5,106 In School Here By Middle Of September

By mid-September, an estimated 5,106 youngsters will be attending public and private schools in Andover.

A survey conducted this week among all the schools indicates increased enrollments in all but two.

St. Augustine's parochial school will start the year Sept. 8 with 540 youngsters. The enrollment is about 25 higher than 1957.

Sacred Heart School in Shawsheen will begin its sessions Sept. 8, with boarding students arriving Sept. 7. Already enrolled are 150 boarding students and 50 day students, for a total of 200. This is about the same number of students as last year. Phillips Academy will begin sessions Sept. 15, with 780 boys in attendance, Last year's total was 759, indicating an increase of at least 21.

Abbot Academy, opening Sept. 16, will have 224 girls enrolled - the same as last year.

Pike School, starting its classes for kindergarten through fifth grade Sept. 10 and for upper grades a day later, has an enrollment of 206, as of Monday. This is an increase of six students.

Public school enrollment stands at 3,162, the highest in the history of the town.

Officials at all schools emphasized this week that some additional students may be enrolled before opening day.

when he takes facts and trans-mutes them. Deming (Dr. Shipman?) called it a "stiff-necked, brimstone little town". The scope of the book is limited; The scope of the book is finited, the author paints on a very small canvas. It is the story of Mark Deming, newly appointed minister of the 'North' Church, who really believed that people could be lead to live a better life. He was a saintly man and the people were not ready for him. When he seemed to spend too much time on the town's "outcasts", people were to spend too much time on the town's "outcasts", people were tolerant at first; they said it was because of his youth and inex-perience and that he would learn better as he grew older. When, however, he shared with them an account of a vision, a kind of turning point in his life, events moved rapidly. People in 19th century Wendover just did not see visions. The climax of the story comes when several of his parish-ioners rise to his defense.

The love story is the subordi-nate theme but none the less charming that it is briefly told. The author has drawn Mary Chatfield (Mary Ripley?) with loving care. She saw what Mark Deming was attempting to do; she was drawn almost unwilling to this unworldly young man. Is Mrs. Mian a little hard on

Is Mrs. Mhan a little hard on most of her characters? How far do they represent real people? In some ways the picture that she has drawn seems to have been painted too much in blacks and whites; surely there were gray tones, too, in this 19th century tones, community.

It seems a little odd that in a community of this type - Wend-over, too, had a "Fem-Sem" and a theological seminary - that there should not have been more made in the noval of the intellectual life of the town. Possibly the author would consider this criti-cism unjustified by the limitations she herself has placed on the scope of her hook.

She writes with caustic wit and pleasant humor and delineates her characters with sure touches ner cnaracters with sure touches so that they become real people, if, indeed, they are not drawn from actual people. Mrs. Mian writes well, her figures of speech are well-turned; her she is economical with words unlike one of her characters, Dr. Barker, the "blathering" clergy-man who "would not let a good word stand on its own, but sent them out in squads". This is a small point; yet this reader felt a bit of irritation at the reader left a bit of irritation at the author's use, rather condescend-ingly, of two colloquialisms, seemingly uncalled for - Scot-land "Deestrict" and Memorial Day "percesshun". Here the author definitely obtrudes and makes indoments makes judgments. Whatever Andover readers may Whatever Andover readers may feel about the book, no one will disagree with Mrs. Chatfield's statement that "Wendover in June was perfection hovering close to earth".

Was perfection hovering close to earth". It will be interesting to see what readers outside of Andover and New England will feel about the book; their appraisal will be both fairer and more objective. Would the book have been more successful if Mrs. Mian had developed it as a series of bio-graphical sketches, essays or reminiscenses? It if it were to be a novel, this reader feels that Mrs. Mian should have taken her material and more completely a Mrs. material and more completely

It is safe to assume that the book will find readers — many of them in Andover!

Have A Safe Weekend

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

The last major holiday of the summer season - Labor Day - appears destined to be one of the most expensive, in terms of human lives, that the nation has known.

All predictions are gloomy - forecasting hundreds of deaths resulting from automobile accidents primarily.

The weekend exodus starts tomorrow. How many of you will be a statistic by the holiday's end?

We hope none - but if our wishes are fulfilled, it will be the result of your careful driving, your attention to and full concentration on highway safety. There is so little to be said on this subject anymore. After all the warnings and instructions from national, state and local safety agencies before and during other major holiday weekends, the statistics indicate that too few paid attention. The death rate from auto accidents just keeps climbing.

Let's bear in mind, as we start out for an enjoyable weekend, that everyone else on the highway has the same objective. No one deliberately looks for accidents and death - thus it is as much your responsibility as anyone else's to drive carefully, to keep this a happy weekend instead of one that ends in tragedy.

Watch The Blanks

The September 9 Primary will be interesting, in large part, on the basis of the blanks counted against the names of major office-holders.

Apart from two contests, attorney general and state treasurer in the Democratic primary, all state officers are unopposed. And they will get substantial complimentary votes from the party faithful who go to the polls.

But always, when there is no opposition, it is possible to get an indication of voter sentiment from the number of blanks. We recall the year that Governor Dever, running unopposed in the primary, found himself in real political hot water. Thousands of blanks were counted, where voters of his own party would not cast even a complimentary ballot. The election in November proved the accuracy of the primary indication - he lost.

Thus we may get some indication of the voters' feelings when the ballots are counted the night of Sept. 9.

Other than this, however, there is little interest in the primary itself. There are a few local and county contests that have excited enthusiasm among the candidates' friends. But without any dramatic contest on the state or national level, it appears that the vote will be light.

We wish it were possible to predict otherwise - for voting in a primary is a responsibility we should not shrug off. Over the years, however, by far the majority of our citizens have been content to let someone else pick the candidates, occasionally to their everlasting regret come November. We daresay it will be the same this year.

Need More Tax Dollars

Evidence of the real cost of education - including the building program in addition to normal year-to-year expenses - was given recently when the Assessors announced the tax rate.

Of the total $26, $15.04 resulted from school expenditures. This is approximately 58 percent of the total tax dollars.

Everyone should realize that a large portion of this belongs in the bonded indebtedness category - payments on the High School and South School in particular.

Even so - without disputing for a minute the need for these structures - isn't it obvious that educational requirements are becoming our number one expense? And shouldn't we logically look forward to expanding educational costs, as the town grows?

How, many persons will ask, can the taxpayers hope to keep up with this expansion? What happens if, next year, the percentage is even higher, with more dollars going towards education than is the case in 1958?

This certainly is a weighty question. But there is one possible answer - broaden the tax base. Instead of depending on the homeowner for most of our tax dollars, let's add some industrial tax dollars.

It appears to be a good time for our municipal Industrial and Development Commission to make a major push towards attracting light industry. There are many advantages to the town from having new industry locate here and there are certainly many favorable reasons why the industry should come.

This would be a good year to see some progress in developing the industrial areas set aside for the purpose.

The officer stated that queries with Salisbury police brought the information that the boy's home is in Salisbury. However, the defendant, who appealed the findings and the fine, said that he has been living with a friend named Cameron farther down the same street in Seabrook, N. H. This was verified by the defendant's father, who said his son was living in New York and since May has been living in Seabrook. On his appeal, the registration complaint was taken from the file and he was fined $10. Surety of $100 was supplied for his appear-ance in Superior court.

Wants Water Bills Paid Rhoads Heads In Collector's Office

collection of all money owed the town has recommended that water bills, amounting to some $115,000 annually, be collected by the tax collector.

In a report to the Selectmen, the committee also suggested coordination of the town clerical coordination of the town clerical force, following the appointment of a town manager. This step would probably not eliminate any personnel, but might avoid the necessity of hiring additional help, the report said. Also recommended during 1959 is the collection of mean new

$20,000 yearly is collected by that department, the report stated. Office Location A joint meeting early this week, involving the Selectmen, members of the study committee, Tax Collector James Christie and BPW Chairman Alex Henderson, studied the problem of collecting water bills by the tax collector. Among many factors, the need for additional office space by the collector, plus additional clerical help, were brought out. The committee's report had suggested that an employee of the water department might be trans-ferred to the collector, with sub-sequent employment of a part-time clerk for the BPW. BPW's Viewpoint Mr. Henderson told his Board Monday night that the tax collec-tor could not simply collect the money. Rather, he said the BPW would have to "commit" the bills to the collector, as is done by other departments. This would necessitate doing the bookkeeping and clerical work in the BPW and clerical work in the BPW offices, Henderson stated. offices, Henderson stated. It was also brought out that a re-alignment of office space would be necessary. This involves, it is explained, the proposed renova-tions on the second floor of the town hall, which would provide added space for town boards. The collector presently occupies one office on the street level, with sufficient space for the collector and a clerk. and a clerk.

and a clerk. Asked Few Questions Water Department Supt. Donald Bassett told the Board that a re-presentative of the study com-mittee had visited the office for about 10 minutes and asked very few questions. "He knew what he wanted to do before he came", Bassett stated. Bassett stated. The Board took no action on the

The Board took no action on the proposal, pending solution of the space problems for the collector. The official study committee includes C. B. Whiteside, chair-man; E. F. Rohmer, secretary; Harry Axelrod, John E. Gilcreast and William W. Rhoads. Their report to the Selectmen reads:

Their report to the Selectmen reads: "The Committee appointed by you to continue the study to effect the By-Law adopted by the March 1958 town meeting, which approved the acceptance of Chapter 41, Section 38a of the General Laws, whereby the col-lector of taxes shall collect, under the title of town collector, all accounts due the town from all sources, submit the following re-commendations: "As a first step to be taken as soon as possible, all water bills now collected by the Board of Public Works on the second floor

The official committee to study | should be transferred to the town should be transferred to the town collector on the first floor. The amount involved is some $115,000 per year. This will necessitate providing additional space for the town collector, and one clerk might well be transferred from the office of the Board of Public Works to the town collector's office. This might require one part time clerk for the Board of Public Works office, possibly from some other office in the town house.

house. "In effecting this change, there "In effecting this change, there should be close cooperation be-tween the town collector and the town treasurer to see that all money is handled in accordance with the duties of the treasurer as it is the latter's responsibility 'to receive and take charge of all money belonging to the town'. We also understand that any changes in procedure should first be approved by the State Bureau of Accounts. This should not be difficult as at least one town in of Accounts. This should not be difficult as at least one town in this area now has a very well co-ordinated system of collections. In fact, that town proposes to con-solidate the offices of town collector and town treasurer, effecting a saving in administra-tion of some $7,500 per year. We believe they also plan the further co-ordination of clercial forces by removal of partitions in their town hall.

by removal of partitions in their town hall. "It is our considered judgment that succeeding steps should be taken, after you have determined a definite plan for the relocation of town offices. Also, when appointed in 1959, the town manager will require office space and clerical assistance. At that time, consideration should be given to co-ordinating the clerical forces of all departments, not necessarily eliminating clerical personnel but avoiding the neces-sity of employing additional force.

sity of employing additional force. "The further steps to be taken in 1959 should include the col-lection of monies due the town by the following: town clerk, police department, fire department, health department, sealer of weights and measures and wire inspector. The School Department seems to be satisfactory but might be reviewed in 1959 - amount involved some $20,000 per year.
