Third Fatal Accident

A 25-year-old Raytheon employee, who had lived in town only since last Sunday, was killed early Tuesday morning in the town's third automobile fatality of the year.

John Bolman, whose address was listed as State Boulevard, Seabrook Beach, N. H., had moved to 213 Salem st. last Sunday.

Shortly after 1 a.m. Tuesday, his foreign-make convertible flipped over on Salem st., as he travelled in a southerly direction.

Charles E. Souter, 216 Salem st., saw the wreck and found Bolman under the car. He summoned Police Sgt. James R. Lynch, who lives nearby. Assisting Souter and Sgt. Lynch were Officers Calvin Deyermond and Hector Pattullo. Sgt. Inspector Robert Deyermond was at the scene, as was Officer Richard Caldwell.

George E. Hancock, a Registry of Motor Vehicles inspector, was

Few Vote In State Primary

A slim 27 percent of Andover's registered voters turned out at the primary Tuesday, with 1,846 Republicans and 552 Democrats casting ballots.

Top choice among Republican voters was Christian Herter Jr., unopposed for nomination as attorney general. He polled 1,731 votes. Democrats like Senator John F. Kennedy, giving him 500 votes, the highest accorded any of the Democratic candidates.

Republican here gave their endorsement to Sticker Candidate Charles Gibbons of Stoneham, for governor, with a total of 1,343 ballots.

In local contests, Arthur Williams led the Republican field in the Fifth Essex District, polling 1,386 votes. Rep. Frank S. Giles of Methuen took second spot here, with 1,194; Rep. William Longworth of Methuen was third, with 1,042. Mason Arnold, making his first bid for state office, received 931 votes here and Philip Sutcliffe of No. Andover polled 312. The District vote showed Giles, Longworth and Williams re-nominated, in that order.

John Adams of Stratford rd. easily led a field of four in the Republican contest for the state Senate. He received 1,094 votes, better than 2-1 over his opponents. The tabulation of this vote appears elsewhere in this issue.

All town precincts had reported by 8:05 Tuesday night, with Town Clerk George Winslow reading out the returns, which was completed by 8:35. Results of Andover voting for all offices appears in tabular form in this issue, plus the tabulation of votes in the Fifth Essex Representative district.

Call Hearing On Tree Removals

A public hearing on tree removals for the second step of the Merrimack-Essex Electric Company's power line installation will be held next Monday night at 8 in the Board of Public Works office.

A letter to the Board itemized the following removals:

South side of Dascomb rd., 26; Andover st., 12; and Ballardvale rd. 16.

Other trees in these streets will require trimming to provide adequate clearance, the company reported.

The Dascomb rd. section was first considered some time ago, when residents on the opposite side of the street objected to the removals. The letter said no agreement could be reached with the property owners, thus the line

A 142-unit garden apartment project is being planned on a site at the corner of High and Haverhill sts., with construction planned for early fall.

Samuel Z. Rosen, developer and owner of luxury-type apartments in Brookline, announced plans for the construction here, which evidently will go well over the million dollar mark in construction costs.

The Planning Board, Assessors and other interested town officials will meet with Mr. Rosen next Monday night in the Planning Board office to discuss the project. Specific questions on the need for garden apartments here, the type of construction and the general development plans will be answered at that time.

The Planning Board spent much of its meeting time Tuesday night on proposed rules and regulations governing such an area - and discussed the possibility of zoning the site at the special town meeting Oct. 6.

The Board's consultant had drawn up a set of regulations for that type of area, plus a set for shopping center areas and one for motel areas. The Board had talked about presenting these three sets of regulations, plus a by-law amendment covering the establishment of special zones, at the special session. It is also under-

No official statement has been received from the state fire marshal regarding the cause of the fire at the Frank Kiernan home on West Knoll rd. Aug. 30.

Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton said Tuesday that some word should be received shortly, following the marshal's investigation. Further information had been furnished to the marshal, since his visit here shortly after the fire.

United Fund Furnished Facts

At a meeting held earlier this week of the Andover United Fund Special Gifts Division, Nina E. Scarito, M. D., president of the United Fund of Greater Lawrence, Inc., armed the solicitors with the following facts:

That the Andover Red Cross is now receiving 24 percent more funds under the United Fund banner than was grossed in their last independent campaign; and that the community of Andover, through the United Fund's meeting financial national district quotas set for towns, eliminated two emergency campaigns.

That the Visiting Nurse Association of Andover now receives 35 percent more funds under the United Fund banner than they grossed under their last individual

Nursery School Starts Sept. 22

Mrs. Hugh Morse, recently elected as president, has announced Monday, Sept. 22, as the opening date for the cooperative nursery school at the Free Christian Church.

Opening for the first time this fall, the school, which is non-sectarian, is a new educational venture in Andover. In a "co-op" school, parents as well as children learn through a program of parent education and by serving as administrators and teacher-assistants.

This week finds participating parents putting the finishing touches on indoor and outdoor equipment. Last Saturday, entire families joined the teacher, Mrs. Thayer Washburn, 16 Carisbrook st., in the church parking lot for a morning of fun and work. Fence post holes were dug and trips to the town dump carried off debris from the well-cleaned play yard, while the younger set thoroughly enjoyed the messy fun of painting boxes for colorful block and toy shelves.

Other officers and committee heads named at last week's meeting of parents of enrolled children were the following: Mrs. William Stephenson, 9 Beech cir., secretary; Mrs. Raymond Durham, 17 Kenilworth st., treasurer; Mrs. Norma Viehmann, 62 Walnut ave., equipment; Mr. Hugh Morse, 70 Salem st., finance; Mrs. William Washburn, 47 School st., enrollment; Mrs. June Knowles, 14 Foster cir., Mothers' schedule and telephone; Mrs. Horace Seldon, 14 High st., publicity and education; Mrs. Norman Potter of Porter rd., transportation and trips.

A limited number of openings in the enrollment of the Free Church Co-op Pre-School still exist. Interested persons may contact Mrs. Morse or Mrs. Seldon.

3 Proposals On Aerial Ladder

Engineers from the firm making aerial ladders have proposed three steps - costing anywhere from $2500 to $12,000 - to provide the town with an aerial ladder.

Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton, in a letter to the Selectmen, outlined these possibilities:

Replace entire mechanism with latest model of ladder, of greater strength and with improved hydraulic system - $12,000;

Replace ladder with one of same design, which must be specially-built as these models are no longer being constructed - $4,900 plus labor and $120 for installation;

Replace base section and use remaining two sections of present ladder, which he said is structurally questionable - $2,500.

Hilton said the major question in his mind is the wisdom of spending large amounts on a 20-year-old truck - and he suggested that, of course, the best move would be to buy a new ladder truck.

But of the three steps suggested, he said replacement of the ladder with one of the same design would probably be the wisest. This job, at an estimated $4,900 plus labor and extra charge $120, was the second of the three recommendations by the fire engineers.

The town's aerial ladder collapsed during the fire at the Kiernan home Aug. 30, with the base section now being useless. Hilton explained that safety is a big factor in his consideration of the ladder proposals - and pointed out that to use two sections of a ladder that has once buckled for no obvious reason is to invite further trouble.

Wishes To Build On Hill Side

Legal advice will be sought by the Board of Public Works, following Edward Hogan's request that he be allowed to use a town access to his property on Wood Hill.

Mr. Hogan told the Board that he intends to build a home on a portion of the 11 acres he owns in the area. Access to his house would be gained via a road built by the town as a means of access to the reservoir atop the hill. A radio station also has access to the hill top to service a transmission tower.

Mr. Hogan said he realized that winter would pose ample problems, and agreed that the town could not provide the same speedy plowing service as it does on town streets. It was explained that the grader, and occasionally the bulldozer must be sent to the hill to open the road.

Mr. Hogan also asked that he be allowed to tie into a water main running down the hill. He agreed that pressure would be very low, although the supply of water would be plentiful.

The Board decided to ask town counsel if it has the authority to grant an easement over the access and whether this must be decided at a town meeting.

ment site in Shawsheen, a shopping center area in West Andover that was zoned last March for that purpose and possibly a motel site in West Andover, included in the original shopping center by-laws. The Board has not yet discussed whether it will ask the town to zone the Schlott property on No. Main st. for a shopping center district. The area is in an industrial zone and it is understood that a building permit has already been issued to the developer.

Many Meetings

The garden apartment project has been the subject of several municipal meetings in past months, among various town boards and agencies. Questions of water supply, sewage disposal, and other municipal services were discussed. The Assessors also were asked to the sessions, to talk about potential tax revenue from the project.

At the Planning Board meeting Tuesday night, it was explained that the development will offer two and three bedroom apartments, each with its private patio and all modern automatic facilities within. Rents will run up from $120 monthly, the Board was told. Members also recalled that Mr. Rosen had described the apartments as being of considerable tax income — and he had said that his experience shows that few children live in this type of apartment project.

Planning Board Member Walter Tomlinson seriously questioned the need for this type of project. He said he knows no one in town who would be interested in living there and paying rent in the proposed bracket. He also told Board members that he can see no way for the town to adequately protect itself against a change in plans that would result in construction of low grade apartments. Many technical devices for self-protection — through the Board of Appeals — were discussed but in each case Mr. Tomlinson said he could see no way that the town can insure construction of apartments as originally outlined by the developer, if the developer should either sell or change his plans.

He proposed that members of the Board conduct an informal survey among Andover persons acquainted with local rental conditions, to obtain their views on the need for the project. Members agreed to do this survey job.

Mr. Tomlinson felt that a lack of demand for high rental units might force the change to cheaper apartments.

FHA Approval

Board members also heard a brief discussion of Federal Housing Authority involvement in the apartment project. It was explained that the FHA is supposed to have made a survey of this area, with the findings that an apartment project of this scope is needed. It also was disclosed that the contemplated construction would be FHA insured.

This apparently involves strict control of construction. It also has been explained that an average rental-per-unit must be decided upon and furnished the FHA. This may not be changed later, without proving the need to do so.

Mr. Rosen has been asked to furnish the Board with the FHA survey if possible, and provide proof that the federal authority had established a need here.

Many Rumors

For many weeks there have been rumors that a garden apartment project would be started here. Actually, one prominent citizen had attempted to locate a site for such a project, acting as agent for another developer who expressed interest in the area.

It has also been reported that No. Andover officials have been actively promoting the construction of such a project in that community.

Budget Problems Face BPW - May Ask Aid

Serious budgetary problems appear to be plaguing the Board of Public Works.

Chairman Alex Henderson, late in Monday night's session, asked his Board to go into executive session to discuss the budget and what he referred to as a "policy" decision to be made.

The Board did not follow the suggestion, deciding to wait for a few days until office manager Calvin Metcalf has further budget figures available.

Mr. Henderson referred to some one or more persons whom he claimed are "clamping down" on procedures that have been handled without difficulty or protest in other years.

One major question appeared to be going to the special town meeting for permission to transfer already appropriated BPW funds from one account to another. And it also was suggested that perhaps the Finance Committee could do this without town meeting approval.

Nowhere during the discussion was there any concrete statement of who might be "clamping down" or in what way.

Specific Appropriations

Checking with other town officials later in the week, however, it appeared that the BPW's problem lies in the way the March town meeting appropriated funds for that municipal agency.

One official said he believed that, for the first time, each budget item was voted separately. Thus, for example, a wage amount was specified for a department; another amount specified for materials. This would make it impossible for the Board to use wage money for materials, within the same department; something apparently done without difficulty in other years.

There appeared to be considerable concern Monday night that some appropriated amounts will not be sufficient for the year. But the Board did not make specific mention of which departments might be affected.

Other town officials speculated that the Board of Public Works will have to ask town meeting for permission to transfer funds from one specific purpose to another; or ask the Finance Committee to transfer sufficient funds from the reserve. One explained that a town meeting vote probably can not be altered by a town agency, but only by another town meeting.

Thus, even though total appropriated funds remaining in the BPW budget might be ample for the rest of the year, it is conceivable, this official continued, that reserve funds might be needed to fill out the depleted budgetary areas, to assure continued operation during all of 1958.

Several members of the BPW expressed their wish to avoid asking town meeting for a re-allocation of funds, during the discussion held Monday night.

But they also agreed that any decision would be held up until full details are available later this week.

Articles Coming

They did agree, earlier in the meeting, to insert two betterment assessment articles in the special town meeting warrant.

The articles - setting out a method of assessing betterments, were both defeated at the annual town meeting.

One calls for a one-third, two-thirds sharing sewer construction costs. The present policy specifies that property owners pay three-quarters of the cost and the town one-quarter. The new policy was recommended by the Board's consulting engineers.

The second article spells out the method for assessing betterments against an estate when a trunk sewer line goes through land to the obvious benefit of the property.

At the annual meeting in March, the proposals were beaten.

Members David Thompson, Francis Reilly and Mason Arnold expressed a firm desire to present them again and thoroughly explain the methods suggested. Chairman Henderson said he did not wish to get involved in it again.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Legalized Pocket Picking

Many stories have been written in the weeks just past about prolific spending — sheer waste, if you will — in the state Department of Public Works.

And naturally this has become a campaign issue. We suspect it won't be a very good one, because Republicans, some high up in party councils, have been daubed with the same brush used to paint a black picture of the Democratic administration.

But leaving out the political angle, we were disturbed last week to see locally just how serious this problem has become. Whether sponsored by Republicans or Democrats, men working for the state should put in a day's work for their money. The taxpayer should not be expected to support the lazy.

One particular crew — and we call your attention to a news story in this week's issue — had at least twice as many men as needed to do the job. Two other crews were standing idly, chatting, while the hours flew by. Another crew appeared to be sitting in private cars, reading the newspapers during the mid-morning hours.

How much of this arrogant abuse should the taxpayers be expected to stand, before they rise up and demand a drastic change in state policy?

Consider the cost to each of us, as taxpayers, of men standing around doing nothing; think of the snow removal funds used to pay wages during August; and then turn your attention to the price paid for private equipment.

All this money comes from our pockets — and thus it is our responsibility to demand that it be spent wisely, as sparingly as possible, while accomplishing the necessary functions of the Department.

Not one cent should be spent as a dole.

If it is necessary to put men to work, because they lack employment, then the state should establish some separate agency to handle this problem. And it should be tagged for what it is.

It is time to eliminate the policy which finds politicians all over the state handing out jobs on the public works details in such vast numbers that work can not be found for the men. Only those extra employees needed to accomplish the Department's summer work should be hired — and then we should insist that the men actually do some work for their money. Let the others either be cared for by some other state agency established, as we previously said, for the specific purpose of providing jobs for the unemployed; or let them find private employment.

We realize this is a mighty theoretical approach to a situation created by practical political considerations. For there isn't a successful politician anywhere who isn't deluged by requests for temporary jobs, or for a chance to rent a piece of equipment to the state. And there are few, if any, of the successful politicians who refuse the requests if it is in their power to grant them. The politician claims he must spend much of his time doing favors and handing out patronage in order to survive in the next election; the citizen claims politicians seek opportunities to hand out the plums, so why not take advantage of them.

It's doubtful whether any remarkable changes will be witnessed, however pressing the demand. But there is a real need for change, all the same. Until it is accomplished, we fear that the taxpayers — that's all of us — will find the state's hand slipping quietly into their pockets each year for money to support this politically-inspired policy.

Meanwhile, how do you like legally having your pocket picked?

Early Interest A Good Sign

The town election is six months away — yet even now we are beginning to see considerable interest in the election. This is all to the good.

For next year's town election will be the first under the town manager charter — with a five-man Board of Selectmen to be named. There already is considerable speculation about possible candidates and considerable discussion about the intentions of the incumbents.

Running for Selectman won't be as easy as just putting the name on the ballot. It will be necessary to specify a term — because the new charter states that two shall be elected for three years, two for two years and one for a one-year term. Thus each candidate, including present Selectmen if they choose to run, must specify the term. This leads to considerable jockeying for position, as candidates wait to see if a soft touch develops.

Thus it is particularly good to hear some talk about the town election and possible candidates, even though we are not likely to get specific announcements for several months. It would give all the voters a better chance to make up their minds, if most of the candidates announced at a fairly early date, rather than waiting to see who runs for each term.

It's certain to be an interesting political year here — and it is obvious that the voters will be given a wide choice of candidates for the Selectmen's office. Let's hope that considerable wisdom is shown in the selection.

Provisions of the National Recovery Act were explained to a large gathering at the town hall last Friday night.

A barn on the M. M. Converse estate on Holt rd., recently purchased by Mr. Spalding of Dunstable, was completely destroyed by fire last Saturday night. When neighbors saw the flames about eight, they encompassed the building. Despite this, the Melvin D. Woodward family was able to let 22 cows out of a shed attached to the barn, saving their lives. A bull, farm implements and 50 tons of green hay were destroyed.

The School Committee held a special meeting Wednesday night to discuss the possibility of erecting a new school under the National Recovery Act. The Selectmen had suggested investigating the possibility. But members felt they didn't have enough information to act. A joint meeting of the Selectmen, Finance Committee, Board of Public Works and School Committee will be held soon to further discuss the subject.

The 85th birthday of Samuel H. Bailey, the town's only living ex-selectman, was celebrated last weekend. A family party was held at his home on Porter rd. on Sunday, with 35 relatives present. Included were eight great grandchildren. Monday, friends and townspeople attended an open house.

Abbot Academy started its session Tuesday, with 50 percent more boarding students than last year.

A total enrollment of 1,576 was experienced in the public schools when they opened. This is contrasted with an enrollment of 1,310 in 1923.

Party For Bookworm Club Members

All during the summer boys and girls have been having keen competition with each other and with their own previous reading records as members of the Bookworms, who were explorers, this year. Their explorations were in fields of adventure, science, art, wild life, worlds above, around and beneath. Each child had a chart to register his reading. The club was considered very successful by both staff members and club members.

As a reward, the annual fall party is to be held for the young people Friday afternoon, Sept. 12, at 3:45 o'clock. Each child must bring his chart. Any boy or girl who registered as a Bookworm this summer is invited to attend.

Great Books Group To Open

Members of the Great Books Discussion Group are reminded that the books for this coming season have arrived at the library and those who ordered sets are asked to pick them up. The fall series of meetings will open Tuesday evening, Sept. 30, at 7:45 o'clock, in the Memorial Hall Library. New members are always welcome. The first reading is Plato's "Gorgias."

New Help For Readers

The Memorial Hall Library is testing out a new service to readers, a monthly publication "Inside Books", of news and independent comment compiled in the offices of one of the well-known book trade journals. All books described in the bulletins are current. In addition to the annotations made of those most in demand, there is a section "Other Leading Books", arranged under such headings as "How To and Self Help", "People", "Arts and Letters", "History", "Cookery", etc.

Although the library may not have all books listed, readers may make suggestions if certain titles appeal to them.

The bids shall be in sealed opaque envelopes plainly marked on the outside with the name of the project and the bidder as well as the names of those General Contractors to whom the bid is delivered.

State Had Many Workmen On Routes Through Town

WORKING ON THE HIGHWAY — Six of an 12-man crew painting stripes along Route 28 last Friday were photographed as they paused in their labors. During the time they painted, one man ran the machine, which is being filled with paint in this picture. Three others walked beside him; one drove a truck with a passenger in the cab; while several rode in the rear of the truck. One of these men sat on the tailgate, putting markers down along the road. One walked ahead of the procession, using a red flag to warn motorists. (Staff Photo)

By David E. Young
State highway crews were out in force last Friday morning.

The main task, occupying the largest group of men, appeared to be painting stripes on Route 28, out to the By-Pass. Eleven men were counted doing that job.

Smaller crews of three and four were on other duties.

Two of these were spotted about two-thirds of the way to the By-Pass, along Route 28, sweeping the sides of the road.

Two more small crews were cutting long grass at the By-Pass.

Another crew, of undetermined size, was located on Route 125. Highway signs, indicating the presence of men at work, were strung along the road and a state truck was seen. Several private cars, with men sitting in them, were also observed along the immediate roadside. But the crew could not be observed from the street, nor could the type of work they were doing be seen.

12 Workers
The line-painting crew — during the mid-morning hours of Friday — was observed working its way towards Andover from the By-Pass.

One man preceded the crew, using a red flag to warn oncoming traffic.

One man directed the operation of a painting machine.

Three others walked beside him.

Two men rode in the cab of a state truck immediately behind the painting equipment.

Five men rode in the back of the truck.

One of these sat on the tail-board and put out markers to keep motorists off the wet paint. The others rode, and leaned on the sides of the vehicle.

Hay Cutters

Two small crews cutting tall grass at the By-Pass were working, when observed about 10 a.m. They had piled up the grass and appeared to be getting it ready for a truck to haul away.

Two crews, of three and four men, were sweeping along the highway a short distance away. On several occasions, they were seen standing, chatting and leaning on their hand equipment. This reporter drove past three times in half an hour and did not see them sweeping.

Route 125 Work

The highway signs along Route 125, a short distance past the state police barracks, indicated that state crews were working. A state truck was pulled in off the side of the road. But the workmen could not be seen.

Several private cars were pulled up along the road and their occupants were reading newspapers and appeared to be carrying on conversations.

The stripe-painting crew came to a complete halt on one occasion, when its traffic-warning workman saw this reporter with a camera, parked off the side of the road. He, and several others, vigorously wanted to know why pictures were being taken; and took the registration number of the reporter's car.

About 10 minutes later, from the corner of Hidden rd. and Route 28, this reporter was able to take a picture of some members of the crew, as they paused, while a man poured paint into the machine.

Several state employees from the group ran back towards the intersection, indicating by their shouts that they were alarmed.
