URBAN RENEWAL PROJECT GETTING UNDERWAY

Planning for Urban Renewal assistance here will move forward quickly.

Members of the Housing Authority, meeting tonight, will begin the task of selecting a "Citizens Committee", which will help guide the progress of the renewal project. Edward Johnston of the Authority said it is probable that a committee will be named during the next 10 days.

The first step in the project is the hiring of a professional firm to make preliminary plans to accompany an application to federal officials in Washington. The Merrimack Valley National Bank has agreed to pay the fee of this firm.

Persons interested in the project feel that the firm can be retained immediately after the Citizens Committee is named.

KINDERGARTEN SURVEY

Parents of the children who are to enter the public school kindergartens in September are requested to send the following information to the school in their district: the child's name, address, date of birth and the father's name.

The information may be sent by mail or by a neighborhood child. In order to make arrangements for the registrations days, this data should be in the schools not later than April 11.

Guest Day Held By DAR Chapter

Guest Day at Priscilla Abbot Chapter, N.S.D.A.R., was a very happy occasion March 11, when about 35 members and guests gathered at the home of Mrs. Willard Carrier on Kensington st., Shawsheen Village.

Miss Bessie Goldsmith was the speaker of the afternoon and gave a very interesting and informal talk about old Andover, especially the locality in which she lives, which has changed so much, as Andover has as a whole, since she was a girl going to school. The school she first attended was the old Town school, situated

17 Local Donors "Adopted" Hospitalized Belgian Children

Warm-hearted Andover residents last week "adopted" two Belgian tykes at the Children's Medical Center in Boston.

And they were responsible for the similar "adoption" of three other Belgian children.

All have since undergone sensitive surgical procedures to correct heart conditions.

The novel "adoption" was the idea of Miss Mary Sherman of the local Red Cross Chapter. She suggested to Blood Donor Chairman Robert Zollner that Red Cross Chapters could "adopt" the youngsters, whose need for whole blood was great. One of the requirements of the delicate surgery is that donors be on hand to give fresh, whole blood no longer than 24 hours before surgery.

And thus it was that 17 donors made the trip to Boston last Tuesday and gave their blood for the use of two little girls. Chapters in Wellesley, Newton, Needham, Salem and Boston sent donors, who "adopted" three other children, aged five, 14 and 16.

All five of the children, plus two adults, were sent to Boston for corrective surgery as a gift of Princess Liliiane, mother of Prince Alexander, who underwent a successful operation for a heart ailment last summer at the Medical Center.

Members of the Junior Red Cross, while not giving blood, "adopted" the youngsters in another way. They took toys and gifts to the Center and spent considerable time playing with the youngsters.

Little League Workouts Continue

About 250 potential Little Leaguers worked out at the Phillips Academy Cage last weekend, despite the messy weather.

Again this weekend, tryouts will be held both Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

All boys are reminded to register at the Cage. To be eligible, all boys must have done this by the time workouts end Sunday.

The schedule for workouts this weekend follows:

Eight to nine years, 1-2; 10-11 years, 2-3:30; 12 years old, 3:30-4:30 and last year's Little Leaguers will work out from 4:30 to 5. The hours are for both days.

Some 180 youngsters worked out last Saturday and another 60 or more were at the Cage Sunday.

Approves Shopping Center Rules

Andover's three-session town meeting adjourned Monday night, after approving shopping center regulations and sites and voting down three proposed increases in lot sizes.

The voters also approved the first step in seeking federal funds for urban renewal projects here sometime in the future.

In the first two sessions, expenditures totaled $2,841,674. Another $12,970 was added Monday night, bringing total appropriations to $2,854,644. Of this amount, $263,000 was specifically to be taken from available funds.

And as the last session died away, the Finance Committee predicted a $74.32 tax rate, based on present valuations.

Monday Action
Monday's meeting, with slightly over 550 voters present, declined again to boost several sections of town to acre lots. On two of the three articles, however, a majority favored the change but the vote failed to get the needed two-thirds.

A long list of shopping center regulations was approved and two articles setting up two areas for shopping center use were also voted.

At the meeting's start, voters quickly changed a Zone C requirement to specify that acre lots will have not less than 180 feet of frontage, changing the lots to rectangular rather than square. This, the Planning Board said, would make it easier to sub-divide the areas and would put most of the lot in the rear of a house

Sailing Club Starts March 29

Though the snow has buried the boats they will use, the Schools' Sailing Club plans to launch its fleet March 29, according to Mrs. Bedford Wood, 9 Highland ave., director.

The Elementary School division will start its "Ski" Cup series at 1 p.m. April 2. This year, members of the Junior High School are invited to enter a mid-week Wednesday series, when they will race against the schools of Marblehead, Nahant, Salem, Winthrop, Brookline, Melrose, Lynnfield Center and Arlington.

The Racing Mothers of Andover will meet as usual Thursday mornings and also on Wednesday, April 23, when the mothers from other towns race in the Championship Morning Meet at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

WELLS TIED IN; POND RECOVERING

Haggett's Pond — drawn down below 80 inches from its high water mark last summer — is less than 30 inches below that mark now.

Water Supt. Donald Bassett also has revealed that the Ballardvale test well, producing over 600,000 gallons daily, was tied into the water system last week. The Abbot well, listed for 350,000 gallons, will be pumping into the system by this weekend, he said.

Bassett explained that the pond level was taken before the Ballardvale well was tied in and that following this step, there should be much less demand on the pond, allowing it to recover even more rapidly.

Special Plans To Mark "Camp Fire Week"

The Andover District of the Greater Boston Council for Camp Fire Girls has recently completed plans for the observance of Camp Fire Week, March 16 through 23.

Camp Fire Girls Inc., a nationwide organization founded in 1910 by a group of leading educators to provide girls with a constructive program to meet their leisure-time needs, will celebrate its 48th birthday March 17.

For the first time, the local group will actively participate in the celebration, commencing with Camp Fire Sunday, March 16, when the girls have been invited to attend either of two church services.

Catholic girls will attend the 9 a.m. Mass at St. Augustine's Church. All girls, in correct costumes, will meet with Mrs. Martin Burns promptly at 8:40 in the lower church. Communion will be served to those who are eligible.

Protestant girls will attend the 10:30 a.m. service at West Parish Church. All girls planning to attend this service in uniform will meet Mrs. Frank Santuccio in the vestry at 10:15 sharp.

Jewish girls are invited to visit with either group.

In addition, an active committee, headed by Mrs. Angelo Sapienza, district program chairman and including Mrs. Frank Santuccio and Mrs. Paul Barry of the District Committee as well as Mrs. Alex Blamire of the Leader-Sponsor Association, have completed plans for the first annual Mother-Daughter Banquet to be held by the Camp Fire Girls in this locality. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. Wednesday, March 19, in the Shawshen School Cafeteria. Following the banquet, arrangements have been made for the showing of a Camp Fire movie. Karl Roehrig of Andover will be the guest speaker. Folk dancing will complete the program.

near the Old South Church and she described Elm st. where she lived then, the Square, and that part of Central st. down to the school.

Miss Goldsmith told of the plot of land bounded by Elm, Whittier and Summer sts., which was at one time a field, with the old Whittier house, now Coles' Sanatorium, being the only house on it. She spoke of the Rev. Francis Johnson, who lived in what is now Johnson Acres, who went to Bar Harbor in the summer and Rome in the winter. His carriages, drawn by handsome horses, were quite an imposing sight. Moses Foster, a bank man, with his tall hat, was also one of Andover's fine men. The houses down Elm st. were mentioned, the Holmes Eames place on the corner of Maple ave., the Blairs' house, now William Young's, the Chickering house, now Shorten's, the former Tuttle house opposite the Free church, the Harnden block at the corner of Florence st., the George T. Abbott place at the corner of Summer st., Mrs. Hannah Burt's house, now owned by Donald Amy, the old and "new" Kimball houses, torn down and moved away when the Free church was built, the John Flint place, now the Square and Compass club, and finally the old Elm House, standing back of where the Musgrove building is now with the village green in front.

Then came the Library where it is today, but looking quite different in those days with its mansard roof. Down Central st. was the Baptist church, still in the same location, but then with stores underneath. The T.A. Holt company, which occupied these stores, was a place of distinction, where one could buy silk and velvet, as well as a spool of thread or a yard of ribbon. On the other side groceries were weighed out, no package foods being available then. The Swift house, now the property of W.R. Hill, the small house across the street from the church, where is now a brick building, and finally old Christ church, a wooden building which was burned sometime during Miss Goldsmith's childhood, were mentioned. Although many persons present did not grow up in Andover, the story was told in such a way that it brought back memories of other towns where those present had lived.

The meeting was opened by the regent, Mrs. Frank Hayes, at 2:30 after dessert had been served by the hostesses. The chaplain, Mrs. Roland Glines, read George Washington's prayer at the devotions, and patriotic exercises were led by her, one verse of the National Anthem being sung.

Mrs. John Murray, chairman of the Good Citizen committee, introduced Miss Priscilla Terrio, the Good Citizen girl, who was a special guest of the meeting with her mother, Mrs. Raymond Terrio. Other guests were from Olde Redding Chapter of Reading and Betsy Ross Chapter of Methuen besides friends and prospective members.

The regent spoke about another flag to be presented to a Girl Scout Troop in Andover, to come from the Capitol in Washington.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Currier, Mrs. William Trow, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Wilson Knipe and Mrs. Edward Thompson. Mrs. George Winslow and Mrs. Alice Damon were at the coffee table and Mrs. E.C. Edmonds had charge of the guest book.

What You Should Know About Your Manager Charter

By David E. Young SECOND IN A SERIES

Perhaps the most obvious, and certainly most far reaching, changes in our town government, under the town manager-selectman form, are the provisions specifying how various offices will be filled.

For inherent in the manager-selectman charter is the belief that fewer elected offices - and more appointive offices - will be beneficial to the town.

As we noted last week, in the first of this series, long thought and careful study went into the preparation of the manager charter. And not all of this scrutiny was in the realm of theory.

Members of the Study Committee and the Committee To File Legislation, talked with men and women who live under the manager-selectman form of government.

And thus they were able to determine, in advance, what some of the pitfalls might be and to take steps, while writing the charter, to avoid them.

Two Practical Provisions

One such case, applicable to this week's discussion of elected offices, is the provision that a manager's appointments must be approved by the selectmen.

Learning from other communities' experiences, the committees carefully specify that all appointments must have the approval of the five-member Board of Selectmen. This was done, members explained, to assure townspeople that the town hall could not become a municipal club made up of the manager's friends from out-of-town. Hard-headed reality demanded, they agreed, that this provision be included. For it was obvious that local, elected selectmen will not approve poor appointees nor will they stand for wholesale firings of present elected, but soon to be appointed, officials.

And in another step, the committee wrote into the charter provisions that will insure proper checks and balances, through appointments made solely by the Selectmen. This, too, was the result of careful study of how these and other requirements had worked out in other communities.

How It Works

Now let's look specifically at the elected offices and examine how they will work, starting in March, 1959:

How are selectmen elected and when?

Five selectmen will be elected next March at the annual election. No incumbent is prevented from seeking election, but none of the present selectmen will remain in office unless elected next March.

At that time, two will be elected for three-year terms; two for two-year terms and one for a one-year term. Thereafter, the term will be three years.

When candidates file their nomination papers next winter, they must specify the term they seek.

There are no geographical specifications - although it has been pointed out that the election of five selectmen may allow better representation residence wise.

The Selectmen elected next March will assume office as soon as they are duly qualified and will begin immediately to carry out their duties under the manager charter.

Changes Coming Up

While there is bound to be considerable interest in that election contest, voters will notice that many offices will not be on the ballot.

These are the offices and boards taken off the ballot and made appointive:

Board of Public Works, Planning Board, Board of Health, Board of Assessors, Board of Welfare, Library Trustees, town treasurer and tax collector.

Continuing to appear on the ballot, under the charter provisions, will be candidates for moderator, School Committee, Trustees of Punchard Free School, Trustees of Cornell Fund and the Andover Housing Authority.

The town clerk now serves under tenure, granted by the voters some years ago. When he retires, a successor will be appointed by the manager, with the approval of the selectmen.

Appointing Authority

In four cases, the Selectmen will appoint town officials.

The Selectmen will appoint town accountant and members of both the Zoning Board of Appeals and the Planning Appeals Board. They will also, as they do now, appoint registrars. In all other cases but one, the manager will be the appointing authority, except that he requires the approval of the Selectmen for any appointment.

This sole exception is the Board of Public Works, which is abolished. The Selectmen will assume policy-making duties in this field and the manager will either act as, or appoint someone as, superintendent.

Restrictions

One vital point must not be overlooked.

The charter specifies that certain persons will not be eligible to hold certain offices.

Members of the School Committee, Board of Selectmen or Finance Committee may not hold other elected or appointed town offices or positions.

This, in simple terms, prohibits any town employee from also holding one of these positions and it also prevents dual office-holding among elected officials.

In other positions, there is no restriction. Thus an appointee to the Planning Board, for example, could also serve in another municipal position, whether as an employee or holder of some elected office not specifically mentioned under listed restrictions. In one other provision, the charter also prohibits the town accountant from serving as either tax collector or treasurer.

Other Appointments

Not all the appointing authority is in the hands of the manager of selectmen. The moderator will continue to appoint the Finance Committee and any other committees authorized by law.

In general, the charter states that terms of office of appointed board members will be the same as provided by statute and their powers and duties will remain consistent with those specified under the statutes. Thus, again taking the Planning Board as an example, its members still will have the responsibilities they now have.

In all cases where the manager appoints board members or officials, he will also have responsibilities of supervision.

This, then, offers a detailed and accurate description of the elective procedure under the manager charter.

A Lenten Message

The Rev. John S. Moses, Rector
Christ Episcopal Church

The season of Lent comes once more and offers to us its privileges and opportunities to make it the occasion of a real advance in the most telling objects of life, character and service.

We all know that it is hard to be active and genuine Christians, for we are always face to face with our own spiritual difficulties. We all need the tonic of this season of discipline to awaken us to the higher life which Lent in its challenge brings before us.

The purpose of keeping Lent is for the deepening of the spiritual life. Whatever the means may be and they vary with different people — the end of it all should be that we find ourselves better able to measure up to the ideal that our faith imposes upon us.

So the Church urges us during this season to be more faithful (a) in attendance at public worship, (b) more diligent in our private devotional life, and (c) more Christian in our daily dealing with other people. There is no magic by which Lent can do us good without effort on our part. But for every person who earnestly desires to lead a better life, these six weeks can be full of spiritual adventure and crowned with the joy of Easter victory.

tained by the Auditorium.

Our hearty congratulations to all who attended town meeting, for your display of interest and enthusiasm and for your over-all good judgment in the management of fiscal affairs. Although we don't happen to agree with every vote, it appeared to be a sensible meeting. We trust there will be many more of them in the future.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — March, 1908

Sylvester Goodwin is driving the town team for William Rea, who has been granted a month's leave of absence from his duties.

The Tuesday Club gave a musical last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. John Hilton of West Parish is visiting her son in Winchester.

The question of Andover Seminary's future has been settled. By a formal vote of the trustees March 12 it was decided that the Seminary be removed to Cambridge. It will be an institution separate from, but affiliated with Harvard and its Divinity School.

Edward Jerome Webster, '08, won first prize in the Means prize speaking at Phillips Academy Tuesday evening.

25 Years Ago — March, 1933

The salary question took up practically all of town meeting last Monday and the adjourned session will again take up the question this Monday at 1:30. After a few salary items had been cut, others were amended to give salaries the same as in 1932. But the whole matter appears headed for reconsideration next Monday.

The annual Irish minstrel show will be held tonight in celebration of St. Patrick's Day.

A well-attended whist was held last night at the home of Mrs. Frank Borneman on Prospect Hill rd., under the auspices of the Legion Auxiliary.

A gas station on Union st. was broken into Tuesday morning after 1 o'clock. Cash and some merchandise was stolen.

Andover was shocked Sunday evening to hear of the sudden passing of Dr. Charles Henry Forbes, acting headmaster of Phillips Academy, at his home on Hidden rd., following a heart attack.

10 Years Ago — March, 1948

A father-son banquet will bring to a close the basketball season of the Inter-Church Basketball League. Fully 200 fathers and sons participated.

Town Clerk George Winslow has a large supply of dog tags on hand. All dogs three months old or older must have licenses, by April 1.

The all-night parking ban is still in effect. It was extended to April 1, from the usual March 15 time, due to the extreme weather conditions.

Members of the Taxpayers' Association have agreed to extend their activities year-round. Various sub-committees will be formed to keep track of departmental budgets and to work on municipal planning.

Local representatives will explain problems of state government, during an open meeting of the League of Women Voters Tuesday night in Memorial Hall Library.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Help The Little League!

It's good to see Little League back in operation.

Not only is this activity a sure sign of spring, but it also is one of the finest activities that can be provided for the boys of this or any community.

Over the years since its inception, Little League has provided the best kind of training in team participation, sportsmanship and in the art of playing the game itself. Hundreds of youngsters have been included and scores of men have given their time freely.

Our hats are off to these adults. These are busy times and it is all too easy to beg off when someone asks for volunteers who will spend many nights and afternoons. The ones who answer the call certainly should receive both our heartfelt thanks and our continuing support.

This year, six teams will take to the field — an increase of two teams over last year. This has only been done through the untiring efforts of these volunteers, plus considerable cash, for uniforms and equipment. And again, the farm system will operate, giving many other boys a chance to play ball.

Wherever any of us can support this fine venture, we should be all too willing to lay aside other things and pitch in.

Let's put our collective shoulders to the wheel and make this a banner year — assuming responsibilities when needed and cheerfully doing some of the chores connected with any project of this type. Little League, after all, is an activity for boys and we should all sacrifice where we have to, to make it worthwhile for them.

Read The Manager Series

We hope you have taken the time to start the series of town manager articles now appearing in this newspaper.

The first was printed in last week's issue and the second appears today. Two more articles will follow.

Called "What You Should Know About the Manager Charter", the series is presented in the hope that it will answer many of your frequent queries about the plan and how it will operate. We have carefully gone through the charter itself to get all the details for you.

Perhaps nothing that has occurred here in many years reaches the same peak of importance as does this charter. For we will live by it and under it, starting next March. Thus a deep understanding of its provisions should be attained by every voter. It is for that reason we are printing the series.

If there are other questions about the charter, not apparently covered in the four-article series, we'll try to dig out the answers for you. Meanwhile, we again call this series to your attention, believing that it provides basic answers you must understand if the plan is to operate properly here.

Good Voter Participation

Now that town meeting has finished appropriating funds, we should stop to remark on the extent of voter participation this year.

Attendance has been remarkably good, compared to a year ago when under 800 voters went to the Saturday session.

This year's brand of participation beyond a doubt indicates increased interest in town government — and we hope this continues through the coming years until the crowd at town meeting becomes so large it won't be con-

Easter Egg Day

As in the past, the Littlest Listeners will be the first group to start off the Easter Egg tree in the Children's room of the Memorial Hall Library. The Cardinals will bring in their blown out eggs on Wednesday morning, Mar. 26, and will decorate the tree during their story hour. Adults and young people are invited to take part in this contest, which each year produces unusual and beautiful decorations and treatments of hollow eggs. There are three classes of entries: single eggs painted with a design or picture (no accessories); single eggs decorated with paints and other material, such as paper, cloth, feathers, etc.; family entries, in which each member of a family, adults and children decorate an egg which will form part of a unit, such as a string, a star, a circle or group of related characters. Each person may enter one egg in classes one or two, one egg in class 3 as part of a family entry. Different age groups will be judged, and prizes will be awarded at the Egg Tree Day program, Monday April 7, at 3:45 o'clock.

Film For Mothers

A short color film "Circus Baby" will be shown to mothers of the Cardinal group of Littlest Listeners at their next meeting. It is an iconographic film using the pictures and text by Maud and Miska Petersham's story about a circus elephant's futile effort to teach her baby some manners. This will be the same hour that the children have their meeting Wednesday Mar. 26, at 10 a.m.

Spring At The Library

National Library Week and the annual Spring Festival will be observed together at the Memorial Hall Library from Mar. 16-23. In addition to the book displays in the town's store windows, there will be dozens of spring publications on exhibit in the reading room of the library. Special exhibits will be arranged for businessmen and for those who read from the annual "Notable Books" lists.

The entire nation's school, press, library, broadcasting media, etc. take this week to remind the American people of the great privilege that is theirs... the right to read and the rewards of reading. As one author says: "Reading is the most personal, the most honest, the most rewarding occupation left to us."

The goal of National Library Week is a better-read, better-informed America.

Book lovers are urged to take an hour or two to see what their library is doing towards reaching this goal. Highlights of the week will include a story hour for the children, a book talk at Ballardvale on Thursday and a Travel Talk Friday evening.

Commendation For Major McLanathan

Major Frank L. McLanathan, chief of the Test Development Section at Mitchel Air Force Base, New York, has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Ribbon by Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas.

Major McLanathan, a native of Andover, developed a new proficiency test system which has been adopted by Air Force Headquarters and incorporated into the new Air Force Personnel Evaluation Program.

Secretary Douglas said the new system has improved the morale and confidence of the Airmen in the Air Force.

Major McLanathan entered the Army Air Corps in February, 1942, and was released from service in December, 1946. He was recalled to service in the Air Force in May, 1951.

NAVY PROMOTION

Word has recently been received by Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Stevens of Lowell st. that their son-in-law, B.C. Small, U.S. Naval Air Force, has recently been promoted to Lieutenant Commander. He is now stationed at Oak Harbor, Wash. and is attached to a Squadron of Jet Bombers.

The three articles calling for acre lots, all defeated, were followed by a unanimous vote to adopt the shopping center rules. The two areas approved for this purpose are on No. Main st., on the Golden Farm and in West Andover along Lowell st., where developers hope to put a shopping center on one side of the road and a motel-restaurant on the other side. Approved by the meeting was a request by the Selectmen for $10,500 to continue renovations in the town hall. This would be augmented by $5,892 already in hand from previous appropriations. Chestnut st. was rezoned along its southerly side at the request of the Andover Co-op, to allow expansion and parking for customers.

The meeting disapproved another request to change zoning laws, placed in the warrant by Karl Killorin. He sought to allow over-sized lots to be cut up, as long as the newly-created lot had as much area as the largest lot on the block and at least the same frontage as the smallest. George Graw of Locke st. carried the argument for the request. Atty. Fredric O'Brien of the Planning Board said he feared the change would create "confusion" in the law and the proposal subsequently was defeated.

Without dissent, the voters then approved spending $2,470 for state aided vocational education. The United Syrian Society was allowed to use land for a cemetery. Also voted was an article stating that the tax collector shall collect, under the title of town collector, all accounts due the town. This vote involved accepting the permissive statute. The committee named last year to study this problem also was continued. Given a continuance, as well, was the committee studying the town's by-laws.

The voters also accepted a statute allowing the town to do repair work, such as putting gravel on private ways. Releases from all property owners must be secured before this can be done, however. The sum of $736.63 was accepted, to be set aside for construction of tennis courts. And the voters approved carrying over many appropriations under last year's articles, at the request of Town Treasurer Anna Greeley.

Positions filled formerly by election now to be filled by appointment, in most cases by the manager with approval of the selectmen. Town meeting, open to all voters, is unchanged.

Manager's Duties

Now that we have seen how the elective system will work, we should consider the powers and duties of the manager — the man who will be responsible for the efficient management of policies set forth by the Board of Selectmen and of duties specified in the charter.

So next week, we will discuss this in detail, outlining the manager's job as it is set forth in the charter.

3 Women Entered Floral Exhibits

The Andover Garden Club was honored to have three members enter arrangements in the Boston Flower Show, where only the top arrangers of the state are invited to exhibit and the competition for awards is keen.

First prize was won by Mrs. Charles Hollis for her colorful composition in the Mineral Kingdom class. Mrs. Henry Van Zandt was awarded Honorable Mention for her arrangement, which was an interpretation inspired by a landscape water scene painting by Hibbard in the Cracker Barrel Bazaar class. Mrs. John Cecill Jr. entered the Woodcraft Class, using as accessories wooden candlesticks which her husband had carved.

The Junior Garden Club had an outstanding exhibit on the Anti-Litter-Bug Campaign, which won an award of Special Merit from the Massachusetts Federation of Garden Clubs. The five Junior Garden Clubs in the state which were exhibiting were awarded purple and gold ribbons by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society. Mrs. Ernest L. Wilkinson is the state chairman of Junior Garden Clubs and Andover Garden Club members working on the Boston exhibit were Mrs. John Cecill Jr., Mrs. Adeline M. Wright, counselor; Mrs. Henry Schereschewsky and Mrs. Leonard Lawrence.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman:
"Many people have seen fit to criticize our secondary schools, public or private, on the basis of teachers and curriculum. These are both very important issues, but the basic question to be asked is: Is the student mature enough to enter college?
"The student entering college today has an emotional as well as an academic adjustment to make. Our secondary schools prepare him academically, but they fail to prepare him for this completely new life. Although the college freshman is intelligent, and has had a good scholastic record throughout high school, he may, by virtue of an attack of homesickness, of some other emotional frenzy, be unable to study. I believe this has been proven by the number of freshmen who fail to attain academic honors. The honors list almost doubles by the sophomore year.
"Many people believe that students from private schools are better prepared to face this challenge, but this is not true. Just as many students from private schools as public schools are disqualified from college. The point is whether the preparation was adequate, not where it was obtained. The large number of students disqualified proves the immaturity of the student.
"This is a problem that must be solved, especially with the large influx of students into college. It will take cooperation among parents, teachers and guidance directors. Too many of our teenagers are ruining their lives because of this inadequacy in our secondary schools."

ASKS HELP IN STOPPING CHICKEN KILLINGS

The Police Department worried about dogs in West Andover, for fear they will worry and kill chickens being let out on the range.

After several incidents when dogs killed or chased chickens, Sgt. William Hickey, who also serves as a dog officer, has asked dog owners to take good care of their pets and keep them running loose. Particular attention should be given to spring-happy dogs getting into hen pens or into the enclosed ranges. Any owner is within his rights to shoot a dog bothering chickens, Hickey said. He asked for full cooperation from dog owners out the town to prevent less slaughter of chickens and also to help save lives of some dogs.
