School Committee To Hear Cost Estimate Of Proposed Salaries

Cost factors involved in a pro-

Cost factors involved in a proposed salary schedule for school teachers will be discussed at the School Committee meeting Nov. 5.
The special Salary Evaluation Committee, appointed by the School Committee, offered its first written report last week, basically repeating points made in a verbal report last July.
Headmaster John M. Kemper of Phillips Academy, chairman of the Committee, explained that his group will now start working on a scale of salaries based on merit and other factors.

and other factors.

In the report, the Committee suggested that salaries should be

Puppet Show For Children

All young people are cordially invited to a puppet show at the Memorial Hall Library Friday, Oct. 25, at 3:35 o'clock. This is to be a "double header" with attractions for boys and girls. The two plays are to be "Red Riding Hood" and "Robin Hood." No tickets are required and all who enjoy legends and fairy tales are invited to attend. The plays are presented by young people who worked with the Puppet project held at the library this past summer. This group worked on shadow mer. This group worked on shadow puppets and the plays are ex-tremely interesting to viewers, because the entire project is carried on behind a screen.

France, Switzerland, Italy, Liechtenstein, Austria, Germany, Denmark and Sweden. While visits were made to familiar sights and places, the Bradleys include pictures of interesting parts of Europe that the tourist does not generally see. Such highlights will include the lakes of Killarney in southern trealand; rural English tayers (in Ireland; rural English taverns (including one in existence since 1280 and still lighted by oil lanterns); a journey through the Swiss Oberland via narrow gauge railroad; visits inside Danish houses; and the islands of Born-holm in the middle of the Baltic and Mrs. Bradley will be glad to discuss with those interested some of the things which they feel will enable others to get the most out of a trip to Europe.

Although the travelers had a rough itinerary planned before leaving, the only definite reserva-tions made were for the flights over the Atlantic. Plans for travel the continent were made from week to week, sometimes from day to day, which permitted great freedom of movement. Their talk should be of particular interest to those who want to travel independently while abroad. After showing their slides, Mr.

Informality is the keynote of this series. It is hoped that those who plan to attend will feel free to ask questions. Library Display On IGY

As the International Geophysical Year progresses, interest grows in the many facets of this world wide the many facets of this world wide pooling of scientific study and observations. The Memorial Hall Library has prepared a display of materials related to the "18 month year", opening July 1 and continuing until the end of 1958. During these months when scientists, thousands of them, located in about 2500 stations over the globe, are studying such questions in about 2500 stations over the globe, are studying such questions as: "How do the deep currents flow?; What volume is there in an ice sheet?; How does gravity vary in different parts of the earth?; Can climate be forecast through seating the state of level changes?; The layman may wish to read a bit on these sub-jects.

Here is a sampling of the ma ial to be found in the display, any ial to be found in the display, any of which may be borrowed at once: The Rocket Pioneer, Williams; What Man May Be, Harrison; Men, Rockets and Space Rats, Mallan; Conquest Of Space, Bonestell; A Land, Hawkes; Our American Weather, Kimble; Calder Hill, first nuclear power station in the world. now is go about getting the remainder of the drive accepted by the town.

J. O. Smethurst and a group of neighbors appeared to request help in getting the circle and a section of the street accepted — another section was accepted last March.

The Board recalled that several projects were listed last year that had to be completed before acceptance. These included taking large stones from the roadway, some drainage, road surfacing and grading and installation of stone bounds. Chairman Allen Flye suggested the group formally petition the Selectmen for acceptance now, which automatically means the BPW will inspect the area and list the items that remain to be done.

Mr. Smethurst recalled that the contractor has promised to do the work, then at other times days he won't. "How he gets away with it is beyond me", he asserted.

Other residents suggested that drain pipes from their cellars are actually connected with the sewer, set a storm drain and asked how

Reilly also pointed out that the BPW last March said of the standard street when a standard street was a standard street.

Reilly also pointed out that the BPW last March asked town meeting to approve money so that the Board could put in all sewers—then collect the money from the resident. If this had been done, he explained, then there wouldn't be such problems as drainage running into the sewers.
Reilly told the group it might be possible to complain to the Planning Board whenever the contractor has a plan before it, pointing out that he did not do work they believed he should have. This might have some affect on what he will do for residents of Lucerne dr., Reilly thought.
That step, or a civil suit, would be the only steps open to the residents, Board members felt, to force the contractor to do this work. They repeatedly pointed out that the town has no responsibility to make anyone do the work but can hold up acceptance until it is done.

Puppet Show For Children
All young people are cordially invited to a puppet show at the Memorial Hall Library Friday, Oct. 25, at 3:35 o'clock. This is to be a "double header" with attractions for boys and girls. The two plays are to be "Red Riding Hood" and "Robin Hood." No tickets are required and all who enjoy legends and fairy tales are invited to attend. The plays are presented by young people who worked with the Puppet project held at the library this past summer. This group worked on shadow puppets and the plays are extremely interesting to viewers, because the entire project is carried on behind a screen.

Journeying mostly by air, the Bradleys took advantage of stopovers permitted air travellers to Europe to visit Ireland, England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Liechtenstein, Austria, Germany, Denmark and Sweden. While visits were made to familiar sights amplaces, the Bradleys include pictures of interesting parts of Europe that the tourist does not generally see. Such highlights will include the lakes of Killarney in southern Switzerland, the lakes of Killarney in southern Ireland; rural English taverns (in-cluding one in existence since 1280 and still lighted by oil lanterns); a journey through the Swiss Oberland via narrow gauge railroad; visits inside Danish houses; and the islands of Born-holm in the middle of the Baltic

Although the travelers had a rough itinerary planned before leaving, the only definite reserva-tions made were for the flights over the Atlantic. Plans for travel the continent were made from dom of movement. Their talk should be of particular interest to those who want to travel independently while abroad.

After showing their slides, Mr.

Want Info On Lucerne Drive

J. O. Smethurst and a group of neighbors appeared to request help in getting the circle and a section of the street accepted — another section was accepted last March.

The Board recalled that several projects were listed last year that had to be completed before acceptance. These included taking large stones from the roadway, some drainage, road surfacing and grading and installation of stone bounds. Chairman Allen Flye suggested the group formally suggested the group formally petition the Selectmen for acceptance now, which automatically means the BPW will inspect the area and list the items that remain to be done.

Then, it was suggested, the residents can either have the work sidents can either have the work done themselves or arrange to have the developer complete the project. But Board members made it clear they would have no part in that arrangement, other than furnishing the list of projects remaining undone.

Mr. Smethurst recalled that the

Mr. Smethurst recalled that the contractor has promised to do the work, then at other times days he won't. "How he gets away with it is beyond me", he asserted.

Other residents suggested that drain pipes from their cellars are actually connected with the sewer, not a storm drain and asked how this can be straightened out.

Board Member Francis Reilly explained that many other streets have similar problems. He also recalled that the Board frowns on resident.

Reilly also pointed out that the BPW last March asked town meeting to approve money so that the Board could put in all sewers—then collect the money from the resident. If this had been done, he explained, then there wouldn't be such problems as drainage running into the sewers.
Reilly told the group it might be possible to complain to the Planning Board whenever the contractor has a plan before it, pointing out that he did not do work they believed he should have. This might have some affect on what he will do for residents of Lucerne dr., Reilly thought.
That step, or a civil suit, would be the only steps open to the residents, Board members felt, to force the contractor to do this work. They repeatedly pointed out that the town has no responsibility to make anyone do the work but can hold up acceptance until it is done.

PERSONAL Reilly also pointed out that the

Starlight Players Will Present Williams' Play

the Starlight Players pro-

When the Starlight Players production of Tennessee Williams "Summer and Smoke" opens Nov. 6 for a four-night performance run at the Warner Theatre in Lawrence, three Andover residents will be seen in key roles.

Deanie Hamburg, who in private life is Mrs. Charles Hamburg of Lowell st. will be seen in the leading role of Alma Winemiller, the lovelorn girl doomed to misery and loneliness the minister's daughter who has loved from childhood the son of a doctor next door. Mrs. Hamburg has had an excellent background in the theatre. She is a graduate of the childhood the son of a doctor next door. Mrs. Hamburg has had an excellent background in the theatre. She is a graduate of the Walters Modeling Academy in Baltimore, Md., and in 1951 became associated with Town Players, Inc., one of the oldest organized theatre groups in New England. Her major acting roles include such plays as "Winterset", "Pygmalion", "The Great Big Doorstep" and "You Can't Take It With You". Mrs. Hamburg has also directed and appeared in many plays in this area. Last year she directed the Young People's Group of the West Parish Church in Andover in a one-act comedy "This Way To Heaven". Charles Hamburg will be seen as Dr. John Buchanan Sr., the stern father of the hero. This is an excellent challenge in a character role for Mr. Hamburg, who is following in the theatrical tradition of his father and grandfather, both long connected with the theatre.

John Crane of 7 Argyle st. will be seen in another good character.

John Crane of 7 Argyle st. will be seen in another good character portrayal, that of Poger Doremus, the mother-dominated young man who is fond of Alma. In the Starlight Players production of "Summer and Smoke", John H. Douglas, who has had professional experience in the theatre in New York City, will be seen as the romantic lead, Dr. John Buchanan Jr. He is also directing the players. Others in the cast include George Richards, Henrietta Page, Elain Chengerian, John Tobia, Joan Diamont, Vincent McLaglen, Patricia Ferrante and Helen Simoulis. The play will be presented for four nights at the Warner Theatre in Lawrence, Nov. 6 through Nov. 9 at 8:15 p.m.

that youngsters were, in many cases, out with colds and other ailments — or were being kept home as a precautionary measure.

The High School and Junior High were hardest hit. Some 24 percent of the High School population was out Tuesday and it increased to 25 percent Wednesday.

The Junior High had 32 percent out of school Tuesday but only 30 percent Wednesday.

Elementary grades were not troubled greatly. They averaged 10 percent absentees which is about normal for this time of year. Officials explained that the older children apparently are coming in contact with colds and other infections more than the younger ones.

"We're being guided in this matter by the health authorities, as we should", commented Supt. Erickson. He explained that there has been only one public school in the area closed because of a high absentee rate.

Health authorities, meanwhile, expressed the belief that a sharp increase in absentees would have been observed yesterday, if the cause was actually the Asian Flu. The fact that the rate seemed to have leveled off indicated to the authorities that probably the peak of absenteeism has been reached.

We'll Miss May Shorten

When May Shorten leaves the Board of Public Works office tomorrow, after 22 years of service, the whole town will be the loser.

For Miss Shorten, in the years of her service in the BPW office, has efficiently carried out her duties. Whenever a question came up, someone was sure to say: "Ask May" - and she almost always had the right answer.

We want to wish you well, May, and to say that, like the rest of the town and the people you have worked with in the town house, we'll miss you.

Committee Has Tough Job

The School Committee has a tough problem to solve.

The special report of the Salary Evaluation Committee, concerning basic salary schedules, recommends substantial increases all along the line. Whether to adopt the report's recommendations, in whole or in part, will be a decision reached only after very sober thought.

Because, while the report's suggested schedule may actually be the one needed here, there also is a cost factor to consider. The actual figures aren't available yet, but most everyone agrees that, to raise salaries as recommended in the report, will cost quite a lot of money.

The Committee now is faced with the responsibility of deciding how much the town can afford to spend in relation to the need. It isn't easy to keep both these things in mind and maintain an even balance between them.

We don't envy the School Committee its job. For on one hand, there will be some objection to even a small raise; while, on the other, proponents will howl if the raises are not large enough.

It will be mighty interesting to see how the Committee solves this one.

Evaluation Is Good For All

It's good to see the wage and job evaluation underway with every hope that a full report will be available by the year's end.

This job, now being handled by an impartial firm, is one of the most vital undertaken here in several years. For once it has been completed - and accepted - many inequities in the municipal salary schedules will be corrected and others will, we believe, be prevented from occurring later.

Town employees have nothing to fear from the evaluation, for there is no intent to decrease any salaries for present employees. Some jobs may be rated lower on the pay scale and, in those cases, employees of the future would start at whatever rate is set by this survey. Thus, no present employee will be taking home less money for his present work than he gets now.

It is important to realize that some town jobs may be out of line with those in other towns and cities and with industry. Recommendations for higher pays may be made for specific jobs - and in this case, the incumbent would be increased.

Thus town employees have nothing to fear and everything to gain from a realistic, thorough evaluation of their jobs and their pays.

The town has much to gain, too. For morale in all departments should be high when all employees realize that they are being paid equitably in relation to all other employees and that they have an equal opportunity for financial advancement with other employees. When morale is at a high level, the town should get good service.

We hope and expect that everyone connected with this evaluation - employees of the town, elected officials and board members - will cooperate to the fullest so that the end result will be a wage and job survey that is understood by all and agreeable to most employees and towns-cup rice, uncooked egg 1 large head of cabbage (21/2 to 3 lb. head)

½ cup bread crumbs
salt & pepper to taste
Mix together the hamburg, bread crumbs and seasonings. Now boil one cup rice, which when cooked should measure two cups. Parboil the head of cabbage in ½ cup water in covered kettle for not more than 5 minutes. This is long more than 5 minutes. This is long enough to loosen from the head (when cool) 12 or 14 large leaves.

Taking the hamburg mixture, shape oblong, adding, as you roll it between your hands, a teaspoonful of rice (keep this to the center). This is wrapped in a cabbage When 14 or more are prepared brown them in fat in a skillet turning gently. Place in a casse-role and bake in a moderate oven for ¼ of an hour. I must confess, though my failure to get an oral or writer recipe from the very gracious Mrs. "James Petteruti, who, I understood, does a superb job with Italian dishes. She was most willing to dishes. She was most willing to demonstrate certain culinary turns in the privacy of her own kitchen, but characteristically to all cooks of perfection, proper timing is essential and she hesitated to translate into words directions that could be misleading. This I can well understand and it is probably the best reason I know who the best reason I know I had two major failures last week behind scenes. over throughout the year.

Scenery for the production, executed by the Players themselves, arrived last evening and has already been set up in full rereadiness for the dress rehearsal tonight. Some of the working commit-tee members of both sponsoring organizations will no doubt look in on this rehearsal, but among those too anxious to wait and attending Wakefield's production last Friday night were D.A.R. Regent Mrs. Frank Hayes and Mr. Hayes, Mrs. Shirely Otto and Mrs. Frank Crawford, general chairmen.

The play is a comedy in three acts with the same scene through-out and has in its cast two mem-bers of the Junior Quannapowitt group as well as principals from the senior group.

proudly presents LEE WALLARD, Indianapolis race driver, who will speak from experience on

"HIGHWAY SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT"

By early spring this highly effective presentation, now in its third year, will have been seen and heard by nearly a million teen-agers in 1400 high schools in the nation. The program, developed by Champion Spark Plug Company, recently received the Public Service Award of the National Safety Council.

A veteran professional driver, Lee Wallard is well qualified to speak on the subject of highway safety. In addition to driving a race car for a living, he adds 35,000 miles a year as a highway driver. His unparalleled motoring experiences make him an expert on his subject of Highway Safety.
