Site Development Cost May Be Scrutinized

Rogers Brook Solution Seen

A conference may be held as early as next week on Rogers Brook reconstruction.

Town Manager Thomas E. Duff expects to see the complete plans for the work by this weekend, with the promise from the state that the meeting will be held soon afterwards.

Details concerning the plans, and about bids and construction, will probably be ironed out at that meeting.

A letter from the Division of Waterways to Mr. Duff stated that the plans for the Brook, from Whittier to Highland st., will be ready by today and forwarded to town officials for study.

The conference will follow as soon as possible, the letter stated.

The proposed elementary school site on Lovejoy rd. might well turn into a costly enterprise.

In putting together fragments of information gathered in the community, it became apparent this week that the town may well be embarking on a project that will cost upwards of $125,000 for site development and utilities.

In addition, it appears that surface drainage costs and the price tag on lowering the water table have not been even estimated as yet.

Two cost estimates have been available, however, and were offered to those attending a meeting of town boards several weeks ago.

Water Department Supt. Donald Bassett, at that public meeting, estimated that a leaching field for a disposal system for the new school would cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 to $60,000.

The extension of a 12-inch water

English Visitor Compares Us With Great Britain

By David Ambrose

People in England have a hazy sort of idea that the U.S.A. is a very large country, but it was only as we students sailed over the Atlantic this summer that we came to realize with ever-growing amazement that this great mass of water it took us eight days and nights to cross was only about as wide as the continent on which we were eventually to set foot.

The effect of living on such a comparatively small island as England is one of being thoroughly acquainted with your home; it is a comfortable size which allows you to visit, at least once, most parts of it without feeling that you have been for even one moment beyond native boundaries. But we slowly came to feel as we neared your shores that this sort of thing is frighteningly impossible over here, and the prospect filled us with an odd feeling of uncertainty and isolation.

And yet in this short period of three weeks we have all come to look upon Andover and the New

Schools Open Next Wednesday

Andover Public Schools will re-open at the usual hours Wednesday, Sept. 7.

A single session will be held on the first day, with dismissal for the high and junior high schools at 11 a.m. and for the elementary grades at noon.

Regular sessions will begin Thursday.

Transportation routes will remain essentially the same as they were in June, with adjustments to be made as conditions warrant.

May Surface Lovejoy Rd. Within 2 Weeks

Lovejoy rd. may be re-surfaced within two weeks, Town Manager Thomas E. Duff indicated this week.

He said two catch basins will be installed within a few days by the Realty Construction Co., and that the first coat of asphalt will be applied by that firm immediately afterwards.

The town has agreed to put the sealer coat on the road, and this will be done a week after the first coat is applied.

Duff said it is possible that the work will be done by Sept. 15 - especially in view of the fact that school buses have to use the street.

Residents have complained about the road's condition for months and months, following water and sewer installations.

At a meeting with the Selectmen some weeks ago, Mr. Duff said the developers would not install the two catch basins, which lie at the intersection of a sub-division road with Lovejoy, until the Planning Board approved the sub-division plan. He stated at the time that he intended to see what could be done to get the plan approved, or some action taken, so that the catch basins could be installed. Several of the Selectmen urged him to get some action underway.

A look at the records of the Planning Board, however, shows that the plan for the sub-division was actually approved by the

New Device Can See Hot Spots But Can't Be Detected

A lip-stick size device to spot objects warmer than the human body from miles away has been developed by Raytheon Company. Extremely sensitive, it can be used in detection units to pinpoint "hot spots" betraying presence of aircraft, missiles, launching pads, or rocket motor test areas in the black of night. Yet, it generates no tell-tale beam from which the enemy might trace its location.

Engineers refer to such beamless units as "passive." Dr. Peter P. Debye, manager of Raytheon's Microwave & Power Tube Infrared Devices Laboratory describes passive devices for the layman as "catchers, not pitchers."

The Raytheon development is the smallest known metal-encased unit in the field of infrared detectors. Looking much like a shot gun shell, it is less than two inches long. It will be shown by Raytheon at the Western Electronic Show and Convention at the Los Angeles Sports Arena this month.

The new detector's long-range operation, its small size, and metal casing make it particularly applicable for aircraft and missiles. The casing was designed to withstand vibration and "g" forces to be encountered in missile flight. Long-range capabilities and space-saving size make it useful as a reconnaissance aid for aircraft or as a component for missile guidance systems.

Dr. Debye reports that Raytheon is currently working on a similar unit which would permit long-range detection of infrared energy or heat sources near human body temperatures.

A detector registering human body temperatures at long range would give more advanced warning of enemy troop or convoy movements. Besides these military applications, small infrared detectors would make possible detection systems for police work or customs inspection. Used with other electronic equipment, such sensors would make possible, not only location of betraying enemy "hot spots", but areas surrounding them. Thus, from reconnaissance aircraft safe distances away, maps of enemy production centers or sites of nuclear activity could be made under cover of night and from miles in the air. Further protection would be afforded in that the "passive" feature would cut down enemy chances of discovering reconnaissance efforts.

Applications, both commercial and military, are developing daily in the rapidly expanding field of infrared. Raytheon has also put black light to use in its pleasure boat gas detector. Presence of gas fumes is registered by the device preventing boat owners from starting engines when fumes plus an ignition spark could spell disaster.

Most of the estate of Philip A. Crowley of Andover is to go to charity, according to his will, filed in the Registry of Probate. No estimate of the value of the property was listed.

Mr. Crowley, who died Aug. 6, signed the instrument Aug. 28, 1946, and nominated Norman R. Morgan of Lee, N. H., as the executor. He left $200 each to Mrs. George Hey of Lawrence and Mrs. Maisy Ames of Malden and directed that his household furniture, jewelry, rugs, and bedding be distributed in accordance with instructions given to the executor-designate.

Realty at 141 Chestnut st., was given to Richard Cardinal Cushing, and the will stated that the proceeds of the sale of the real estate are to be awarded to the Bon Secours Hospital to provide facilities. The gift was made in memory of Mr. Crowley and his late wife, Mrs. Mary J. Crowley.

The sum of $500 was devised to the Protectors of Mary Immaculate in Lawrence, and a like amount was bequeathed to the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur in St. Mary's Parish, Lynn. Another $500 was awarded to the Holy Ghost Hospital for Incurables, Cambridge. Crowley left $500 for Masses to the Order of St. Augustine in Villanova, Pa., and gave $500 for Masses to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith at Boston in memory of his wife.

The Institute of the Little Sisters of the Poor in Somerville was given the residue of the estate.

The local resident wrote that he was intentionally omitting bequests for relatives because they are "well able to provide for themselves". He set forth that any relative or beneficiary contesting the will is to receive nothing. The probate petition listed two nephews as the only heirs-at-law. They are James Crowley and Joseph Crowley, both of Lynn.

Miss Barbara Colby graduates this week from the Salem Hospital School of Nursing, Salem.

New Product By Local Inventors

Partners in the Howlee Electric Co., 63 Park st. - William F. Howarth of North Andover and Lee E. Noyes of Andover - have invented an auto starter for use during the winter months.

The device, known as the Everedy Auto Starter, will be manufactured by the Everedy Co. of Frederick, Md., a division of the Standard International Corp. It should be on the market by September, according to the local men.

The invention, for which a patent has been issued by the U.S. Patent office, will allow a car owner to warm up his car while he is dressing and eating breakfast.

It starts the motor, chokes, turns on the heater, defrosts and will charge the battery. The latter service is accomplished from the house current, while the rest of the operation is done from the car battery. The invention measures seven inches high, four inches wide and four inches deep. This may be placed anywhere in the house. A cord runs from the unit to an attachment installed in the car beneath the dashboard.

The starter is arranged so that the car must be in neutral before it can be started.

The Standard International Corp., patent company of the Everedy Co. which will manufacture the unit, has offices in Andover. Daniel E. Hogan Jr., 4 Woodland rd., is president of the firm.

SITE COSTS TO BE SCRUTINIZED

main to the site would cost an estimated $75,000, according to Bassett at the public meeting. Those are the only two figures available.

But other factors are involved, even though the cost is not yet known.

Contractors and others familiar with the area know that the water is right up on the surface of the ground in the spring.

If provisions have to be made for lowering the water table - either by draining off the water or filling the land - this would be an added expense.

Surface drainage estimates may be available soon, for Camp, Dresser and McKee are even now studying this area.

The area is about one-half a mile from the development of the Realty Construction Co., where the town did not approve of the installation of septic tanks for new homes.

Although portions of the Noyes property under question are dry this time of year, older residents of the area and contractors who have worked in the neighborhood recall that every spring the ground is so wet in that general section that it is very difficult to work on construction.

Answers Due

Townpeople may get some answers to these questions next Tuesday night, when the Selectmen hold a public hearing on the intent to seize the property.

John Noyes, owner of the 32-acre site, must be given the opportunity to show the Selectmen where there is land available for public use, other than the agriculturally-designed area in which his land lies.

Questions Authority

Meanwhile, one member of the Land Acquisition Committee has questioned whether the Committee ever really voted its approval of the seizure.

James D. Doherty said he was temporary secretary of the Committee the night the question came up, and a simple statement of referral to the town manager was voted. In this vote, the Committee agreed that, if the School Committee voted to have the town initiate land taking procedures, this should be referred to the manager without the necessity of a further meeting.

Doherty questions whether the Land Acquisition Committee should not now be asked to vote on the seizure, because a town meeting article gives that Committee the right to seize property after gaining the approval of the Selectmen, Finance Committee and Planning Board.

At a general meeting some weeks ago, these groups voted to approve the seizure, based on the selection of the site by the School Committee and the approval of the Land Acquisition Committee.

Announcement was made at a family party at the Donahue home at Gunning Point, Sippewissett. Miss Donahue was graduated from Wheelock College with the Class of 1957 and her fiance is a graduate of the Class of 1957 at Merrimack College. He is a science teacher at Acton-Boxborough Regional High School.

A letter in the Planning Board file from the Realty Construction Co. objects to the inclusion of a restriction, such as included for all major developments now, concerning off-site drainage requirements. In view of this objection, and at the developer's request, the Planning Board did not file the plan in the Registry.
In February, 1960, a copy of a letter from the town manager to the Realty Construction Co. indicates that Mr. Duff asked the firm to get the road fixed. And he stated in the letter that approval of the plans before the Planning Board would be withheld until the work was accomplished.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Let's Take Another Look

To what extent can the town ignore the site development costs, and the price of utilities, when considering the location of a new school?

We're forced to wonder about this, after actually seeing the estimated cost of a portion of this work in black and white.

This week's issue tells the details - $50,000-$60,000 for a leaching field; possibly $75,000 for a 12-inch water main; an unknown cost for surface drainage; and an indefinite amount to take care of the high water table.

Are these costs too high?

Have they been taken into consideration when deciding to seize the John Noyes property on Lovejoy rd.?

As we recall the meeting when some of the cost figures were briefly mentioned, there had been no previous consideration of them. Nor has there, to our knowledge, been any further consideration of these cost problems.

Should they not be taken into account?

When we editorially suggested, some weeks ago, that the School Committee has the authority to designate a site and that other official agencies should not overlook this authority, we had not examined these cost factors. And it appears that the School Committee has not looked at them very closely either.

It still makes sense to allow the School Committee to specify the area for a new school - but we are forced to wonder now whether this specific site is the logical one. Perhaps these cost estimates change the picture somewhat; possibly the value of placing the school on that site is overshadowed by what it may cost to prepare the site for the school and get utilities to it.

Bear it in mind, when considering our suggestions, that the School Committee is in the best position to know where a school should be built to satisfy the demands of the growing school population. But the Committee may not be the best-informed agency on costs applicable to the site.

If these have not been assembled in one grand total, they should be prior to any final action by the Selectmen in seizing the Lovejoy rd. site.

We can afford to wait long enough to determine what the costs will be.

If we don't, the town may spend a lot more money on development and utilities than had appeared to be the case at first glance.

Be Careful Driving

The long Labor Day weekend - when so many of us plan short trips at the summer's end - can easily be a weekend of sorrow.... a weekend of wrecked bodies, of smashed hopes and dreams.

For every Labor Day weekend, indeed on every long weekend throughout the year, there are a fantastic number of highway accidents resulting in injury and death.

Despite the best efforts of law enforcement officials, and the pleading of public media, far too many persons wind up in the statistical reports following the weekend.

Much of this waste of human lives could be avoided if the individuals did two things - avoid driving and drinking; drive as though the other fellow on the road doesn't know what he's doing.

Carelessness, excessive speed, drinking, and many other factors are involved in the dreadful slaughter that is expected this weekend on the nation's highways.

Be careful. We don't want to publish your obituary with a story of your wrecked automobile.

Capital Expenditures

The capital expenditure programs now being prepared by all department heads, for submission to Town Manager Thomas E. Duff, will certainly run into millions of dollars.

But let's not be scared off by the sheer magnitude of the figures.

The manager has asked that the programs be submitted, so that a priority system for major projects can be worked out.

Only by establishing this type of plan can the town hope to accomplish the many major projects, within an orderly financial framework.

We look forward eagerly to seeing the various departmental programs, and the priority listing as it is ultimately worked out. For this plan could well be the best answer to the problems of any growing community - increasing demands for services and facilities.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago - September, 1910

William Higgins Jr. of Chestnut st., and Lawrence Colby of High st., both of whom are interested in telegraphy, are erecting wireless sets in their respective homes.

The Royal baseball team defeated a picked nine, playing under the name of the South Lawrence A. C., Saturday afternoon at the Playstead. It was a one-sided, uninteresting game, with the Royal team winning 10-2. In the sixth inning the Royal team scored seven runs on just one hit.

Dr. William F. Draper, who has twice been engaged in the summer work of the Andover Guild, and who is therefor well-known to local residents, has successfully passed the federal examination and has been ordered to Angel Island, San Francisco, Cal. His duties include inspection of passengers and crew members of foreign ships coming into United States ports.

Mrs. W. A. Allen of Chestnut st. has a night blooming cereus, which blossomed one night last week. Over 54 persons dropped in on the household to see the plant in bloom.

25 Years Ago - September, 1935

A local young man was killed at 1:45 a.m. today, as his car slammed into a tree at Burnham rd. and High st. A resident of the area, hearing the crash, called for the ambulance. Doctors at Lawrence General Hospital were unable to save the man's life, however. Police believe a rear tire blew out, causing the car to swerve across the roadway, where it hit a pole.

Public schools reopen Monday with 1,534 expected to attend. This is about 18 less than a year ago. Punched High, for the first time, has over 500 pupils.

Two cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the Board of Health. Although the problem is not yet very severe in Andover, the nation has been experiencing a heavy case-load this year.

Abbot Academy will open Tuesday, but Phillips Academy has postponed its opening date to Oct. 1. Telegrams were sent this past weekend to the boys advising them of the change.

The BPW-WPA plan for building sidewalks is meeting approval all over town. Many residents are asking to take part in the project, which finds the homeowner paying much less for his sidewalk than would normally be the case.

Work on water and sewer installations has begun in the town's newest development, Johnson Acres.

10 Years Ago - September, 1950

School bells will ring Sept. 6, calling some 1,700 public school students to classes. In all, it is expected that Andover will have 3,977 students enrolled in the various institutions of learning.

Three persons are dead and two lie gravely injured in Lawrence General Hospital, following an accident on Lowell st. Saturday at 5:50 p.m. Police theorize that the car careened across the road, near Beacon st., after a blowout. The vehicle hit a tree, and police have been unable to question any of the survivors.

Parents are reminded that first graders in the public schools will attend only the morning session for the first four weeks of school.

A total of 7,116 registered voters are eligible to vote in the Sept. 19 primary. This is an increase of 159 over two years ago.

In the last six months, the local court sessions have been extremely busy. Trial Justice Richard K. Gordon has handled 107 cases. Some $732 have been collected in fines.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman:

"It seems our School Committee chairman is in a great big hurry to impose his will upon us.

"You know it is not my interest to pay the principal, nor is it my principle to pay the interest' That's a quote.

"So, Mr. Chairman, whether you deem it necessary or not to fill the vacancy of the assistant superintendent in Andover, let it be said, loud and clear, 'Why the hurry?'"

"Andover is an old town. She has had many wiser heads than yours in town affairs. So let's wait and see - it can do no harm. We have done very well indeed for many years, without an assistant superintendent.

"I'm certain that Andover will survive if your cake frosting is forgotten. Our present superintendent is still able to function, and with the fine staff of teachers available, the Andover school system will survive the crisis as it has done for years, without our assistant superintendent.

"So, Mr. Chairman, I move the whole question be dropped. Maybe your talents will be called elsewhere. What will Andover do without you?"

"Many of her leaders have come and gone but there she stands, just as beautiful and progressive as ever. So, Mr. Chairman, time will tell."

Childhood In Fact, Fiction

Unless we are writing our autobiographies, few of us spend too much time recalling childhood days. However, a very little thing can remind us of what we did as children and how we felt. Perhaps it is nothing more than the smell of newly mown hay, a picnic in a familiar place, the thrill of sailing a boat, seeing again childhood friends. Some of the most engaging writing has been about remembered or imagined childhood and some of the most bitter. The following books mirror in one way or another childhood as it was, it might have been or should have been: House of Children, Cary - a charming novel of a childhood spent on the coast of Ireland in the 1890's; Old Man and the Boy, Ruark - A North Carolina childhood and an understanding grandfather who taught the boy much about life as well as about hunting, fishing; Morning, Fane - the author skillfully recreates a small boy's moods as he faces the separation of going away to an English public school; Drawn From Memory, Shepard - the incomparable illustrator of Winnie the Pooh looks back lovingly to one year of his London childhood; Old Yeller, Gipson - the story of fourteen year old Travis who ran a Kansas ranch with the help of "old yeller", a thieving, stray dog; A Walk in the City, Kazin - charming essays which evoke memories of a childhood in Brownsville, East Brooklyn; The Little Ark, De Hartog - although this story of floods in Holland has its grim side, it was a magnificent adventure for the two children involved - Edge of Day, Lee - a rare book, beautifully written, of a boyhood in the West of England - Dew On The Grass, Lewis - a delightful story of a childhood in Wales - Episode of Sparrows, Godden - with something of the quality of the "Secret Garden" - Far Away and Long Ago, Hudson - an English naturalist tells of a childhood spent on the Argentine pampas; Eustace and Hilda, Hartley - a beautifully realized picture of childhood; Father and Son, Gosse - the author writes with some bitterness of his puritanical parents who almost stifled his natural impulses and creativity; The Adventures of Tom Sawyer, Clemens - a classic of boyhood; When I was a Child, edited by E.G. Wagenknecht - selections from autobiographies of some thirty-nine English and American authors; Always the Young Stranger, Sandburg - a poet remembers his childhood in Galesburg, Illinois; Period Piece, Raverat - Darwin's granddaughter affectionately recalls details of a Victorian childhood; Earth Horizon, Austin, a significant autobiography, detached in presentation, of an unusual woman, author, mystic, friend of the Indians of our Southwest; Lost Paradise Coffin - about a boyhood in a Maine coast town; Morning Faces - a book of children and parents.

Dear friends,

If you could see, as we so often do, the readiness and willingness of people to respond in time of need, we know your faith in humanity would be strengthened.

We have occasion to call frequently for assistance. Cars are needed. Musicians are requested. Ministers are called upon. Pallbearers are asked to serve. And we can't remember when such a request has been refused.

Respectfully,

Wed Mr. Bugbee

Miss Cornelia Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don P. Scott, 10 Dufton rd., will become the bride of Harold Francis Bugbee Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Bugbee, 37 Rocky Hill rd., Oxford, at an 11 o'clock ceremony in St. Augustine's Church Sept. 3.

Prior to her marriage, Miss Scott was entertained by Mrs. Carroll Gerrish at her home in Andover at a miscellaneous shower. A Jack and Jill party was given for the couple by Mrs. Ronald Messier and Mrs. Frances Smith of Oxford.

Miss Scott is attending the Women's College of Clark University in Worcester. Mr. Bugbee served four years in the U. S. Navy and is a student at Worcester Junior College.

After their marriage the couple will live in Oxford while they continue their studies.

BROOK PROJECT MAY GET UNDERWAY

Duff stressed this week that it is important to get the brook job underway, so that the town can save some money on the bond issue involved in the project.

He explained that the $260,000 bond issue for the major sewer construction will be sold in October. There would be some saving to the town, he stated, in having the $175,000 Brook bond issue sold at the same time - both in interest rates and in the savings in handling the paperwork.

Duff pointed out that the state must have the actual funds held apart for the Rogers Brook job, as indicated in several of the letters from the Waterways Division.

He also explained that the sewer job will be advertised, with the bids to be opened Sept. 21.

SCHOOL OPENS NEXT WEDNESDAY

As announced in the spring, the sixth grade pupils who would ordinarily attend the West School will be transferred to the Stowe School due to the increase in school population in the West section of town.

The custodial staff have worked diligently to prepare for the opening of a new term, with many repairs and improvements of the school plant accomplished during the summer.

The entire teaching staff will report for duty Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Students new to the school system, who have not previously registered, may do so on the first day of school.

Bequests of $2,000 for Mrs. Louise Gately of Lawrence and $1,000 for Katherine L. Rich of Andover are contained in the will of Wright H. Stafford of Andover, it was learned when the document was filed in the Registry of Probate.

Stafford, who died Aug. 6, bequeathed the residue of his property to his widow, Mrs. Violet M. Stafford of Andover, who was nominated as a co-executor with Atty. John C. Reardon of Lawrence when the testament was signed March 14, 1955. No estimate of the value of the estate was given. A daughter is listed in the probate petition as Mrs. Ruth S. Lamprey of Andover.

each day is quite normal, whereas in England it would probably be considered an eccentricity. The American highways which allow this sort of travel, however, must surely be the envy of all motorists among us, and cars such as yours with generally six or eight cylinders are definitely the exception over the greater part of Britain and much of Europe. Since so many families have a second car for the wife and teenage children to use over here, less use is made of public transport, so that you do not have quite the comprehensive network of these services which is to be found in Britain.

The one thing which has struck us all as being the greatest piece of pure and crystallized "Americanism" in this area is the North Shore Shopping Centre. Somehow it epitomises all or a great deal of what we have felt about the U.S.A. and expected to find here. It is new and ambitiously planned, organized, and above all luxuriously spacious. Its vast expanses of parking ground are a pleasure only to be enjoyed on a continent so huge as this, where it is not absolutely essential to utilize for wholly practical purposes every square inch of land in town and country.

Shortly before coming over here I was told by a couple of American tourists in Britain that they were positively filled with a feeling of "unsophisticated immaturity" when they gazed upon the architecture of Europe - "the sign-posts of the Ages" - and reflected on the lack of such historical charm in their native country. Certainly we English visitors have had no cause to feel thus in New England at least, for here the eager tourist has an opportunity of tracing back a good cross section of America's history. He may not see anything as old and graceful as Westminster Abbey or Buckingham Palace, but at least he can visit the place where the story of America really began with the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers on Plymouth Rock. He can see where the first sparks of rebellion against England were kindled in and around Boston, visit the site of the famous battle on Bunker Hill, and look through the home of Paul Revere. He can inspect the famous Salem Witch House, Seven Gables, and see the place where Harriet Beecher Stowe lived, "the little lady who launched the Civil War," as Lincoln once called her.

Another feature which has impressed me particularly in this district has been the abundance of great and beautiful trees which are to be seen here. As I stood at the head of a street in the residential area around Phillip's Academy I could see only a road fringed on each side with high and luxuriant foliage. It was both a surprise and something of an adventure to walk down it and see appear between each break in the leaves a picturesque New England House, with its shuttered windows, cedar shingle and clapboard.

Further examples of those typically American institutions of which we have no trace at home are your Drive-In movies and Car Hops, two things which doubtless owe much of their popularity to the excellent facilities for road travel in this country. Drug stores, where it is possible to buy anything from a milkshake to an alarm clock, are still great novelties to us.

It seems too that certain foods and beverages here have become popular and familiar national institutions in their own right: Cokes, donuts, popcorn, pizza and iced tea or coffee appear to play a greater part in the routine way of American life than even afternoon tea does in England.

Your cook outs, with barbecued steak or chicken and corn on the cob, have proved very popular with all of us this summer, and serve to accentuate our envy of your pleasant and usually dependable climate. Speaking of climates, it is wonderful to be in a country where it is possible during the summer to plan a day on the beach perhaps two weeks ahead, and know with reasonable certainty that the weather will be fine. This is no part of Great Britain can we safely do!

Of course we have found other new things in this country which are too numerous to be considered at any length just now - colour television (which you spell differently and which England doesn't have yet, anyway) and your lack of an equivalent to the strictly non-commercial British Broadcasting Corporation; also your summer schools, which have struck us all as being a very commendable plan; and of course your admirably simple monetary system.

None of us will quickly forget this charming part of the world and the many things we have seen and learned here; nor will we forget the new and firm friends we have made, and the warm hospitality which has been shown to us by all whom we have met.

(Editor's note: Mr. Ambrose is one of several students who have been staying in individual homes in the community. They have now departed for Philadelphia and Washington, D. C. We deeply appreciate his willingness to so lucidly write his impressions of the area as contrasted to his home in Great Britain.

2 Problems Face Town Manager

Two municipal problems face Town Manager Thomas E. Duff - the creation of a traffic commission and a possible re-writing of the by-laws concerning gravel pits.

Both subjects came up at the last Selectmen's meeting, but were tabled until the manager is available.

Selectman Russell G. Doyle suggested both topics.

He indicated that some thought might be given to a bicycle school, in an effort to promote better riding practices. This idea might fit into the plan for a traffic commission, according to other Board members.

Doyle also said he wishes to discuss the regulations concerning gravel pits and the amount of control the town has over persons moving materials on their own land.

Neither subject was discussed at any length during the short session.

In other business, the Board heard a report from Water Department Supt. Donald Bassett, concerning adequate water pressure on Highland rd. Bassett said that pressure is adequate there, in response to an inquiry from the Board. He commented that any householder trying to use several faucets at the same time might find the pressure to be less, but this is not the fault of the system.

It was announced at the session that an eligible list of persons available for appointment as welfare director has been established, and this will be sent to the town in mid-October.

Member William Stewart wondered why, if the list is established, there must be the time delay in getting it. Other members believed that the list now merely contains the names, and these must be rated by the state department before the list can be certified.

In other brief action, the Board accepted a report stating that the Bailey Bridge across the Shawsheen River is being installed by the Champy Construction Co., acting for the Raytheon plant in Shawsheen.
