Police Await Lab Report As Aid In Solving Several Store Breaks

ALL-OUT EFFORT TUESDAY FOR CANCER FUND DRIVE

An army of workers have enlisted in the fight against cancer.

Chairman Ernest Young reported this week that many persons will work in the house-to-house drive Tuesday night from 6:45 to 8:15. He said returns from the drive will be accepted at the Andover National bank that night.

The money is used for research, grants for needy patients and public education.

Solution of at least four store breaks may hinge on a report from the state police crime lab, Chief David Nicoll reported Tuesday afternoon.

He said there is a definite suspect and that the report is needed to further the investigation.

Hill's Hardware store was entered April 9, police reported last week. On the same night, the Cities Service gas station on No. Main st. was broken into.

Friday, April 13, was an unlucky day for Lee's restaurant and an attempted break was discovered April 12 at Dantos on Elm st.

Meanwhile, on April 15, thieves broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kennedy at 70 Main st. and stole about $50 in money and jewelry. Mr. Kennedy said a fur coat and other items were found on the floor, apparently piled there to be scooped up on the way out. He said whoever was in the house apparently ran

Residents Renew Primary Tuesday; Battle Against Acme Concrete

The selectmen will make a decision on the future of the Acme Concrete company within two weeks.

At a hearing Monday night, they heard residents of Fletcher, Shepley and Binney streets complain about the firm's operations at the old Cross Coal-yard on Fletcher st.

Wilfred Dwyer, a spokesman for many of the residents, accused the firm of bad faith in its activities here.

He also warned the selectmen that they should represent Andover residents, not outside interests, in making a decision.

Residents Renew Primary Tuesday; Polls Open 10-7

Voters of both political parties will go to the polls next Tuesday to elect their delegates to national political conventions and to name members of the state committees and the town political bodies.

Voters will all cast their ballots in the Square and Compass hall from 10-7 p.m. One voting place has been established because the light vote of other years convinced the selectmen that one central polling place was sufficient. The hours also differ from town, state and national elections which usually call for a 12-hour period from 7-7. That change, too, is based on the anticipated light vote which might leave poll workers with little to do in the 12-hour stretch.

There are no contested delegate positions on the ballot but state

The school committee has appointed four consultants to help it with plans and costs for the South school.

The board decided last week-end to ask four professional men, identified with construction, banking and law, to act in an advisory capacity as plans are presented for the new elementary school.

The four, all of whom accepted the task, are John Erwin, construction engineer with Western Electric company; Edward P. Hall, former selectman and prominent local builder; Charles G. Hatch, attorney and a member of the Finance committee and John

What Our Readers Say—

THE DEMOCRATIC PROCESS

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

As a result of the school committee's public meeting, April 4, I think it is possible to draw the following conclusions:

(1) An acceptable South school cost can be established if the committee will adopt for the South school the basic specifications for room sizes and equipment which now exist in our newer schools.

(2) A price below $850,000 is possible if the overall design of the school is made more compact.

(3) The school committee should reconsider its position as a building committee which excludes anyone with practical experience in construction.

To accept Central school specifications involves questions of room sizes and the economics of maintenance. Are the rooms in the Central school too small? We know they can and do accommodate close to 40 pupils. Is there an "ideal" size of class? If so it is a shifting ideal. It used to be 35 or 40 and is now said to be 30 or 25 pupils. Some of our best private schools say it is nearer ten. I believe the ideal is below five. Doesn't look as if there is a magic number. Maybe all these numbers are ideal but some are more ideal than others? If the Central school room sizes are large enough, many thousands of dollars will be saved, that is for sure.

Is it a sound idea to buy more expensive materials and equipment than were used in other schools for the purpose of reducing maintenance costs? It all depends. The right answers depend not on good intentions but on an understanding of the economics involved.

The right people can provide a break-even point above which it pays off to buy better materials and equipment and below which it is foolhardy. Construction experts know the formula to apply to windows, tile, furniture, etc. and it should be followed. If the materials in the Central school represent bad judgement they should not be re-specified; if they are economically sound many more thousands can be saved - provided always that common sense supplements the slide rule. What does it profit a town to save 10 percent of a full-time janitor's time? We could go broke trying to save maintenance money.

Since the present design of the South school is expensive, simplification of design is sure to save many more thousands. In addition, a consolidation of the classrooms may obviate having to explain why a given grade must be adjacent to the next lower class but not to the grade above, whereas the grade above it must be adjacent to the next higher grade but not the one below. Sounds pretty arbitrary. Besides saving construction dollars, a compact plan will unquestionably save heating and maintenance dollars in the future.

For the committee to insist on exclusive authority as construction experts is to put themselves in a very vulnerable position. To share that authority with fellow citizens who know construction would give the committee adequate representation on the new building, yet would leave committees free to devote their talents to the problems of schooling and, in the end, would restore to the school committee the largest measure of respect and prestige.

It begins to look, Mr. Editor, as if the outlines of a solution begin to emerge from all the soul searching that has been going on. It begins to look as if a solution through public discussion were soon to settle the problem of the new South school to the satisfaction of the great majority of our citizens.

Thus is the democratic process being served.

The April meeting of Priscilla Abbot chapter, D.A.R., was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Mondale on Summer st. April 10 with dessert and coffee being served before the business meeting. The assistant hostesses were Mrs. Roland Glines and Mrs. John Stewart.

Guests for the afternoon were the regent and registrar of Molly Reid chapter of Derry, N.H. After the usual patriotic exercises and devotions, led by the vice-regent, Mrs. Frank Hayes, reports of the chapter officers and committee chairmen were given. A report was given by Mrs. John N. Murray on the recent tour to the Gardner Museum at which time 6th grade students were accompanied by chapter members and friends. It is hoped that the chapter can plan for another such tour to accommodate the rest of the sixth graders from Central school who were disappointed at not being able to go on the recent trip.

Tentative plans are being made, for Constitution week in September, to take a group of children on an historical tour. The grade is to be decided in the future with the cooperation of Miss Catherine Barrett, principal.

Mrs. O'Connor gave a short report of the March conference, telling of the silver star award the chapter has received for completing 11 of the 12 requirements for the National Honor Roll.

Andover-Wilmington RR Started By Hobart Clark

By Kay Noyes

This large wooden arch was once a colorful addition to the Andover railroad station in an era when the iron horses were taken in out of the weather for the convenience of boarding passengers.

Although the canopy can no longer be seen, since the station underwent its face lifting treatment, it once afforded protection against the elements for many a distinguished visitor to Andover. This, however, was not the site of Andover's first railroad depot and probably very few people realize, while watching a lively western or a tender love scene in the local movie theater, that Walsh's tin shop once stood on that spot and served as our first railroad depot.

Enthusied Over RR

The road through Andover was begun through the efforts of Hobart Clark, Esquire, of Andover who, after a visit to his brother in Utica, New York, became so enthusiastic after seeing a railroad in full operation that he returned to Andover fully convinced that a branch line would do much towards the progress of the town.

1835 Magic Year

At a public meeting, held in Locke Tavern on Main st., the plans for a railroad through Andover were considered and the members present resolved to petition the Legislature for a charter for a railroad to be called the Andover and Wilmington line. In 1833, just a year after Mr. Clark's original ideal was put into operation, the charter was granted and in the spring of 1835, work on the route swung into full production.

Through Back Yards

In 1836, the final rail was laid in Andover for the "Old Railroad", and as the first train puffed its way along the new line, crowds of cheering people lined the route wishing it a safe journey as it proceeded along the course which ran from the Andover Playhouse through the back gardens of many of the Central st. homes and crossed directly in front of the Rose Cottage on Chestnut st. and in back of the present parochial school. The line then proceeded on up the street where it passed under a bridge and then continued across School st. through Spring Grove cemetery to the Ballardvale station. Wilmington Junction was the next stop on the route before it eventually joined the Boston and Lowell Railroad.

The span of the early railroad and the old railroad beds may still be differentiated from the surrounding contours of the land if one carefully scrutinizes the area once traveled by the "Old Railroad". This line served the town for many years before being moved north and west of its original location so that it might prove beneficial to the "new corporation" which is today our neighboring city of Lawrence.

Dare-Devil Blaster

Andover's nostalgic memories of this early line include the workers who labored so diligently to complete the laying of the track. As a hardy group of people they did their work without the aid of trenching machines and automatic graders and the engineers who laid out the path for the bed to follow miraculously completed their efforts without the aid of telescopic and transit instruments and succeeded in bringing the railroad in a true line to its next joining. One of the enterprising and courageous men was a burly Irishman whose job was to torch the dynamite needed to excavate the ledges along the path. As matches were not in use at that time, this hardy soul used to walk along the rough grade brandishing a flaming torch in one hand and a keg of blasting powder in the other quite unconcerned about any resultant effect from a flying ember.

Andover owes a great deal to the pioneer railroad builders and to the men who purchased the original 1000 shares of stock to finance this venture for it is to them that a large part of our towns economic and industrial growth is indebted.

Permanent Acme Decision

We do hope the Acme Concrete problem — highlighted again this week — will be settled soon and permanently by the selectmen.

That firm first came here some months ago and there has been a constant turmoil ever since, with town boards and officials debating with residents of Fletcher, Shepley and Binney streets.

This week's hearing, at which residents of the area put the selectmen directly on the spot, produced no new facts but did serve to sum up the facts in controversy.

Briefly, Acme wants to operate a contractor's yard but there appears to be a grave difference of opinion over what is meant by a contractor's yard. The residents don't want Acme in their neighborhood due to traffic conditions, noise, dust and other so-called nuisances.

The selectmen are on the spot because the residents have said they (the board) should represent Andover interests (the residents) and not those of outsiders (Acme).

Seems to us that Acme should be allowed to operate what the law says may be operated in that location — a contractor's yard. A list of permissible uses should be provided the firm, beyond which they shall not go. That could be done by the selectmen and the town counsel.

Traffic should be regulated on the streets so that all vehicles can pass through the street unhampered — whether they be Acme trucks or fire apparatus.

We have said before, and find it worth repeating, that the treatment given Acme may have seriously hampered the town's efforts to attract new industry. Some firms may look with a doubtful eye at Andover, having heard of the fuss raised in this case and believing it to be par for the course.

If that should come true, the residents of the area in which Acme is located will have served the town poorly. We hope, thus, that some amicable solution can be found that will allow Acme to operate within the law on Fletcher st. and at the same time give the residents adequate protection against increased trucking.

Teachers' Salaries

We were delighted to see a news story from Phillips academy that told about a new salary schedule — actually a new approach to the problem of teachers' salaries — that will become effective Sept. 1.

The academy, through its headmaster, Dr. John Kemper, has said it believes a good teacher should be able to double if not triple his starting salary by the time he reaches age 55. It establishes, for perhaps the first time, a standard for teachers' pays that is reasonable in terms of attracting young men into the field and retaining them for a lifetime of service.

Phillips academy is to be congratulated on its approach to the problem.

SPECIAL MOVIE ON CHILD CARE FOR MOTHERS GROUP

While the Littlest Listeners are having their usual story and music hour at the Memorial Hall library on Wednesday morning, April 25, mothers will see a film on "Your Children's Play." This 20-minute color film shows the importance of play in a child's life. It illustrates how children learn and acquire physical dexterity and an understanding of the world around them through play. The film shows how play channels children's emotions, and how it can be adjusted harmoniously with adult activities. Any mother is most cordially invited to attend the films on child care. While the Robins are having their meeting next week, the mothers will have an opportunity to see the same film.

A local woman was arrested for "illegal keeping with intent to sell" and was found guilty by District Court Justice Albion Peirce. She was fined $50 on the charge and will face the United States commissioner in Lowell later this week charged with violation of the national prohibition law. Two federal agents induced the woman to sell two pints of liquor and agree to sell several more, which she is alleged to have kept in her home. Andover police procured a warrant and found a gallon and a half of intoxicating beverages.

They are: a veteran's center, a revolving loan fund for all veterans of World War II, a functional memorial such as a playground and a non-functional memorial such as a plaque, flagpole or other suitable memorial for veterans of the war. There will be a meeting Tuesday night in the library to discuss the suggestions, sponsored by the AMVETS. The trustees recently reported a balance of $17,012.22 after spending better than $10,000 last year. A paper drive is planned by the fund trustees on April 28.

Shoplifting By Young People Major Problem

"Bring 'em into court". That's Police Chief David Nicoll's terse answer to juvenile shoplifting problems currently plaguing Andover merchants.

Some idea of the losses suffered by the merchants is gained from the experience of R. M. Cole, whose hardware store is on Main st.

He estimated losses at $300 for the past six months and couldn't even guess how much more has been stolen.

W. R. Hill, another victim of the shoplifting craze, said he can't estimate the value of the goods but agreed it is substantial.

Admittedly, all stores suffer losses through shoplifting — a point quickly made by Mr. Hill. He partially blamed the stores themselves because small items have been made so readily available to the youngsters on mid-aisle display cases and shelves. In his case, many smaller items are now behind locked glass doors so that temptation is less for the youngster with desire in his eyes but no money in his pockets.

Parents Share Blame

But coming in for their share of the blame are the parents, who don't ask their youngsters where they got small items. That's the feeling of both Mr. Cole and Robert Swanson, whose hoppy shop on the main street is also the center for youngsters of all ages.

Naturally it is the smaller item that "disappears" most often — knives, cap pistols, small models, baseball gloves and the like. But both Cole and Swanson reported losing larger and more expensive items. Cole said a BB gun was taken last Saturday and he has lost such things as power drills and sanders. Swanson told of a model train engine worth $25 that disappeared from his store.

Supervision

How do these items just disappear? One answer, all agree, is the lack of proper supervision in the stores. As Chief Nicoll put it "They need a supervisor for each corridor, but can't afford it". In some cases, it is reported, the kids run in small groups, distracting a clerk's attention so that one of them can pick up the desired item.

Parents vs Court

Basically, however, there appears to be sharp disagreement between the police chief's view and that held, for instance, by Mr. Hill over how to best correct the problem.

Mr. Hill said he usually calls the parents and tells them frankly what the youngster has done, feeling that to be the best corrective measure as well as the way to keep a child's record clean.

Chief Nicoll, granting the effectiveness of talking with a youngster and the parents, feels that method to be good only with the one person involved.

Spreads Fast

"A couple of court cases and it spreads like wildfire", he stressed. The chief commented on a recent survey in Boston that showed a "go to court" policy paying off through its corrective influence. He said roughly only 20 second offenders were in the juvenile courts out of 2100 cases — a good record.

Asked if youngsters had a tendency to laugh at the police and the courts if they get only probation, the chief said "You don't snicker when you have to go over every Saturday and have your card signed".

However, he stressed the importance of using good judgement in taking youngsters to court, citing several cases where the young person was either receiving special treatments or could be handled better in another way.

Swanson's opinion followed the chief's — "severe punishment for anyone caught but use good judgement". He drew the line between young children perhaps taking a candy bar and older folks picking up more valuable goods.

Cole too felt that youngsters should be punished. But he stressed the importance of the parents keeping more strict control of the children — asking questions about newly-obtained items, for instance.

Most Kids Honest

While the problem is a serious and costly one, it appeared to be substantially agreed that most youngsters are above suspicion — that it is only a few that cause the trouble.

Despite that fact, the local merchants are losing a lot of merchandise through the efforts of the few.

Police officer Raymond Collins recently talked to groups in the middle grades, outlining the responsibility of every boy and girl to respect other peoples' property — yet within a very few days a youngster was caught taking an item from a store, who admitted he had sat through the talk.

Thus, although reasonable methods are constantly being tried to discourage juvenile shoplifting, it is apparent from talking with police and store owners that the problem is not solved, by far.

Basic Solution

In only one area was there complete agreement — that the parents have a basic responsibility to teach their youngsters to be honest and that parents should exercise their rights to ask their youngsters about any new items brought home.

Phillips Academy Announces New Pay Schedules

Headmaster John M. Kemper of Phillips academy has announced a new salary schedule for the faculty of the school. On Sept. 1, a policy will become fully effective which will raise the average salary to $5,700, with some of the top salaries reaching $10,000. Kemper explained that these figures are cash salaries and that Phillips academy teachers are also provided with housing and other perquisites.

In announcing the new schedule, Kemper said, "It is natural that the dollar figures should be the eye-catching part of this salary scale. But in the long run salaries must be based on principles, and I therefore view as extremely important the following principles established by the Andover Board of Trustees in setting these figures. They include:

"Salaries should be based upon both length of service and merit.

"A man devoting his life to teaching should, at the least, be able to double his starting salary in terms of purchasing power by age 55, and this final salary should be sufficient to meet reasonably the cost of living.

"An outstanding teacher should be able to triple his starting salary in terms of purchasing power by age 55.

"The total value of salary and perquisites for a teacher of long service and outstanding ability should compare sufficiently favorably to the compensation received by men in other professions as to give the teacher an economic status deserving of the respect accorded that of other professions, and to provide terminal compensation sufficient to attract good young men into the profession."

Kemper, who is currently serving as chairman of the National Council of Independent Schools, continued: "Naturally we expect this policy to benefit us in the quality of our teaching and work at Andover. But I wish to make it clear that we are not thinking of Andover only. If the people of this nation are to actually give their children and their grandchildren the kind of education they say they want to give them, then skilled teaching must be justly and adequately compensated. It is as illogical as it is unjust to expect able teachers to subsist on a maximum of faith and a minimum of finance. To attract and retain ability in the teaching profession, the compensation must be competitive."

out the front door when he and Mrs. Kennedy returned to the house just after 9 p.m. Sunday night. The office of Dr. Charles Currier, in the same building, had not been touched nor had the offices of the ANDOVER TOWNSMAN, which occupies the second floor of the building.

Chief Nicoll reported that the service station break last week netted about $30 to the thief. Nothing was reported missing from Lee's. The break at Dantos was foiled by Russell Berthold, who spotted a man atop the roof.

Despite Berthold's orders to come down, the man ran around the roof, jumped off the low part and took off towards the Square and Compass club. Chief Nicoll said four warning shots were fired at the man.

Measured Parking

In his presentation denied that any noise had been asked to park on Fletcher st. on Saturday. He denied that cars were measured distance from the curb and on the street. Rather, he said a stick was used to check the distance when Police Chief Dwyer said it looked to be within the curb.

There had been a complaint recently that residents were purposely parking on the street so that they would be forced to move them with extreme care. He admitted that five cars were parked on both sides of the street as an example of the situation he claimed existed there at any time.

Danger to Children

One of his major complaints against continued operation of contractor's yard there was the danger to children of the continuous truck traffic of the yard.

Dwyer said the contractor deliberately pushed the trucks when it was under way of the appeals board on work at the yard.

Subterfuge Charged

Furthermore, he said the contractor is using "deliberate subterfuge" when it says it is not doing anything there. Dwyer claimed the contractor is using sand, gravel and even if no water is available, still is manufacturing noise that it is a mixture of ingredients to make a noise.

Trucking also is a problem, according to the residents. They claimed that trucks in and out of the yard every two minutes in condition highly unsatisfactory, considering the number of children playing in the area. Mr. Dwyer estimated that 30 school children live and play on Fletcher st. and another 30 live on the street.

It was pointed out that the residents play in the street and that, if possible, trucks should be asked, if trucks are parked on the street, to be moved out all the time.

Legal Counsel Mr. Dwyer told the residents that the residents applied for out counsel which represented them — Eaton and Chandler — understood the firm some legal work for purchase of land in the area. "It's ridiculous to come fight for us" if they have acted as an Acme firm.

Safety Problem Selectman Sidney challenged about residents regarding the one-side parking, said most concern is the safety of the town. He stressed the importance of keeping all streets open for the passage of fire apparatus and other emergency vehicles. One resident of the street said that Acme trucks had to back up on the street to make a straight turn in the street, when cars are parked on the intersection, White said the ladder truck also had to turn into a street when he has never known when apparatus could

RESIDENTS COMPLAIN ABOUT ACME CO.

In his presentation, Mr. Dwyer denied that any non-residents had been asked to park their cars on Fletcher st. on Saturdays. He also denied that cars were parked a measured distance from intersection and curb on both sides of the street. Rather, he said, a yard stick was used to check a vehicle when Police Chief David Nicoll said it looked to be too far from the curb.

There had been charges made recently that residents of the area were purposely parking their cars on the street so that Acme trucks would be forced to drive between them with extreme caution. Dwyer admitted that five or six cars were parked on both sides of the street as an example of the condition he claimed might be found there at any time.

Danger to Children

One of his major arguments against continued operation of the contractor's yard there was traffic and the danger to children from continuous truck travel in and out of the yard.

Dwyer said the Acme people deliberately pushed the situation when it was under consideration of the appeals board by carrying on work at the yard.

Subterfuge Charged

Furthermore, he said the firm is using "deliberate subterfuge" when it says it is not manufacturing there. Dwyer claimed that mixing sand, gravel and cement - even if no water is added there - still is manufacturing in the sense that it is a mixture of several ingredients to make a new product.

Trucking also is a major problem, according to the residents. They claimed that trucks might go in and out of the yard at the rate of one every two minutes - a condition highly unsatisfactory considering the number of children playing in the area. Mr. Dwyer estimated that 30 school-age or below children live and play on Fletcher st. and another spokesman said there are probably 70 children living on the three streets. It was pointed out that the youngsters play in the streets. How will that be possible, the residents asked, if trucks are going in and out all the time.

Legal Counsel

Mr. Dwyer told the selectmen that the residents appeared without counsel which formerly had represented them - the firm of Eaton and Chandler - because he understood the firm had done some legal work for Acme in the purchase of land in the section. "It's ridiculous to expect them to come fight for us", he stated, if they have acted as agent for the Acme firm.

Safety Problem

Selectman Sidney P. White, challenged about recent statements regarding the possibility of one-side parking, said his foremost concern is the safety of the town. He stressed the necessity of keeping all streets open for the passage of fire apparatus and other emergency vehicles. When one resident of the section pointed out that Acme trucks sometimes had to back up on Union st. to make a straight turn into Fletcher st., when cars are parked near the intersection, White suggested that the ladder truck also needs room to turn into a street. Mr. Dwyer said he has never known of a time when apparatus could not use the street and explained that Fletcher st. is used frequently when trucks are responding to brush fires on Den Rock rd.

The residents complaints also included noise from trucks shifting gears on the streets, vibration from them, noise from the plant itself and the devaluation of property because no one, they said, would buy a house down there knowing the conditions.

Normal Hours

Walter Thomas, president of Acme, told the crowd that normal working hours would be between 7:30 or 8 a.m. to 4:30 or 5 p.m. He denied bad faith charges, pointing out that Selectman J. Everett Collins had specified a specific number of days during which it was requested that the firm hold up its construction of its own plant there. Thomas said the delay was accepted and construction did not continue until after the deadline set by Mr. Collins. Mr. Dwyer earlier had cited that as an instance of bad faith, explaining that the firm could just as well have waited until a clear-cut decision was reached.

Joseph Bergeron, 2 Shepley st., spoke for residents of that street and Daniel Lancaster, 3 Binney st., also addressed the selectmen briefly.

It was suggested to the selectmen that Acme actually wants the plant there so as to furnish materials for the relocated Route 28. Some said a total of four bins will be erected if the operation is allowed to continue.

There were charges made that empty trucks have been driven out of the yard and around the Greater Lawrence area in a huge semicircle, only to return - in an effort to force a decision on the plant.

Represent Residents

Mr. Dwyer continually stressed his belief that the selectmen should represent the residents of Andover in such a matter and not outside interests.

MANY BEQUESTS

Several bequests were contained in the will of Emma M. Phelps, which was recorded in the Registry of Probate in Salem.

She left her crutches to the Lawrence General hospital and named Luella P. Bailey, a sister, as recipient of her estate after various gifts. Charles G. Hatch was nominated as executor.

Sterling flatware was given to Mrs. Constance Putname Newell of Newton, a bedside table and chair to Mr. Hatch, two brass candlesticks to Janet Thompson of Andover and a cedar chest to Anne Newell of Newton.

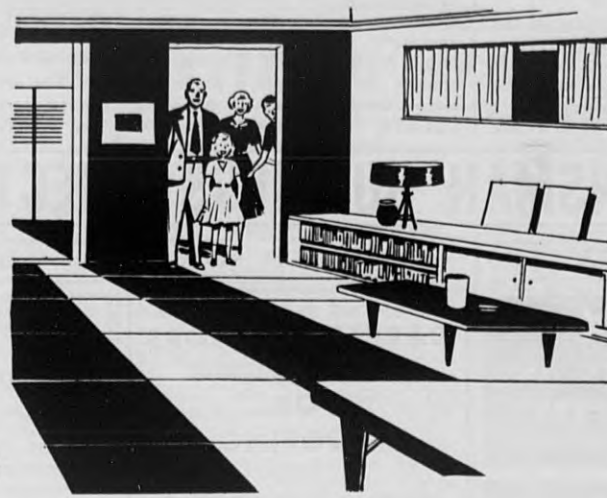

Gold beads were bequeathed to Mrs. Sarah Forsythe of this town, a gold locket and chain to Priscilla Newell of Newton and a gold pin in the shape of a flower was awarded to Mary Putnam of Andover. A writing table will go to Mrs. John E. Morris of Salem, N.H.; $100 was left to Susan Northey and a kitchen clock was given to Jean Weeks of Andover.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE SELLECTS CONSULTANTS

S. Sullivan, vice president of the National Shawmut bank. The full committee met last night to begin discussions. The board anticipates asking for a special town meeting soon to ask for an appropriation for the new building. The architect has been asked to bring in a revised plan based on the one presented to the annual town meeting, a second one-story plan and a two-story plan. Whether there will be any change in the board's planning, based on the advice of the consultants, could not be determined at press time this week. The plan to have consultants, chosen by the school committee, was suggested in a TOWNSMAN editorial April 5. The school committee's full statement follows: "The members of the Andover school committee are convinced that the town needs a new elementary school; that the logical place to construct such a school is in the Ballardvale area; and that an 18-room building will be the most economical in the long run. They are at present reviewing the difficult questions of cost and design and intend to present revised plans for a new elementary school at the coming special town meeting.

"Because of the pressing need for this school, the members of the committee are determined to adopt any reasonable course of action which can help insure acceptance by the town of the plan which they will present. In a matter of such importance to the town, they believe that they should take advantage of the advice of specialists whenever possible. Accordingly, they have decided to establish a four-man advisory committee to aid them in reaching decisions as to cost and design. They have been fortunate in securing the assistance of four citizens of Andover, each a specialist in a field connected with construction of buildings.

"The members of the newly-created advisory committee are as follows: "John Erwin, construction engineer, currently with the Western Electric company; has had charge of company construction in Indianapolis, Allentown, Pa., and of the present No. Andover plant; has a B.S. in mechanical engineering from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn.

"Edward P. Hall, contractor, former selectman, member of the planning board, board of public works and currently a trustee of the Cornell fund.

"Charles G. Hatch, lawyer, member of the Finance committee and representative of that committee to study school finances.

"John S. Sullivan, seven years on Andover Housing Authority; President of Lawrence YMCA; banker, currently assistant vice-president of the National Shawmut bank in Boston; graduate of Tufts school, Dartmouth."

Permits Require Approval From 2 Town Boards

All members of the board of health and board of selectmen met Monday night and agreed to require approval from both boards for all building permits.

The agreement was taken as at least a partial solution to drainage and sewerage problems created by new building.

It is expected that problems of that nature will be discussed at a meeting April 25 at 8 p.m. of the board of health, board of public works, planning board and selectmen. It will be the first of the major board meetings requested by Chairman Sidney P. White a few weeks ago. It is anticipated that other boards, elected officials and appointed boards will attend meetings in the future for major discussions of town problems.

At the Monday night meeting were health board Chairman Charles O. McCullom, Robert A. Walsh and Dr. Philip W. Blake; Selectmen White, Dr. William Emmons and Stafford Lindsay; Building Inspector Ralph W. Coleman, Plumbing Inspector Alexander Thompson and health agent Manuel Raposa.

Plans To Widen Ballardvale Rd. Ready June 1

Plans for widening Ballardvale rd. may be ready by the end of May or the first of June.

BPW Chairman Allen Flye said the plans could be available by that time. The work is authorized under Chapter 90, with the state paying half the $40,000 cost, the county paying a quarter and the town a quarter.

Flye said abutters will have a chance to see the plans, as some land taking may result from widening the road.

Want Limit On Architect's Fee

The Taxpayers association has filed a special article with the selectmen calling for creation of a building committee to handle final plans and construction of the South school.

Petitions had been circulated for some time, as members of the association sought the number of signatures required for insertion of an article.

The request specifies a building committee of five to seven persons, including two from the school committee, one from the Finance committee and the others from the public; "members from the public at large to be, as nearly as practicable, individuals whose normal business activity involves the design, construction or financing of buildings". The article specifies that the mod-

Group Discusses South School In Closed Session

The school committee and its four consultants went into executive session at last Wednesday night's meeting to discuss something relating to the South school.

The press-excluded session was called by Chairman Roy Russell, who said "I know of no reason why I have to give a reason" when queried as to the meeting's purpose.

Prior to the secret discussion, the consultants and the school committee had reviewed several preliminary plans for the South school with representatives of the Perley F. Gilbert associates.

Members of the working press were excluded from the private discussion and no statement has been issued relating to the purpose of the executive meeting.

Wrap Up Details Of Charter Before Going To Beacon Hill

Details of the town manager charter are being spelled out this week in preparation for filing the legislation in the Legislature.

Although the committee has yet to make final, formal decisions on changes in the charter, it was apparent at the two public hearings that at least two suggested exceptions under the purchasing clause will be considered favorably.

Members of the committee generally expressed themselves favorably over the library's request to exempt the purchase of books and allied audio-visual aids from the manager's control; and a similar exception for school text books appeared to be favored.

However, School Superintendent Edward I. Erickson's request that school department purchases be taken from the manager's control;

Architects Offer 4 School Plans

The school committee and its consultants are considering four plans presented by the Perley F. Gilbert associates for the South school.

Each of the plans includes less space than the original design turned down at town meeting and each bears a cost estimate under the original $980,000.

Of most interest to the committee and consultants appeared to be a plan for a one-story building containing 42,270 square feet with 14.5 percent corridor space; and a two-story structure with 43,191 square feet of space but with 15.5 percent corridor space. The original plan included 47,147 square feet.

The one-story building, figured at $17 per square foot, would cost $714,000 for actual construction but estimates would also include $57,000 for fees to the architect, $57,120 for furniture and $20,000 for site development. Thus the total estimate for the plan was $848,120.

The two-story building, with approximately 1000 square feet of space more, would cost $865,120.

The architects agreed to duplicate the two plans in quantity so that members of the school committee and the four consultants might study them.

Gymnasium Questioned

Under considerable discussion during the session was the gymnasium - designed with an 18-foot high ceiling for basketball. Members of the school committee pointed out that the original purpose of the larger gymnasium was to provide space for community activities, older basketball teams and the like.

Frank Kiernan, a member of the architectural firm, said some $55,000 to $60,000 might be saved if the gym was cut to a 60x40 room with a 16-foot ceiling. He said that height and size would be ample for primary graders but agreed that the school committee must arrive at a decision as to the proposed use of the area, on which would depend the size and height.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Miss Mary Lord, a junior at Wellesley college, is the new president of the college's Outing club. A resident of Boxford, she graduated from Punchard.

Rain Or Snow Won't Stop Clown Town

A puppet show under the direction of Mrs. Donald E. Ward will be one of the high-lights of Clown Town which will be held all day Saturday, April 28, at the Andover playstead. Mrs. Ward will be assisted by Mrs. Phillips B. Marsden Jr., Mrs. Peregrin Schwarzer and Mrs. Guy B. Howe Jr. in presenting Little Red Riding Hood and Hansel and Gretel.

Among the many events scheduled to provide all day entertainment will be the Merry-Go-Round and other rides, games, grabbags, colorful balloons and many clowns.

Refreshments will consist of charcoal broiled frankforts, tonics, ice cream, brownies and fudge.

In case of rain or even snow, Clown Town will be held in the Central Elementary school gymnasium.

Clown town is sponsored by the Andona society, a charitable organization, which will use the proceeds of this affair for the equipment fund of the Andover Youth center and to send deserving Boy Scouts of Andover to summer camp.

Scout Cookie Sale Best In History

Andover's Girl Scouts sold 8294 boxes of cookies during the annual sale.

Troop 87 sold the most boxes, with an average of 37.4 boxes per girl. Mrs. William MacAdam is the troop leader. Second highest in sales was Troop 88, with 36 boxes per girl and third was Troop 68 with an average of 32.8 boxes.

Mrs. Charles Bowman, Andover chairman of the sale, reported the Greater Lawrence total sale to be the highest ever achieved. Thus, she explained, more scouts and Brownies will have a chance to attend summer camp for a week. Mrs. Bowman expressed her thanks to townspeople who supported the sale.

erator appoint the member from the Finance committee and appoint all other members except the two designated by the school committee. The article was filed by Taxpayer President Henry Wolfson.

"In addition," states Wolfson, "we plan to bring before the citizens, under the general article, provisions to prevent repetition of some of the distressing occurrences of the past when the town found itself faced with a choice of voting more building funds or paying for the cost of substantial changes in design because bids came in at higher figures than the architect estimated. It has always appeared to us somewhat ridiculous that the architect's fee should be based upon the ultimate actual cost of the structure. There certainly is little, if any, incentive for the architect to economize under such conditions.

"The Association," continued the president, "will, therefore, propose that the building committee be instructed to include the following provisions in any contract with any architect:

"That the architect's fee be the normal percentage for this type of structure with a maximum based upon the sum which is appropriated by the special town meeting for construction costs.

"That, if subsequent bids come in at more than this sum, the building committee shall have the right, if it so desires, to request such changes in the design as may be required to lower the building cost, at no additional architectural cost to the Town.

"This Association feels," Wolfson said, "that these provisions are absolutely necessary to give adequate protection to the town against excessive cost and to act as additional incentive for the architect to produce a structure at the lowest possible cost consistent with good educational requirements and high structural standards. If the town votes for our building committee the structural quality and educational requirements will be assured and, if this expert committee believes that these standards can be maintained at lower costs, the contract should provide the freedom of choice to proceed accordingly at no additional cost to the town".

TRAVEL TALK OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

The public is cordially invited to an informal travel talk, to be given in the Memorial Hall Library at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, May 4. Mr. and Mrs. Frederic O'Brien will show slides made on their two trips to the West Indies, one last year, the second this spring. They will discuss the Leeward and Windward Islands, and are willing to answer questions of any would-be travelers. Those who attend are encouraged to bring up any subject that interests them for further discussion or information. These travel talks have proven very popular; it is hoped that this year's travelers will have something to offer to the series next fall.

Barbara Toby and Arthur Kibbee, Carol Nelson and Peter Winn and Linda Black and Rob Leadbitter had fun at the annual spring dance of Boy Scout Troop 73. The dance last Friday evening, attracted 60 young people and 20 adults.

These are the folks in charge of the annual meeting of the Historical society, held April 26. Left to right are Henry J. Stevens, Walter E. Mondale, Mrs. Margaret Dodge, well M. Stillman, Mrs. G. R. Abbott, D. Merrill, the evening's speaker and Dana A. Leone.

The display speaks for itself, the Punctator has a good chance to win, in the third round, which would mean a roll-off with the winner of rounds one and two - won by the team of Lawrence High school. One scholarship will be given to a boy from each of the high schools in Greater Lawrence as a memorial to Roy E. Hardy.

Follow Consultants' Advice

We had hoped that much of the unrest in the community over the way the South school problem has been handled would subside when the four consultants were named by the school committee.

And perhaps it will yet. But the action of the School committee chairman in calling an executive session was upsetting. While it is known that the subject discussed was the South school — what was there to be discussed that everyone shouldn't know about?

We feel that the four consultants are men of outstanding reputation in the community. And they are experts in their fields. Thus their advice becomes extremely valuable and any reports they may make in regards to the South school certainly will be read with avid interest by the community.

It is very desirable that the four men give their serious attention to all the aspects of the South school problem, including the possibility of retaining an architectural firm owned and operated by registered architects. We look forward to any report the four-man group may issue.

If the school committee fails to follow that report, we feel that another answer to the problem must be found.

One possible solution in that event may be found in the article filed this week by the Taxpayers association, calling for the creation of a building committee to be responsible for the construction of the new school. That article, which we endorse, will be considered at the same special town meeting which will be asked to approve the school and appropriate money for it. If the school committee fails to heed the advice of its consultants in every major aspect, then we suggest that a special town meeting be called to create a building committee — on the lines of the one requested by the Taxpayers association — to take up the planning work itself.

We believe such a move would not long delay the completion of preliminary plans, for the educational specifications are now in hand.

Such a committee might, for instance, wish to engage an architectural firm owned and operated by registered architects — but in so doing we believe there would be little time lost and there might well emerge a better plan — one which would receive endorsement from the voters.

While we prefer to see the school committee accept the judgement of its expert consultants, we do not cast aside the alternative suggested above if the advice is refused.

The paramount issue here is the need for a new school in the Vale and if it becomes necessary to adopt the alternate suggestion in order to get a good building at a reasonable cost then the voters should have no hesitation in doing so.

Many Question Cheever Plans

Many residents of the Holt rd. area attended Monday night's public hearing on Fred Cheever's plans for a sub-division off Holt rd.

Most questions were concerned with surface drainage problems and septic tank drainage. The plan showed all lots conforming to the zoning requirements — 30,000 square feet and 150-foot frontage — while many ran into an acre size or slightly better. About 20 lots are shown on the plan for development.

Mr. Cheever told the planning board that he will put in some 2500 feet of road, with all utilities and drainage, at an estimated cost of $15 per foot. When that job is done, he said, lots will be sold with suitable restrictions calling for homes worth at least $25,000.

Mr. Cheever said he plans to begin work there in a year or two and explained that the development would be similar to Johnson Acres. In answer to queries about drainage problems now in Holt rd., Mr. Cheever pointed out that the town has responsibility for the street and subsequent work that might have to be done on it. Drainage in the development, he indicated, would be taken care of.

Several persons raised the question of drainage from septic tanks in the area, suggesting that much of the section may be clay, which offers poor drainage.

Members of the planning board said the plans will need both board of health and board of public works approval before the planning group can act to approve or turn down the plans.

Answering one question about allowing much larger lots than shown on the plan, Mr. Cheever told the board he would rather see one-acre lots well cared for than to see larger lots in an unkempt condition because the owners can't afford to keep up the whole lot.

Candy Hunt May 5 Replaces Egg Hunt

Indian Ridge-Remnant Of Ice Age - Is 30,000 Year Old

(Photo by courtesy of Andover Historical Society)

By Kay Noyes

There are undoubtedly many houses and natural formations that have historical significance to the town but few that have an origin dating back 30,000 years.

The Indian Ridge, more prominently noticeable in the Abbot village section of town, is a product of the Ice Age and of the ponderous glaciers that moved over the earth, pushing and carrying in its glacial mass great deposits of gravel and stone. As the ice melted under the warming trend, it left great ridges that ran in a north to south direction.

The Indian Ridge is part of a group of ridges that pass through Andover. Eminent geologists, hearing of these formations, have frequently visited Andover and made explorations concerning their age and origin. Many papers and books have been written by these men to explain to their interested readers the great mysteries that are held in these stone formations. These ridges, as ridges are geologically known, extend through the entire length of Andover, first crossing our town at a section of Andover at the upper end of the Merrimack river and then passing about 400 yards west of Shawsheen village to a point in Ballardvale where they cross the Shawsheen river. They then turn to form the banks of Foster's pond and an extension of this system would show it going as far south as Wakefield and, to the north, far into New Hampshire.

People Saved It

Indian Ridge was at one time to be sacrificed to the scourge of all natural beauty-progress; but in 1896, upon hearing that the stand of timber on the property was destined for the saw mill, a group of interested people began operations to save this great relic of the ice sheet. The first meeting was held on November 17, 1896 at the town hall and it was decided to raise, by subscription, $4000 to purchase the 23 acres situated between Red Spring and Reservation rd. The committee was compelled to raise its quota as quickly as possible to preserve the area, as the town was taking gravel from the deposits to aid in their road building program. Many money making events were held to raise funds including bakery sales, lawn parties and benefits but despite the cooperative efforts of the townspeople the committee was discouragingly behind in raising the required amount.

And when it seemed that this cause was hopelessly lost, the owners of Indian Ridge reduced the required amount by $500. This, on December 16, 1897, the Abbot heirs signed the deed passing the title of the property to its owners.

Now Reservation
This ridge, today known as Indian Ridge Reservation, holds its own niche in importance to the town, not only because it is a natural remnant of an ancient moraine but also because of the many interesting legends that were written about it. One of the true stories told about Indian Ridge is about Squire Farrar, an early trustee and benefactor of Phillips academy, who daily walked around Indian Ridge with such punctuality that it was possible to set a clock by his passing. It was he who later stated that the ridge was "almost a panacea for every ill that flesh is heir to" and the gentleman proved his wisdom by living in the golden age of over 90 years.

The Indians who lived in this region used the ridge as their super-highway, knowing that it ran in a fairly straight direction. And in their journeying, they left behind arrowheads and crude utensils that were to be found hundreds of years later by youngsters as they enjoyed the forest walk. Another natural object of present interest is Red Spring, whose red waters, tinged with iron, issue from beneath this great glacial deposit.

The Reservation today is open for anyone that wishes to walk through this wonderful, durable part of Prehistoric Andover to see the natural beauty that has been unblemished by our machine age — an area preserved for us by the original 241 subscribers who foresaw the need for holding in tact this glacial phenomena for ensuing generations to enjoy.

a suggestion that the trustees be elected rather than that present who are town employees and several are still under contract with the committee.

5-Year Term

Selectman Sidney Foster suggested last Thursday a second hearing that would be held for the election of a five-year term. He reasoned that one man each year would make it easier to isolate the possible man each year. White pointed out that it would be easier to isolate a candidate in a one-to-one election. During the hearing, the committee was also suggested that the voters could elect one man, when there is one to be elected, with one paid to the other although one of them may be elected.

Committee Member Fredrick Allis Jr. said he believed Mr. White's suggestion had considerable merit and there was no commitment on his part.

Erickson's Views

The discussion on the school committee purchasing the property, Mr. Erickson's opinion was that the school should continue in the hands of the school committee. He said that the school committee would be in a better position to serve the school and that it insisted on making its own decisions in the charter.

Frederick Allis Jr. and Reta Buchan represented the school committee at the hearing. There was considerable discussion about the appointment of school custodians, with Mr. Erickson accentuating the importance of the custodians in the management of the school.

Members of the management committee pointed out that they were custodians, appointed by the superintendent, to cooperate with the superintendent. It was suggested that the school committee be appointed by a manager who has primary responsibility for the school and who appointed him, not the superintendent.

Now Reservation
This ridge, today known as Indian Ridge Reservation, holds its own niche in importance to the town, not only because it is a natural remnant of an ancient glacial moraine but also because of the many interesting legends that were written about it. One of the true stories told about Indian Ridge is about Squire Farr, an early trustee and benefactor of Phillips academy, who daily walked around Indian Ridge with such punctuality that it was possible to set a clock by his passing. It was he who later stated that the ridge was "almost a panacea for every ill that flesh is heir to" and the gentleman proved his wisdom by living in the golden age of over 90 years.

The Indians who lived in this region used the ridge as their super-highway, knowing that it ran in a fairly straight direction. And in their journeying, they left behind arrowheads and crude utensils that were to be found hundreds of years later by youngsters as they enjoyed the forest walk. Another natural object of paramount interest is Red Spring whose red waters, tinged with iron, issue from beneath this great glacial deposit.

The Reservation today is open for anyone that wishes to walk through this wonderful, durable part of Prehistoric Andover to see the natural beauty that has been unblemished by our machine age — an area preserved for us by the original 241 subscribers who foresaw the need for holding intact this glacial phenomena for ensuing generations to enjoy.

a suggestion that the library trustees be elected rather than appointed; that present office-holders who are town employees be exempted from restrictions on running for the elected office while employees and several other ideas are still under consideration by the committee.

5-Year Term

Selectman Sidney P. White suggested last Thursday night at the second hearing that selectmen be elected for a five-year term after the first election under the manager plan. He reasoned that election of one man each year for a five-year term would make it easier for townspeople to select the best possible man each year.

White pointed out that it would be easier to isolate the best candidate in a one-to-be-elected situation. During the discussion it was also suggested that sometimes the voters concentrate on one man, when there are more than one to be elected, with less attention paid to the other candidates, although one of them will eventually be elected.

Committee Member Daniel Hogan said he believed Mr. White's suggestion had considerable merit but there was no committee debate on the idea.

Erickson's Views

The discussion on school department purchasing emphasized Mr. Erickson's opinion that buying should continue in the department's hands. He said the town manager committee would "do a disservice to the school children" if it insisted on making no changes in the charter.

Frederick Allis Jr. and Mrs. Meta Buchan represented the school committee at the session.

There was considerable discussion about the appointment of school custodians, with both members of the school committee and Mr. Erickson accenting the value of the custodians in school affairs. Members of the manager committee pointed out that they would expect any custodians, appointed by a manager, to cooperate fully with the superintendent. In rebuttal, it was suggested that a custodian appointed by a manager would feel primary responsibility to the man who appointed him, not to the superintendent or the school board.

Mr. Allis again suggested that it isn't "fair to change the rules in the middle of the game" in relation to two school committee members who are town employees. He said they should be exempt from charter provisions which would make them ineligible to run for reelection to office while remaining an employee of the town. Manager Committee Member Thomas Sullivan pointed out that many manager charters would require those holding such dual roles to resign from one job or the other immediately on acceptance of the manager form of government. An exception to that was made so that the two office holders might finish out their terms, Sullivan said.

No Contract Yet With Architects

The school committee still has no contract with its architects for preparation of South school plans.

A meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, at which the matter was to be discussed, was cancelled. Supt. Edward I. Erickson said he assumed the four consultants and the committee will meet next Tuesday night.

Stulgis Adamant

Meanwhile, Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis won't retreat from his stand that the former document would be illegal because the school committee has no authority to commit the town to anything beyond preparation of preliminary plans.

That decision was originally contained in a letter to the school board and was repeated in person to Albert Richmond, president of Perley F. Gilbert associates, at a meeting last Friday afternoon.

Another Contract

Supt. Erickson attended the session and told the TOWNSMAN this week that he has prepared another contract omitting the dubious clause. It has been given to town counsel to study, Erickson declared. In it, the superintendent has called for payment of an as yet undetermined amount of money for the preliminary plans, with that payment to be deducted from the over-all fee if the same firm is hired for detailed drawings and construction supervision.

Allow Disputed Clause

Included in the document now in town counsel's hands is provision for test borings and sampling — although that section, which also mentions a topographical map, was originally subject to criticism. Mr. Richmond explained to the school committee last week that the clause should remain because, even though a map has already been furnished, it may be necessary to take test borings at the site.

Richmond met with town counsel following last Wednesday's school committee session. At that meeting, he had refused to accept a suggested contract that specified $3000 for three sets of preliminary plans of the South school, with that sum to be deducted from the eventual fee if the firm continues with the final plans and supervises construction. He said at that time that it is standard procedure to insert the clause which town counsel said was illegal — that 25 percent of the full fee becomes payable at the time the town approves the school and votes to make money available. Counsel said such a clause means the present school committee is binding the town to a contract with the architects without authority, as the town meeting vote under which it proceeds mentions only preliminary plans. Stulgis suggested that a building committee, if appointed, might possibly engage another architectural firm and, under the proposed contract, the town would have to pay the Gilbert associates 25 percent of the fee anyway.

$3000 Was Suggested

It had been anticipated that the committee might set a fee for the three preliminary plans at its meeting Tuesday night. The contract submitted by Mr. Erickson to town counsel left blank the amount. It had been reported that Albert Richmond, president of the architectural firm, said $3000 would not be enough money as a specific payment for preliminary plans. Supt. Erickson said there is about $5500 remaining in the appropriation, after paying $1000 for the first set of plans and $500 for a topographical map and other information.

The three plans submitted by the architects last week were prepared without a contract, with Mr. Richmond suggesting it was an act of good faith on the firm's part.
