Planners Agree To Hold On Chandler Road Rezoning

By Susan K. O'Neill

Tuesday night, the Planning Board agreed to withdraw its warrant article for the rezoning of Chandler Road property from Industrial D to Single Residence A, in return for a formal one-year moratorium on building and subdivision plans which would seek access to the road. The board stipulated that the agreement, which is not yet in final form, must be signed by all landowners in the area proposed for rezoning, and recorded before they would remove the article from the warrant.

The board had originally proposed the article, which would have rezoned a strip of land 300 feet deep along the north side of the street, as a method to bar abutting industries such as Wang and GCA from building access to Chandler Road—a road that is not equipped to serve industrial traffic.

The proposed rezoning met with vocal opposition from property owners at a January public hearing, who argued that it would lower property values, deny at least two owners access to their land, and bar adjacent development by virtue of SRC setback requirements. At the board's direction, the owners later met with attorneys for GCA to hammer out a non-zoning alternative to the article.

Tuesday's draft of that compromise—a refinement of an earlier proposal that the board rejected as one-sided—allows all parties a year's grace period to construct a permanent agreement, possibly including deed restrictions, to restrict access to the road. If agreement is not reached, the board would be free to take its article to another Town Meeting—and owners would be free to present subdivision plans that would grandfather their access in the face of any potential zoning change.

GCA attorney Robert Davis presented the current draft, and Robert Zollner, counsel for the Planning Board, pronounced it "legally acceptable. This doesn't mean the Planning Board is accepting this," he said, adding that they still had "substantive issues" to settle before finalizing any agreement.

Asked if the proposed moratorium would be signed by all the affected Chandler Road residents, Davis said that he had contacted them—and they were all in agreement. "The theory of the covenant is that it burdens the land," he further explained; restrictions would pass to successive owners if the land were sold during the grace period.

"Will this stand up in a court of law?" asked board member Paul Curley, who had opposed the idea of compromise at earlier meetings.

Zollner assured him that it would.

"It becomes, once again, a problem of access," mused Chairman Margaret Bradshaw. She listed landowners—notably, GCA Corporation and Sarkis Sarkisian—who had objected to the rezoning on the grounds that it would cut off the eventual industrial use of their land. "Where else would these owners have access," she asked, "if not on Chandler?"

Davis answered that GCA would like to explore access possibilities on Shattuck Road. "What we would hope to do is get

Play Premieres In Hartford

Artistic Director Mark Lamos has announced that "Distant Fires," a new play by Kevin Heelan, is the recipient of the HSC Regional Award in the Foundation of the Dramatists Guild/CBS New Plays Program. Heelan, chairman of the theater department at Phillips Academy, Andover, will receive a $5,000 award from FDG/CBS and his play will receive a production at the Hartford Stage March 11-April 13. Lamos will direct the production, which features a set by Marjorie Bradley Kellogg, costumes by G.W. Mercier and lighting by Stephen Strawbridge. The action of "Distant Fires" takes place en-

The action of "Distant Fires" takes place entirely on the tenth floor of a building under construction. From their precarious worksite, six men are brought into conflict through two central events: the competition between two workers—one black, the other white—for a single spot in the union and the simmering racial tension of the city, which has already provoked violating.

Heelan's play, "Heartland," the study of a small family terrorized by an unseen force, was produced on Broadway in 1981, featuring Sean Penn under the direction of Art Wolff. His boxing drama, 'Split Decision' premiered at the Philadelphia Festival Theatre for New Plays in the spring of 1985. Heelan received an Academy Award nomination for Best Live Action Short of 1983 for his screenplay "Split Cherry Tree," directed by Andrei Konchalovsky and starring Colleen Dewhurst. His one man play, "Ten East," a look at eight characters in a mental hospital, shared a Villager Award for Best Solo Performance with monologuist Spalding Gray. Heelan is an MFA graduate of Smith College.

Regarding the decision to produce only one play in the March and April slot, originally announced as two plays in repertory, Lamos explaned, "The exceptionally high quality of Kevin's play, combined with the particular and unusual requirements of the setting, moved us to present only one script in our new play slot. In this way, our entire audience will be able to see this very special new work."

Kevin Heelan

Regional productions of the FDG/CBS competition remain in contention for a single $10,000 award to be presented this spring to the most promising playwright/theatre collaboration.

Performances of "Distant Fires" are Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday at 7:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. with matinees Wednesday at 2 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

School Board In Session Tuesday

The School Committee will meet on Tuesday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor meeting room of the school administration offices in the Town Office Building, off Whittier Street.

March Glass Drive Is Saturday

The March glass drive, sponsored by Andover Recycling, Inc., will be this Saturday, March 15, in the parking lot behind Andover's old town hall. The large rolloff bin is usually placed parallel to Barnard Street close to the Bartlet Street entrance to the lot. Andover Recycling volunteers will be on hand from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to help anyone who needs assistance.

The bin will be clearly marked to show which end is for clear glass and which is for green. Brown glass will not be accepted. The bags and boxes in which recyclers bring their glass should not be thrown into the bin or left at the recycling site. Many householders who recycle regularly have found the reusable containers such as plastic wastebaskets are ideal, not only for separating and storing glass at home, but also for facilitating disposal at the glass drive.

With the announcement of a new state plan for recycling to ease the growing solid waste disposal problem, citizens of recycling towns like Andover are more aware than ever of the value of the programs. What at one time may have been viewed as an outgrowth of the idealism of the 1970s has since proven to be a practical response to an expensive, dangerous and permanent reality.

Panel To Discuss Teen Pressure

Andover's Parent Center will present a panel discussion, "Teenagers Speak Out—The Pressure Is On," on Wednesday, March 19, in the School Committee Meeting Room at 7:30 p.m. The panel will consist of seventh, eighth and ninth graders from West Junior High School who will discuss the problems of teen pressures—peer, social, parent and academic. This event is under the direction of Judy Piolunek and the West Junior High School Parent Advisory Council. This date replaces the March 11 Parent Center meeting which had been previously announced.

Extended Day Program Registering

Registration for the SHED (Shawsheen Extended Day) Program will take place in coordination with the kindergarten registration at Shawsheen School on March 24, 25 and 26. Procedures will follow those of the kindergarten registration regarding the specific night on which school district is scheduled to register.

Slot allocations will be divided equally over the three-night period with priority given to those registering for the full five-day program. A non-refundable registration fee will be collected at the time of registration.

Honors

Cynthia Connor of Andover, a freshman, has earned a place on the Dean's List for the first half of the school year at Castle Junior College, Windham, N.H.

Computer Literacy Center Opens At Phillips Academy

In an effort to expand the availability and in- machines and their capabilities. Students may fluence of computers, Phillips Academy in Andover has opened a new computer literacy center.

Computers have been part of the Andover curriculum for many years. The math department makes 19 networked IBM PCs available for computer science students: Russian language students have access to eight Apple IIE computers for word processing in Russian; the art department houses several Apples for computer graphics students and the music department utilizes an Apple IIE to drive a music synthesizer.

The new Computer Literacy Center will augment the equipment now in place in the various departments and offer all students access to a drop-in center with 16 Apple IIE computers and a staff prepared to help them learn about the come to the center at any time during the school day or in the evening and receive an introductory package consisting of a brief instruction manual, several disks and basic information about the computer's capability.

According to Phillips' director of computer services, Lew Robbins, the center represents a first step in attempting to make all students comfortable with the machines. Robbins suspects that the new PCs will be used primarily for word processing by students to write papers; as news of the center spreads, he anticipates that use will increase dramatically and has tentatively included plans for an expanded computer services facility in the soon-to-be-renovated Oliver Wendell Holmes Library.

To Spend Spring Break Doing Volunteer Work

A group of 11 Merrimack College students will not be spending their "spring break" on the beaches of Florida or at their homes; instead. they will be doing volunteer work in Orland,

The students are members of Merrimaction, a social action organization of Merrimack students, faculty, administration and staff first organized at the college by the Campus Ministry Center 25 years ago. Each year, Merrimaction members spend their spring vacation working in soup kitchens, shelters for the poor and homeless and with other agencies and services for the needy along the east coast.

During this year's spring break, March 24-28, the 11 Merrimaction students will do volunteer work with H.O.M.E.—Homeworkers Organized for More Employment. The students will cut and clear wood for fuel, assist in the setting up of the group's food bank and repair and insulate the homes of elderly and poor residents in the area.

Last year, six Merrimaction members spent their week off doing volunteer work at Covenant House, the shelter for homeless, runaway and exploited youth in New York City

During the year, members of Merrimaction have organized events to raise funds for their travel and living expenses. Movie nights, a "Papa Leone" Italian supper and special collections at weekend Masses on campus have been held to finance the trip.

Students making the trip to Maine include: Raymond Chandonnet of Lowell, a junior majoring in mathematics; Houry Daghlian of North Andover, a freshman majoring in political science;

Jacqueline Johnston of Hingham, a freshman psychology major.

Chrisann Kelly of Dennisport, a sophomore majoring in marketing;

Michael Kelly of Dennisport, a freshman majoring in business management;

Tim Miga of Walpole, a junior majoring in political science:

Marianne Moceri of Gloucester, a freshman majoring in business management;

Michelle Pommier of Leominster, a junior majoring in religious studies;

Michael Sills of Grafton, a sophomore psychology major:

Anne Sullivan of Stow, a junior biology major. Rev. Edward Hastings, O.S.A., and Patricia McAndrews of the Campus Ministry staff will accompany the group.

FIVE ANSWERS EVERY SENIOR CITIZEN SHOULD KNOW.

- 1. When I'm hospitalized, what does my health insurance cover?
- 2. What do I do when I get a bill from my doctor that I thought should have been covered by my insurance?
- 3. How do I apply for Medicare?
- 4. Now that I have Medicare, should I get other insurance coverage as well?
- 5. How do I fill out my paperwork when I receive a medical bill? When you need answers to these or any other questions involving Medicare, Medicaid, Medex, or any other health insurance, there's a new phone number you should know about. Just call Lawrence General Hospital's special Senior CareLine -- 686-CARE -- anytime between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday. We'll give you all the free advice you need.

The Senior CareLine is another important part of Lawrence General Hospital's special services for people 65 or older. When you are a patient at Lawrence General, you automatically receive a program of services we call Senior Class. Your Senior Class advantages include:

- Special Senior Class discount on the cost of a standard private room. You pay only three dollars a day out-of-pocket to enjoy your privacy.
- Senior Class telephone service that waives all regular telephone fees. You pay only for long distance calls.
- Skilled, caring nursing and support staff joining with your personal physician to treat you as an honored guest.
- Since recent insurance changes do not permit coverage for hospitalization with some surgical procedures, Lawrence General Hospital day surgery has added new services with this in mind. Our new Hotel Service offers comfortable hotel-type accommodations right off the surgical floor. You and a companion can stay overnight before or after your surgery for only $39 per night, double occupancy, including meal service.

Teacher An Eyewitness To Dramatic Phillipines History

By Susan K. O'Neill

Tom Meyers had traveled in tropical countries before, so the oppressive heat did not surprise him when he stepped from the plane at Manila, in the Philippines. Nor did the hordes of children, hands outstretched, begging him for pesos.

What did impress him, Meyers admits, was that here was where it had all started. Here on the tarmac at the Manila airport, in August of 1983, Benigno Aquino had stepped off a plane from Boston after three years' exile—and had been gunned down because his return had threatened the president of the Philippines.

Meyers had come to the Philippines to witness, first hand, the culmination of the chain of events that that assassination had set in motion. A social studies teacher, he was stepping off a plane into history in the making—into a turbulent February that would end with the triumph of Corazon Aquino over Ferdinand Marcos, her late husband's greatest enemy.

"It was very tropical, very lush—perhaps the most beautiful country I've seen." Tom Meyers sits over a cup of tea in the living room of his modest home on Rennie Drive. On the walls around him hang photo montages—smiling faces; pleasant family outings. There is a poster supporting the "sanctuary movement," which supplies shelter for illegal political refugees in U.S. churches. There are prints in clear, flat colors of horses and wigwams, testimony to the Sioux heritage of Meyers' wife, Carletta. Meyers is a seasoned traveler. He has Meyers is a seasoned traveler. He has directed a residential home for Indian children in South Dakota and taught at a secondary school in Mexico. He has participated in peace-related delegations to El Salvador and Nicaragua.

And now, very recently, Meyers has returned from the Philippines, where he and five others took part in an exchange sponsored by Rotary International. He was recommended for the trip—part of a program designed to promote international fellowship and understanding—by Rotarian Bill Fay, the principal of West Intermediate School in Wilmington, where Meyers works.

The project featured a structured itinerary. Escorted by Philippine Rotarians, Meyers and other participants toured businesses, factories, cottage industries and farms throughout the country. They stayed in quarters that ran the full spectrum of luxury from a five-star hotel in Manila, to smaller inns ("We were lucky if they had running water," he says), to homes of host Rotarians.

Now and then, the schedule allowed Meyers to break away by himself to observe the countryside, and to witness the developing confusion that was election time

"The Philippines is a country rich in natural resources," says Meyers. A spiral binder lies on the coffee table beside his teacup; he is the consummate teacher. "It has a very industrious population, and one of the highest education levels, for a third-world country, in the world."

for a third-world country, in the world." However, in the 20 years that Ferdinand Marcos has been president, Meyers explains, the economy has fallen into a shambles. The country suffers a 30 percent inflation rate and carries an international debt of about $26 billion dollars. Unemployment hovers at approximately 40 percent.

According to Meyers, the poverty was open and graphic. In the smog and congestion of Manila, Meyers passed barrios of shacks, thrown together using what appeared to be any building material available—bamboo, broken boarding, corrugated tin. In the countryside, he saw one-room bamboo nipa huts—some on stilts to counter the now-fading effects of the seasonal monsoon rains. A restaurant worker told him that she worked seven days per week to earn her monthly paycheck of 300 pesos ($15); an elementary school teacher made 600-1000 pesos—30 to 50 dollars—per month. Hardscrabble wages, poorly matched to prices that Meyers estimated to be roughly one-third to one-fourth those found in the United States.

At street level, says Meyers, the hope kindled among the Philippine people by the upcoming election was almost palpable. "What amazed me when I got there was the high degree of animosity against Marcos," he says. "It cut across economic and class lines." Even Rotary members were "about 90 percent in opposition," he estimates; "Being businessmen, their own economy had suffered tremendously."

Under the presence of international observers and the press, says Meyers, people he spoke with could afford the luxury of open criticism of their government. "Under the Marcos regime, there was no opportunity for dissent," he explains. "Not only was the press and television owned by the so-called Marcos 'cronies'; many labor leaders had been imprisoned, as had others in the business community who had disagreed with the government."

Now, says Meyers, the time had come. "Things were so bad, they knew that they had to stand up."
Meyers spent Feb. 7, a hot, sun-

Meyers spent Feb. 7, a hot, sundrenched election day, in the fishing town of Batangas. It was opposition territory: the home of Salvador Laurel, Corazon Aquino's choice for Vice President, and the principal city in a province governed by his nephew.

Meyers observed the voting procedure at one polling station, a school. "The names were broken down alphabetically," he says, "and you were directed to a room. You'd go in, submit your name, and they'd check it. You would receive a ballot and go over to a corner, behind a curtain, to vote privately."

Each ballot box came with four officials, Meyers says. Two were party representatives, for Marcos' New Society Movement (KBL) and Aquino's United Nationalist Democratic Organization (UNIDO). Another represented the government, and a fourth was a member of the National Citizens' Movement for Free Elections (NAMFREL). The last two would count the ballots (the government, officially; NAMFREL, unofficially) after the polls closed.

Meyers also met a member of the U.S.

Meyers also met a member of the U.S. delegation—an aide to Sen. Alan J. Dixon of Illinois—that had been sent to ensure a fair election. While observing with him, Meyers spoke with local voters. "The day of the election, people were very anxious to let us know about any incongruity," he said.

The stories from the people were eyeopening. "It was common to find that

Participating In Hospital Alliance

Lawrence General Hospital has joined with Lowell General Hospital, Massachusetts General Hospital and six other other hospitals in the HealthFront Alliance, the Commonwealth's first major voluntary hospital and health care corporate system. Patients of the member hospitals will benefit in quality, convenience, price, accessibility and diversity of health services.

HealthFront Alliance, a for-profit corporation, has as its hospital members Cape Cod, South Shore (Weymouth), Lawrence Memorial (Medford), Massachusetts General, Beverly, Burbank, Norwood, Lowell General and now Lawrence General. The nine health care systems operate nearly 4,000 hospital and long-term care beds and have almost $1 billion in annual revenues.

Thomas Hennessey, president of Lawrence General Hospital, finds that "the member institutions are high quality, effectively managed hospitals that are already recognized as dominant, aggressive forces in their respective marketplaces."

The principal objective of HealthFront is to enhance access to innovative, compre-

The principal objective of HealthFront is to enhance access to innovative, comprehensive, cost effective, high quality health related programs and services, including health education.

According to Hennessey, HealthFront has been developing over the past two years and is already considered the premier corporate vehicle for Massachusetts hospitals to position themselves as leaders in the quality of health care while securing financial stability and success in the new competitive health care delivery environment.

HealthFront Alliance is in the process of completing arrangements for its member hospitals to become institutional members of Voluntary Hospitals of America (VHA), a national, not-for-profit corporation with nearly 700 non-profit hospital members. As a dominant health care super system in the United States, VHA is interested in those hospitals with a long record of success and effective management and a reputation for high quality care. Typical member institutions in VHA have strong governing boards, top quality medical staffs and a commitment to educational programming.

VHA can offer to HealthFront Alliance hospitals major group purchasing powers, uniform cost accounting and data sharing, access to capital, productivity enhancement programming and participation in selective national health insurance contracts.

"Group purchasing alone could save Lawrence General Hospital well over $200,000 a year," Hennessey said.

Conference On AIDS At College

A day-long conference entitled "AIDS: Practical Considerations for Health and Service Personnel" will be held Wednesday, March 26, at Merrimack College in North Andover. Presented jointly by the AIDS Action Committee, Visiting Nurse Association, HomeCare and Merrimack College, the conference is designed to meet the needs of professionals working directly with the public and will feature the most recent and up-to-date information on AIDS and AIDS Related Complex (ARC). Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Health Bailus Walker, Jr. will open the session at 9 a.m. He will be followed by speakers on AIDS epidemiology, medical aspects of AIDS, psychosocial aspects for patients and psychosocial aspects for providers. A panel of two people with AIDS will close the morning session with time allotted for questions and answers

The afternoon will feature individual workshops designed to meet the needs of specific target groups including home health care personnel, institutions, including school personnel and students, employers and foster and day care providers, counselors and mental health professionals, first response personnel, including EMTs, fire and police, hospital personnel, Hospice providers, pastoral care providers, morticians and dental hygienists. Each workshop will be conducted by individuals with specific backgrounds and experience in that area and will conclude at approximately 4 p.m.

Registration is limited and available by mail-in registration only. The fee includes admission to the morning plenary session and afternoon workshop of choice, morning and afternoon coffee, hot catered lunch and all workshop materials. The conference has been submitted for continuing education credits for nurses, EMTs and social workers. Certificates of attendance will be provided to all other disciplines requiring them for credit.

The conference is being sponsored by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Massachusetts Public Health Association, Hospice Federation of Massachusetts, Massachusetts Health Council, Boston Mayor's Committee on AIDS, American Red Cross Blood Services Northeast Region, Governor's Task Force on AIDS, Massachusetts Association of Community Health Agencies, Massachusetts Nurses Association, Fenway Community Health Center, Massachusetts Dental Hygienists Association, Massachusetts Council of Homemakers and Home Health Aides, Visiting Nurse Association of Massachusetts Incorporated, Bon Secours Hospital, Anna Jacques Hospital, Haverhill Municipal (Hale) Hospital, Lawrence General Hospital and the Merrimack Valley Health Planning Council, Inc.

Bon Secours Commended

The American Hospital Association (AHA) has commended Bon Secours Hospital of Methuen for its continuing efforts to control costs while increasing productivity. This hospital was awarded the 1985-1986 HAS Certificate of Recognition for being an active member of HAS/MO-NITREND, a comparative operational monitoring system offered by AHA's Hospital Administrative Services Division (HAS) that assists hospitals in reducing costs while maintaining the quality of their medical services.

According to William L. Lane, executive director, "Using HAS/MONITRND to assess our operational performance helps us keep our costs in line with Medicare and other third party reimbursement systems. Paticipating in this program puts us in a better position to provide high quality care to all patients as efficiently as pos-

Bon Secours Hospital has been participating in HAS programs for the past ten years. Through its voluntary participation in the MON-ITREND program, the hospital demonstrates its commitment to provide high quality health care services while controlling costs and improving staff productivity. By sharing information with other hospitals in the program, Bon Secours monitors state and national health care trends. This resource information allows the hospital to evaluate its performance compared with similar facilities. MONITREND data is used to make management budgeting, staffing and service decisions

Samaritans Sponsor Conference

The topic of suicide is front page news these days following the public suicides in Lebanon, N.H., and Spencer and the quieter ones close to home.

The public is invited to learn more about this topic when The Samaritans of the Merrimack Valley hosts the Samaritans U.S.A. national yearly conference March 21-23 at Merrimack College, North Andover.

Charlotte P. Ross, executive director of the Charlotte P. Ross, executive director of the Youth Suicide National Center, Washington, D.C., will speak in the chapel auditorium on Saturday, March 22, at 2:30 p.m.

The Samaritans are an international suicide prevention group which offers 24-hour telephone befriending to the suicidal and despairing.

The Merrimack Valley branch opened in Lawrence in 1980. A non-profit organization partially supported by the United Fund, The Samaritans have provided services to the surrounding communities of Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill by answering over 100,000 calls over the last five years.

Currently 55 volunteers answer phones and provide workshops to schools, businesses and service organizations. They also provide Safe Place, a bimonthly support group for people who have lost family members or close friends through suicide, and facilitate Lifeline, a weekly suicide prevention training and support service for inmates of the Lawrence House of Correction. Training programs for people interested in volunteering are held on a regular basis.

The Samaritans' office is located at 55 Jackson St., Lawrence.

Peace Panels On Display

Handcrafted panels from "The Ribbon" that were wrapped around the Pentagon last summer will be on display at Christ Church March 16 and 19.

More than 25,000 segments were joined together in Washington, D.C., on August 4, 1985, to create a Ribbon of Peace stretching 15 miles. The panels were handmade mainly by women and children from all over the United States and showed symbols of the precious things in life that would be lost in a nuclear war. Ann Hopkins and Ann Traver of Andover were among the thousands who contributed panels.

"There are times when each one of us may find it difficult to confront the fear, the sense of powerlessness, that comes from living in a nuclear age," says Travers. "The idea behind The Ribbon is to help us face those very fears by doing something creative."

People from the area will have the opportunity to share in this project at Christ Church, Central Street, where 50-100 of these panels will be displayed. On Sunday, March 16, at 10:15 a.m. at the Christ Church Education Hour, Ann Hopkins and her daughter, Cindy, and Ann Traver tell. the stories of how they created their panels. Jeff Gill will share thoughts on his experience in Washington, D.C. Last August, on the 40th anniversary of the dropping of the bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, thousands of Americans formed a chain with the panels; the completed ribbon encircled the Pentagon, crossed the Memorial Bridge, passed the Lincoln Memorial and stretched the entire length of the Mall to the Capitol.

A second opportunity to see the panels will be at a worship service for peace at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, March 19, sponsored by the Andover Ecumenical Peace Group. It is part of the series of monthly services when people from all faiths are invited to talk about, reflect on and pray for peace.

The idea of The Ribbon originated in 1982 with Justine Merritt, a Denver grandmother and retired school teacher. After reading Jonathan Schell's "The Fate of the Earth," she felt threatened by the possibility of a nuclear war. As she pondered the question "What is it that I cannot bear to think of as lost forever in a nuclear age," she decided to create a panel 36"x18" containing the embroidered names of hundreds of friends and relatives. She then asked friends on her Christmas card list that year to join her in making panels and her vision spread to a nationwide outpouring of thousands of panels that were connected in Washington last August.

The many individuals who responded to Justine's plea expressed their concern through their unique creativity, designing and stitching, weaving, painting, embroidering, quilting. The answers to "What do you cherish in life?" were as varied as the participants: picnics, children and grandchildren, rainbows, animals, trees, flowers and friends.

Christ Church and the Andover Ecumenical Peace Group want to continue spreading the message of peace that was started by "The Ribbon" project. Many segments, including the one made by Ann and Cindy Hopkins, are on display in the Peace Museum in Chicago. Others are being shown in churches and schools throughout the country. There is a continuation of the project on a global scale in conjunction with the First Earth Run. The Ribbon panels are the embodiment of Dwight Eisenhower's famous

Daffodil Festival Planned

Members of the Greater Lawrence Unit of the American Cancer Society are finalizing plans for this year's Daffodil Festival, March 19-23.

The daffodil, one of the first flowers of spring, has been chosen by the organization as a symbol of hope and promise in the fight against cancer. Daffodils, flown in from California, will be sold through area schools, banks and

Volunteers will sell daffodils on the streets of Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and North Reading, communities served by the unit, on March 22. Volunteers able to donate just two hours of their time to assist in sales and distribution are urgently needed. Those willing to help are urged to contact the regional office of the American Cancer Society in Tewksbury

The group's major goal this year is to enlist the aid of area businesses and restaurants in the sale of these flowers. Ten bunches or more can be delivered to any business willing to take part. Details are available from the Tewksbury office

In addition to raising funds for cancer research and treatment, the local unit maintains a "loan closet," through which cancer victims may borrow crutches, canes, hospital beds and other medical equipment. Through its Road-to-Recovery program, volunteers drive cancer patients to Boston and area hospitals for chemo and radiation therapy. Public education programs for the prevention and detection of cancer are held on a regular basis and professional education programs keep doctors, nurses and other medical practicioners up-to-date on latest developments.

Anyone interested in further information or in helping with any programs are urged to contact the Tewksbury

To Intern In Systems Project

Gail A. Williams of Andover will participate in an information systems design project as an intern at the Massachusetts Office of Management Information Systems in Boston beginning this spring. The internship is a formal part of the master of science program in Management Information Systems (MS/MIS) at Boston University's School of Management.

Williams received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Maine at Orono. She is a 1971 graduate of Peekskill High School in Peekskill, N.Y.

Working as part of a four-person team, interns in the MS/MIS program design information systems in actual business settings at Boston area companies. Boston University's MS/MIS program is an intensive, three-semester degree program with the internship incorporating the last two semesters.

Bowlathon To Benefit Statue

Participants of the Andover Senior Center Adult Day Care have been sharpening their skills for a "Rolling for Miss Liberty" Bowlathon on Monday, March 31, at 10 a.m. at the senior center. The proceeds will be contributed to the Statue of Liberty Restoration Fund. Spectators will be welcome to cheer the bowlers on as well as offer pledges. people registered to vote would be told, 'You're not registered here—why don't you go to this other place?' " says Meyers. Finding transportation elsewhere proved a hardship to the poor; the ploy often effectively blocked a vote.

According to Meyers, there were also people who had been offered money—as much as five dollars a ballot—to vote for Marcos. On the sly, a voter was given a sample ballot and a scrap of carbon paper, he says. "You slip it under yours when you mark your own ballot. Then they can see by the carbon that you voted the way you had agreed."

Even though they knew what was happening, Meyers says that NAMFREL and U.S. observers could do no more than note the irregularities. "The police were controlled by the military, who were controlled by the Marcos government," he explains. "There was no re-

But the controls slipped as the world observed the election through the press and television. Meyers felt the tension around him-would there be bloodshed?—and the hope, as both Aquino and Marcos declared themselves winners.

Then, on Feb. 11, President Ronald Reagan told the international television audience that there was evidence of cheating on "both sides" in the election.

People approached Meyers. "The people kept asking me, 'What's wrong with him; why's he doing this?' "A vocal critic of administration policies, Meyers frankly explained that, in his opinion, the President felt compelled to temper criticism of Marcos because of U.S. econominterests-and the presence of Subic Naval Base and Clark Air Force Basein the Philippines

Reagan called for a compromise—a move that, once again, seemed disheartening to the people Meyers met. "Many people were wondering why the U.S. sup-ported Marcos for so long to begin with," he says. "I think people from the Philippines have an image of the U.S. as espousing liberty and open government...to realize that we supported a government that was in direct opposition to many of these tenets was very confusing to some of them.

This has been a busy week at Andover High School. The Andover S.A.D.D. chapter hosted a conference on drinking and driving on Wednesday, March 5. The Parents Advisory Council (PAC) has arranged an under-21 club.

The drinking and driving conference was sponsored by the Greater Lawrence Educatio-nal Collaborative and was attended by many schools. Reprsentatives from Lawrence, Haverhill, North Andover and the Vocational School came to Andover's Collins Center for five and a half hours.

Channel 56 helped sponsor the event by sending a reporter, Una Pemmaraju, who answered questions and presented a movie entitled "D.W.I. - Deadliest Weapon in America." This was a graphic film involving real incidents of drunken driving. The Peer Counseling depart-ment put on several short skits and answered questions while still in character. Judge Perrochi of Lawrence, Office Jack Milne (Andover Police), Paul Thornton, a Haverhill health teacher, and Bobby Dufresne, North Andover S.A.D.D. president, spoke to small groups.

The day was highly informative, well organized and most interesting. The goal was to educate high school students about the effects of alcohol. Physical and legal aspects were discussed to, hopefully, reduce the number of deaths attributed to alcohol.

Andover's PAC is trying to curb drinking, also. Roll On America will be transforemed into an under 21 club for the evening of May 2 and will be open to people under 21 from all surrounding towns. The PAC committee, headed by

The physical education department is again sponsoring a Jump Rope for Heart event, organized by Louise M. There was a basketball game between the faculty and students on Friday, March 7. The fac-ulty team consisted of Mr. Baker, Mr. Darrin, Mr. Fawcett, Mr. Gangi, Mr. Heinrich, Mr. Kal-pin, Miss Lunt, Mr. Maglio, Mr. McCarthy, Mrs. McLellan and Mrs. Selima. The students' team was comprised of the girls' and boys' basketball teams. John Perry and Chris Concerni were referees and the final score was 26-25 students. During half-time, awards were given to out-standing athletes playing in the game. Ninth grade students have been busy choosing their courses for next year. A guidance counselor from the high school came to ninth grade classes on Thursday, March 6, and showed a video tape on the high school. Each student received a booklet on the courses offered. Students and their parents met with guidance counselors to sign up for courses on March 7, 10, 11 and 12. The students will go to the high school for an orientation day in the spring.

A few weeks go, the bands and choruses from the high school came to West Junior High School for a demonstration for ninth graders. The jazz band, marching band, color guard, high school chorus and members of the high school musical

All your life you give everything for your kids. Maybe it's not enough.

When you children were born they were the most special in the world. And you put into them all the things they'd need to be total human beings, whatever the cost. Then they went to school and you gave up much of the job. But you still have to make sure they remain special. Some children get lost in the crowd of a classroom. Yours might

In Hebrew Day Schools the classes are small—so each child stands out as an individual. As special as the day he was born. And all the children are taught the same cultural heritage.

So while they're getting a complete excellent secular educa-tion your children are also learning what it means to be 'ewish and thus, about being total individuals. Today, there's some-thing very special about that. Given the right fundamental set of values there's no telling how far your children will grow. Find out more, speak with us

'Great Expectations' At Center

The eccentric Miss Havisham looks on as Pip is taunted by the beautiful Estella in Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations." The cast of 11 play over 30 Dickensian characters. Included are Ann-Sara Matthews as Estella (left), Darrie Lawrence as Miss Havisham (center) and Timothy Wahrer as Pip (right).

The Guthrie Theatre's production of "Great Expectations," Charles Dickens' classic tale adapted for the stage, will be presented at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 19, at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road, Andover.

"Great Expectations" is about the coming of age of Pip who rises from humble beginnings as a blacksmith's apprentice to become, with help from a mysterious benefactor, a gentleman.

"It's a perfect play for the Guthrie Theatre to share with the rest of the country," says Stephen Kanee, director of the national touring company. "It's a showcase for the actors. There are a multitude of fascinating characters and many of the actors play two or three roles. It's exciting drama and very theatrical.

Scense are linked by narration and music. The stage is divided by two stairways that can become the country, city, a river or garden. In one particularly dramatic scene, the stage is transformed into the River Thames and Pip, in a rowboat, collides with a mammoth steamer.

The Guthrie, in Minneapolis, is one of the country's leading regional theatres. In "Great Expectations," Kanee is part of a Guthrie team including Barbara Field, the playwright who adapted "Great Expectations," Jack Barkla, the set decirate and Josh Edwards the cost the set designer, and Jack Edwards, the costume designer.

The performance of "Great Expectations" is sponsored in part by Bank of Boston Private Banking Group. Tickets are available at the J. Everett Collins Center box office in Andover and at all Ticketron outlets.

Be sure to have proper ventila on installed when updating a kitchen. It is estimated that on average. approximately 200 pounds of moisture, smoke and greasy vapor are released during greasy vapor are released during a year's worth of cooking. Beside causing odors and discoloration, unvented vapors can cause greasy walls and peeling paint. A kitchen remodeler can install an exhaust fan and ductwork at the same time the kitchen walls, ceil-ings and cabinets are being re-newed. A ventilating hood can be used over kitchen ranges, espe cially where cook islands are in-volved. Proper ventilation is but one contributor to the total satis-

Auditions For Mystery Scheduled

Andover Community Theatre will hold auditions March 19 and 20 at West Elementary School, Andover, for their upcoming production "Rehearsal For Murder."

The play, directed by Peter O. Allen, calls for nine men and six women of varying ages. It is a theatrical mystery about a playwright who writes and rehearses a play to trap the killer of his fiance. Suspects range from the producer and director of the play to the understudy and her husband, a character actor. The plot provides many twists and turns as the playwright systematically pursues the truth about the death of his soon-to-be wife.

Andover Community Theater is run in conjunction with the Department of Community Services.

Athletic Trainer Requested

Andover Athletic Director Richard Bourdelais requested an athletic trainer to provide care prevention and treatment of injuries for students involved in interscholastic athletics during a recent School Committee meeting.

"We are in the minority in terms of having a trainer's position in our program," Bourdelais told the School Committee.

Massachusetts law now requires that a physician, certified trainer or E.M.T. (Emergency Medical Technician) be in attendance at football games of all levels and requires that the athletic trainer or anyone performing this service, should be licensed by the Board of Allied Health Professions. The law also includes a strong recommendation that each school employ a licensed athletic trainer, according to the MIAA (Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association Newsletter) according to Bourdelais.

The trainer would be required to provide more expertise for the students in the area of health and safety and training procedures and to provide more readily available treatment for injured students, according to Bourdelais students, according to Bourdelais.

The interscholatic program contains 25 boys and 25 girls teams within the program. The availability of coaches applying for positions with the proper training, preparation and experience in injury care is limited, according to Bourdelais.

The part-time position that carries a to work during that moratorium period and come up with a suitable solution," he added.

Sarkisian indicated that he would work with Wang Industries to try to arrange an easement to his "blocked" rear acreage. He reassured the board that he and his family had no intentions of moving, but added, "We don't want to be deprived of the value of that land—when the time comes, we want to get top dollar for it."

Explaining the board's position, Bradshaw said, "Our decision has to be, are we going to wait a year, or rezone to keep traffic to a minimum on Chandler Road?" Everyone involved in the issue knew that the traffic problem exists, she continued; it fell to the board to find the best way to rectify it for the sake of the town.

To this, a resident angrily replied, "It seems to me you people have never cared about West Andover until you saw a gold mine out there." Now the board was faced with a solution to their problems, he said; they should act upon it.

"It's not a solution," said Bradshaw. "It's a year."

Curley said, "The planning staff and the board have come up with a solution; they have put an article on the warrant. The people involved have come with a solution...Why don't we let Town Meeting come up with a solution?"

come up with a solution?"

Board member Andrew Girdwood reminded Curley that, if the board pressed for its article, the owners could still file plans before April 7 which would grandfather access to the road. "If we force this to Town Meeting," he said, "We're forcing them to come up with a plan."

"Amen!" interjected someone from the audience.

"It seems to me that as long as we can buy ourselves time to find some planning alternatives," said Girdwood, "we should do it."

Ultimately, the board agreed that they would sign a finished draft of the compromise—and withdraw their article for this year—if owners agreed to shift the date for the end of the moratorium to

Andover Street Building Plan Meets Neighborhood Protest

By Lisa Waterman

Plans for a new one-and-one-half story commercial building to replace the present building located at 38 and 40 And-over St., by Fio Realty and Trust, 277 Lowell St., met with neighborhood protest during last Thursday's meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals and was denied in a tentative vote by the Z.B.A.

Proposed plans included the addition of storage and office spaces within the new commercial building.

After hearing the plans presented by Phillip Sullivan, attorney representing owners James and L.A. Fiorenza, neighbors pointed out the apparent danger of the proposed building setback the proposed building setback.

"The proposed building is not appropriate to the area, the two-to-three-foot setback from the road is hazardous, it is unsafe to have the doors to offices open on to Andover Street." William Peck, Heritage Lane, told the Board. "Petitions for more and more non-conforming use have been presented for this area and it is time to bring this to a halt."

Other residents cited parking problems and the problem of individual parking on their land.

"There is a parking problem now on Andover Street and I can imagine what it would be like under these circumstances," Jane Legendre, Andover Street, told the board.

"If this proposal is accepted, this will be the last time we will be in here," Sullivan informed the board with a smile.

The Z.B.A has voted a tentative no. Some of the reasons cited were the size of the proposed building and inadequate parking.

Other actions by the Z.B.A: Linn N. Anderson, 93 Abbott St., received a tentative yes to allow the continued existence of an apartment unit in her residence located at 93 Abbott St.

N.A. Calandrello, 5 Oriole Drive, received a tentative no to allow the installation of a T.V. dish antenna. Visability and the option of placing it in another area other than the roof of the residence were cited in the negative decision.

Gregory and Maria L. Gagne, 69 Gould

Road, received a tentative yes for a variance from the requirements of the Zoning By-Law to allow a two-story addition which will not meet minimum setback requirements.

Jean B. Ippolito, 74 Elm St., received a tentative no for a variance from the requirements of the Zoning By-Law to allow the construction of a one-story addition which will enlarge the kitchen and family room and not meet minimum rear yard setback requirements. The Board cited problems with setback requirements.

Road Design Problems To Be Discussed With Officials

By Susan K. O'Neill

Tuesday night, the Planning Board agreed to allow owners of Devonshire Place, a subdivision planned for a location off Osgood Street, to meet with town officials to discuss the possible correction of road design problems which had sparked earlier board rejection of their definitive plan.

The board had rejected the plan at an earlier presentation because town-commissioned studies by the engineering firm of Vanasse-Hangen had indicated that the outlet of an access road on Osgood Street would create a significant traffic hazard.

Speaking for the owners, Atty. John Carragher of Chelmsford cited existing traffic conditions in the area of Osgood Street that had been studied. "The town has a problem, whether or not this subdivision ever gets built," he said. He said that his client would be willing to commission its own study—through which it would seek to redesign the offending curves on Osgood—from Vanasse-Hangen, but that his doing so would constitute a conflict of interests. Therefore, he said, his client was offering to go through the town to plan the necessary redesigning—and to reimburse the town for the service.

"At this point," clarified Chairman Margaret Bradshaw, "You're looking for guidance as opposed to a commitment.'' She and the board agreed to allow Carragher to approach the town, then to report back to the board with the information he gained.

In separate actions, the board also:
• held a public hearing on definitive plans for Foxwood Drive, a planned subdivision of seven lots to be located off River Road;

• voted to reduce bond on the Rogers Brook subdivision from $60,500 to $52,759;

 signed definitive plans for the Starwood Crossing subdivision.

Employee Assist Plan Eyed

A plan to put into effect an Employee Assistance Program was introduced by Andover Supt. Kenneth Seifert as a budget consideration for the upcoming annual school budget during a recent School Committee meeting.

The program would employ a group or company that would provide training, confidential counsel or referral services and help to identify and work with problems among school employees centered around financial, family problems, emotional or drug and alcohol abuse.

"We need to send a positive message that we are concerned about our employees welfare. This would boost morale and cut down on sick leave." Supt. Seifert told the School Committee. The program would include a $500 al-

The program would include a $500 allotment for psychological or psychatric service. The request would be from $12—15,000 allotment within the 1986-87 annual school budget.

Asks Bus Limits Be Altered

An Andover resident appealed to the School Committee to consider changing the one and one-half mile requirement for elementary school children to one-mile for school bus service.

"Many school districts in the area have recently changed the requirement to one-mile for elementary students to be bused," Bernadette J. Fish, Wabanaki Way, informed the School Committee.

Towns that have changed the requirement for elementary school bus service to one-mile are North Andover, Tewksbury, Wilmington and Westwood and number of other towns, according to Fish.

"A number of us are very concerned, there are many streets in town without sidewalks and snow and ice make conditions worse," Fish said.

School Committee policy dictates that if a parent considers their street unsafe for a child to walk to school from, they can forward a letter to the Purchasing and Transportation Coordinator Carol Znamierowski or Business Manager Frank Paul. They will reach an opinion with the advice of Andover Police Safety Officer Jack Milne, according to Znamierowski.

Students Against Drunk Driving

Andover High School hosted the Greater Lawrence Educational Collaborative Conference on drinking and driving last Wednesday, March 5. The conference, involving the Andover High S.A.D.D. Club was developed by the Student Councils and other organizations of Andover, Greater Lawrence, Haverhill, Lawrence and North Andover High Schools, was held to educate and provide area students with the facts on drunk driving. James L. McConaughy, coordinator for the Collaborative, opened the conference by welcoming some 375 students from the area high schools. Speakers addressing students were former District Court Judge Paul Perocchi, Andover Safety Officer Jack Milne and Haverhill Health Educator Paul Thornton. WLVI-TV channel 56 reporter, Una Pemmaraju answered students' questions after showing the movie "D.W.I. The Deadlist Weapon In America" and James Powers, convicted drunk driver who is currently serving time at the Lawrence House of Correction told his story about his drunk driving accident that took the life of his five-year-old son. Breaking A Tradition

In recent years, particularly since the advent of Proposition 2½, it has been customary in this town to put a fee on just about anything and everything.

It is, therefore, refreshing to see that the school committee has dropped the user fee schedule for students participating in athletics or music programs.

The user fee system has netted the school department $33,000 annually in recent years.

Dropping the fees will more than likely cause some budgetary problems to the athletic and music departments, but there is also some positive signs for both agencies.

There have been increases in gate receipts this past year with the introduction of night football and soccer games, with a projected increase in the nocturnal schedule in the coming year.

Band Parents organization conducts various fundraising projects during the course of the year to assist in underwriting some of the costs incurred by the music department.

In arguing for the dropping of the user fees, Athletic Director Richard Bourdelais rightly asked why parents of a student participating in athletics had to pay while other students, also involved in extracurricular activity, were exempt from participatory fees.

The user fee has always seemed to be an inequitable tax on residents of this community.

Parents are already burdened with household and other costs and aniticipated increased economic commitment should their offspring continue their education beyond high school.

Why then should they be further obligated to contribute toward their youngster's participation in athletics, or in musical endeavors.

Too, consider that such activities places the youngster as a representative of the community, either on the playing field or in musical presentations. Why should he have to pay for the privilege of being a part of an organization which is carrying the Andover banner in competitive sports or other activities.

The school committee having provided the lead, maybe it is time to examine the continuing financial harassment of the Andover taxpayer by reviewing other fees and fines which have been instituted in recent years.

It is high time that some decent explanation is made of where all these funds along with the increased revenue from residential and industrial growth is going.

Correction

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN: Susan O'Neill's March 6 article on admission to local nursery schools certainly begins to analyze the preschool and early elementary scene in Andover. Her efforts to explore this area and yours to increase awareness about this concern are to be commended.

There are, however, some facts that need correction or expansion. The director of Learning, Loving and Living Preschool is Mrs. Louise Breen. My position as registrar is related only to admission

The incident at the YMCA occured between my husband and one instructor. In past discussions with YMCA administration regarding toddler programming, it was made clear that group content is responsive to the majority of parents, in this case a highly structured gym session. Perhaps what needs to be explored here are parents' motives and not YMCA programming. Although our needs were not met, I continue to be most supportive of this wonderful local facility

Lastly, (a minor matter except to friends and colleagues who may feel they missed something) I only have two children.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago - March 1911

The annual town meeting held last Monday was one of the quietest and most uneventful that has taken place for several years. There was no marked contest for any office except that of Highway Surveyor for which Joseph Chambers, Milo H. Gould and Stephen A. Lovejoy were candidates. In that Mr. Gould easily secured his election, having 395 votes to Mr. Chambers 134 and Mr. Lovejoy's

At 2 o'clock the voters assembled in the town hall where the meeting was shortly called to order by Moderator Harry A. Ramsdell. The election of officers whose names do not appear on the regular ballot then took place as follows. For trustee of the Cornell Fund, for three years, Joseph A. Smart was elected. For Surveyor of Lumber, F.E. Gleason and William H. Carter were chosen. For Fire Wardens, George D. Ward and Allen Simpson were elected. Field Drivers, Fence Viewers and Pound Keepers were left to the selectmen.

Andover's police record was decidedly better in 1935 than in 1934, the annual report of Chief of Police George A. Dane shows. Last year there were only 516 complaints received and investigated as against 848 in the previous year. There were 120 auto accidents investigated against 116 in the previous year. Drunkeness increased almost 100 percent from 42 arrested in 1934 to 77 in 1935. While there were fewer calls, there were more arrests, 299 against

Reply To Birnbach

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

The "indirect labor" force within the Andover Public School system would like to reply to the public statements made by school committee member, Mr. David Birnbach, at the school committee meeting, February 25, 1986

Aside from the fact that Mr. Birnbach's remarks were demeaning, humiliating and embarassing to us, we are more concerned with the possibility that if a school committee member is so misinformed and ignorant as to what really goes on in the system he represents—what must the public who pays our salaries be thinking.

Mr. Birnbach's visions re curriculum development/training, credible as they may be, no way entitles him to publicly put down an integral part of the Andover school system. Unessential and insignificant as he obviously feels we are, imagine—if you can—the system functioning without the so called "deliverables" emanating from each and every member of our association daily. We can't.

The Finance Committee had it's pruning shears out Tuesday night, as the health department and library budgets were reviewed. Following the review of the budget requests of the Board of Health, the committee tentatively, voted to disapprove the allocation of $12,000 for the Greater Lawrence Drug Council and $25,000 for the Merri-mack Valley Mental Health Clinic. In examining the Memorial Hall library budget, the Fin Com tentatively provided a reduction in staff of one full-time and four parttime employees. The FinCom also cut the library expense budget by about $7,000.

Donald T. Coleman has announced his candidacy for the Andover Board of Selectman as a fiscal conservative in favor of cutting the town budget for 1977 by four percent.

The selectman and town manager are faced with a difficult task if Andover's tax rate is to remain the same. The Selectman have been provided with a priority listing of budget items by Town Manager J. Maynard Austin, which indicates that in order to maintain an even tax rate in the general town budget, cuts totaling $1,463,300 must be

An Andover delegation of two appeared before the Committee on State Administration recently, to speak out against the new, stricter open meeting law. Selectman Janet Lake and Town Manager J. Maynard Austin were particularly seeking a change which would allow the Selectmen and other boards to hold meetings "for administrative purposes" without formal public notice as is now

When all the figures are in, money-wise, the Presidential Primary may have cost the town 85 cents per vote. Town Clerk Elden R. Salter reported this week that the estimated costs of the primary would run between $3,500 and $4,000 including personnel, programming and supplies. Based on the top figure this would come to 85 cents per ballot cast by the 4,700 registered voters, the majority of whom supported President Gerald Ford in the Republican ballot and Morris Udall as the Democratic Presidential nominee.

Committee Favors Motel Tax

The School Committee recommended the passage by town meeting of two articles concerning Chapter 188-The Massa-chusetts Public School Improvement Act of 1985 and an article that will institute the hotel-motel tax in Andover during their March 4 meeting.

Article 4—which would impose a Hotel-/Motel excise tax at the rate of four per-cent, would begin in July. Currently there is a 5.6 percent tax on hotel bills that is levied by the state. The institution of the hotel-motel tax would increase this to approximately 10 percent. The difference would return to municipality.

"This is an option to make some inroads where we have been affected by Prop. 2¹/₂. Another local option is to override Prop. 2¹/₂," School Committee member Michael Giammusso said. The School Committee voted to recommend acceptance of Article 4 by town meeting. Article 39—The Professional Educational Opportunity Grant-will be granted to teachers in the school system based on a $23 per pupil ratio. The School Committee and the Teacher's Union for the town will decide how the money will be distributed. The first payment of a four-payment installment will total $116,839, the next installment will be $100,139 and the next two payments will be $83,449 and $66,760, respectively. The state funds are to be allocated to teachers in Andover's school system. The School Committee voted to accept the grant and recommended its passage at town meet-

Article 40—to provide a minimum teachers' salary of $18,000. School districts can vote to bring up the salary to the minimum of $18,000 for any teacher that was hired prior to July 1, 1985.

St. Robert's Girls Undefeated

St. Robert's C completed its Andover Church Basketball League Intermediate Girls' Division championship season by finishing undefeated, slipping past Christ Church 18-15 in a hard-fought game at the West Elementary gym.

In other season-ending action, third-place St. Robert's A edged Ballardvale United 18-15 and St. Augustine's B trimmed St. Robert's B 14-8.

St. Robert's C, 18-15

Despite intense defensive pressure by Christ Church, high-scoring guard Joanne McNamara scored six of her game-high nine points in the final stanza to preserve St. Robert's C perfect season.

Trailing 8-2 after one quarter, SRC took a 10-9 lead at halftime and held a 12-11 advantage after

McNamara's two free throws and a fieldgoal were offset by two foul shots by CC's Liz Hanson to give SRC a precarious 16-13 lead with 1:20 left

Kerry Hagerty converted two clutch free throws as CC cut St. Robert's C advantage to one point. McNamara capped off SRC's successful season by swishing two from the foul stripe with 0:50 remaining to close out the scoring.

Diane Castignoli added 6 points for SRC, Sheila Camillus 2 and Kathryn Grzybinski had a free

Hanson led CC with 6 points, Hagerty had 5, Tara Piantoni 4, while Keri Lynch and Nicole Angelos played strong defensive games.

St. Robert's A, 18-15

Dawn Bernard's deadly outside shooting powered St. Robert's A to a come-from-behind victory over Ballardvale United.

Behind 9-2 after one period and 11-9 at half-time, SRA outscored BU 9-4 over the final two quarters to gain the win.

Bernard paced the SRA attack with 10 points, Grace Perry chipped in 4, Maureen Maginnis and Kelly Miskell had 2 each. Kristene O'Sullivan also played well.

Linda Banzi and Erin McCloskey shared scoring honors for the balanced BU offense with four points each, Lindsey Sweeney, Peggy Kugal and Melissa Salazar had fieldgoals and Heather Rotondi a free throw

St. Augustine's B, 14-8

St. Augustine's B broke open a tight defensive contest with a 9-2 run in the final period to gain the decision over St. Robert's B.

SRB led 2-0 after one quarter, score was 4-4 at intermission and St. Robert's inched ahead 6-5 after three, but then SAB erupted for the win.

St. Augustine's Cops Junior Title

By Jim Arnold

St. Augustine's C defeated Temple B to round out a perfect 9-0 campaign, thereby finishing atop the Andover Church Basketball League's Junior Division. Coach Red Harris guided the talented squad, which displayed poise and court savvy throughout the season.

St. Robert's B grabbed their fifth consecutive victory and South and St. Robert's A claimed their third straight wins. The following includes summaries of games played February 26.

St. Augustine's C, 24-5

SAC encountered few obstacles enroute to their ninth win in as many games. Fine free throw shooting highlighted this victory over Temple Emanuel B.

Todd Harris led a first-period charge with six digits which propelled SAC to an 8-2 advantage. Following a quiet second stanza, Paul Allard and Paul Cassidy canned one charity toss after another to clinch the win.

Harris and Sean Gauthier topped the SAC scoring ledger with 6 each, Jeff Lembo netted 5, Cassidy 4 and Allard 3.

Joshua Marmer and Jeff Forlizzi each sunk baskets for Temple, while Scott Ginsburg converted a free throw.

St. Robert's A, 13-12

The tightest game of the evening featured SRA edging St. Augustine's F.

James Perry stuck three foul shots for SRA in period one, while Pat Walsh knocked home a solo effort for St. A's. Perry added a basket and teammate Jon Iarribino struck twice in quarter to give SRA a 9-6 lead.

Walsh cut the advantage to one by scoring the lone basket of period three. Iarribino and Perry each deposited buckets in the final frame, which Walsh matched, but St. A's couldn't come up with the hump hoop.

Perry paced the winners with seven, while Iarribino accounted for the balance. Paul Trull and Tommy Tanin led the SRA defensive corps. Walsh led all scorers, tallying eight. Chris Corcoran and Rachel Buonopane added single hoops and Kevin O'Brien and Chris Halecki played with poise.

St. Augustine's D, 25-2

Accuracy from the foul line and field keyed this SAD rout over St. Robert's C. Toby Guzowski, Peter Gigliotti and Greg LeBreck each had 6 points, Eddie Stewart, Tommy Daily and Jimmy Maragioglio had 2 each and Brian

Mike Lombard managed the one St. Robert's basket and the play of Sean Donahue, Brian Luti and John Brodbine was far better than the score

St. Robert's B, 23-17

SRB overcame a four-point halftime deficit to snatch second place in the standings as well as the game from a scrappy St. Augustine's B. The win was their fifth in a row.

Due in large part to Michael McLellan's hot hand, SAB took an 11-7 edge to the locker room. But, Ken Oppenheim canned seven of SRB's eight third-stanza points while St. A's could only manage a free throw. It was much of the same in period four with Tim McGovern leading the SRB attack.

Oppenheim led all scorers with 13 points, Mc-Govern had 6, Erica Campbell and Christene Donovan added 2 apiece.

McLellan led St. A's with 8, Jeff Arsenault had 4, Kevin Melia 3 and Eddie Seero 2.

St. Robert's D, 26-14

St. Robert's blew open a tight contest with 12 unanswered third-period points to defeat Temple Emanuel A. Behind 7-0 after a period, Temple rallied for eight second-stanza points

But, John Camillus scorched the strings for 10 second-half points to catalyze the winning effort. He was game-high scorer with 15 points. Ryan Jacobson tossed in 9 and John Wyler added 2. Amanda Pettoruto and Andrew Ardine performed admirably.

Temple A got 6 markers from Jonathan Weiner, 4 from Mike McGuire and 2 apiece from Louis Capobianco and David Mazin. Joshua Goodman and Scott Nicholson turned in fine floor games.

South, 14-12

Leading St. Augustine's A 10-5 at half and 14-7 after three quarters, South floundered before scratching out a 14-12 decision.

Roy Wyatt scored all 8 of his points in the first three stanzas to put South out front, Sam McLellan canned 4 and Corey Lynch 2, all before frame four.

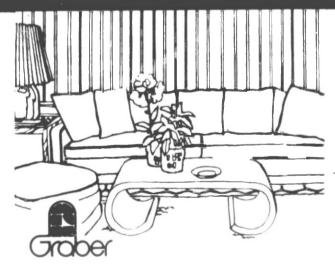

In the last period, David Charland's basket, a pair of Brian Hussey charity tosses and a Ryan Lisiak free throw put St. Augustines's back in contention, but the tying hoop would not materialize, due in large part to the defensive heroics of Tommy Clarke and Scott Gray Hussey led St. Augustine's with 4, Lisiak had 3, Tommy Pecoraro and Charland 2 each and Joe Shea 1.

To Merrimack

It's always an added bonus to pluck top talent from the local ponds and that's just what Merrimack College hockey coach Ron Anderson did by signing Northwood School and former North Andover High School standout center iceman Andy Heinze.

Heinze Going

Heinze, a senior captain of the North Andover High School hockey team that went to the Massachusetts Division II championship game in 1984, is enrolled as a postgraduate student at Northwood School in Lake Placid, N.Y. He just completed a successful season, finishing among the top scorers with 23 goals and 37 assists for 60 points in 31 games. Northwood's record was 25-5-1.

Heinze is the first recruit signed by Merrimack for the 1986-87 campaign and Anderson couldn't be happier.

"We're always looking for players in the Merrimack Valley area," he said. "Andy brings with him great skills. He uses everybody on the ice with him extremely well. He has very good hockey instincts and vision and I think he's

St. Robert's Intermediate Titlist

St. Robert's won the 1995-86 Andover Church Basketball League Intermediate Division championship last week with a come-from-behind 29-27 victory over St. Augustine's D.

The triumph gave SRA a perfect 10-0 record, while South A finished the season with an 8-1 mark and St. Augustine's D ended in their place

In other Intermediate Division play, South a overpowered St. Robert's C 40-14, Ballardvale United slipped past St. Augustine's C 26-22, Temple Emanuel B stopped South B 14-3, T. Robert's B toppled St. Augustine's B 41-30 and St. Augustine's A dropped St. Augustines E 43-

Jeff Hamilton of SAD won the individual scoring with 158 points. Other leading scorers were: Matt Orlando, SA, 105; Joey Marinaro, SRB, 102; Jeff Davis, SAC, 99; Ryan Beal, SRA, 99; Garrett Ferris, SAD, 93; Chris Dziadosz, SRB, 91; Adam Goddess, TEB, 88; and Mike Henry,

St. Robert's A, 29-27

Rvan Beal (5) and Chris Klein (4) combined for nine fourth-quarter points as St. Roberts A rallied from a 21-17 third-period deficit to outscore a scrappy St. Augustine's D team 12-6 in the final stanza to gain the title-clinching win

SRA inched ahead 9-8 in the first quarter with Paul Durant's two baskets leading the way.

Jeff Hamilton netted four free throws as SRD went on a 7-2 second-stanza run to take a 15-11 halftime advantage.

The rivals battled evenly in the third (6-6), but Beal and Klein came to the forefront in the fourth period and that was the difference

Beal finished with 9 points, Kelin added 7, Durant had 4, Mark Baker 3, Todd Green 2, Kevin Lewis 2 and Sanjiv Sheel 2.

Hamilton paced the SRD attack with 13 points, including 11 from the free throw stripe, Garrett Ferris chipped in 6, Gene Doran 5 and Todd Murray 3.

SAD converted 15 of 27 attempts at the free throw line while SRA was 3 for 13.

Other members of the championship team, coached by Paul Durant and John Baker, are Danny Burm, Anthony Crooks and Chris Shea.

South A, 40-14

South a placed seven players in the scoring column as it secured second place with a victory over St. Robert's C.

They erupted for an 18-0 first-quarter lead and then, despite an improved defensive effort by SRC, coasted home the rest of the way.

Matt Orlando led the South A offense with 14 points, Scott Eggert, Chethan Harish, Todd Gray and Josh Adams had 5 points apiece, Matt Reghitto added 4, Wayne Mattola 2.

Keith Selvitelli had 5 points for SRC, Mike Pettoruto and Ryan Cassily netted 4 points each, while Eric Begg had a free throw.

Ballardvale United, 26-22

Ballardvale United (4-5) broke strong from the gate and staved ahead all the way to upset St. Augustine's C (6-4).

Doherty Girls Undefeated

The Doherty Junior High girls' basketball team recently completed the first undefeated season in the school's history, putting together a perfect 12-0 record that included victories over Haverhill (twice), Billerica (twice), Dracut (twice), Wilmington, Lawrence, Chelmsford, Presentation of Mary Academy (Methuen), Methuen and archrival Andover West.

Julie Salazar was Doherty's top scorer with 160 points for an impressive 15.0 per game average, and following in order were Julie Enos with 78 points (7.1), Stephanie Aumais with 76 points (7.0), Jodi Jangro with 43 points (5.6) and Nicole Ricci with 29 points (3.0).

Highlights of the season were a 35-24 triumph over Methuen, the Rangers only loss of the year, and a dramatic 35-33 conquest of Andover West in the final game before a packed house at the Doherty Gym.

The 12-game win streak this season stretched Doherty's two-year victory skein through 20 consecutive contests.

The complete roster included Jodi Jangro, Kristin Tamarrow, Erin Lynch, Lisa Campbell, Nicole Ricci, Kelley Hajj, Lynda Kelley, Julie Salazar, Tricia Doyle, Julie Enos, Stephanie Aumais and Amy Mencis.

The team was coached by Jim Hurley.

INFORMATION CONCERNING CABLE TELEVISION FOR EVERYONE.

By Jim Novo, MARCH 13, 1986

Historic Agreement, Part one

Remember Ed Parsons, the man from Astoria, Oregon, that lived behind the mountain? He invented cable television. Good reception from a handful of stations.

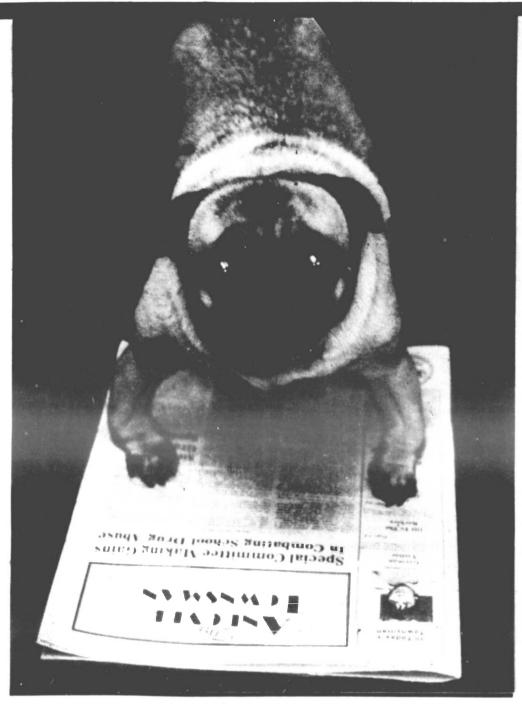

Soon others began to capitalize on Ed's idea. These cable systems typically could carry about 12 channels of television, which as fine back then, because there was no satellite delivered programming. Enter HBO, CNN, ESPN, and the rest of what seemed like a neverending onslaught of new channels, each with a particular type of programming to offer. Also enter the changing lifestyles and demographics of the United States. People began to demand specific types of programs that matched their needs and interests, which were not always served by network television.

All of a sudden, Ed's neat little trick with the antenna on the mountain and the wire to his house got complicated. All twelve of his channels were full, but his customers were demanding this new programming. What can he do?

(next week, part two)

Jim Novo is the marketing manager for Rollins CableVision of Massachusetts. Inc. serving Andover and surrounding communities. Questions, comments, and criticisms regarding cable television can be addressed to him c/o: Rollins CableVision P.O. Box 2003 Andover, MA 01810. Mr. Novo is also available to speak to your organization or club. Inquiries to the same address.

Named Player Of Week

Ernie Perry

Ernie Perry, a junior at Colby College, Waterville, Maine, was named Player of the Week by the Maine Basketball Coaches and Writers' Association for his outstanding performance in Colby's games against Connecticut College and Eastern Connecticut on February 14 and 15.

Perry won the White Mules' contest against the Warriors of Eastern Connecticut with a 20foot jumpshot. The final score was 65-64. The next day he scored 27 points in a cliff-hanger, double overtime 93-94 loss to Eastern Connecticut. In the two games, Perry managed not only to shoot 22-36 from the floor, but also racked up 15 assists.

With only one more contest to go, Perry's cumulative stats have him in second place for scoring with a 14.5 game point average and in the number three spot for rebounds with a 7.6 point average. He is shooting 42.5 percent from the floor and 69.4 percent for free throws.

Perry, an administrative science major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Perry, Dascomb Road, Andover. He is a graduate of Andover the warmth of the Filipino people. And their courage; more than eighty of their countrymen died in election-related violence—and yet they persisted against overwhelming odds, to bring 20 years of what had been a virtual dictatorship to an end. It had been, said an old man he had met, "like a fresh wind driving out the stale air."

For five weeks, Tom Mevers had leaned into that wind—the wind of history itself. Now, he is back in the relative calm of the classroom, using the lessons he has lived to shape those he presents for younger ears.

Easter Eggs

Five thousand years ago the Persians celebrated the return of spring by exchanging colored eggs as tokens of goodwill. The Pennsylvania Dutch brought the Easter egg to the New World in 1728. Their pride in the colorful Easter eggs made them start the custom of an Easter egg tree. They used a large branch or small tree, removed the leaves and hung the decorated eggs on branches

The egg tree is still one of the most popular centerpieces on the Easter table in Pennsylvania Dutch country.

The Class E girls medley relay of Sandy Choe, Ketsy Bronstein, Tracy Grant and Margaret O'Brien was third.

Bronstein was third in the I.M. and fourth in the breaststroke, Choe was sixth in the back and O'Brien placed seventh in butterfly.

Jeanne Latourelle was eighth in the I.M. while Tracy Grant was ninth in the backstroke and 50 free. O'Brien was tenth and Choe 11th in the 50 free. The freestyle relay team of Jeanne Latourelle, Kristin Latourelle, Chrissy Godwin and Katy Hayes finished sixth.

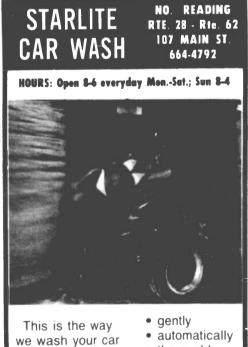

The Class E boys had two first places; the free relay team of Brian Kwon, Howie Shainker, Adam Schoen and John Newland and Newland again in the I.M. He also was second in the 50 free as was Schoen in the 25 free.

Ben Choi was fifth in backstroke while Schoen was sixth in butterfly. Kwon was seventh in butterfly and ninth in the I.M. Shainker added a 12th in the 25 free.

The medley relay of Matt McCarthy, Choi, Anthony Sakakeeny and Jeff Dwight finished fifth.

DOLL COLLECTORS MARKET SPECULATORS GERMAN SPECIALTY BUFFS

FUZZ'UMS

The FUZZUMS are here! A "FUZZUM" is a Bavarian Hand Made Doll. They stand 22" tall and somewhat resemble a Muppet. Their hair and beards are made from imported French Lop rabbit fur. Their garments are all made from imported German textiles and cloth. Each FUZZUM is different and unique and have serial number tags on their leg. The male FUZZUMS resemble little Village People and some even look like Gypsies. Every one has a very colorful outfit complete with hand knitted stocking hats and scarfs. They hold a booklet in one hand describing how they are made and a little bundle-sack in the other. The female FUZZUMS are even more colorful, donning a festive colored apron on top of their dress. They also have hand knitted hats, carry a little straw basket and even have bloomers. These make the ideal gift. Most people who buy them display them on their bed, draped over a couch or on top of a fine piece of furniture. We have already sold over seventy of these unique dolls in only two weeks. We have them on display here at A. E. Park in our Service and Parts Departments. We even have a list of German names that you can give them and write in their booklet.

The FUZZUMS are selling for only $44.95 each. This price will not last long! And they will definately appreciate soon. If these ever go to mass production, these hand made dolls will be worth much more. Come down soon to pick out yours.

Fresh-Cut Sunshine at Imagine That

The daffodils are in full bloom at Imagine That. In fact, there's sunshine in every corner of the little flower and gift shop at 24 Chestnut St. in Andover.

You see it first in the fresh-cut flowers. Imagine That has the the sun'' to grace your St. Pat rick's Day table; the sunniest blooms to fill a mug for your sec-retary (Secretary's Week is April 21-28). The freshest blossoms to show your love for mother on her special day.

Imagine That adds a touch of spring warmth to your door, with grapevine or dried flower wreaths and bonnets trimmed in silk flowers-picked from a s lection so natural, you might have to brush the bees away.

At Imagine That, there are sheep in the meadows—sunny appliques framed for your wall. Mobiles; graceful flying birds poised to catch the breezes on your porch. And, of course, there are all the "Just Ducky" creations, from Doctor Dog to the Good Fairy (the lightest elephant to dance in a sunbeam)

Springtime means balloons in Springtime means balloons in candy colors, and Imagine That can float a bouquet to your loved one. Theirs are special balloons. Like Imagine That's flowers, they don't droop by the time the sun goes down; in fact, they stay up for four or five days.

Imagine That's owners, Mary Cox and Carrol Stephens, specialize in bringing spring to your celebration, too. A wedding in June? Imagine That's experts know that only the bride should be nervous. So they stay with her from before the photographer ar-rives until she walks down the aisle; they even arrange her train. Then they tiptoe away to make sure that the reception hall is festively perfect for the new couple's arrival.

For a touch of spring—and for parties, centerpieces and arrangements, teleflora services, balloon bouquets and the finest in gifts and novelties—step into Imagine That Florists. You'll be delighted at the many forms of sunshine you'll find-including a weekly fresh-cut flower special. Imagine That also custom-designs fresh and silk arrangements to match your home dec-or. REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

By Mary Kay Munsterteiger Realty U.S.A. Schruender Real Estate

BUGS!

Whether you live in the inner-city, the suburbs or on a secluded farm, there is probably some type of small, leggy creature that sometimes makes your house its home. Whether they're termites, roaches, ants or spiders, it's a good idea to serve them with an eviction notice if you plan to put your house on the market

Most standard sales agreements require property to be inspected and, if necessary, treated for termite infestation before settlement. It's a good idea to check for problems as soon as you sign a listing agreement so termites are not an issue of the sale. Other insects may not physically damage the house, but nevertheless reduce its chances of selling it for top dollar. If a buyer is constantly pushing back spider webs touring your basement, he'll be a little distracted. A single raoch tweeking it's antennae at a prospect seriously undermines that person's ability to appreciate the attractive features of your house.

If stand-by home remedies (ionized boric acid is an old favorite) don't work, call in an exterminator as part of your pre-listing check list. It's money

DEED - VERR OR MOUNT

Title to real estate today, is transferred by a written legal document a deed. This wasn't always so. The word 'deed'' in common usage, means the doing of an act. At one time the "deed" which trans-ferred land was just that.

American real estate law traces its roots to England, and there, several hundred years ago, title to land was trans ferred from seller to buy-er after the two had er after the two had walked the "metes and or the propbounds" bounds" - or the property lines - of the real estate. Then, in the presence of witnesses, the seller threw a clod of did, striking the new dirt, striking the new owner! This symbolized the transfer. Later, the "deed" which closed the transfer came to be

School Board May Decide Policy On Private Donations

The ANTONIE TOWNSMAN

By Lisa Waterman

Planning Board Chairman Margaret Bradshaw requested that the School Committee consider setting a definitive policy regarding private contributions to Andover public schools.

The question was Bradshaw to the committee during discussions of the Bancroft School playground project. The project began with a state grant from the School Improvement Fund package (as part of the Massachusetts Public School Improvement Act) for $2,500 for a feasibility study on the school play area. A goal of $40,000 has been set by the fundraising committee at the Bancroft School. Consulting architect Robert S. Leathers believes that donations from private industry of equipment and construction materials will bring the cost of the playground down from the proposed $40,000 that is needed, according to Iora Alexander. Bancroft School Principal.

I would like to know the role of private soliciting for public institutions, Bradshaw asked the committee.

There is nothing in the policy relative to contributions by private citizens, according to School Committee Chairman Donald Robb.

The School Committee has set a policy of providing similiar equipment as far as we can," Robb said.

What is done under the School Improvement Councils, the School Committee has no jurisdiction to oversee, unless they are in violation of School Committee Policy, according to School Committee member Susan Poore.

"They law allows schools to accept gifts and there is no limit to donations, Supt. Kenneth Seifert informed the com-

"I don't want to say that we don't want generosity, as a philosophical question for the town, I think we need some guidance," Bradshaw said. "Will some disticts go as far as using donations to put a wing on a school? Will richer districts by using donations to provide programs involving Fine Arts, for example, that poorer disticts can't provide? We need to know what is acceptable and put

The School Committee agreed that further discussion of their policy toward private donations will be discussed by the School Committee as a future agenda

"It is difficult to put a number and use it as a mechanism to say that some donations are over the limit," School Committee member Michael Giammusso said.
