Residents of Robandy rd. want to know what they have to do to have their street accepted.

The BPW received the informa-tion request Monday night.

The board agreed to have Eng-ineer Ralph Preble run a profile on the street for comparison with the original. He will also write the residents outlining the specifications a street must meet be-fore it can be accepted. There was some discussion among board members about accept-ing streets that did not meet present standards but no decision was taken other than to provide information for the residents.

One Candidate Only

Many thinking individuals have hoped that Andover might recapture its seat in the state legislature this fall.

As most men and women recall, J. Everett Collins held one seat in this triple district with two men from Methuen usually winning the other two posts. When Mr. Collins stepped down, three Methuen men won Republican nominations and, thus, the election in November.

That was two years ago - when Atty. Arthur Williams came within a handful of votes of receiving the nomination, which finally went to Thomas Slack of Methuen.

This had appeared to be the year to restore the old balance - one that has served well during the years. Many voters, while harboring no ill feeling against any of the incumbents, have hoped that one Andover resident would be nominated to represent this end of the fairly large district.

But it looks now as though Andover's chances are slim indeed.

For practical politicians tend to agree that no Andover resident can receive the GOP nomination unless he is the only candidate from this town. They argue that a resident of this community must pick up many votes in Methuen, No. Andover and Ward One of Lawrence - votes that are primarily cast "against" the incumbents. With only one man in the field from Andover, he would get those votes. These, plus substantial support from Andover voters and from his old and new friends in the other parts of the district might be enough to nominate him.

But two candidates from Andover would split the out-oftown vote and likely would hurt each other here in town too. Thus, the politicians say, the incumbents are home free - no contest - all because there are too many Andover men in the race.

On several occasions we have expressed our desire to see a local man nominated and elected. And so we feel badly that two men are now in the contest, for they will surely split the vote, creating their own defeat.

One candidate from Andover would be in a doubly strong position this year because there are no other candidates challenging the incumbents. The three - Reps. Frank S. Giles Jr., William Longworth and Thomas Slack - have no opposition in their hometown.

It certainly is a shame that something can't be done to present a united front behind one candidate in the September primary.

Is Your Car Safe?

How good are your brakes? Your tires? Your lights? How safe is your car when you drive it along our main streets?

If you don't know the answer to those questions, you'd better find out.

Because national statistics show that many highway accidents are caused by faulty automobiles - tires refusing to grip the road because treads are gone; brakes suddenly gone soft; headlights out of kilter causing poor vission or blinding an oncoming motorist; brake and tail lights out of order so that stop along-side the road at night is a dangerous one. Literally there are a hundredand-one things about your car that might cause an accident.

From time to time we intend to remind you about important car faults - through the medium of pictures taken right here in Andover showing what some of you are driving around with. For instance, in this week's issue is a car with a broken rear light - mighty dangerous if the driver stopped along a dark road at night.

It is our mutual responsibility to correct any faulty condition that might lead to your being a statistic in the morning papers - it's time for all to take a hand in preventing as many automobile accidents as possible because the death toll, mounting month by month, is a truly frightening thing.

Navy Ensign Everett Mac-Askill Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett MacAskill, 8 Sutherland st., recently flew his first solo flight at Whiting Field Naval Auxiliary Air station in Milton, Fla. He is a graduate of Middlebury college. He will receive further instruction at Whiting in precision air work.

The annual Free church Sunday school picnic will this year be held at Bailey's grove at Haggett's pond.

The Andover Guild baseball team was defeated by the Young Defenders of Lawrence by a score of 3-2 Saturday afternoon on the old P.A. campus.

The Hustlers baseball team and the Elks played five innings of a baseball game Saturday afternoon on the Playstead but were forced to stop on account of the big game. The Hustlers were leading, 4-3, when a halt was called.

Several automobiles, enroute to Bretton Woods, N.H., passed through town Thursday morning.

The Young Tiger baseball team played a Wakefield team in that town Saturday and beat them, 3-2. Much destruction was caused by Saturday night's thunder storm.

25 Years Ago - July 1931
BPW Supt. Charles T. Gilliard has put 45 men to work on the water extension project along River rd. to Chandler rd. The men will install some 4300 feet of sixinch main. It will be the last water extension this year, using up the $15,000 appropriated at the last town meeting. The vault alarm at the Andover National bank clanged for 20 minutes Tuesday morning just after one o'clock - but neighbors poking their heads out the windows only a single police officer and a couple of passers-by stand-ing near the building. A repairman fixed the delicate mechanism Tuesday afternoon.

The Postoffice has reported that 200 families have left town for the summer and 181 individuals are away this week on vacations.

Officials said the number about equals last summer's vacation-time exodus. The Postoffice keeps a record of vacationing families so that mail can be forwarded promptly.

Crowds averaging 400 a day are using Pomps pond during the hot weather. Some 600 persons were there Tuesday.

Only 20 members of the Lions club attended the semi-monthly meeting last night at the Square and Compass club. The lure of golf and the beaches apparently was too much for many members who did not turn out for the cold into view, in fact it seemed to block the end of the road. A huge, silver-leaved poplar tree hung over one end of the house, two stories, long and low, with a door in the middle, yellow with green blinds. The house on its right end connected with the wood shed, the wood shed connected with tool house, the tool house connected with the carriage house, and at right angles to this long line of buildings was the barn — but more of this wonderful barn

My parents pulled up on the front lawn, dropped "the weight" and attached the cord to the horse's head. Mrs. Chandler came to inquire their errand, and they were ushered into the parlor, a large square room at the left of the front door.
"No, they had never thought of taking summer boarders. there was ample room. Moreover, the family had never done such a thing."

I never knew how my mother induced them to change their minds, but she was very attractive and with great powers of persuasion. However, in June our whole family arrived at the Chandler farm, and there we came for 15 successive summers.

Grandmother and I went by train, and the family trunks, plus mother's own hair mattress were checked on the train with us.

PLUMBING & HEATING CO. 26 PARK STREET TEL. AND. 121

We were met at the Andover station by Mr. Chandler in the Democrat wagon and driven the two miles to the farm.

My parents, with my four year old sister and nurse maid, drove in the carry-all from Boston, to get the horse there. As it was an all day trip to West Andover, they picnicked by the road side at noon. We ate supper together at the farm, having the sitting room for our own private dining room and being waited on by Miss Bertha, the lovely daughter of the family, in her early twenties, and as charming in manner and appearance as any young society

Spacious Quarters

Grandmother was to occupy a small room off this sitting room for her own. It had a priceless "low boy" over which was an old gilt framed mirror, and a colonial rocker stood by the window.

My mother and father had a large room over the parlor with five windows. Opening off this room was a smaller one for my sister and me. We all had wooden wash stands with china bowl and pitcher, matching soap dish and mug, and the customary slop jar of painted tin with a fitted cover, standing on the floor beside each wash stand. With great care in bathing and the help of the "splasher" of embroidered linen tacked on the wall over the wash stand, we seldom got drops of water on the wall paper. I never knew just where Nurse Edith did sleep in the house, but she appeared in our room every morning to "do" our hair and help us wash, and later she would carry the slop jars down stairs, and we would see them drying on the ground by the lilac bush in the sunshine near the back porch.

On this back piazza was a pump in the iron sink and a wash basin, and although I was never around at that early hour, I be-lieve that is where "Bill Wil-liam", the hired man, performed his morning ablutions.

It was a peaceful, happy life on the farm. Every morning mother would drive my father to the sta-tion and at night drive again to meet the arrival of the five o'clock train out of Boston. My sister and I would walk down the road to the pine grove and wait there to be picked up and driven back.

Supper was a delicious meal, often corn oysters, fresh aspara-gus and vegetables from the farm. On Sundays the dessert was always sponge cake with ice crear frozen on the back piazza by "Bill William" turning the freezer for one half hour. We would sit on the front lawn Sunday evenings after supper to watch the beautiful sunset across the fields, and just about that time Mr. — would appear with his horse and buggy, and Miss Bertha would come from within the house looking unusually pretty in a flowered muslin and with a box of luncheon under her arm. They would go "buggy rid-ing" and have supper out doors, and maybe it would be moonlight when they came home.

Edith stayed around with sister and me during those first years when we were too little to roam about alone, but we liked her and we went on long excursions through the woods to pick ferns and Indian pipe along the Indian

Sometimes Mr. Chandler and "Bill William" would come in to whet their scythes on the brindwhet their seythes on the princ-stone and at night we would watch the milking. Of course there was no bath room on the farm, but once a week Edith would give us a bath in a tin tub set in the long passage way between the kitchen and the tool house. This tub was placed under the window where was the pump on the back piazza. Water would be passed through to fill the tub, modified in temperature by kettles of water heated on the kitchen stove.

Attic Treasures

On occasional rainy afternoons Miss Bertha unlocked the seldom used door to the steep attic stairs. Up there the very atmos-phere had a close cosiness. Though rain pattered on the roof and sometimes lashed against the dormer windows, to us it gave no gloom. There, as we lifted the lid of a low leather trunk, were revealed our treasures, dolls of long ago, dolls with bisque, red-cheeked heads, with china hair, china arms, and kid feet with leather ankle ties. There was plentiful dolls' underwear, trimmed with hamburg and neatly fitted with real buttons and button holes. Dresses of flounced skirts with bustles and gored basques, fashioned of silk and velvet, were veritable replicas of ady Godey pictures. There were even tiny, real straw bonnets, dolls' hand bags, and corsages, all so carefully kept, that we too must be careful as we handled them. # Society Is Given Property, Funds

The Andover Historical society will receive the bulk of the estate of Miss Caroline M. Underhill according to her will, which has been filed in the Registry of Provate in Salem. The testament, signed Feb. 8, 1950 and containing codicils dated Dec. 27, 1951 and May 3, 1953, bequeathed $25,000, realty and half of the residue to the organization.

In recognition of their "faithful and devoted service to the Andover Historical society," Charles W. Damon and Ruth E. Gibson, both of Andover, were awarded $2000 each. The Andover Home for the Aged was left $1000 and the South church was left $1000 in trust. It will be known as the "Julia Underhill Robinson Fund," the income to used under the direction of the Women's Union of the church.

As a memorial to her parents,
Hazen R. and Rebecca D. Underhill, the Central Congregational church of Derry, N.H. was be-queathed $2000 in trust for general purposes of the church.

The income from the $25,000 gift to the historical society is to be used in part for additions and improvements and for the maintenance of the buildings and grounds and to promote the best interests of the society along interests of the society along educational and cultural lines. Her old fashioned furniture and realty at 97 Main st. were also left to the society.

A legacy of $300 was listed for Nellie Williamson of Andover.
The second half of the residue of the estate was awarded to the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief in New York City in trust, the income to be used for trust, the income to be used for the welfare of aged ministers and their wives. In memory of her mother, it will be known as the "Rebecca Underhill Fund".

Mrs. Gladys Marshall of Man-chester was left $2000 and all rugs, books, furniture and miscellaneous tangible articles not given to the historical society.
Hilda D. Atterberg of Rochester,
N.Y. She gave $1000 to the Berry
