BPW EMPLOYEES SEEK WAGEHIKE

(Continued from Page One) Douty acted as spokesman, first asked their employers, the BPW, to grant a weekly increase of $3 adjust the overtime rate which, they said, now gives them six cents more than the regular rate.

Board Cnairman Allan Flye said he doubted whether anything said he doubted whether anything could be done this year within the budget, as far as raises were concerned - but agreed to meet a three-member committee of em-ployees at the Oct. 1 meeting to discuss overtime rates. Mr. Douty explained that overtime amounts to $1.50 an hour compared with a base rate of $1.44 hourly. Although the work-ing day is over at 4:30, he said, the men must work at regular rates until 6 p.m. before the present overtime starts. The men asked to have that situation corrected, starting overtime when the regular day ends. They suggested time-and-a quarter – about 36 cents extra – as a reasonable overtime rate. As one workman put it "It

As one workman put it As one workman put it it isn't worth getting out of bed' at the present rate. Several employ-ees pointed out that they usually have to put in their overtime at night, "in the worst conditions". Chairman Flye agreed that "overtime is pretty bad", referring to the present rate, and sug-gested the meeting next month to arrive at a satisfactory figure.

200 vs 100 Signatures

The article under which a pay raise would be granted required 200 signatures, according to the selectmen. They have insisted throughout the year that all ar-ticles bear that number of signa-tures. It was pointed out, however, that statutes list 100 sig-natures as the necessary number to insert an article while 200 signatures are needed to call a special town meeting. Chairman Sidney P. White of the board of selectmen said he thought 200 would be a fair figure as long as other groups had to get that many signatures. It is recalled that the firemen and policemen had to have 200 signatures on their petition for a $7 raise, an article that will come up for decision Oct. 22

Civil Defense

National Civil Defense Week drew to a close Monday. The warden service has been carrying on an extensive campaign of exhibits of posters and literature under the direction of Chief Warden Gordon Cannon. Over 25,000 pieces of informative leaflets have been placed in offices, stores and banks. It is hoped that at least one leaflet is now in each home.

In the very near future a concentrated effort will be going on to enlist wardens throughout the town. The warden service brings the program to life as they exe-cute their duties on the house-tohouse level. When a disaster demands greater service than the municipal departments are able to provide, the many units of the civil defense program will be called into service, especially the warden service. S. Good News

Good news appeared in this week's paper-bids have been requested on the new bridge across the Merrimack between Andover and Methuen. As Commissioner Volpe promised, the work apparently will be started before the first of the year although awarding of the contract itself will await legislative action on the $300,000,000 bond issue in October.

As we understand the situation, all our efforts towards creating an industrial park type of area in West Andover hinge on the relocation of Route 28. When the road appears imminent, then we may expect some action on industrial development. Until then, however, industrial management is hesitant to take the risk of losing money if the road should not go through as expected.

Thus the call for bids on the bridge itself was good news - both because it means a step forward in alleviating traffic problems and because it takes us a step nearer to industrial development.

Good Appointment

The selectmen used excellent judgment in appointing Ed Hall to the planning board.

Mr. Hall is a man whose integrity and fairness can not be questioned . . . and is a man with intimate knowledge of planning problems, both from the town's standpoint and a builder's.

We think he will be a valuable addition to the board.

Approve Rogers Brook

Thoughtful voters will want to take a long look at some of the articles in the special town meeting warrant - and particularly at the article asking funds for Rogers brook.

When more than $300,000 is needed in a lump sum, many of us tend to shy away - to vote no because it is such a large sum. Yet when we vote no on that specific project, as has happened at least twice before, we actually are committing the town to spend even more money later.

Consider, if you will, the jump in costs for construction of that project - 10 percent increase from the annual town meeting in 1955 to the town meeting in 1956 and another seven percent increase from March to October of this year. Let's face, it, construction costs are not coming down and they are not levelling off - they are going up and up and

So what are we doing by defeating the project? We are actually just postponing a job that will have to be done within a few years at a cost well over the present estimate. Is that sensible? Is it wise to vote no to avoid spending the money and raising the tax rate when the handwriting is clearly on the wall, telling us it will cost much more if the project is again delayed? We think the voters should vote yes on Rogers brook, once and for all.

SELECTMEN FIND PARKING SOLUTION

White said the selectmen now have some $9400 remaining in an account for off-street parking out of an original appropriation of $10,000. Some was spent to make the area behind the fire station suitable for parking, White ex-plained. He suggested that the selectmen could purchase the selectmen could purchase the property near the railroad station and make it usable with parking meter funds. The Finance Committee would have to approve the expenditure but it wouldn't need town meeting approval, White said.

50 Years Ago - September 1906 Phillips academy began its 129th year last week under most favorable conditions. Examinations for admittance to the two lower classes were held Wednesday and were continued for the upper classes on Thursday. Nearly 450 students have already reg-istered with over 250 newcomers. Further registrations are expected as some young men are still taking fall college examinations. There have been several faculty changes this year and substantial progress has been made in bring-ing the school facilities up to shape to handle the student body under one roof.

A large branch of an Elm tree fell on Central st. last Friday afternoon and blocked the street and sidewalk for a few hours. Tree Warden J. Harry Playdon removed the branch.

The Association football team will go to Lawrence Saturday to play the "Long Rovers" on the Water street grounds. Several names were added to the voting list last week during a meeting of the registrars.

The contract for the new Boston and Maine railroad station here was awarded to Roach and company of Haverhill. The work of excavating the cellar has been started and is proceeding very favorably. Workmen are at present at work cutting away part of the banking on the east side of School st. to widen the thoroughfare, as voted at a special town meeting. Mrs. Mary A. Callahan quietly observed her 93rd birthday at her home on Abbot st. Tuesday with many of her friends calling to express their congratulations.

A meeting of local retail milk dealers was held at the South church vestry Thursday morning discuss raising the price of milk. After much discussion it was agreed to raise the price per quart from six to seven cents and the price of a can to 48 cents. 25 Years Ago - September 1931

The firm of Weston and Sampson, consulting engineers, has been called in by the board of public works to study water and sewage problems in a West Andover area. The state has proposed a school for the feeble minded in the area and the board wants to know what changes in supply and in sewage disposal systems will needed to cope with the he school.

When the school committee when the school committee meets at the beginning of the month the members will face over-crowding problems in both the senior high school and Stowe Junior high. There is no shortage of seats but there are not enough classrooms in the buildings that teachers are having to handle too many students.

The selectmen have asked the state public utilities commission to reconsider its decision on res-tricting train whistles at the Essex st. crossing. The state bod previously did not restrict th and the railroad an whistles nounced that longer blasts w sounded in the future. A home owner here in Andover borrowed about $1000 from us in 1950 with three years to repay. The loan was to repair his front porch and paint the house.

Early this spring his heating system failed, and both he and his tenants were without heat. A telephone call to Andover 1199 was all that was needed to bring him a quick check to cover the rush job that saved the house from freezing up.

It pays to establish credit with the Bay State Merchants National Bank.
