does not necessarily provide for the expansion of a non-conforming use.

Atty. Robert S. Zollner, representing Proulx, said he did not believe the law said there should be no expansion of a non-conforming use. He also pointed out that the building is for recreational use and said there is no difference in the law between private and public recreational buildings, a point argued by Mr. Hatch. Atty. Zollner said he had a petition bearing some 150 signatures,

SELECTMEN QUERY SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Questions from Mr. White, the school superintendent reported that the Perley F. Gilbert associates had been selected for the Shawsheen and West school additions after interviews with several reliable firms. They had then been retained for the South school, he said.

White wanted to know if, after town meeting defeat of the Gilbert associates plan, the board hadn't thought to have someone else's opinion on a new school. He asked if there was any firm specializing in two-story construction and was told all firms specializing in schools build two-story as well as one-story buildings.

Doherty said he understood the High School Building committee had retained Rich and Tucker without prior interviews - they were the firm that planned the Central school - and the committee secretary wanted to know why it wasn't reasonable for the school committee to do the same with the Gilbert associates after hiring them for the two additions.

Wants Good Building

"If someone jumps out a 10-story window you don't have to", retorted White. He said he hoped the architect would plan a school with a roof that will shed water, with walls that will keep water out rather than in and with good foundation footings. He mentioned one school, of modern construction, that has had cracks in the walls and wet ceilings.

Doherty agreed, pointing out that the Gilbert associates did not build the school nor was the school board responsible for construction of it. He explained that the junior high school, the boiler plant and the Jackson school were planned by the Gilbert associates and have been good buildings.

Topo Maps

In another question about the contract itself, some time was spent discussing a provision in the second document that calls for the town to furnish topographical maps of the site. That work was done and paid for under the first contract and several wondered why it was included in the second one. Erickson said it is a standard provision in architect's contracts. However, members of the school committee felt the one furnished was satisfactory and there would be no need for another.

Summation

Summed up, the meeting produced the following answers:

The school committee felt a new contract was necessary because town counsel ruled the first one terminated.

They felt Frank Kiernan was speaking off-hand when he mentioned working under the old contract, without knowledge of counsel's ruling.

They agreed that the firm must be paid for the three plans it is to present for consideration.

They did not feel it advisable to ask another firm for ideas on a school for Ballardvale.

The board voted April 4 to pay $3000 for the new plans but the contract was delivered Thursday morning instead of the same night and then sent to town counsel. It has not been accepted by the school committee.

Russell Denied Permit

The selectmen denied a permit to store and sell gasoline at the site of the former Anne's Andover Cottage, requested Monday night by Roy Russell. The board said the denial was due to the area being in a single residence zone.

A sizeable crowd had appeared to be about evenly divided Monday night when they appeared at town hall at the hearing on Russell's petition.

Mr. Russell, a member of the police department and an elected school committee member, asked the selectmen for permission to store 12,000 gallons of gasoline there in three underground tanks of 4000 gallons capacity each.

He told the gathering that the station he proposes to construct there would cost about $25,000 when complete and that it would furnish the only indoor lubrication facilities in that area.

Mr. Russell said the station would be a two-bay one with a center island with two sets of pumps. He explained that there are only two stations in the four miles from Andover center to the No. Reading line and that he saw the need of another, modern station in that section of town.

Needs Variance

Chairman Sidney P. White pointed out that the selectmen deal only with the gasoline storage permit but a variance of the zoning by-law would be needed to put up a station there. Mrs. Richard Moody asked if the area is a single residence zone now and was told it is.

Objections Heard

Mrs. Sally Houghton of Fieldstones objected to the permit for several reasons, including devaluation of property, dangerous traffic conditions and the intrusion of a business in the single residence area. She said many near accidents occur on the road near the proposed station because cars going south are sometimes unable to see what is coming in the opposite direction. Russell said the station would have a 30-foot approach from the north and a 45-foot approach from the south to take care of the traffic problems.

He also mentioned that the bright lighting from the station would help lighten up the area for motorists. He called attention to the fact that a business has been located at the site for about 20 years until the building burned down.

James Gorrie, a member of the police department, spoke for the petition. He told the neighbors and the selectmen that he had worked with Russell in contacting many residents in the area and had found many of them agreeable to the filling station.

Russell listed several residents by name as not opposed, both from the So. Main st. section and on Alderbrook rd.

Higgins Opposed

Atty Thomas Collins spoke in behalf of John F. Higgins, who lives across the street, and opposed the petition. He said Mr. Higgins' driveway comes out into the street diagonally across from the proposed station with a possible traffic problem created. He also said it is likely that property valuations would decrease in the area if the station is built.

The owner of another gas station on the highway was opposed to the measure, pointing out that he hopes to have his station rebuilt into a modern one this summer.

Growth Warrants It

Russell told the gathering that he feels the growth of the town warrants another station there. One query concerned the effect of the new Route 28 and decreasing traffic as a result but Russell felt that it still would be a good location.

He several times referred to stories and rumors that are alleged to have been going around town about the ownership of the station — and assured those present that he is asking for the permit for himself as a method of improving his and his family's position. He said there have been no commitments made to any major company.

Public Invited To Hear Miss Bell

Gwendolyn Bell, a contralto, will give a concert in Davis hall, Abbot academy, Saturday night at 8. She has appeared here several times, both at Abbot and at Phillips academy.

A junior at Boston university, Miss Bell is one of the finalists now competing for the John Hay Whitney national scholarship. Last summer, she won a scholarship to the Opera school at Tanglewood. She has appeared with several Boston choral societies and has been a guest soloist at Symphony hall.

Mahler's "Song of a Wayfarer" will be one of the highlights of the evening's performance, which will include some contemporary, English and Spiritual songs.

Residents of the town have been invited to attend the concert.

COMMUNION BREAKFAST

A Mother and Daughter Communion breakfast, sponsored by St. Augustine's guild, will be held Sunday after the 8 a.m. Mass in the school hall. The Rev. William Cullen of Merrimack college is guest speaker. Mrs. Thomas O'Leary and Mrs. William O'Neil are chairmen of this affair.

Newest FinCom Member Not Voter Here

A five-year resident of the town, who was not a registered voter, has been appointed to the Finance committee.

He is Paul W. Smith, 23 Johnson rd. As of Monday noon, Mr. Smith was not registered as a voter here according to official records, although Town Clerk George H. Winslow said he expected the new appointee to register right away. He can not be sworn into office, the town clerk said, until he is registered because being a registered voter is a requirement of appointment to the chief financial committee of the town.

Mr. Smith's appointment was announced in the ANDOVER TOWNSMAN of March 29 as a result of an announcement of the appointment from Moderator Roland Sherman. Mr. Smith replaces Charles McDuffie on the committee.

Mr. Smith moved here five years ago and comes from Greenfield, Ohio. He was graduated from Marietta college in Ohio and soon afterwards joined the Western Electric company. He was worked for the firm for 30 years and is presently the superintendent of the Lawrence plants. He served previously in Andover as a member of the Town Hall Building committee.

Mr. Winslow explained Monday that he will accept Mr. Smith's registration as a voter but will not allow him to take part in the Presidential Primary April 24 because registration for the primary has been closed. That procedure has been used in the past, the town clerk said, then a person can't, for some reason, register during the periods when registration is allowed.

Normally, registrations are not permitted during a specific period before an election or primary election. Persons allowed to register during that otherwise-closed period are not allowed to vote in the upcoming election or primary, the town clerk explained, because that would be unfair to those who registered in advance of the closing date.

Boost Bonding Requirements

New bonding requirements have been set up by the planning board. Instead of the present $8-per-foot bond required of builders, the board will call for $15-per-foot in non-sewered areas and $20-per-foot in sewered areas. The action was taken at Monday night's board meeting, after a comparison of bonding requirements in other towns. The board also received information from the BPW that the $8-per-foot figure was low.

The planning board requires developers to post the bond to insure completion of roads, drainage, water and sewer installations.

It has been explained that the builder's certified check for the total amount is deposited in the town clerk's vault until such time as the work is completed.

NO MORE ARGUMENTS OVER GLEASON STREET

Gleason st. — the unaccepted way that provoked many arguments at BPW meetings and on the floor of town meeting — is no longer a problem. With the announcement Monday that it will be accepted by the selectmen, the BPW authorized slightly less than 1000 feet of water pipe installation.

Engineer Ralph Preble said pipe bids have been awarded to the R. D. Wood company but that bids must be obtained on equipment hired for the project. As soon as that is done, he stated, work will begin on the extension.

CHANGES MEETINGS

Starting May 2, the planning board will meet Wednesday nights instead of Monday evenings. The board agreed to the change so that Engineer Ralph Preble will be available to the board. He now is occupied with BPW meetings.

The first and third Wednesdays of each month will be designated as the nights for presenting plans to the board.
