IN SECONDS - These are the cars, smashed in the accident last Saturday evening at Andover st. and Dascomb rd., in which one man lost his life. The car at left was driven by Ralph Kinnaer of Wilmington, according to police, and was headed towards Andover st., on Dascomb rd. At the time of impact, in the intersection, the car spun around to a southerly direction. The car at right, police said, was going south on Andover st., operated by Miss Lorna Marruzzi of Hall ave. That vehicle was pushed across the street to the guard fence on the railroad side of the road. (Murray)

No Clinic For Older Children

The Board of Health continues to make plans for its June 19 clinic, when Type III oral vaccine will be given, to provide immunization against that type of polio. Pre-school youngsters and those in the first grade are eligible, or children through seven years of age.

The Board does not plan to conduct any sort of clinic for older children or adults, and explains that plentiful supplies of the Type I oral vaccine - the kind administered during May - are now available. These can be obtained through the family physician.

Chairman Robert A. Walsh noted, however, that there is presently no available supply of the Type III vaccine, except that to be administered at the clinic June 19. Thus parents should not wait for it to become available from other sources, for the smaller children, he warned.

In a split second Saturday night, two cars became a shambles, one man died, one little girl was gravely injured, three others were less seriously hurt.

And the intersection of Andover st. and Dascomb rd. has become the focus of community attention, as the scene of the tragic accident.

Fatally injured in the crash was Fred Fisette, 22, 55 Converse st., Malden, a passenger in a car headed into Andover st. on Dascomb rd. Admitted to Bon Secours Hospital was the driver of the car, identified by police as Ralph Kinnaer, 20, of Kilby and Crescent sts., Wilmington. He suffered a broken jaw, lacerated chin and questionable injuries to the chest and left knee.

In very serious condition, in the same hospital, is Catherine Scharin, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Scharin, 30 Alden rd. Hospital authorities reported no improvement in her condition Tuesday, when the Townsman went to press.

FLOPSY AND TWO of her young 'uns are on display at South School, as plans continue to raffle off the older rabbits at the fair June 2. Morgan, the father of the lot, is in the dog house - or whatever you call it for rabbits - because he couldn't get along with the children. But he'll be at the fair, for some lucky ticket-holder. Sue Ann Otto holds one of the little ones, and Holly Morse another, as Mrs. Robert F. Fitzgerald, the second-grade teacher, keeps Flopsy under control. The youngsters raised the pair since September, when they were six weeks old. The bunnies will go home with some of the children when school is over. (Staff Photo)

Committee Named To Study Plans

A five-member committee, to procure preliminary plans for a new town hall, fire and police station, has been named by Town Manager Thomas E. Duff.

The Committee was authorized at the last town meeting, and $7,500 was appropriated.

Appointed were William W. Rhoads, 22 Hidden rd.; Harry W. Robinson, 19 Arundel st.; James T. Trenholm, 15 Westwind rd.; Philip C. Pray, 65 Haggett's Pond rd.; and Arthur Peatman, 46 Cutler rd.

Serving ex-officio will be Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton, Police Chief David L. Nicoll and Mr. Duff.

At town meeting, it was explained that new municipal structures should be built in the not-distant future; it was also brought out that if Urban Renewal is approved, the need will be more immediate. To be ready for this eventuality, the voters approved the Committee and funds for preliminary plans.

Last week a bolt of lightning hit the flag pole on the Bradlee School.

Brownie Troop 54, under the leadership of Mrs. William Westphal, held its Fly-Up ceremony recently at the South School.

Mrs. Glen Brown's fifth grade Girl Scout Troop took part and laid a trail in the woods behind the school. While this Troop was laying the trails, the girls of Troop 54 were busy finishing their requirements for flying up.

A display of the Brownie notebooks was held in the library, so the mothers could view the work done by the group.

At 3:45 p.m., the Fly-Up candidates started out to find the Girl Scout Troop in the woods using the trail signs. When the two troops met, the double horse-shoe was formed with one Intermediate Girl Scout behind each Fly-Up candidate. A flag ceremony was held with Susan Taylor and Mary Finn as flag bearers. Karen Gravell, Renee Packman, Betty Kyger and Cynthia Westphal acted as color guards.

The pledge of Allegiance, Girl Scout Laws and the Girl Scout Promise were repeated, after which Mrs. Westphal pinned each girl as she made her separate promise.

After being pinned, each girl turned to her sister Girl Scout behind her and the Brownie Wings were pinned on.

The ceremony was brought to a close by singing of "When E'er You Make A Promise" and this

A new state law requires that petitioners for a zoning variance, if successful, are responsible for filing the decision with the Registry of Deeds. This formerly has been done by the town clerk. In another legal action, the Legislature has reduced the requirement relating to the number of days a notice must be advertised prior to a planning board or appeal board hearing. The new law requires advertising 14 days before the hearing, instead of 21.

Troop 68
The Girl Scouts of Troop 68 are busy planning an overnight at Camp Maude Eaton. They have spent Buddy burners, and have spent considerable time discussing outdoor skills. They have completed their list of equipment to take.

Troop 34
The Brownies of Troop 34 have completed their Fly-up requirements. Mrs. Curdo gave each of the girls interested in stamp collecting a commemorative stamp issued in honor of Juliette Low in 1948. The second half of the meeting was devoted to Mrs. James Doyle who spoke on birds, their beauty and value to mankind. She showed colored slides of birds likely to be seen here in the spring. A discussion period followed.

Flower Planting
The Girl Scouts of Andover recently held a flower planting ceremony at the Memorial Hall Library. Yellow marigolds were planted around the flag pole to celebrate the 50th anniversary. Troops represented at the planting were 18, 9, 118, 46, 82, 68, 77, 63, and 112. Miss Miriam Putnam was most pleased with the results.

Little Stories about Great Hymns
Saviour, Breathe an Evening Blessing
*Saviour, breathe an evening blessing,
 Ere repose our spirits seal;
 Sin and want we come confessing;
 Thou canst save, and thou canst heal.*

One night in 1819, James Edmiston, a young English architect, read an exciting tale of adventure in Abyssinia. One passage described the beautiful impression created by natives singing at nightfall. The evening hymn "Jesus Forgive Us" drifted through their camp. Deeply moved, Edmiston lay the book aside and wrote his first hymn "Saviour, Breathe an Evening Blessing." Today he is remembered, not for his masonry buildings, but for his beautiful and inspiring hymns.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Safe Intersection?

The fatal accident on Andover st., at Dascomb rd., Saturday night serves to highlight the dangerous type of intersection that exists there.

But the specific accident, according to police reports, could not have been avoided by making Andover st. a stop street, as has been suggested by some residents.

Ever since Dascomb rd. was widened, and the new island installed, many drivers have complained about the intersection.

Originally, it wasn't even a stop street — but local police received permission from the state to make it so. Two big signs were installed, as was a warning sign that indicated drivers approaching the intersection would be required to stop.

But it seems to be the kind of intersection that lends itself to violations — drivers proceed along Dascomb rd. at a high rate of speed, see an "easy" intersection and ignore the signs.

Any change in the intersection must receive the approval of the state, whose engineers designed the intersection originally.

At the moment, police plan to take another traffic count at the intersection, to see which of the streets is most heavily used. Originally, the results of a count, over an eight-hour period, indicated Andover st. to be the most widely used. Dascomb rd. thus became the stop street.

We trust the problems of that intersection, a potentially dangerous one, will be studied thoroughly and solved, without delay.

Foresight, For Once

The study group which presented its report last week to the School Committee made a valid argument — one that we should heed.

S. Leonard Kent warned the Committee that some solutions to the school housing problem will only contribute to more difficult problems in five years or so.

He urged that any solution take into account all of the known and estimated data, through 1970 at least, so that committees in the future will have more freedom in solving their own problems in that day.

Look ahead, think of the future in broad terms.

How many times have we all wished, as various municipal problems crop up, that officials a number of years ago had been blessed with a sure knowledge of the future? We have thought, with the benefit of hindsight, that better things could have been done, so that present-day emergencies would be less serious.

Now that we have a glimpse of the future of the school housing needs, let's not pinch pennies in solving it. The cheapest solution may be the one with the greatest headaches in the future — we don't want to pass on that type of legacy to the people who will cope with the problems 10 or 15 years from now.

Legislative Wisdom?

The Legislature appears well on its way to approving a $4,500 minimum pay for teachers throughout the state — in fact, the matter may have been decided before this comment is published.

The legislation would cost Andover $36,000 in the year 1963 — because not only will minimums be increased, but all salaries on the scale will also go up proportionately.

This is another step by the Legislature to take over what should be local decisions. It's costly; it's an invasion of the town's right to set its own salaries.

Here's how our local representatives voted on the roll call:

Reps. Longworth and Ingalls voted NOT TO REJECT the entire bill; Rep. Williams was not recorded.

On a motion to reconsider an amendment which would have required the state to pay for the required increases, Reps. Longworth and Williams voted not to reconsider — in other words, to keep the amendment which had been adopted a few weeks ago; Rep. Ingalls voted to reconsider the amendment. This was voted. And the amendment was finally killed completely.

The bill thus was returned to its original form, with cities and towns paying the entire cost.

On a vote to make the statute applicable only after each community accepted it — the usual "permissive legislation" — Williams and Ingalls voted yes, Longworth voted no.

AT THE LIBRARY

Coming Events

JUNE

Vacation loans to go into effect in June.

23 Summer hours go into effect.

Extended Loan Period

Early in June, the vacation loan period is established for adult readers who may wish to take a number of books not in special demand, for an extended period. This allows a reader to take books out stamped to become due September 15, so that books may go along on a trip, to a summer home or maybe only out to the hammock. Fiction, travel, biography, humor, gardening, hobbies — all the books which you meant to read last year and never found time for until now, will be waiting for this long, more leisurely season.

The library is showing a number of books on vacation planning; these will help in deciding where and how to go, with a number of camping directories, trailer sites, hints for easy traveling with the family, amusements for the family in rainy weather, swimming, boating and related outdoor activities.

Great Books

The last of the Great Books Discussion meetings was held in the library Tuesday evening, May 22, with Shakespeare's "Othello" the reading under consideration. This brought the spring series to an end, but plans were made to re-open early in October. For those who may be interested, the library suggests that questions be asked at the main desk about the program. New members are welcome to join at any time, and, as the program leaders have so often stated, membership does not depend on attendance at any previous year's series, as each discussion is an individual project, and "the book stands alone."

This past year has been an excellent one, with more active participation and contribution by the members than is often the case.

Films

There is one group of travel films still on hand at the library for use by groups through June 15. These are the Canadian color films, each running for about fifteen minutes. They are "Banff And Lake Louise", which shows the resorts of Banff and Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies; "Alchemy Of Time", a film of plaques, murals, etc. in the process of creation by young Quebec artists; "Family Fishing", a lively quarter hour of fishing in Northern Ontario for lake trout, walleye, pickerel and pike.

Any group wishing to show these films should call the library to reserve them.

Story Hours

Now that Littlest Listener groups and the regular story hour programs have come to an end for this school year, parents are reminded that there will be an active summer reading program for young people, to be announced in detail later. The reading group known as "The Bookworms" always has a large membership. Many young people have a splendid list of books read by autumn, when the Bookworms have their annual party.

Cabins And Cottages

If you are thinking of building a small cottage or summer cabin, be sure to look over the books on the subject at the library. One of the newest manuals is "The Wilderness Cabin" by Calvin Rutstrum. It gives detailed directions for building a variety of frame and log cabins, in addition to pointers on locations, equipment and interior design. Another new book is William Hennessey's "Vacation Houses" which presents forty architect-designed "second" homes ranging from small one-room-plus-bath cabins to larger vacation houses. Other helpful books, all available at the library are "Camps and Cottages: How To Build Them" by Charles White; "How To Build Cabins and Ranch Houses" by Popular Science Monthly; "Log Cabins" by William Swanson; "Cabins, Cottages, and Summer Homes" by Bernard Mason; "Building A Log Cabin" by Ben Hunt and a number of others.

Framed Prints

Seven of the prints from which selections were made have been returned from the purchaser, beautifully framed, and are now on view in the main reading room, until Wednesday, June 6, at 5 o'clock. At that time, the prints will go into circulation to Andover homes, where they may remain for a period of two months. A very small covering charge is made. This brings to nearly seventy prints in the circulating collection, all of which have been "on the move" since the project first began. There are conventionals, moderns, sketches in simulated oils and water-color. The sizes vary from 15 by 20 inches to 3 by 2 feet; all are wired ready for hanging. There is a limit of one print at a time to a family.

No prints may be reserved at any time. On Wednesday, it will be a matter of first come, first served.

It is always interesting to see which ones of the shipment draw the largest votes.

Come in to see if your ballot was a "winner."

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman: "We talked about your newspaper in class, and we are proud that we have a newspaper just for Andover. Our teacher thinks we are grown up enough now to read the newspaper so we talked about the different parts."

"I especially like the section where people write to the editor. "You may be interested to know that the two fourth grades in our school (Shawsheen) went on a field trip. We went to the Art Gallery and the Archaeology Museum. I enjoyed the art gallery the most. All the paintings were beautiful. They all told a story, even if it looked like a few blotches of paint."

"At the archaeology museum we saw two Indian replicas of Indian homes. We also saw baskets, bowls, weapons, Indian jewelry, rocks, shells and bones. It was very interesting. On our trip I think we learned a lot about life in the early times."

"Sometime I would like to visit where you make the Townsman. Probably you would like to visit our fourth grade. We would be glad to see you."

seriously injured but was admitted to the hospital with fractures of the left clavicle and right leg.

Miss Lorna Maruzzi, 3 Hall ave., who was driving the car in which the Scharin girls were passengers, was thrown clear of the wreckage, and was treated for lacerations before being released from the Hospital, according to police reports.

The accident was not without its moments of medical drama.

Dr. William R. O'Reilly was driving his family to a movie, when they passed the scene. Dr. O'Reilly assisted the victims, and accompanied Fissette in the ambulance.

During the trip, police related, Fissette's heart stopped beating - but Dr. O'Reilly was able to restore a heart beat through massage.

Dr. John T. Batal, medical examiner, said Fissette's death, at 11:25 p.m., was due to a fracture of the cervical spine, and he also suffered multiple rib fractures, brain injuries and other serious injuries.

How It Happened
According to police reports, the accident occurred this way:

The car driven by Miss Maruzzi was headed south along Andover st. In the split second that the car was in the intersection of Dascomb rd., the vehicle driven by Kinnaer came in contact. Impact was on the passengers' side of both cars, as police theorize Kinnaer tried to turn inside the other car. His vehicle came to a stop facing south, while the Maruzzi car was pushed across Andover st. to the cable fence on the railroad side of the street.

Investigating were Police Chief David L. Nicoll, Officer Richard Aumais and Registry Inspector John Homa.

Joseph McCarthy Has Retired After 52 Years

The state's holder of a record 52 years as a state employee retires this month and Governor John A. Volpe personally singled out Joseph A. McCarthy, 70, 26 High St., for a statement of appreciation.

Mr. McCarthy, chief of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's Experiment Station in Lawrence, is a nationally recognized expert on water and sanitation controls. He has published more than 30 papers on the subject and his works are standard reference in technical libraries.

He studied at Tufts College, Lowell Technological Institute, and Harvard Engineering School.

Governor Volpe said in an official message: "Records show your service to be unequalled by any person in the technical or scientific departments of the Commonwealth, and for years to come all of us will benefit from the many scientific papers you have prepared in pursuance of your duties. Yours has been a worthwhile life, to yourself and to the Commonwealth, and as Governor, I join in saluting you."

Mr. McCarthy, who began work as a teenager in the old Lawrence Experiment Station, rose to head the station and to become a member of many professional societies, such as New England Water Works Association; Boston Society of Civil Engineers; American Public Health Association; New England Sewage and Industrial Wastes Association; and the Toxic Wastes and Chlorination Committees of the Federation of Sewage and Industrial Wastes Associations. In World War I he served in France as a sergeant with the 26th Engineers.

Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, commissioner of Public Health, described McCarthy as "a man devoted to his work and a contributor to the betterment of our society. A highly valued employee whose retirement is much deserved but much regretted by his fellow workers."

About 300 Department employees and professional associates honored McCarthy May 28, at a dinner held at the Diplomat, Route 1, Saugus.

In addition to other accomplishments, Mr. McCarthy has also been active in Andover's behalf over the years. He has served on special committees and in many ways has contributed his time and talent to helping the community.

Gravel Request Being Considered

The Industrial Realty Development Trust has requested permission to remove excess gravel from the 87 acres it owns in Lowell Junction.

The area is generally described as the old Railroad gravel pit.

Access to the area will be gained from Lowell Junction rd., via a right-of-way. But this is in some dispute, according to Building Inspector Arthur Peatman. He said the Planning Board is concerned about the width of the strip appearing on the deeds as a right-of-way, because it might not be wide enough for subsequent use of the property as an industrial area or a subdivision.

The Selectmen, who heard the request Monday night, will view the property, and have agreed that the Planning Board questions should be looked into. However, Board members also suggested that adequate restrictions could be placed on the use of the right-of-way for the hauling of material.

The following friends were candidates for membership in the West Church at the regular 10:30 service of Worship last Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Higgins of Rolling Ridge rd., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Price of Brown st. and Mr. and Mrs. Armor Reece of Sherbourne st.

Sara Clift Will Graduate In June

Miss Sara Jane Clift, a graduate of Andover High School, is among the 363 candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Wellesley College.

Wellesley's 84th annual commencement will take place on the campus in Wellesley, Monday morning, June 4, when degrees will be conferred by Miss Margaret Clapp, president of the College.

Members of the Class of 1962 come from 41 states and 13 countries outside the United States.

Miss Clift is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton E. Clift, former Andover residents, whose home now is in Weston. She has majoring in history at Wellesley, where she was social chairman of her dormitory her sophomore year, general chairman of the Senior Prom, and an official Campus Guide for prospective students and their families visiting Wellesley. She is a member of Phi Sigma Society, which is concerned with modern poetry.

School Site Problems Remain Unresolved

The Selectmen and School Committee turned over some freshly-tilled ground to do with school sites, at a meeting Monday night. But the dust never settled, with the question of land in the southern section of town remaining to be answered some other time. The School Committee is badly split over the need for one, or two, sites in the southern part of the town. The Planning Board, to which the school officials first turned for guidance, also is split - a majority thinks two sites will be needed. And when Member John S. Sullivan asked the Selectmen "how do we solve this dilemma?", Selectman Russell G. Doyle, chairman of the Board, incredulously wondered aloud "You want us to solve a school committee dilemma?" The meeting, lasting for about an hour, covered a lot of ground, as members discussed various possible sites and the complex problems of guessing where growth will occur. Specifically, the Selectmen agreed that the Cross st. land, now owned by the town, will be considered for school purposes - but without actually pinning it down at this time. They also agreed that the Land Acquisition Committee should inquire about sites in the Bellevue rd., Osgood st. section. The School Committee had asked the Land Committee to do this some months ago, and received official confirmation Monday night. The South Andover area remained a mystery - with School Committeemen expressing various opinions. The White and D'Annalfo properties - in back of the DeVries development off Wildwood rd. and near the By-Pass - have been considered, in addition to some acreage owned by the town in the same area. In all, the site would encompass about 43 acres. This would be a central location, if one site is needed. But if two are required, then consideration is being given to a site nearer Salem st., and one on the west side of Route 28. Selectman William Stewart forcefully expressed his view that the larger tract of land is wet and undesirable, unless the Committee is willing to assume the expense of draining it. He also called for retention of town meeting control over recreation expenses - noting that much of the acreage not required for actual construction is being sought for future use by schools and townspeople alike. Town Manager Thomas E. Duff with his thoughts focused on the dollars involved, told the gathering that there isn't enough money in the Land Committee's account to buy all the land the school officials want. He suggested it might be necessary to ask for extensive appropriations at town meeting next March, with funds earmarked for school sites. But he suggested that cooperation will be needed from the school people, in supporting the article - something he said has been missing during the past few years. Mr. Doyle also reminded the men that other town problems must be faced, and securing land for fire stations and other purposes is one of these. Thus he thought that perhaps land should be acquired for general town use - then the specific usage decided when the need is established.

What Our Readers Say—
To the Editor of the Townsman
"While our class was studying about Andover, we discussed the newspaper, the Andover Townsman.
"Our teachers said anyone has the privilege of writing to the editor. I thought you would like to know that on May 22, the two fourth grades in the Shawsheen School went on a field trip. Our aim was to learn more about the old culture of Andover. We are lucky to live in the same town where the Peabody Museum and the Addison Art Gallery are. That is where we went.
"First we went to the art gallery. There we saw hand-blown glass over a hundred years old. We also saw silver of the Colonial times. Some of the displayed pieces were soup ladles, platters or trays, and bowls of various shapes and sizes.
"After we had enjoyed the downstairs rooms, we went upstairs where we saw paintings of all types. I am not sure which I like the best, each was different from the other.
"Our teacher says the more we go to the Gallery, the more we will be interested and appreciate the paintings.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman: "While our class was studying about Andover, we discussed your newspaper, the Andover Townsman."

"Our teachers said anyone has the privilege of writing to the editor. I thought you would like to know that on May 22, the two fourth grades in the Shawsheen School went on a field trip. Our aim was to learn more about the old culture of Andover. We are lucky to live in the same town where the Peabody Museum and the Addison Art Gallery are. That is where we went."

"First we went to the art gallery. There we saw hand-blown glass over a hundred years old. We also saw silver of the Colonial times. Some of the displayed pieces were soup ladles, platters or trays, and bowls of various shapes and sizes."

"After we had enjoyed the downstairs rooms, we went upstairs where we saw paintings of all types. I am not sure which is the best, each was different from the other."

"Our teacher says the more we go to the Gallery, the more we will be interested and appreciate the paintings."
