Lifts Ban On Water Use

Water restrictions, imposed last summer during the drought, have been removed.

The Board of Public Works took action Monday night on recommendation of Water Supt. Donald Bassett. He reported that the pond is now running over slightly.

The Board made two exceptions to its action — the ruling that only 50 percent of new construction in sub-divisions may be serviced with water was retained; and the Board ruled that large air conditioning units should be allowed the use of water only if using a water tower.

The sub-division restriction was placed on the books early last year. It stipulates that water services may be put in for half the lots in a sub-division. The builder then has the right to request water for the remaining half at the end of an 18-month period.

The air conditioning restriction applies only to large commercial units, Board members stressed. They felt that commercial-

Relates Story Of Hospital Visit

Members of the Junior Red Cross, following in the footsteps of older Andoverites who "adopted" three small Belgian children at the Boston Children's Hospital, have twice visited the youngsters.

And they plan to see the surviving children at least once more before they leave for home.

Seven persons were sent to Boston from Belgium to have difficult heart surgery, all as a gift of Princess Lillian of Belgium. The Andover Chapter, American Red Cross, "adopted" some of the youngsters, donating blood that was badly needed during and after the operation.

Not to be outdone in generosity and kind heartedness, members of the High School Junior Chapter have done their bit towards making the children's post-operative stay a pleasant one.

Investigate Near-Tragedy At RR Station

NO TIME TO LOSE — The annual Easter Egg Hunt at the Playstead, held last Saturday, actually lasted less than a minute as ambitious youngsters scooped up the candy. (Leone)

A near-tragedy at the Essex st. railroad crossing is under investigation this week by Boston and Maine officials, following a report from the Andover Police Department.

Sgt. William R. Hickey made public the details of what could have been a serious accident, April 1, at 2:20 p.m., when a heavily-loaded gravel truck came within an inch of being struck by a passenger train. The crossing gates had not been lowered, Sgt. Hickey revealed.

The crossing tender, believing the train had gone through the station just before he came to work, was eating a sandwich in a nearby lunch room. Sgt. Hickey said he denied hearing the warning bell that is activated by an approaching train.

The truck driver, crossing tender, Sgt. Hickey and the owner of the truck conferred last week at

Explains Changed Curriculum Layout

Headmaster Lindsay J. March prepared the following description of changes undertaken this year in the methods of distributing information about curriculum choices and additional courses to be offered at the High School:

"Andover High School has printed its Program of Studies in a new form this year. The new leaflet combines information regarding courses of study with information on requirements and policies usually published in a handbook. Parents will find much material that should be helpful in understanding what is expected of their children.

"The subjects offered are grouped as a guide to pupils and their parents so that the requirements of all types of schools and colleges are readily apparent. Guidance counselors have customarily explained the proper subject groupings to pupils and their parents. The new printing is

Lions Club In Safety Program

Michael H. Krikorian, Highway Safety chairman for the Lions Club of Andover, announced today that one million leaflets, containing a safety message and a challenge, were mailed April 1 to all the schools in Massachusetts. The principals of every school in Andover will receive a packet of these original and unusual references to the problem of safety on the highways and streets of this community.

Mr. Krikorian also stated that the School Committee is completely co-operative in its desire to make conditions on the streets of Andover safer for our children, as well as for all other users, whether they are pedestrians, bicyclists, motorists or others.

The artistic and pictorial section of the leaflet depicts a dragon representing the traffic casualties of Massachusetts and a group of Lions in fighting pose, doing the scrapping on behalf of the Lions Clubs of Massachusetts, attacking the dragon. The awful toll of America's "Misguided Missile", the automobile, stands out as a monument to the reckless size units for office buildings, or the bank building, or the insurance buildings, should be run with a water tower.

Air conditioning units in individual stores will not be restricted, they said. Nor will home units be controlled.

While taking unanimous action to remove the restrictions, several Board members warned that they could be put back at any time the Board feels it is necessary.

Chairman Alex Henderson suggested residents use the water with care, remembering that care-free use and substantial depletion of the pond could mean a return of the restrictions.

Bassett told the Board he receives several phone calls daily asking about restrictions, as residents attempt to plan their spring work.

He was given permission to use his judgment about shutting down either of the wells now supplementing the Haggett's Pond water source. Bassett said he would let the Pond run over to some extent, before shutting down a well, so that the Pond would stay as full as possible into the late spring months.

the police station, before reporting the affair to the Railroad. Sgt. Hickey related the following set of circumstances, leading up to the accident:

The crossing tender, Frank Plummer, 25 Oxford st., Lawrence was eating in Rickey's Variety Store when the proprietor told him the warning bell was ringing. By the time he ran to the crossing, the train was nearly there. But then the gates wouldn't go down, Sgt. Hickey quoted Plummer as stating, Plummer believed the train had already gone through the crossing and the man he had relieved did not tell him it was late, the report stated.

Leo F. Flanagan of Lakeview ave., Tyngsboro, driver of a J.J. Cronin Co. dump truck, stopped at the crossing, as required by the company, the report continued. But when he had driven onto the tracks, the train was already bearing down on him. Sgt. Hickey said Flanagan was able to stop the truck and jam it into reverse, backing off slightly before the train went by.

"It missed by less than an inch", Sgt. Hickey stated.

"And when I talked to that driver, he was still shaking, thinking of what almost happened", Hickey continued. He said the attachment on the front of the truck for a snow plow came closest to being hit by the train, as it headed south for Boston.

Only the fact that the train was on the outside track, combined with the slow speed of the huge truck and the driver's ability to stop it, averted a bad accident, the report said. Sgt. Hickey commented that a collision between the two probably would have resulted in injury among train passengers, as well as mangling the truck and its occupant.

Timothy Cronin reported the event to Sgt. Hickey about 5:30 p.m. April 1. At the meeting later in the week, John Cronin, one of the firm's owners, also attended.

M. H. Livingston, trainmaster of the Portland Division, consulted with Sgt. Hickey Monday morning and said he would continue his investigation.

HOSPITAL VISIT

Describes Visits

Here's how Priscilla Reynolds, a senior at Andover High and member of the Junior Chapter, describes their visits:

"On March 11, 1958, Helen Ellis and I went to the Boston Children's Hospital with the blood donors in order to visit with the three youngest patients. Their ages were five, six and eight.

"One day earlier, the oldest man of the seven died. That Tuesday, one of the older boys was having his operation.

Had Some Laughs

"We entered the patients' empty room and waited while the children were brought to us. In the meantime, we had placed soft toys on each small bed, and some children's books on a chair. The two youngest girls entered the room. Neither could speak English, so they both just shook hands. Because we did not know what to do next, we stood motionless. Suddenly our uneasiness disappeared when the younger of the two walked to the chair, picked up every book, and threw them on her bed.

"Although we were not proficient at our high school French, we tried to talk with them. The younger, Marlene, kept repeating 'Read me this story. Read me this story.' I did so, but in English. The short recitation was followed quickly by a very disinterested and mimicking sound which told us that it was very unintelligible to her.

"We had a struggle understanding one another, but we had laughs together. Most rewarding however, was the small hand placed in mine as we walked down the hall and said 'au revoir' - an 'au revoir' we never dreamed would really mean good-by.

"The next day Marlene was operated on, and the day after that, Marlene died. The small hand I held, the laughs we shared, these realities had disappeared over night. The 'au revoir' we said on Tuesday was a reality on Thursday.

"I was never more proud than to have had this opportunity to share a common friendship when needed most, especially after we had learned that her father had said to his wife, before the two departed from him: 'I am very worried about her, be sure and bring her back to me'.

Now In Hotel

"Since our last visit to the Children's Hospital, all of the patients have been operated on and all are in the process of recovery. Saturday, April 5, 1958, Pat Murnane, Kathy Nelligan, Linda Johanson, Miss Barbara Loomer, executive secretary of the Red Cross, and I again went to Boston to visit with the two youngest children before they return home. One is a boy of five, the other a girl of eight.

"Since it was the day before Easter, we took with us presents of soft toys and books written in their native tongue, French. This particular afternoon the children were in their hotel room under the care of the younger boy's mother. It was to our disadvantage that we could not speak French, as we could not then again tell her how happy we were to see the children and see also their fine improvement since the operation. By use of our high school French we tried to carry on a conversation with the woman and in doing so she told us of the children's progress.

"Each day they have a schedule to follow. Approximately two weeks ago they were under hospital care; approximately one week ago they were discharged to a convalescent home and since have been discharged and are living in a hotel in Boston. It is probable that in two weeks they will return home. Each day they are allowed to walk a certain distance from the hotel and at other times are allowed to play freely.

"Upon arriving at the hotel we had difficulty in making the person in charge of the children understand that we wished to see them. The children had been sleeping, but when we entered the room they awoke. We gave them the presents, which brought a tear to the eye of the mother. We were happy we could do this much for them.

"For the next few minutes, we played with the children and talked with the woman - enjoying it so much ourselves.

"Before leaving, two of the girls secured the children's addresses in order that they may never lose what they have gained from this international experience."

Will Build Road Into Project

The Board of Public Works has agreed to cut a new road into the property on which a housing project for the elderly will be constructed.

Members of the Housing Authority appeared before the Board Monday night to go over plans for the project.

A 36-unit project will be constructed near Memorial cir., the veterans housing project. Chairman George Noury, members Roy Russell and Thomas Eldred and Ernest Hall, the Authority's executive director, met with the board.

They asked that a service road from Chestnut st. be extended across the brook and some 250 feet into the project area.

Members of the Authority told the BPW that although 36 units have been requested, the state is talking about allocating funds for 40 units here. A maximum of two persons will live in each unit, with the result that not over 80 persons would be living in the 40-unit project.

The BPW agreed to do the work from funds in a playstead improvement appropriation. A baseball diamond on adjoining property will also be constructed from this appropriation, the Board said. The Housing Authority also revealed that Clinton Goodwin of Haverhill has been retained as the architect for the housing project.

Projects Underway For Science Fair

SCIENCE FAIR EXHIBITS - These are two of the many projects under preparation for judging at the Science Fair of Andover High School April 23. All exhibits will be set up in the science wing of the building for public viewing in the evening.

At left, Robert Bleicher, a member of the sophomore class, is preparing a project on the effect of low temperatures on the metabolism of animals. He had devised an instrument that measures the amount of oxygen an animal will inspire in a given period of time. With this information, he will be able to show that, as the temperature of the body is lowered, the need for oxygen decreases. It is the establishment of this fact that has led to wonderful advances in heart surgery in the last few years.

Patricia Adams, a junior, is at work on a cancer project. Cancer-like growths are induced by treating these tomato plants with various irritants. The project involves a study of the manner in which growths can be induced on stems and leaves and the reaction of the plant to them.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Rule Could Prevent Tragedy

The story of a near-disaster appears in this week's news columns - a disaster that only luck averted, but which could have been avoided by common sense.

According to Sgt. William R. Hickey, the Railroad has no rule that requires a crossing tender to tell his relief about any unfinished business - a train that is late, for example. And thus the new tender can't possibly know that, despite his timetable, a train will proceed through the crossing at an unexpected time.

If this information was passed on from man to man, there would be no need for narrow escapes and near-accidents.

Adoption of such a rule certainly appears sensible. It's time for the Railroad to act, so that similar events can not be repeated and result, next time, in real tragedy.

Must Welcome Industry

The importance of thriving industry to any community can not be minimized.

And this is particularly true of Andover, in a period of soaring municipal expenditures, when the real estate taxpayer begins to doubt his ability to continue carrying the load. For industry that is growing steadily will pay a substantial tax bill, helping in some measure to relieve the homeowner.

Not, we hasten to add, that this is the only reason for welcoming industry.

A very specific reason, other than probable tax payments, is the payroll dollar from any sizeable plant.

The statement last week by Raytheon officials to the effect that one million dollars monthly is being paid employees of the Shawsheen plant is a case in point. Workers at Raytheon spend their money for all the usual necessities and for some of the luxuries. It would indeed be interesting to know through how many hands their individual dollars travel - how many local and area business establishments benefit directly.

We suspect many Andover retail establishments, if Raytheon payroll money could be identified as such, would find they received a substantial portion of that money. Particularly in a time when the air is full of talk about recession and depression, the continued spending of this payroll money is important.

All this general discussion leads up to one point - this town needs its industry. And we could benefit substantially from additional firms locating here.

Possibly the proposed cooperative development commission will help attract more industry to the area and to Andover itself. This is a wait-and-see proposition, however, because there are thousands of feet of red tape to be untangled before that commission can become active.

In the meantime, we can do something to help ourselves. We can make up our minds to extend a warm welcome to industry when it comes - and we can pledge our cooperation to all existing industries in the town.

This is no time for harassment, for arguing over trivialities or even some of the more important mutual problems.

This is a time for friendship and appreciation on both sides - because we need the industry just as much as it needs us. In addition to Raytheon, there are a substantial number of firms in Andover, whose welfare is important to us all.

This is a good time for all of us to pledge our cooperation with these firms and to abandon any methods of approach about mutual problems that would tend to discourage their continued growth and productivity in our community.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago - April, 1908

A valuable horse, owned by A. Basso, the fruit dealer, died Monday after a short sickness.

One-hundred and fifty young men of St. Augustine's Parish organized a Holy Name Society last evening. With such a fine start the new organization is sure to prove a success. John H. McDonald was named president; J. Daly, secretary; and P. J. Barrett, treasurer.

Two burglaries were reported to police this morning. The first was at the home of Percival Dove on Abbot st., where a window on the lower floor was pried open. Mrs. Dove heard the burglars and her screams drove them off without any loot. They then entered the home of Warren K. Moorehead, but he fired two shots at them and, again, the burglars took nothing.

The first of the Punched Alumni dances was held in Punched Hall last Friday evening.

25 Years Ago - April, 1933

The Orange Barrel Plan will be used again this year to help the needy residents of the town. Most groceries and drug stores will prominently display a bright orange barrel, into which shoppers are urged to place some small contribution of food. The town welfare agent will distribute these gifts to those most in need. The plan worked well last year and it is hoped the public will respond fully this year, when the need is as great as ever.

Punched's four most recent classes held a joint reunion in Punched Hall Saturday night.

A new soccer club was formed here during a meeting of all men interested in this sport. Edwin Anderson is president and manager. Funds will be raised for equipment.

The town has borrowed $50,000 from a Boston Bank. During March, the library issued 7807 books for home use, the greatest number ever issued in a single month.

10 Years Ago - April, 1948

For the second time in a month, the Elm Street Service Station was broken into last night. Unlike the first break, when $80 was taken, the thief only took some small change in his latest visit. Entry was gained through a rear window.

Eighty-six new voters were added to the list of registered voters eligible to take part in the presidential primaries April 25.

An ice truck, its driver making a delivery inside a local restaurant, rolled across the Square Wednesday morning and wound up against a light standard at the corner of Essex and Main sts. The standard broke off and emergency repairs were made and the standard will be replaced tomorrow.

Movies For All Young People

Ballardvale boys and girls will have their usual story and movie hour on Monday afternoon, April 14 at 4 o'clock in the branch library. In addition to the stories which Miss Lane will tell, these films will be shown: "Stone Soup", "The Wood Thrush" and "Kangaroo". Bird lovers will want to see the "Wood Thrush", a short color film, and all boys and girls will remember the story of "Stone Soup", a favorite legend of the hungry soldiers who persuaded, through trickery, the people of a French village to supply them with a fine dinner.

Andover young people will have the same program the following day at the Memorial Hall Library, Tuesday, April 15, at 3:35 o'clock.

No tickets are required and all are cordially invited.

Library Closed Holiday

The Memorial Hall Library will be closed Saturday, April 19. Books may be left in the door slot.

Films Available at the Library

The following films will be on hand at the Memorial Hall Library for the dates indicated. Groups wishing to make use of films should reserve as early as possible. Until April 19, there will be "Medieval Crusades", a 27 minute color film that recreates the events that lead to the Crusades, following the fate of one noble family and their manor through the first crusade and reviewing the influence of this period on life in Europe. For the same dates, "Stone Soup", 11 minutes, in color, will delight old and young as it tells the tale of the clever soldiers who wangle a fine meal from unsuspecting French villagers, from April 14-26, "People Of Canada", 20 minutes, views of Toronto, Calgary, Canadian Rockies and Vancouver, and a study of the many nationalities which have contributed to the development of the country and have made a new life together in spite of different cultural, social and political backgrounds. Also from April 14-26, "The Wood Thrush." This 10 minute color film depicts the life of the wood thrush in its natural habitat, and stresses the rearing of young birds. "Color In Clay", another 10 minute color film will be available from April 28 to May 10. It shows a modern plant making Staffordshire pottery.

New Garden Books

Gardeners who visited the library during Garden Book Week found several new publications there, in addition to the dozens of less new but proven good books on the growing of plants and trees, all on display throughout the week.

There was the outstanding third edition of Louise Bush-Brown's "America's Garden Book" larger and lovelier than ever before, touching on modern garden principles and problems, and taking into consideration the small property and informal living of today. There was "The Azalea Book", fully illustrated, naming the best varieties of both deciduous and evergreen plants. This is by Frederic P. Lee, sponsored by the American Horticultural Society.

"Evergreen And Flowering Shrubs" by Katharine Cloud will attract new home owners, with its 90 photographs of landscaped homes. The flower growers will delight in the "Sunset Ideas For Color In Your Garden", and the "Book Of Cacti And Other Succulents", by Claude Chidamian. Amateur gardeners will make good use of Alfred Hottes' "1001 Garden Questions Answered" while the specialists will want Mrs. Raymond Stoltz' "Flower Show Ribbon-Winning Arrangements".

For house plant hobbyists, there are "African Violets, Gloxinias and Their Relatives" by H. E. Moore, and "Complete Book Of House Plants", by Andree Vilas Grabe.

New Book Lists

Those who were unable to visit the library when the new spring books were on display may have copies of the list, as incorporated in the April New Book Sampler, now available at the library.

HOMEMAKERS WILL MEET APRIL 18

The Suburban Homemakers group will meet April 18 at the home of Mrs. George Barleon on Linwood st.

This project is being undertaken by the group in observance of Work Day For Christ. The total earnings from the day's work will be given to the Christian World Mission. Members of the Fellowship who have regular Saturday jobs and can not participate in the car wash will donate their day's wages to this cause.

While their cars are being washed, drivers may be served coffee and donuts in Fellowship Hall. The "Coffee Corner" will be operated by Abbie-Jane Poore and Gail Grange. The entire project is under the direction of Robert F. Golpitts, chairman of Christian Action. In the event of rain the car wash will be held the following Saturday, April 19.

Suggests Plan To Grow Better Trees

A policy of planting town trees back from the sidewalk, on private land, is being considered by the Board of Public Works.

Tree Department Foreman Philip Busby suggested the move, explaining that it would get trees out from under overhead wires. As it stands now, trees get to the height of 20 feet, then have to be pruned under and around wires, hurting the tree's growth and looks.

Under consideration is a plan that would require obtaining releases from property owners allowing the town to plant, maintain or remove trees in a specified section near the property line.

Cubs Displayed Handicraft

Cub Pack 76 of Ballardvale held its monthly meeting last Monday evening in the Community Room, with the parents as guests. Cubmaster Ellsworth Spencer presided during the meeting and Lion badges were awarded to Charles Jacobson, George Bentley and Henry Wrigley. Robert Hall and Allan Mattheson received their Wolf badges. Gordon Castor received two silver arrows and Bruce Spencer received a Gold arrow.

The highlight of the meeting was the exhibition of handicraft work done by the boys since joining the pack. This included scrapbooks, log books, various collections including coins and stamps. There were also models, Indian head dress and beads.

An amusing relay race was held when two groups of cubs competed in a dressing and undressing contest.

Den one had charge of the opening exercises and served refreshments. "Keeping America Beautiful" is the theme for the month of April.

LEAVES MONEY TO ADVENTIST CONFERENCE

Southern New England Conference of the Seventh Day Adventists at So. Lancaster is to share in the Estate of Mrs. Emily C. Herson of Andover, according to her will, which has been recorded in the Registry of Probate in Salem.

Mrs. Herson, a widow, who died March 17, drew up the testament Oct. 3, 1955, and signed a codicil last May 2. She nominated Atty. Walter C. Tomlinson of Andover as the executor. No estimate of the value of her estate was listed.

After leaving $500 to the Adventist conference, she bequeathed $1400 to Mrs. Clarabell Cahill of Andover, the daughter of a half-sister; $1000 to Mrs. Addie Farnsworth, a sister-in-law; $400 to James Cahill of Andover and $200 apiece to a friend, Olive Williams; a nephew, Norman Dulton of Compton, Cal.; and Beatrice Herson Baer of Seattle, Wash.

A tenth of the residue of the property was awarded to the Adventist conference, while shares of three-tenths each were devised to another nephew, Lawrence Holdsworth of Lawrence; to Mrs. Clarabell Cahill, and to the children of a brother-in-law Charles Herson.

The probate petition listed the heirs-at-law as a half-sister, Mrs. Ada Mason of Andover; a half-brother, John Mitchell of Lawrence; and four nephews, Norman Dulton, Lawrence Holdsworth, and George F. Dulton and Charles H. Dulton, both of Andover.

of James J. Gordon, 40, 5 Celia st., as his car hurtled off Canal st. into the North Canal.

A companion, William R. McCarthy, 23, 44 Magnolia st., escaped and swam ashore after attempting to rescue Mr. Gordon. He was taken to Lawrence General Hospital for treatment of shock and exposure.

A Navy chief, Ollie McCormack, recovered the body. He is on temporary duty in Lawrence as a diver, searching for the body of a man drowned in the river last week. McCormack administered artificial respiration without success and Gordon was pronounced dead on arrival at the Lawrence General Hospital. The Rev. Eugene P. McNamara, curate of St. Patrick's Church in Lawrence, administered the last rites of the Catholic Church.

Police said the Gordon car was heading easterly on Canal st. and quoted McCarthy as stating that Gordon yelled "watch out" just before the car swerved through a protective fence and fell into the canal. A Fire Department order resulted in lowering the level of the Canal from 38 feet to 25 feet, when a crane was called into service to pull the car half way out of the water. McCormack then retrieved the body.

McCarthy told police that his efforts to save the victim were fruitless because of water pressure that kept the car door shut tight. The door on his side of the car opened and allowed him to escape.

Native of Lawrence

Mr. Gordon, whose wife, the former Louise O'Leary, is a substitute teacher in Methuen and Andover schools, is a native of Lawrence. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon of that city. He graduated from St. Patrick's grammar school and Lawrence High School, class of 1938 and later graduated from Lowell Technological School. ### FRANCIS E. STEINERT

"Saturday Andover lost one of its most promising young men. Francis Steinert was a quiet worker but his good judgment and integrity were admired by all who associated with him.

"His training made him a valuable member of our School Building Committee. His community activities will be missed by all.

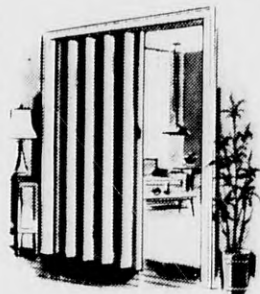

"He was a devoted husband, father and son, giving to his family his own high ideals and sharing with them his all-too-limited leisure time.

"The work Frank did in his comparatively short life will not be forgotten and will be carried on in the same generous spirit."

SET RATE FOR WATER INSTALLATIONS

The town will charge a flat labor rate of $2 per hour per man for installing water services from the mains to house meters. A $3 overtime rate was also established.

Some months ago the BPW agreed that the town should install water services, charging a fair rate for labor and equipment. Materials are also paid for by the homeowner.

Rather than charge the exact rate per man, as specified under the new wage by-law, the flat rate was established by the Board at its Monday night meeting.

The United Church Women of Andover will sponsor the Academy Award winning film "Albert Schweitzer", to be shown at the Andover Playhouse Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 15-17.

The film will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. on each of these days and there will be a matinee Wednesday at 1:45 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from representatives of the United Church Women in each of the neighborhood churches or by contacting Mrs. Hugh B. Penney or Mrs. David L. Darling.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer, who appears throughout the feature-length film biography is a legend in his own lifetime. He has achieved world renown as a missionary, philosopher, theologian, physician, biographer, organist and above all as a man who has devoted his life to "the direct service of mankind". In recognition of his unique achievements, he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1952. Dr. Schweitzer served as unofficial technical adviser to producer-director Jerome Hill and also wrote the commentary, which is spoken by Fredric March. Guaranteed authentic down to the last detail. "Albert Schweitzer" was five years in the making. Photographer Erica Anderson made six separate location jaunts to the Schweitzer hospital at Lambarene, French Equatorial Africa to film the jungle scenes which provide one of the highlights of the film. Producer-director Jerome Hill spent several summers directing and recording Dr. Schweitzer in his native Gunsbach, France.

Burgess Meredith recorded the narration for the film and Alec Wilder composed the original musical score which is conducted by Leon Barzin. There are no professional actors in the film. To portray himself as a young boy, Dr. Schweitzer selected his grandson who looks exactly like his own early photographs. Likewise, Schweitzer's sister portrays their mother, to whom she bears a close resemblance. Highlights of this unique film include Dr. Schweitzer's typical day at Lambarene and a sequence in which he plays a Bach prelude on the Gunsbach church organ.
