Town-Wide War On Mosquitoes Continues

Clark brook in Ballardvale got its DDT spray Monday afternoon, as did other brooks and swamp areas throughout the town. Sanitarian Manuel Raposa, Tree Foreman Philip Busby and Operator Robert Norton are shown here as they use the mist sprayer to cover the area with DDT in the war against mosquitoes. (Leone)

School Opens Next Week

The West school double-session schedule has been announced by Supt. Edward I. Erickson.

Primary grades 1-3, will meet from 8:45 to 12:15. Intermediate grades will be in session from 12:30 to 4 p.m. Two sessions of kindergarten will be held on the same time schedule. Erickson stressed that the double session will last only as long as required to complete the addition. All elementary schools open Sept. 10.

Next Wednesday will mark the official start of the school year for junior and senior high students. Bus routes will be the same as last year for those requiring transportation but the school department has warned the students to be a few minutes early at the bus stops the first day.

Most elementary bus routes are on the same schedule as last year, with the exception of West school bus routes. An announcement (Continued on Page Seven)

Anti-mosquito warfare broke out all over town this week, in the wake of reports that a horse died of encephalitis on the Clayton Northey farm on Rocky Hill rd.

Most activity was carried out by the board of health, cooperating with men of the tree department using the mist sprayer and a back-pack sprayer.

Whether the efforts were producing immediate results was open to argument Tuesday night, however, as residents of one section reported no reduction in the mosquito population in their neighborhood.

They were the residents of Theodore ave., near man-made "Swifts pond" off Lowell st. Homeowners there said back yards were uninhabitable Monday night, even after the spraying with a five percent DDT solution on Saturday.

PW Will Decide Water Use On Merits; Restricts 2 Areas

New water services in subdivisions may be limited to 50 percent of the homes shown on the plans, for a period of at least 18 months.

The board of public works, meeting in a special session Monday night, decided to consider each development on its individual merit but promptly limited two developments for an 18-month period. They were the Fred Cheever development off Holt rd., with 30 house lots shown and the Campopiano sub-division off Morton st., showing nine lots. Both will be allowed to enter the water system with half the homes shown.

After 18 months, the board will allow the builder to ask for a re-examination of the area to see if the remainder of the lots may be serviced. (Continued on Page Three)

Coon - Stevens Wedding

A wedding of local interest took place on Saturday, Aug. 18, when Miss Arlene R. Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Stevens, 49 Furber st., No. Andover, became the bride of Howard A. Coon Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Coon, 7 Highland st., Gloucester. They were married in St. Michael's church, No. Andover, with the pastor, the Rev. William A. Long, officiating. Both are former residents of the Vale.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported lace with a fitted bodice and full skirt designed with clusters of roses and vines. A coronet of pearls and sequins held her finger-tip veil of illusion in place and she carried a star bouquet of miniature carnations.

Miss Dorothy Hanlon of Cambridge was maid of honor, wearing a ballerina gown of blue and white silk shantung over taffeta and a matching blue hat trimmed with veiling. She carried white carnations in a cascade bouquet. Kathleen Joyce Stevens, niece of the bride, was the flower girl, wearing a frock of blue taffeta with a blue velvet sash and bow. Her headpiece and bouquet were composed of sweetheart roses.

Edward R. Stevens, brother of the bride, was best man and the ushers were Reginald Day of Sudbury and Donald Gray of Bedford. David Dennis Day was the ring bearer.

A reception was held at the Rendezvous with guests present from many out-of-town communities.

After a wedding trip to Montreal, Canada, the couple will take up residence in their new home on Salem st., No. Andover.

MOSQUITO WARFARE CONTINUES HERE
2 Gallons An Acre
Sanitarian Manuel Raposa, who has personally directed the spraying operation, told the Townsman that enough spray is being used to cover an acre with one gallon, on the average.

Meanwhile, Dr. Roy Feemster, head of the communicable disease section of the state department of public health, told the Townsman that an average of two gallons per acre would be needed to make much of an inroad on adult mosquitoes. A lesser amount, he agreed, would kill much of the larvae and be reflected in a smaller number of the pests when the next hatching is due. As the larvae come to the surface, he explained, they are poisoned by the spray which has settled on the water.

Dr. Feemster explained that if a spraying job was effective enough to kill the adult mosquitoes, it would be the result of the residual affect of the spray. As a mosquito landed on a leaf or other object covered with the poison, he said, it would then be killed. But unless under sides of leaves and branches are also covered, it would be impossible to expect a noticeable decrease in the mosquitoes until the next hatching. Spraying with one gallon an acre is "rather thin" for immediate results, he repeated.

State Sprays Swamps
Even as the town moved forward to spray many small ponds and swampy areas, the state moved in with air-borne sprays. The state planes covered swampy sections over one-fourth of a mile wide, selected from a Geodetic survey map. Thus, the double-barreled attack on the insects was expected to produce good results within a few days, as the present adult mosquitoes die off and many of the new ones are killed by the residual sprays.

Dr. Feemster explained that swamps are sprayed before anything else because most wild birds get into the swampy areas and there infect the mosquitoes which bite them. Then, the mosquitoes, biting horses or humans, pass along the disease without feeling its affects themselves.

Good Clinical Case
The horse at the Northey farm, although a definite lab report has not yet been obtained, seems definitely to have been encephalitis. Dr. Feemster said there appeared to be little doubt of the diagnosis, while Dr. Ray Youmans and a state veterinarian both agreed the horse had all the usual symptoms of the disease. "It's a good clinical case of encephalitis", Dr. Feemster declared.

ported cases in town, however. Charge Broken Promises
The charge that the town spray was not effective was hurled at the selectmen's meeting Monday night and repeated by several other residents during a Townsman telephone inquiry on Tuesday, throughout the area.

Gordon M. Thompson, 14 Arundel st., Leon B. Shapiro, 2 Theodore ave. and Richard W. Clukey of Mary Lou lane charged Monday night that the Sanitarian, Mr. Raposa, had repeatedly promised to take some action around the man-made pond but had not done so. They said the mosquito problem was as serious Monday night in their yards as it had been before the spray on Saturday.

Chairman Sidney P. White pointed out that some areas, no matter how hard an attempt is made, can't be reached by the spray. That isn't anyone's fault, he pointed out. He assured the three men that the selectmen would do everything in their power to assist in the mosquito control problem, in any way that seemed practical.

Efforts to locate Chairman Charles O. McCullom of the health board and Mr. Raposa failed during the selectmen's meeting. Residents of Theodore ave., called by the Townsman Tuesday morning, maintained that their children still can't play outdoors after the supper hour because the insects are so thick. Mrs. Shapiro said "There's no change. I'm no judge of spraying but it seemed as though 10 minutes of spraying wouldn't take much affect". She said Mr. Raposa had discussed the situation with her

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Grover and family of Hartford, Conn., former Andover residents, visited in town last week.

Fluoridation May Start Soon

Fluorine may be added to the town's water supply in about six weeks.

Town Engineer Ralph Preble said the fluoridation equipment is now on hand and the state has approved it. Next step, Preble said, will be the installation, which will also require state approval when completed.

Preble explained that the state is interested in both the type of equipment to be used and the way it is installed — and then requires a regular report on the amount used.

He also pointed out that a recent engineers' report recommended that the chemical equipment at the pumping station be moved to a new location within the building. Thus, he said, it will be better to wait a short time before installing the equipment for fluoridation rather than install it and then move it to a new spot. A vote of the board of public works to follow the recommendations of the engineers report will be required before the relocation of equipment is started.

REFERRED TO PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT

John Flynn, representing the Foster's pond associates, asked the selectmen Monday night for advice as to whom to contact regarding the killing of plant life at the pond. The associates want to kill off some of the plants without harming the fish. He was referred to the public health department so that a representative could look at the site.

Legal Training A Requisite

In the approaching Sept. 18 primary, voters of both parties will be asked to nominate candidates for the office of Clerk of Courts.

It seems essential for all of us to understand the primary function of that office before we decide for which candidate we will vote. For the Clerk of Court office requires a special type of ability not demanded by most county offices.

It is primarily a legal office, set up to work with lawyers and the justices of our Superior Court. The justices themselves confirm that definition — for they appoint all assistants in the office and demand that a man have a legal background before considering him.

The justices thoroughly investigate the candidate for an assistantship — both as to his professional qualifications and personal background. Their stress on his professional status — either as a lawyer or as a man with legal training — seems to pretty well set the pattern for that office. It should be run by men who are thoroughly familiar with legal proceedings; who know the law; who can easily work with lawyers and judges engaged in legal undertakings.

Thus it is that we say the nominees for that office require a special type of ability. They must have that one specific qualification — legal training — before they can capably grasp and carry out the responsibilities entailed in properly directing the Clerk of Courts office. We suggest that voters in both primaries carefully weigh the qualifications of all candidates for the job in the light of their possessing that special unique qualification — one which is demanded if efficiency is to prevail in the office.

Primary Coming Quickly

Eighteen days from now, voters all over the state will go to the polls to pick the candidates they wish to see compete for office in November.

Although the summer vacation season seems hardly over and interest, certainly, in politics is still remarkably quiet, we feel that all of us should begin to examine the candidates for public office. It is time to look closely at their qualifications, their deeds while in office, their campaign-year promises. And, after careful scrutiny, we should soon begin to select the candidates we want to see nominated.

It isn't too early to begin this process, for the next two and a half weeks will speed by, leaving us face-to-face with primary day before we realize it. Above all, let's individually pledge ourselves to vote Sept. 18 — let's prove to ourselves and all others that we take this business of voting seriously and treat it as an obligation not to be shirked.

Sunday Baseball Permission Will Be Requested

Sunday baseball must be approved by the voters before it will be allowed here.

Veterans of Foreign Wars post 2128 is planning to sponsor a special article in the Oct. 22 town meeting asking voters to accept a statute allowing baseball on the Sabbath. The matter came up about two weeks ago when police stopped a scheduled game between the Vets and Salisbury, called for 5:30 p.m. on Sunday. At that time it was believed that a doubleheader could be played if the first game started by 2 p.m., so an all-star team was picked up to oppose the Vets early in the afternoon.

However, there was a variance of opinion as to whether any baseball could be allowed here on Sunday if the state law is not accepted. Chief David Nicoll said he would not object to Sunday ball, but there had been a complaint and the officers had to enforce the laws.

Baseball on Sunday here is not a rarity. The Little League has scheduled Sunday games, including its opener. The Vets themselves had played two other Sunday games here this season and another had been scheduled for "West Andover". The schedule had been fastened on the town house wall for many weeks.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — August 1906

A serious automobile accident occurred on the Lowell rd. in West Parish about a half mile west of the pumping station Wednesday afternoon. A car veered from the road and crashed into a tree at the foot of a steep banking. Two Andover young women were involved in the crash. They had been out gathering wild grapes and then decided to take a drive. When they saw the auto coming, the young women were nervous because they were driving a frisky horse. The woman driving the car let her male companion drive while they passed the horse, but then resumed her position. Almost immediately the car went off the road and struck the tree. It took three horses to pull it back on the highway and the gentleman had a broken foot. The woman reported no injuries and refused to identify herself.

A painter working on a No. Main st. house was lucky last week, when he was knocked off a 30-foot staging by a live wire. The painter only had a few bruises, despite his fall. He said his head must have touched a live wire under the eaves and the next thing he knew he was on the ground.

Only the main waiting room and the oil house remain standing at the railroad station this week. Work proceeded rapidly on the demolishing of that building last week. As soon as the debris is cleaned up and the waiting room moved, the new building will be erected.

School Supt. Corwin F. Palmer has returned from a pleasant summer's trip spent traveling through England and Scotland.

The Hustlers defeated the Andover Guild team, 18-6, on the old P. A. campus last Saturday afternoon.

The choir boys held an outing at Corbett's pond, N.H., Friday under the direction of choir master and organist John Bachelder.

25 Years Ago — August 1931

Citizens in the center of town are up in arms over the sleep-disturbing train whistles that shrill through the night from the Essex st. crossing. So, too, are folks in Lowell Junction disturbed over the whistles there. The selectmen are being urged to carry the matter vigorously to the department of public utilities, which has once refused an appeal to halt the mid-town whistles. The DPU did, however, grant a similar request from residents of Ballardvale, without apparent disagreement.

More trouble has shown up with the locks put on the cell doors at the police station. After one James Crawford broke out of a cell a few weeks ago, police changed the locks. Then a citizen calmly announced that a common key, obtainable anywhere, would open the new locks — and demonstrated that fact to the astonishment of the department. Now the locks are changed again and the police defy anyone to find a duplicate key.

An enrollment of 400 is expected in Punched this year and 1100 are anticipated for the elementary schools. There will be 16 high school teachers, 36 grade school teachers and six specials. Punched begins classes Sept. 9 and the grades start Sept. 14.

Another infantile paralysis case was reported during the week. It is the second this year. The youngster is resting well at the Lawrence General hospital.

The Boston and Maine railroad will begin in a few days cutting away a knoll beside the road leading across the railroad tracks just north of Lowell Junction and upon which the water tower stands just across from Watson-Park company. The knoll blocks the vision of motorists wanting to cross the tracks.

10 Years Ago — August 1946

A special meeting of all the public school teachers will be held Sept. 9. A supervisor for the Rinehart functional writing system will explain the system to the teachers. In other school business, the school committee has been told by the state that school must be in session 160 days for grade schools and 180 days for high schools. The latter pointed out that liberal exemptions granted during the war will now not be allowed, with strict enforcement of the law implied.

Andover's town ballot next March will give the voters a chance to decide whether men teachers and women teachers deserve the same rate of pay. The 1946 legislature made the vote mandatory after a 1945 attempt to allow towns and cities to vote on the matter failed because too few took any action. The law, if accepted, would raise women teachers' pay to the standard of the men's when they do the same job, have the preparation and are required to have the same training.

The agitation of Ballardvale residents against the Essex Sand and Gravel company has finally reached the courts. A Master's hearing is now going on in the county court house in Lawrence on a bill in equity asking that the company be stopped from carrying out its activities on the grounds that they constitute a nuisance.

Traffic lights have been recommended for Shawsheen square by the state department of public works. The selectmen announced the result of a state survey and said the town would ask the state to bear the cost of the lights, which would afterwards be maintained by the town.

A local young man had his pocket picked while he tried to board a bus in Lawrence Saturday day morning. He said a man blocked his way briefly as he stepped towards the bus and then he shortly found his wallet to be missing, along with $44. Lawrence police are investigating.

over the phone several times and had been to her home once — with the result that he agreed to spray some two weeks ago.

McCullom's Statement

Chairman McCullom, contacted Tuesday night, said the board of health has moved as fast as possible to abate the nuisance at Swift's pond. He pointed out that certain steps have to be taken before formal action can be taken.

McCullom said a state report on the water showed no sewage contamination. First, however, he said the board had alleviated a septic tank condition above the area to be certain that drainage from the tank was not going into the pond and contaminating it. After that finding, and another reported in the Townsman last week, the health board has moved as rapidly as possible to have the situation cleared up, the chairman reported.

Speaking on the mosquito situation, McCullom suggested that one of the major problems confronting the town is a lack of proper equipment for the task — because there is no mosquito control activity here. He praised the board of public works for its cooperation and that of its men, who have worked hard at the spraying job. No thought has been given to spraying any sections by air, he said, and probably would not be seriously considered unless the state ordered a mobilization of all manpower and equipment in a strict emergency move. Then it would be a matter of conferring with the selectmen over the problem, he indicated.

Took Quick Action

After the report last Friday, however, that the horse was infected with encephalitis, the board of health immediately sprayed the area. Also covered, as much as possible, was Pomp's pond.

Monday saw spraying start in earnest. Although not in the order covered by the spraying unit, here is the list of wet areas sprayed with the five percent solution:

Fosters pond, Rogers brook from the center of town as far out as possible, Clark brook, Bellevue rd. swamp area, Stirling st. section, Phillips academy behind the pond, the bird sanctuary, Rocky Hill rd., an area off of Summer st., Lincoln st. and Swift's pond. Other sections were sprayed as the crew came upon them, although no list was immediately available.

Hard Labor

Some of the work was back-breaking labor. When the tree department truck couldn't get into an area, men had to lug the portable unit and spray by hand. Raposa had high praise for Foreman Philip Busby and Operator Robert Norton. But, he said, there obviously are some places a truck can't go and even some where a man carrying the portable unit can't reach entirely. That unit was purchased by the board of public works last Friday on orders of Chairman Allan Flye after being told of the situation by Chairman McCullom. Flye said the board of health will assume financial obligations for the tree department crews time on the spraying detail and that the health board is directing spraying operations completely.

While the town unit will be used wherever possible, Raposa Tuesday morning pointed out that back yards can't be sprayed.

Urge Cooperation

The selectmen joined in urging all homeowners to spray their own yards, including hedges and shrubbery, with a DDT solution readily available at hardware and other stores. Chairman White pointed out the impossibility of spraying these areas with the limited town equipment and help. He also suggested that there may not be any legal right to go on private property with the town equipment.

As late as Tuesday noon, after several days of hectic activity, the board of health office was receiving many calls from citizens asking help in spraying their yards. The threat of sleeping sickness, prevalent throughout the Cape area but here only in the one "dead horse" case, apparently caused great anxiety throughout the community.

Checks By The Thousands
 Must Be Stored By Town

Town Treasurer Anna Greeley hopes town hall-improvement funds hold out long enough to renovate her office.

And it isn't exactly a selfish hope, either - for the town's first woman treasurer has to worry about handling and storing 22,000
 cancelled checks this year alone.
 In the first six months she's already filled 11 file drawers with cancelled checks - worth a conservative million-and-a-half dollars - and has only another 11 drawers to fill before the checks begin to spill over into any sort of container handy.

Checks Everywhere

"We have to save every cancelled check for six years," Miss Greeley explained - or about 132,000 checks. That's so the town will final, final, complete proof of payment when and if anyone should file a claim during those six years. After that time, the law won't allow claims to be filed.

Right now, there are checks
 all over the place - in the files, bundled up in the safe, down in the vault and under the counters.
 Checks from 1950 will be burned
 at the year's end, but by that time the 1956 cancelled checks will replace them - always keeping Miss Greeley and town house personnel on their toes wondering where the next batch can be stored.

Even as improvement time approaches, the problem grows slightly worse. For Miss Greeley now handles more checks in a month than did the late Thaxter Eaton. He paid board of public works employees and town house personnel by cash - while Miss Greeley pays all employees by check. That only increased the number of checks in a month by 62, actually a drop in the bucket compared to the over-all monthly total of 22,000, but enough to add a little to the storage burden.

Handle Checks Often

And as if the problems of keeping six-years' cancelled checks isn't enough, the town treasurer handles each month's checks about six times before they can be filed. To start with, the check is run through an addressograph, then a check writer. But then a pen-and-ink amount must be written on each check. After those three handlings, the check is either stuffed into an envelope and mailed or is handed to an individual. Then it must be picked up and sorted as it comes back from the bank and then handled again as the cancelled documents are checked out against the warrants.

And while all that bookkeeping sounds like a giant-size headache to those with trouble balancing their checkbooks - it really isn't too bad except for the storage problem.

Many Repairs Done

Already this year, lest anyone think nothing has been done in the town house, the selectmen have created a new welfare office, new police chief's office and ante-room; renovated the assessors' office and added space; fixed up the old welfare office for the selectmen and their old office for the assessors' engineer; fixed up the old chief's office for the town accountant;
 authorized improvements to the toilet facilities in the town house;
 created a cell room in the police station and a locker room in the basement; and authorized painting the main hall.

So the fact that the town clerk and treasurer's offices haven't been touched is only an indication of the repairs and renovations required in the old building.

Situation Will Improve

If present plans hold good, the treasurer's office probably will be enlarged considerably, allowing more working space and, with good fortune, file space enough to keep those cancelled checks off the floor and out of everyone's hair.

Selectmen Will Fill Planning Board Vacancy

The selectmen are expected to appoint a new planning board member soon.

They have received a list of suggested persons from the Planning board, following the resignation of Robert MacMackin. The selectmen make appointments to fill a vacancy on the Planning board, but in one recent case discussed the appointment with the board first. Chairman Lee Noyes said he doesn't expect to meet with the selectmen, having presented them with a list of suggestions.

MacMackin, holding his first public office as a member of the planning group, was serving a two-year term. He was elected in 1955. He said the pressure of growing business activities coupled with the extra demands of planning board work made it impossible for him to continue and give the time he felt was required by the civic affairs.

Members of the board commented favorably on his service during the past two years.

MacMackin is a graduate of public schools here and the University of Buffalo. A salesman, he is a former chairman of the Republican Town committee; former vice president of the Visiting Nurse association and past director of the Andover Service club.

Board Rejects Cheever Plan

A plan for about 30 house lots off Holt rd., presented to the planning board and BPW by Fred Cheever, has been turned down by the public works board for drainage reasons.

The BPW also restricted Cheever to providing 50 percent of the possible homes with water in the next 18 months.

Planning Board Chairman Lee Noyes attended the BPW meeting and told its members Mr. Cheever has withdrawn his appeal from the Planning Board of Appeals.

The planning agency held a hearing on the Cheever plan a week ago but said it could not act because the plan was before the appeals agency.

Would Approve

Noyes told BPW members that his board would probably approve the Cheever plan, with restrictions as suggested by the public works board. He suggested, actually, that the BPW approve the plan with restrictions it felt necessary. But Chairman Allan Flye pointed out that the BPW must either approve or reject a plan, state its reasons and leave any other action to the planning agency.

The drainage problem, board members felt, must be corrected as surface water would now run off the property onto Holt rd. with no adequate drainage available from that point. Thus the plan was disapproved on that basis, although it is anticipated that planning board approval, with restrictions, will be forthcoming so that the plan can be recorded in the registry.

The board also stipulated that no road grade should be over 10 percent in the sub-division. That decision came after a lengthy discussion on road grades, with Chairman Flye suggesting that the BPW and Planning board should agree on maximum and minimum grades so all developers will know what they should do before coming to the boards.

Other Developments

Action was also taken Monday night on a development off Morton st., showing nine house lots. Along with the restriction on water services for half the houses in an 18-month period, the board also recommended that lot four be sewerd; that an easement be secured across Phillips academy land and that a 12-inch drain access be provided across lots seven and eight.

The Arthur LaChance sub-division off Arthur st. was approved.

The board recommended that an eight-inch water main be installed along Marilyn rd. from Lincoln st. and a six-inch main be installed along the other road in the development. Engineer Ralph Preble reported that water pressure in that area is ample and the supply is good. No restriction on water services was put on the development.

The board also looked at a preliminary plan presented for consideration and suggestions by Herbert Rhines for an area off Chestnut st. It showed eight lots.

Selectman Sidney P. White also appeared before the board with a copy of the plans and a letter from Mr. Rhines asking the selectmen's opinion of the proposed development. He said it seemed impossible to give any advice without seeing contours of the land.

Voting is a Priceless Heritage. Don't Let It Lapse. Vote Sept. 18.
