Asks Reports On Fallout Danger

Is fallout a menace to Andover's water and milk supplies?
James E. Casselden, 1 Brookfield rd., waited patiently at the Selectmen's meeting Monday night to talk about the answer.
He told the Board that interest has been at a peak, and that many persons have been disturbed by reports that fallout may be evident in the milk supply at some future date.
However, stressing his belief that this probably is not happening, he suggested that the town issue statements assuring residents that the supply of milk, and the town water supply, are not being contaminated to a dangerous level.
Mr. Casselden also asked whether the municipal water supply, from the wells alone, is adequate in case the open water at Haggett's Pond is contaminated or otherwise unavailable. This would not be true, according to the town manager, who said the wells alone can not pump enough water to take care of normal requirements.
Mr. Duff noted that the milk and water supplies here are continually

No Decision About Brook

The Selectmen stirred up the muddy waters of Rogers Brook again Monday night, but without many conclusive results.

They have agreed to ask the state whether it will approve changing the location of a reducing pipe, so that if falls outside of private property, thus helping Samuel M. Glazerman in his efforts to construct a building on his Main st. property.

Mr. Glazerman asked that the expensive portion of the work be moved off the land, and agreed he is willing to install the straight pipe for the reconstruction, whether or not the project is ever finished.

But his request to have the easement over his land erased was turned down by the Board, on the grounds that town meeting alone may do this.

The Selectmen otherwise heard a report from Camp, Dresser and McKee, which made the following points: the firm has previously reviewed the plans and finds they conform to acceptable standards;

Foreign Films To Be Shown

A series of superior foreign films will be shown here, under the sponsorship of the Andover Recreation Council.

Plans for the first three films were announced this week, and additional showings for 1962 will be announced later.

The three films scheduled for this year are: "Ikuru" from Japan, Nov. 18; "Ballad of a Soldier", Russian, Dec. 2; and the French comedy "Four Bags Full", Dec.

Four charming school principals from countries in Asia visited Abbot Academy last Friday and Saturday to see at first hand how one of the country's best private girls' schools is operated.

And while doing so, they shared a pleasant hour with this reporter - covering a wide range of subjects, reflecting the similarities and the differences of our countries.

Miss Turkan Baydar of Ankara, Turkey; Miss Daw Htay of Kyaukse, Burma; Mrs. Salma Masud of Rawalpindi, West Pakistan; and Mrs. Massarrat Jahan Khan of Karachi, Pakistan were spontaneously frank in their discussion of American education, of morals and manners, of politics and marriage.

Education, of course, took precedence, for the four are in the United States on scholarships, with the cooperation of the state department. They, among many others,

May Get Seals For Early Mail

The Essex County Health Association isn't specially rushing the Christmas season.

But according to its executive director, Mrs. Barbara G. Flagg, Seals are now available for those persons sending mail and packages to foreign countries.

November deadlines are established by the post office for this type of mail - and every year many Americans like to decorate their mail with the traditional Seals.

Residents of the County may receive their Seals early, by telephoning or writing to the Essex County Health Association, 222 Cabot st., Beverly.

Robert McAnern, chairman. The film presentation will set forth the goals, needs and plans of the Free Church for the coming year. This program is based on a careful analysis by each committee within the Church of its own concerns.

These were presented at a planning conference held at Osgood Hill last September. The program after the dinner purports to place these goals and needs before the congregation, for evaluation and response. A free will offering will be taken to defray the costs of the dinner. The reservations will be arranged by the Parish Hospitality Committee and members of the Pilgrim Fellowship will wait on tables.

The Pike School will hold its second annual book fair and sale between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Nov. 8, 9, 10 in Peabody House.

The Rev. Robert H. Gamble, assisted by a group of more than 30 helpers, announces that the occasion has been carefully planned to serve the whole of the Greater Lawrence area. Surplus from the sale of books will be contributed to the benefit of the Pike School library.

More than four hundred books, fresh from the presses, will be put on display for the three day period. All books have been classified by the committee members. They are broken down by age groups and by content in order to help gift givers make choices which they can be sure will interest boys and girls from the littlest lookers to 16-year-old readers.

Assisting Mr. Gamble are Mrs. P. Hayden Clark, chairman of Workers; Mrs. Donald Thompson, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Ippolito and Mrs. Dudley Robinson, assistant treasurers; Mrs. Per Bro, library advisor; Mrs. Harry Axelrod, Mrs. Charles Black, Mrs. Stephen Brennan Jr., Mrs. Donald Burns, Mrs. Thomas D. EXPLOSION THEN FIRE - This outside chimney at Tye Rubber Co. was the scene of a brief, but vicious explosion and fire Oct. 25. Rubber dust blown into the chimney, which is designed for the purpose, exploded and a ball of fire raced up the outside of the building. Heat touched off a second-floor sprinkler, causing damage when plastic processing materials were soaked. The hood blew off the chimney, striking cars in the parking lot below. Here, firefighter David Batchelder stretches out at the end of the aerial ladder to get additional water on the still-smoking chimney. A sprinkler system in the chimney had all-but extinguished the flames. (Staff Photo)

Troop 76 Boys To Canvass Homes

Scouts of Troop 76, Ballardvale, will start a townwide campaign Saturday to raise funds for their troop treasury, when they will make a door-to-door canvass soliciting orders for unusual illustrated place mats and correspondence notes.

Backed by a committee headed by Carl N. Anderson and including Scoutmaster James L. Butler, the Rev. Wendell Minnigh, Lewis Trumbore, A. Cignoni, Al Smeltzer and E. Spencer, the boys will make available to residents place mats and notes bearing well known Massachusetts and New England scenes. Illustrations for both were painted in water colors by a nationally known artist and reproduced in full color. They depict such well known spots as the House of Seven Gables in Salem, Motif Number One in Rockport, Longfellow's Wayside Inn in Sud-

Firm May Construct Garage Behind Plaza

The Selectmen have given permission for the erection of a warehouse and garage, for fire vehicles, behind the Shawsheen Plaza.

Albert E. Schlott Inc. asked for the permission. They will house the trucks, each holding 3,000 gallons of fuel oil, plus enough gasoline for the vehicles. Mr. Schlott told the Board that the buildings will be out of sight from North Main st.

The cement-block building will have a flat roof. Selectman James D. Wilson expressed concern over the type of building done at the center, noting that "Colonial architecture was promised there, and look what we have". However, he agreed to the garage construction as long as it is not to be seen from the street.

Little Stories about Great Hymns

How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds

In a believer's ear!
It soothes his sorrows, heals his wounds,
And drives away his fear.
It makes the wounded spirit whole,
And calms the troubled breast,
'Tis manna to the hungry soul,
And to the weary, rest.

This hymn was written by John Newton, the reformed slave trader. After surviving a deadly African fever, and a disastrous ocean storm, he responded to the reasoning of a pious sea captain and returned to religion. As a curate in England, he met the demented poet, Wm. Cowper. Their lifelong friendship became a source of spiritual strength to both men. Together they wrote several inspiring hymns.

OLD LAWS REQUIRE EQUINE HOUSING, TOO

Innholders, beware.

According to some of the old-time laws, innholders may still be required to house and feed a traveller's horse, maybe even his cattle.

The fine print on the innholder's license specifically states that "An innholder who, upon request, refuses to receive and make suitable provision for a stranger or traveller, and also for his horses and cattle, when he may, under the provisions of this chapter be legally required to do so, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $50."

Imagine the consternation if a guest pointed out the window to his horse and demanded housing for the animal?

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Clean-up Party

Most politicians, and practically every student of political and governmental theory, deplore the idea of three parties.

But perhaps it's time for a third party to come to life in this state:

The "Clean-up Party".

It's goal: to clean up state government, to restore the integrity of the Commonwealth.

Such a party wouldn't have to remain in power too long; actually there needn't be too many candidates for state office on its ticket.

Possibly as few as 30 men, elected to both branches of the Legislature, could do the job well. They would serve as leaders for others in the Legislature who want decent, honest government but can't stand against the tide by themselves.

Such a group of dedicated men, with only a single plank in their platform, could, in a couple of terms, put an end to much of the activity that now is being criticized; they could spearhead the attack on political shenanigans.

Sound foolish? Impractical?

Maybe. But we'd bet that many voters, sick of the reputation Massachusetts has gained, tired of increasing taxes and lush spending, angry at the thought that some elected and appointed officials are not without blame, would welcome a chance to vote for the "Clean-up Party".

Easy Answer - Special Meeting

Several members of the Board of Selectmen have stated their opposition to immediate action on Rogers Brook reconstruction, and feel the voters should have a chance to act on the alternatives.

These basically are simple choices:

Do part of the job now - from the river to Main st. - at a cost to the town of anywhere up to the $195,000 appropriated.

Cancel out the project entirely.

Re-study the problem, seeking alternatives that may cost less.

Why not call a special town meeting and get a decision?

We can see no valid reason for postponing the answer any longer; if it's the opinion of the voters the Selectmen want, then let's have the special session and find out.

Let's stop wasting time and money talking about this project when there is such an easy way to find out the wish of the townspeople.

Ban The Pits?

Perhaps someone should propose a town by-law banning gravel pits from the town.

They are an eyesore; many, left improperly, have become long-term nuisances.

The Selectmen spend much of their time discussing pits, listening to hearings, talking about remedies, inspecting the pits themselves to see what has been done.

Possibly this valuable time and effort could be spent on other municipal problems, of greater importance, if there were no pits to worry about.

This may be a drastic solution, but it certainly would give the town fathers time for other things, for other discussions.

And it would prevent the town from being further marred by unsightly pits, which continue to exist long after the operators leave town.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago - November, 1911

Mrs. Martin Sawyer of Maple ave., who has been ill at the Lawrence General Hospital, is improving slowly.

Miss Alice M. Bell left town Monday for Portland, Me., where she has recently accepted the position of assistant head resident worker in the Fraternity House.

Edward C. Carter spoke to the students at Phillips Academy Monday morning at Chapel, about the work of the YMCA in India.

Robert Luce, the candidate for lieutenant governor and Congressman Foster of Vermont spoke at the Republican rally Monday night.

The new swimming pool, which has been under construction at Phillips Academy for the past few months, is nearly ready for use. It will cost $13.90 to fill the pool from the town's water supply.

Frank E. Ward of this town has purchased a building lot from the Pasho estate on Chestnut st.

Stephen Boland scored a touchdown for Puncard in the first few minutes of play, as Puncard beat Methuen in a game played at Glen Forest in Methuen Friday.

Among the new voters registered last Friday night were Oswald Tower, Douglas Crawford and Frederick M. Boyce.

The Andover Dramatic Club has chosen the official name "The Barnstormers".

25 Years Ago - November, 1936

Next Tuesday is election day, and it appears likely that Andover adults will turn out in record numbers. They, with every interested voter in the country, will be electing a president and members of Congress, plus local and state officials.

The annual roll call of the Andover Red Cross Chapter will begin Sunday, and workers want to establish a new record. Last year, based on population, Andover came up with 24.5 percent of its population as members. This is the best record of any community in the state, and workers are trying to do even better in the current drive.

The body of a man, missing for 10 days from his Lawrence home, was found last Wednesday in Haggitt's Pond.

The intersection of Essex st. and Shawshen rd. was covered with fresh vegetables Tuesday morning, when a local market gardener's truck tipped over when he failed to make the corner.

William A. Trow has been elected president of the Andover Historical Society.

Punchard was defeated by Framingham last Saturday, 13-7. Both Framingham scores came on pass interceptions.

The 7:09 train from Boston was held up for over 35 minutes last Saturday night, when a local delivery truck crashed into the baggage car. The driver said his accelerator stuck, and the truck continued down hill and smacked into the train.

10 Years Ago - November, 1951

Firemen will join policemen in a temporary traffic patrol, designed to meet the need for extra protection at school crossings in West Andover and Ballardvale. The Selectmen conferred with the chiefs of both departments, before making the decision.

Andover has given $10,034 to the Community Chest at the half-way mark. This represents 53 percent of the quota.

Julius Stern of Kensington st. was guest speaker at the Ladies Night dinner meeting of the Brig. Gen. Joseph Frye Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution. Howell Stillman is president of the Chapter.

Christmas Day is the date long sought by many local residents. That will be the first time that calls may be made to other area communities without paying a toll charge. The expanded service will make it possible to telephone to Lawrence, Methuen and North Andover without paying extra charges.

The new Board of Trade and its committees will gather Monday night to make plans for the rest of the year. One of the projects is Christmas lighting, and there are plans for a big parade at the time when the lights are turned on.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman:

"The Townsman has done a public service in bringing to our attention in its Oct. 19 editorial 'It Doesn't Grow On Trees', a fact of the costliness of Andover politics. This needless cost is a concomitant of centralized government."

"The School Committee, which has political power not subject to adequate control by the citizens, wishes to spend some money. Consequently, it announces that the money shall be found. And well it might."

"The present inadequately-controlled management of Andover's politics has the power to pluck the School Committee out of the dilemma delineated by the Townsman. Consider what we witlessly gave away in the Town Charter:

"We gave the office of town manager the power to '... transfer... the appropriations of one department, commission, board or office to another' (once the voters make the appropriation) to say nothing of its power to abolish any of the foregoing and to create others. Consequently, we would be less than prudent to assume that the School Committee is not certain that any money it spends, but does not, have shall be covered by accommodation from the office of town manager."

"The evidence continues to grow that in voting away our rights, in the name of a centralized government, we established many privileges for those who now control our political affairs. And, sure enough, those privileges are not always used for the interests of Andover."

"Accordingly, it's not too much to say that in tolerating the town manager government, we go on conditioning ourselves, without recourse, to accept the essential of communism that a centralized government of privileged men is better than a government of laws. Odd as it may seem, here in Andover the ground work for the growth of communism is being assiduously done all in the name of efficiency to be sure."

Karl Haartz

(It is a misunderstanding of the town charter to state that the town manager can transfer funds to the School Committee. Only the Finance Committee can make transfers of an emergency nature for that portion of the town government. Indeed, after appropriations are made, only the FinCom can add to them, usually for emergencies that were not anticipated at town meeting.)

HAVE ENTERED 101 COLLEGES

In the past four years, graduates of Andover High School have entered 101 colleges.

This was the finding of a survey recently completed by the High School as part of its college placement program. This finding emphasizes the trend that pupils must make application outside as well as within their local areas.

Movies For Boys And Girls

All boys and girls are invited to a movie program at Memorial Hall Library Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 7, from 3:35 to 4:20 o'clock. Among the movies will be the following: "Stepping Stones to Spain," "Pancho" and "The Bluebird."

The first is about Explorer Cortez, shows how a satellite is placed in orbit, and why it stays in orbit. The second is based on the book by the same name, and the third is a story of the bluebird's journey from the north, and includes some bird songs and hints on how to watch birds feed their young.

All are welcome to attend. Tickets are required.

Littlest Listeners

The Robins group will meet the Memorial Hall Library Wednesday, Nov. 8, and the Ballardvale group will meet Thursday morning in the branch library, Nov. 9, both at 10 o'clock. There will be the usual story hour, music and activities for the children. Mothers who wish to see the children are asked to come to the library for full information. Each child must be three years old.

Coffee Hour

All new teachers in Andover are cordially invited to an informal coffee hour at the library Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 8, from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock. It is hoped that the teachers will take the opportunity to meet the school librarians and the public library staff, and to take some time to look over the library's holdings.

National Book Week

Once again the library is looking forward to National Book Week, to be observed this year from Nov. 12-18. As in the past, the Memorial Hall Library will have its week-long display of books in the Children's and Adult reading rooms. The best of autumn publications are put out for readers to look over, with the thought that those who are looking forward to the Christmas season may find titles that will bring lasting pleasure to those who receive them as gifts. As before, the library offers a limited number of reserves to those who browse, a full winter's reading might be planned from the books on reserve.

Children's books are always plentiful at this time of year, and parents who need suggestions for purchases are cordially invited to make use of the displays in the children's room.

Open House

All friends of the library are urged to hold Sunday afternoon, Nov. 12, open as that is the day of the annual Open House. For number of years the trustees and staff have taken this day, usually at the beginning of National Book Week, to invite their friends to an afternoon of new books, a guest speaker, an opportunity to see other book minded persons, and time to enjoy light refreshments together.

The full program will be announced nearer the date.

HOW TO CHANGE YOUR REGISTRATION

If anyone wishes to change his political party designation, this may be accomplished by sending written notice to the town clerk.

It is no longer necessary to appear before the clerk in person.

HAY RIDE

The Free Church Couples' Club will go on an old-fashioned hayride at the Curtis Farm in Middleton Friday, Nov. 10. Chairman of the evening are Mr. and Mrs. Murray.

HELEN HOWE

The Drama Department of the November Club will open another interesting season Monday, Nov. 6. Dessert and reception of new members will be held between 1:30 and 2 p.m. at the Clubhouse, 6 Locke st.

Mrs. Dixon B. Penick, the new president, will welcome the members.

The guest speaker, Helen Howe, with the presentation of her dramatic reading "A Round of Parties", brings a unique entertainment to the concert stage, combining what the Christian Science Monitor calls her twin talents.

Helen Howe's first career was that of one of the leading monologists of the country. Her second career has become that of a best-selling novelist.

that the size - for a 25-year storm - is all right; that spending money to clean out the brook and alter culverts is a waste of money, as the reconstruction job must be done eventually; and that the firm has never studied any alternate solutions to the drainage problem posed by the Brook. The report also noted that the problem will increase in intensity, as various areas are developed which will increase the runoff into the Brook, and mentioned that a properly constructed Brook would provide an outlet for other, smaller drains which will be needed in the areas.

From an engineering point of view, the report recommended going forward with the section from the Shawshen River to Main st. Town Manager Thomas E. Duff again expressed his belief that the project must be done, and reported that the state has agreed to call for bids on the one section. This is estimated to cost $250,000 - or $125,000 apiece.

Selectman Philip K. Allen was doubtful whether the letter received from Commissioner Jack Ricciardi actually promised to match funds, if the cost went over the estimate. Mr. Duff said the state DPW commissioner had made the verbal statement that the excess amount would be paid for equally by state and town - but members of the Board shied away from accepting verbal promises.

Chairman Eugene A. Bernardin Jr., while noting that the Engineers believe one section should be done now, said there are other considerations. He believes that the voters approved the appropriation of $195,000, to do the whole job. Thus, he reasoned, the voters should have another chance to act on the proposal as it now stands. Selectmen Russell G. Doyle and William Stewart talked about their reluctance to enter into agreements with the state at this time, and the need for voter guidance.

Selectmen Russell G. Doyle and William Stewart talked about their reluctance to enter into agreements with the state at this time, and the need for voter guidance on the matter.

It was also suggested that the town's consulting engineers might further study the problem, to see whether alternatives can be devised.

During the meeting, Mr. Glazerman made his appeal for abandonment of the easement across his land. He said the Brook was planned through this area because it was open land when the survey was made - but that there is every need now for construction to begin. His deadline is June 1 for completion of the structure, with commitments already made to tenants.

Faced with the statement that the Selectmen have no power to give back the easement, Mr. Glazerman said he would still spend the extra money to put in a section of the pipe, providing it is not the most expensive portion of the job.

In this respect, a representative of Camp, Dresser and McKee, Robert McQuade, said it appears that the section in question can be moved. He told the Selectmen that original designs by his firm, when it reviewed the plans, had this work being done on the sidewalk area.

No other solution was offered, other than the effort being made to see whether the state would agree to this change for Mr. Glazerman's benefit.

SATURDAY IS

whether the store is basically a package store or a variety store. Although it was agreed that laws governing the sale of beer and wine apply to the store, the problem seemed to revolve around the legal definition of the term "package store".

Meanwhile, the store can't stay open on real Sundays, because it's in the normal sense a package store; it could stay open on Saturday, Nov. 11, a legislative Sunday, if the town recognized it as a package store.

Confused? So were the town fathers, who decided to let the store remain closed, unless the town counsel's opinion states that the store can be opened at 1 p.m.

Other problems associated with the Saturday that's a Sunday were easier.

The chief of police or the chairman of the Board of Selectmen have the individual authority to grant work permits. The Board itself has no authority.

Chairman Eugene A. Bernardin Jr. and Police Chief David Nicoll agreed that Raytheon may stay open, as requested. But there will be few other permits issued. The men believe that there should be extreme care used in granting such permits.

The law states that permits should be granted, in essence, when the work can't be done some other day and is of emergency nature.

Town Counsel has also stated that there is no provision in the law, that he can find, giving real estate people the right to show houses on Sunday - the real Sunday or the Legislative ones. However, it is known that the attorney general believes showing the house is alright, but doing business concerned with selling it is not. Under this interpretation, Board members said, an agent might show a house, but then couldn't accept a deposit if one was offered.

And to close out the chapter on Veterans' Day, it was ironically noted that a vast dinner-dance is planned for that day in a neighboring city - and you can't dance on the Sabbath, either real or legislative.

TEACHERS HAVE COMMON PROBLEMS

are taking courses at leading colleges and universities, and are visiting many of our public and private schools. The Abbot visitors are among the group taking courses at Harvard.

Educational Differences

None really wished to compare the standards of American education with those at home - because they noted the impossibility of comparing individual schools, with changing curriculum, here with schools at home where the curriculum is established by the appropriate government ministry. The contrast is quite striking, they agreed, with United States schools offering various courses - some mandatory, some elective - even within the same district. In their countries, the required courses are more in number, and the chances for electives are few.

But even with this contrast, certain basic similarities are obvious. Take salaries for example.

All four agreed that teachers' salaries "at home" are too low; they don't attract enough men and women into the profession, especially the men.

In Turkey, for example, officers in the armed forces, during their two-year required service, teach in outlying districts. All are university graduates, and are assigned to teaching duties instead of military activities, to overcome the shortage of teachers. For many teachers don't wish to serve in areas where there are fewer conveniences. Other than these officers, however, teachers are paid on the same level with civil servants - and the rate does not compare favorably with other professions.

In general, the teachers have no bargaining rights as far as salaries are concerned, although Mrs. Masud frankly stated that she had bargained successfully with her superiors, receiving a salary at the university level for her work as a principal.

Despite the low wages, however, the women agreed that teaching is a rewarding profession, and is a position to which honor and prestige are attached.

Tough Curriculum

Academically, their schools appear far tougher than their American counterparts.

How would local high school students like to take 14 required courses, no electives; possibly emphasize one area, such as science, but not be allowed to drop any of the required courses even though they don't compliment the specialty; receive instruction in two languages, with which they must obviously be completely familiar.

For in all four countries, English is a second language. It's required from the sixth to the 10th grades, but may have been started in the first and second grades in some elementary schools. Sciences, engineering and English literature are taught in English; the literature of their own countries, history and other subjects are taught in their own language. Thus both languages must be mastered completely - the student must be equally at home in either.

Other Discussion Areas

Then the conversation began to wander away from education, and into the varying cultures, the differences in custom and feelings.

Miss Baydar from Turkey was aghast at the behaviour of our children - showing little respect for their parents' wishes, determined to do as they wish, and getting away with it. In her experience in American homes, she feels that too much disrespect is allowed to grow between children and parents.

In Turkey, as in the other countries represented, young people grow up in the habit, if you will, of obeying their parents; they consult them on major decisions and are not left to make up their own minds. Miss Baydar pointed out that Americans seem to feel that directing the child to obey dulls his initiative and provides a frustration that can effect the child in later years.

The others agreed. They all felt that nowhere else in the world would children have the same liberty to make up their own minds, to make their mistakes and take such complete responsibility for them. And they wondered whether the child has enough experience to actually make up his mind what to do, at the early age he is allowed to do this by his parents.

All of the four, for example, expected to, and did ask for permission to come to the United States - from their parents.

Marriages Arranged

In West Pakistan, Pakistan and Burma, marriages are still arranged by the parents. In the first two countries, the couple may not even have met; in Burma the young man is allowed to call on his bride-to-be, in front of her parents of course, and at least become acquainted.

Turkey is the exception - it's practically Americanized, Miss Baydar asserted. Dating is even more prevalent than here; teenagers try to copy Americans of the same age; but parental advice and consent is sought, even by those who otherwise have vigorously copied our habits.

Divorce is allowed in all their countries - both legally and by the Church. But in Burma, for example, it is quite accepted while in Pakistan and West Pakistan there is very little.

Do parents try again to arrange a marriage, if the first one fails? Not often. Usually, the woman is considered free to make her own choice the second time. But in many cases, divorce is ruled out by the couple because of the parents, and the welfare of the children.

Americans Abroad

Americans living in other countries also came in for criticism - particularly from Miss Baydar of Turkey.

She commented on the behavior of some Americans living in her country - throwing nuts, then ice, in a night club, black market operations and other activities that are not condoned in the United States itself. And while the people continue to like the Americans, she said, their feelings are dampened somewhat by this startling and unpleasant behavior.

Politics, Briefly

Judging from the principals' remarks, all four of these Asian countries remain friendly to the United States and will continue to be.

The Turks are violent opponents of Russia - Miss Baydar commented that the worst name one can call a Turkish citizen is "Russian".

In the other countries, however, there was said to be a warm feeling for America, but without the violent dislike of the Russians evidenced in Turkey.

And in none of the nations, represented by the four school principals, is there the nervousness, the fear of a general war, that is evidenced here.

What Next?

Assuming there is no war, and the visiting principals return to their own countries at the end of their studies, what will they do then?

Just go back to teaching and administering their schools. They'll try, perhaps, to use some of the techniques learned here, and to persuade the local authorities to allow innovations.

But this is difficult to do - this business of change, everywhere in the world.

Something like persuading an American school committee to do something radically out of the routine? They thought so, but even more difficult.

Parents Invited To Open House

The Junior High School will hold open house Nov. 9 for all parents of students at that school.

Parents will have a chance to go through their children's schedule, with a series of 10-minute classes, according to acting principal William E. Hart.

The program will begin at 7:15 at the Memorial Auditorium, and will conclude with refreshments.

Parents have been urged to return a portion of the notice, sent home by the students, to the school by tomorrow, so that final plans can be made.

letters in football and was selected as the outstanding player in his senior year. He also was a member of the hockey team and served in FFA affairs for three years.

Can't Forget Old Lessons

Highway Supt. Stanley Chlebowski hasn't forgotten a lesson learned many years ago - and thus he became the area's champion milker last week.

He competed against Mayor John Buckley of Lawrence, who won the championship a year ago. But the mayor wasn't even in the contest with Stanley, who filled a milk bottle before the mayor could more than cover the bottom of his. The contest was held on the Lawrence Common, and was a promotion of the Downtown Task Force.

Marylou Wilkinson Celebrated Birthday

Little Miss Marylou Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkinson of Wild Rose dr., was seven years old Nov. 1, and a party was held in her honor last Saturday.

The young ladies all came in Halloween costumes and games, appropriate to the season, were enjoyed. Halloween favors were distributed; ice cream and birthday cake were served.

Those attending were Janice and Carol Oldaker, Marybeth and Mary Anne McDonald, Debra Look, Lisa Lewis, Cheryl Anderson, Jacqueline Cox, Jo-Anne Walker, Pamela St. Jean, Melissa Moses, Ruth Warwick and Marylou, Jack and Kenneth Wilkinson.

Will Survey Housing Needs

A survey to decide whether additional housing is needed for elderly residents of the town will be conducted, with the blessings of the Selectmen.

The Housing Authority, represented by Thomas Wallace and George Noury, asked the Board if it would approve conducting the survey.

Mr. Wallace noted that there are now some 25 applicants for the apartments, who can not be taken care of. Thus, he and the Authority felt that there may be need for more housing. A questionnaire similar to the one sent out originally will be used to determine the exact need.

Miss Simeone is a music major at the College. The "Pop Pops" is an annual variety show presented by the music majors. This year the show will be a take-off on popular television show and will be called "Campus Penthouse". It will be held Nov. 3-4 at the College's little theatre.

In any event, Mr. Duff stated, the state has urged local communities not to issue regular bulletins on the grounds that to do so would build up more than necessary concern.

He assured Mr. Casselden that, if any dangerous amount of radioactive material gets into the local supply, it would also be contaminating other communities as well. This would then become a state problem, and guidance would be sought from state agencies.

Urban Renewal Decision Coming

A final decision on presentation of the long-awaited Urban Renewal plan may well be made tomorrow night, when the Housing Authority meets.

Chairman David MacDonald Jr. plans to present the details to the Authority, in the hope of finding out just when the plan can be made public.

Currently, the federal authorities in New York are studying the plans. To date, there has been no public discussion except in broad generalities, because the Authority did not wish to start talking about details of the plan only to have them changed by the federal agency.
