

Life in a wheelchair

Eugene Doran, shot by a nailgun in 1986, is paralyzed, but still high on life

By Don Staruk

Eugene Doran Jr. remembers sitting in the barber chair in Shawsheen Square and not being able to move.

"I thought I was being electrocuted. I didn't know what happened to me," he says.

He couldn't take a breath. He thought he was being electrocuted by a hair dryer. Then, as he watched in the mirror, his body started to slide out of the chair.

"The only thing that flashed in front of me as I looked in the mirror - not to be too melodramatic - is that I saw my wife, Kathy, and my children in the mirror. I thought I was dying."

It was Thursday, April 17, 1986. Mr. Doran, then 38, had been looking forward to a great evening. He had tickets to the Chicago Bulls-Boston Celtics basketball game. It was Michael Jordan's first year in the NBA and Mr. Doran was eager to see him. He called his wife and they arranged to go to the game and dinner or shopping in the North End. But first he needed a haircut and to go for a run. He was being inducted as a charter member of the Greater Lawrence Lions Club the next night, Friday, and wouldn't have time for the haircut tomorrow. He wanted to get in the run because he was planning to run the Boston Marathon Monday, and this would be his last chance to Seniors move ahead with expansion of center

They pan idea of a community center

By Don Staruk

Andover senior citizens this week began work on the expansion of the existing Senior Center in the East Wing of the former East Junior High School at Whittier Court. Plans were scheduled to go before the project architect as early as yesterday, Wednesday.

For now, expansion will be restricted to the first floor of the existing building, and to additions totaling up to 17,000 square feet that will be built onto the existing building. The second and third floors, which currently are occupied by the school administration offices, will probably not be affected for now, but may be considered for future expansion of the senior center.

"I'm prepared to talk to Dick Neal and the School Committee about their use of space," Buzz

What's Dunn is done; Bancroft principal leaves for a job in Weston

By Neil Fater

In July of 1991 Mark McQuilian, then the new Andover superintendent, hired three principals, Sam Campbell, Debra Dunn and in-house candidate Tim Thomas. Two of them are now gone.

Debra Dunn, principal of Bancroft Elementary, has followed in the footsteps of her former boss by choosing to leave Andover for a similar position elsewhere.

Ms. Dunn will become the principal of Weston's Woodland School.

She joins Dr. Campbell as the second of Andover's principals who will not return to Andover in the fall. The Andover system has eight schools.

"It was an opportunity I couldn't pass up," Ms. Dunn said

Resident wins Humane Society's highest award

By Don Staruk

Washington Avenue resident Elizabeth Schiappucci has won the Humane Society of Massachusetts' highest award, the silver medal, for pulling a crash victim out of a burning car in front of her house last October. The award came with a check for $2,500.

"That was a good rescue," Barbara Driscoll, spokesperson for the Society, said last week. The rescue came to the attention of the Humane Society after a story about it appeared in the Townsmen, Ms. Driscoll said.

Brian P. Winters Jr., 24, of 28 McKenney Circle, the driver, suffered a broken leg and cuts on his hands and face in the accident at 12:04 a.m. on Oct. 3, 1994. Ethan D. Williams, 24, of 29 Washington Ave., the only passenger in the car, received head and facial injuries. The car had been traveling up Walnut Street, crossed Elm and struck a tree and stone wall at the end of Washington Street, and caught fire.

Ms. Schiappucci pulled Mr. Winters from the car. Police and firefighters then arrived and doused the flames and used the Jaws of Life to take Mr. Williams out.

The inscription on the silver medal reads, "Elizabeth Schiappucci, for bravery in saving life at Andover, Oct. 3, 1994."

Ms. Schiappucci said she will frame the medal. She and her boyfriend, Scott Martin, are expecting a baby in August and Ms. Schiappucci said they will use the $2,500 to help buy things for the baby. They also have a son, Douglas, 5.

Ms. Schiappucci said she did later hear from Mr. Winters.

"He called me about a week after the accident to thank me," she said.

Ms. Driscoll said Ms. Schiappucci is one of about 10 people who received the Society's silver medal and $2,500 award.

The society also gives out roughly 20 bronze medals with awards of $1,500 to $2,000, and several certificates accompanied by $500 awards.

The following account of what happened after the crash is a partial reprint of the original Townsmen article.

Ms. Schiappucci, of 3 Washington Ave., had just gotten home from her job as an assistant nurse's aid when she heard the crash and went outside to investigate. "I saw the flames. The car was on fire," she said phone, then went over to where other neighbors were standing around the car. She asked if anyone was in the car and was told that there were two boys in the car. She said, "Well, get them out," but everyone was afraid the gas tank was going to blow up.

Flames were coming out from under the hood and kept flaring, as if they were fueled by gas. The way the car was tilted up, others feared the flames would reach the gas tank in the rear, Ms. Schiappucci said.

"I opened up the door and there was tons of smoke everywhere," she said. She screamed at the two men, but quickly realized they were "out of it," and went after the driver.

"I grabbed him by the back of his coat and yanked as hard as I could," she said. His coat came off, but she managed to get him out of the car and onto the ground, where a neighbor, Martha Yunggebauer, 5 Washington Ave., helped drag him away from the car.

By then, police had arrived and began putting out the fire, Ms. Schiappucci said.

Trapped

Police said they received several calls about the crash at 12:04

NEWS IN BRIEF

Dick Collins OK after surgery

By Neil Fater

Although Dick Collins' heart condition was worse than doctors had anticipated, Mr. Collins said Monday that he came through his operation well and hopes to be home by the time most people read this paper.

During last week's procedure, doctors found problems with five of Mr. Collins arteries.

"They thought there were three bypasses and when they got in there they found two more," said Barbara Collins, his wife. "So he's a very fortunate person."

"I was lucky I came in when I came in, that was for sure," Mr. Collins said from his hospital room at Boston's Deaconess Hospital. "I thought I had a muscle pull in the back. I was damn lucky to come in when I did. I could have had a (heart attack) anytime."

Mr. Collins, Andover High School's social studies department head and long-time football and track coach, said his doctor gave him the go ahead to return to his teaching and coaching duties next school year.

"I do anticipate I'll be able to come back in the fall. I'm planning on that," he said. "The doctor feels that I will be able to continue."

Although Coach Collins may not miss a single September scrimmage, however, last week's medical procedure did prevent him from personally receiving the Andover Chamber of Commerce Community Service Award last Thursday. His wife accepted the award for him.

The award can be added to Mr. Collins' growing list of honors. In 1980 he was named National High School Track and Field Coach of the Year, and he's a member of Massachusetts' coaching hall of fames for both track and football.

School Committee to make decision July 11 on the Warrior logo

The School Committee plans to decide the fate of Andover High School's Golden Warrior symbol at its Tuesday, July 11, meeting. The meeting is expected to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the School Committee room on the second floor of the school administration building.

Planners approve Somerset Village

By Joan Brown

Somerset Village, a 54-lot residential subdivision off North Street and Chandler Road, was approved by the Planning Board Tuesday, June 27.

The development will provide nearly 30 acres of open space, including a walkway through the community that will allow access from North Street to the Chandler Road ballfields.

More than a mile of new subdivision roadways will be constructed. Access to 36 of the lots will be from a new road off North Street; the other 18 homes will be on a new cul-de-sac off Chandler Road.

The board attached 41 conditions to the approval, including provisions requiring no earth to be removed from the site; stormwater detention ponds to be owned and maintained by private lot-owners; and marking of no-cut zones to protect the wetland areas.

Developers expect total build-out to take three to five years.

Town asks seniors to respond to health survey

The Andover Health Department is asking all seniors to respond to a survey it sent out last weekend asking for comment on the adequacy of senior health services locally. The survey was sent to 4,800 residents, all 60 years old or older.

The results of the survey will be used to prioritize spending for senior health services on the federal, state and local level.

"The survey enclosed will be used to identify those areas where services are adequately provided and where additional services may be needed," says a letter from the town health department that accompanied the mailing.

Everett Penney, Andover's health director, wants a big response and asks that residents don't set the survey aside and forget about it.

"Especially where summer is coming up it's important that people do it right way," Mr. Penney said.

A 10 percent return is normal for such surveys.

"We're hoping to get 28 to 30 percent," Mr. Penney said.

The effort by the health department is part of the town's effort to have customers define their needs, rather than the town telling them what is available, according to Mr. Penney.

The town is spending about $2,500 on the survey, he said.

Here are answers to recycling questions

Thanks to a donation from Hewlett-Packard, residents of Andover have recycling information at their fingertips. Residents can dial one number, 1-800-800-6881, to get answers to all their recycling questions 24 hours per day.

A grant from Hewlett-Packard Co. made Andover's message part of a non-profit, statewide recycling hotline dubbed "E-Call." Citizens can dial the E-Call hotline, touch-tone their ZIP code and hear a voicemail message packed with the latest details on recycling in the town. The E-Call organization is recruiting businesses across the state to sponsor the recycling message for their community.

Seniors move ahead with expansion plans for center

Stapczynski, town manager, said after the meeting.

The plans were discussed by seniors and selectmen Monday night, July 3. At the same meeting, Selectman Larry Larsen said he is not pushing for a community center to house both a senior and youth center. That idea was panned by both groups, voraciously by seniors, after Dr. Larsen expressed interest in it during a Townsmen interview published last week.

"I'm not necessarily pushing for a community center. It happens to be an idea that I've always felt was a good one," Dr. Larsen said Monday. Someday the town should have a community center he said, but added that, "There will be no community center built in my lifetime. I know that."

He said he had not planned on raising the community center issue, but when Jim Doherty, town moderator, brought it up two weeks ago, Dr. Larsen said he felt it was worth discussing again, and that the best way to handle it was "to be as open as possible."

Members of the Council on Aging

berated Dr. Larsen at a meeting last Thursday, June 29, for his raising the issue of a community center in the Townsmen article. They did so again Monday night, albeit less aggressively.

"None of the seniors are opposed to a teen center. But we believe neither seniors or teens want a joint center," Dorothy Bresnahan, Council on Aging chairwoman, told selectmen. "We'd just like to be able to get going without any more discussion about what we want."

"I don't believe that building a community center at this time would be in the best interest of the seniors or teens," said Martin Epstein, another COA member.

Seniors have all their own activities and their own needs and services, such as lunches, Meals on Wheels, Alzheimer support groups and the like, that are housed in the center, Mr. Epstein said.

"Most of all, the senior center is a place where seniors can meet with their peers," he said.

The youth have activities of their own and also want to be around their peers, he said.

"I'm all for intergenerational activities," but they are better if the two groups can come together then go back to their own activities and interests, Mr. Epstein said.

He also said seniors have spent a lot of time and effort looking for a space large enough to house their own needs, and that having to find a space large enough to accommodate youths and the rest of the community's needs as well would only complicated things.

Plans for seniors

The plans for the senior expansion include up to 17,000 square feet in one or more additions to the existing building. A new function room, possibly 10,000 square feet with a high ceiling, will be in the added space. The existing function room will be converted to activity rooms.

The additions will affect the symmetry of the building, but that cannot be helped, according to Bill Ryan, COA member. But whether they expand on one, two or three floors will not affect the cost of the expansion.

"We are financially indifferent as to whether we build 17,000 square feet out or build up," Mr. Ryan said.

Up or out

The issue of whether Town Meeting gave seniors the right to negotiate for space on the second or third floors of the building was set aside for now. Mr. Ryan said the architect needed to know whether it was one floor or more, so a proposal could be prepared for submission to the Planning Board. Whether or not they could go up would affect how big the additions would have to be.

"As far as the second and third floors — fine. We'll just go out for now," Mr. Ryan said. "We were going to have to bump out for a function room anyway."

But seniors hold that the article approved at Town Meeting gave them the right to negotiate for space on any or all of the three floors of the building. They quoted Mr. Ryan from the minutes of the Town Meeting when he said, "The plan is to expand out for now, possibly up for later." Seniors also said using the second and/or third floors was part of nearly all the many plans discussed and drawn up for a center during the last nine years.

Seniors move ahead with plans to expand

Selectmen James Barenboim and Dr. Larsen, School Committee Chairwoman Susan Dalton and others hold that the intent of the vote was only for the seniors to expand on the first floor. But Selectman Bill Downs said that eventually seniors will probably take all three floors.

"I feel they can take the whole building if they want to," Mr. Downs aid.

Seniors point out that 30 school employees are in 20,000 square feet of office space. That is almost 600 square feet per employee, which compares with 250 square feet per employee in most corporations, according to Mr. Ryan.

Mr. Stapczynski pointed out that that space is set up for peak uses much greater than 30 people, such as for School Committee meetings. But Mr. Downs pointed out, and Mr. Stapczynski agreed, that who occupies what space in the building is up to the needs and discretion of the town manager. Mr. Stapczynski said he has talked to the school administration about space needs and is prepared to do so again. But he said courtesy to the School Committee is an issue, just as the direction he receives from selectmen is an issue.

Rec Center OK at Rec Park

Mr. Stapczynski also said town counsel has found no reason a recreational building, which could be used for youth recreational activities, could not be built at Recreation Park off Abbot Street.

The idea to rebuild a recreational building at the park to replace one that burned down in the '70s was brought up by Selectman Barenboim two weeks ago. The youth have apparently embraced the idea, according to Dr. Larsen.

Associate Planner rejected

In other news, the attorney general's office has rejected a warrant article from April Town Meeting that would have established an associate planner position as a member of the town's Planning Board.

The rejection came because there was not a public hearing held to amend the zoning bylaw prior to the change being voted, according to Mr. Buzz Stapczynski. He said the town will pursue the position again and will likely bring it to another town meeting in the future.

All other articles that had to do with bylaw changes, which are subject to the attorney general's approval, were allowed.

What's Dunn is done: Debra Dunn is leaving Andover of her decision. "It's time for a change, I guess. About all I want to say is I'm going for a different challenge and leave it at that."

Because Ms. Dunn's acceptance came just after the end of school, she said she will send out letters to all Bancroft children and staff members to say goodbye.

"We're going to miss her," said Cindy Hanlon, a fourth-grade teacher. "We're very sad that she's leaving. I think it's very unfortunate for Bancroft, but I think she got a wonderful opportunity."

Ms. Hanlon, who just completed her first year as a full-time teacher, was one of those interested in starting what proved to be a successful winter carnival at Bancroft.

"I guess one of the tributes as far as working for (Ms. Dunn) was she put a lot of confidence in her teachers," she said. "She was open to new ideas and would let us take a risk, and would stand behind us."

Ms. Dunn had a photo of the Bancroft staff on her wall along with messages from students.

When Ms. Dunn first applied for the Andover job she wrote that her personal vision is "Children do not interrupt my work - children are my work."

At the entrance to Bancroft are several pillows given to her by a Brownie troop during her first year. A Bancroft sign with the hand imprints of a class of students, given as a retirement gift for a teacher, lies in between the two front doors.

A Bancroft team, the Bumble Bees, received the Team with the Most Spirit award at the last two 24-Hour Relays, said Ms. Dunn.

"Everything is together with the staff, together with the staff and parents," she said. "The parents have been unbelievable."

Ms. Dunn said without the commitment of the parents the school would not have offered several programs such as the spring speaker series funded by the Parent-Teacher Organization.

During her time here, Ms. Dunn helped re-write the code of discipline so that young students could understand it. She instituted the "Be a Leader" program centered around the three goals of kindness, safety and learning.

"Principals are not heroes, they are hero-makers," she said. "Her whole philosophy with her triangle, that was her thing, and it really made an impact on the school," said Ms. Hanlon.

As the winter holidays approached, the Bancroft community sponsored five families through the department of social services, said Ms. Dunn. It also came together to paint the stained beige walls of the school a brighter color.

Ms. Dunn, a self-described proponent of life-long learning, is working on her dissertation regarding peer acceptance of learning-disabled students. She said she will visit Bancroft occasionally because she is using the school as part of her studies.

"I'm going to miss the first day of school, where the teachers have colored balloons and the students have colored name tags and everyone's outside, meeting. That will be the thing I'll miss the most," said Ms. Dunn. "That first day, it's the spirit of coming back to school. The kids are excited. It's just a wonderful, wonderful feeling."

BUSINESS

Patti McCrudden

Silverado Athletic Club recently announced the promotion of Patti McCrudden to general manager.

Ms. McCrudden has more than seven years' experience in the health and fitness industry, personal training and occupational therapy. Her responsibilities include the day-to-day operations of the club, programming, scheduling and member services.

Ms. McCrudden holds a bachelor's degree in occupational therapy and is a candidate for MA in sports management and fitness. The former basketball player at NYU was a two-time Kodak All-American and was NYU's leading scorer and rebounder. She also played professionally in Europe. An avid runner, tennis player and golfer, Ms. McCrudden also served as women's basketball coach at Pentucket Regional High School.

Frederick Driscoll

Frederick Driscoll of Andover was honored for 30 years of service to Wentworth Institute of Technology in Boston at a recent ceremony.

Mr. Driscoll has been a professor at Wentworth since 1965, teaching electronics and math, and has also served as department head. He was instrumental in designing and developing Wentworth's computer engineering technology degree programs. He designed a microcomputer laboratory, including total physical layout and the purchase of hardware and software equipment for use by students studying electronic and computer engineering technology.

Frederick Driscoll

Mr. Driscoll specializes in microprocessor and microcontrollers and has written textbooks, articles, manuals and study guides. His books, Solid State Devices and Applications, was translated into Polish and Bulgarian, and Operational Amplifiers and Linear Integrated Circuits was translated into Spanish, Russian and Indonesian.

Mr. Driscoll received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Merrimack College and a master's degree in electrical engineering from Northeastern University.

He is a youth soccer coach.

George P. Johnson

George P. Johnson of Andover was recently selected by the New England chapter of The Construction Management Association of America as "Person of the Year for 1994." Mr. Johnson was similarly recognized by the Massachusetts Society of Professional Engineers. Other recent awards include recognition by the Society of Marketing Professional Services for "Outstanding Contribution to the Built Environment."

Mr. Johnson's engineering career has spanned more than 36 years of public service, including 25 years with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and 11 years as director of engineering for the Massachusetts Port Authority from which he will retire in August.

Peter Brennan

The Fortress Corporation of Boston recently named Peter Brennan president of its museum quality storage division. He will be responsible for the management of all current facilities located in New England and South Florida. Mr. Brennan's primary focus will be the growth of current operations through the development of new revenue opportunities as well as ongoing expansion of the business to key markets, both nationally and internationally.

Prior to joining Fortress, Mr. Brennan held several senior level management positions with North American Van Lines. Most recently, he was vice president of its high value products division's eastern region.

Mr. Brennan lives in Andover with his wife, Cheryl, and three children, Matthew, Colin and Haley.

Suzanne Burns

Suzanne (Denoncourt) Burns, manager of administration at DeWolfe New England, was named 1994 Employee of the Year at the company's recent annual awards breakfast.

Ms. Burns, who was raised in Andover and now lives in Derry, N.H., joined Suzanne Burns DeWolfe New England in early 1994. As new sales centers were acquired, Ms. Burns assisted in the training of managers and administrative officers to ensure the smooth transition of each office into the DeWolfe network.

"Suzanne has made a difference from the first day she joined the company," said Richard B. DeWolfe, chairman and CEO of DeWolfe New England. "Her professionalism and problem-solving ability have earned her the admiration of all her colleagues."

Allan Haffner

Allan Haffner, local owner of a Domino's Pizza franchise in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, has taken over the position of store manager at the Andover store at 38 Park St. Mr. Haffner originally managed the store for two years when he bought it in November 1989.

Carlson Real Estate and Realty USA/Schruender Real Estate merge

Richard Carlson, chief executive officer of Carlson Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens, has announced that Realty USA/Schruender Real Estate in North Andover will become part of Carlson Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens.

George Schruender, owner of Schruender Real Estate, will remain with Carlson as a senior broker associate. Carlson will retain the Schruender location at 73 Chickering Road and incorporate the company's existing North Andover associates into the new location.

Sue Noble, manager of Carlson's original office in North Andover, will manage more than 25 sales associates in the newly combined office under the name of Carlson Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens, Schruender Division.

The decision will provide customers and clients of Realty USA/Schruender Real Estate with access to the sales and marketing network of Carlson Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens, one of the largest full-service real estate companies in the United States with more than 800 associates in 40 offices.

Town closer to choosing sites for playing fields

By Neil Fater

At April Town Meeting, residents approved money to create three playing fields. Next Town Meeting they may be asked to do so again - for the same three fields.

According to Peg Campbell, Department of Community Services program director, because the town will not build all three fields on the locations mentioned in the approved warrant article, it again will need to ask approval for playing fields at the next Town Meeting.

Ms. Campbell recommends placing a soft-ball field at the currently used Chandler Road/Ledge Road site, and one soccer field each at upper Recreation Park and behind Sanborn, abutting Interstate 93.

She made this decision after witnessing a well-attended public meeting, accepting letters and phone calls, and using the information collected when interested neighborhood groups and town officials filled out a matrix. The groups ranked 10 potential sites according to eight different criteria.

Although several sites ranked higher than Rec Park, some of the areas turned out to be too small for a field, said Ms. Campbell.

"The matrix scored differently but there was so much overwhelming discussion (and letters) that said, 'What about Rec Park?' and 'What about putting recreation at Recreation Park?'" she said.

Placing one or more fields at Bancroft School, near the intersection of High Plain Road and Cross Street, or behind South School all ranked higher than placing fields at Rec Park, but neighbors of these sites put up stiff opposition.

Several South School neighbors and environmentally-conscious residents formed a group to save the forest behind South School.

Five Bancroft neighbors sent in letters, all stating Bancroft isn't the right place for more fields. Six Cross Street-area residents said the same about that site.

(Recreation Park-area neighbors gave Rec Park the lowest possible rating for all eight under consideration when they filled out the matrix.)

"There's obviously a great deal of antipathy toward the Cross Street area, South School and Bancroft and I can't see forcing that issue," said Larry Larsen, selectmen chairman, who appears to support Ms. Campbell's recommendation, particularly for the Chandler and Sanborn sites.

"Rec Park is a recreation park and I would like to see it tastefully and thoughtfully used in that way," he said. "I expect there will be some antipathy towards it, but I think the preponderance of feeling will be with doing something there."

According to Ms. Campbell many people also want to use the gravel pit at Rec Park "because it's sort of like a waste zone."

Day Surgery

IN & OUT FOR SAME DAY SERVICE

The LGH community is your family and ours.

COMFORT

The winter was long and hard and our son Alex had a sore throat it seemed all through the season. At our last visit to the pediatrician, the doctor suggested a tonsillectomy. She made arrangements for the Day Surgery team at Lawrence General to do the procedure. Off we went on a bright and sunny Tuesday morning in early spring. The staff made Alex feel special. They understood that while this might be one of hundreds of tonsillectomies they'd do this year, it was the only one our son was going to have. And the fact that he'd be in and out in one day made it so much easier on him and on us.

RESPECT

The doctors and nurses explained everything to us. I was especially impressed with the way they spoke directly to Alex. Being treated that way really seemed to calm him. But what mattered most was the way they treated our family. They used a smile as well as they used their high-tech surgical equipment, and it sure worked for us.

New principal, same action sought in Campbell case

By Neil Fater

Although a new West Middle School principal already has been named, plaintiffs Lynne and Richard Robidoux will continue pursuing a civil action calling for Dick Neal, superintendent, to show he had good cause to force popular principal Sam Campbell to resign.

"Lynne Robidoux will continue to pursue this litigation," said Andrea Thorn, attorney, who was asked by Ms. Robidoux to speak. "She can't figure out how someone would be willing to accept a position knowing there's litigation."

According to Ms. Thorn, the civil action likely will reach court around June, 1996.

If the Robidouxes were to win their case, the town might be responsible for two principals, Dr. Campbell and newly-hired Vicki Simms, said Ms. Thorn.

"If the plaintiffs were to win and get the relief they've requested, the town would be in the impossible position of having to offer Dr. Campbell a contract for the year 1995-1996, which will have already transpired," said Ms. Thorn. "It leaves the town in the untenable position of having been found with two principals."

Ms. Thorn said a summons was sent out to be served on Mr. Neal through the deputy sheriff's office. The Robidoux lawyers, herself and Mark Miliotis, both of Andover, soon will begin conducting depositions, she said.

Under Education Reform, only superintendents have control over the hiring and firing of principals. Dr. Campbell worked for two superintendents, Mark McQuillan, now in Lincoln, and Mr. Neal.

Ms. Thorn said she thinks it's "totally strange" she has not heard from the town counsel about the action, because information was faxed to town officials after the action was filed.

"It's rather alarming that plaintiffs have brought litigation in good faith," said Ms. Thorn, "and yet no one from the town is responding, to my knowledge."

"He hadn't been served until last week," said Town Counsel Tom Urbelis. "I'm still looking at it."

Mr. Neal was not available for comment Wednesday morning.

Play fields

However, this may be too expensive. An earlier estimate by Bob McQuade, public works director, placed the cost of preparing the pit for fields at more than $1.1 million, she said.

One of the major problems is creating a safe entry road to the site, say officials.

"I really like the gravel pit as a site. You can't argue about drainage," said Dr. Larsen. "The problem is access. Apparently it's deeper down there than it looks."

Mr. McQuade will produce cost estimates for each of the likely sites, said Ms. Campbell.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 years ago, July 5, 1895

The 119th anniversary of America's independence, the ever-glorious fourth of July, has passed and gone down into history, but the space required to relate Andover's part in the many patriotic celebrations of the day will be too small to see even through a microscope. Never has so little patriotism been shown. Hardly a bell was rung, except the fire bell. A few flags raised, the stray report of some piece of fireworks or toot of a fish horn and a general suspension of business suggested that it was a day a little different from the ordinary.

The night before the fourth, when Andover's celebration is generally at its best, was also pretty tame. The usual big bonfire in the square was missed, several attempts to build one being spoiled by stalwart officers.

Most of the employees of the Tyer Rubber Company have been enjoying the usual week's shut down at the 4th of July.

The land is full of children - not a day older than their grandparents were at the same age - to whom the firecracker is an unmixed joy and the skyrocket an awe inspiring delight. It may be a little dangerous to indulge the fancies of these youthful patriots, but they are as much entitled to their day of hazardous sport as their parents and grandparents before them and are quite likely to live through it. Old John Adams' idea of a Fourth of July is not so wrong as some timid souls have come to regard it, and if the little extra risk is met by a good deal extra care, the present generation will enjoy and survive an old fashioned Fourth quite as well as their ancestors.

50 years ago, July 5, 1945

Victory first on the Fourth of July is the substance of an appeal issued by Chairman Roy E. Hardy of the Board of Selectmen this week. "With our fighting men massing for the final knockout of Japan, let us make this Fourth of July a day for civilians to dedicate themselves to the cause of final and complete victory. This year, of all years, we must put victory first on the Fourth!"

One year ago, we wrote in this column about another Fourth of July having come and gone and devoid of the usual demonstrations which we Americans always looked forward to on the Fourth.

This article is being written on the eve of the Fourth 1945 - From 1944 to 1945 plenty has happened (and in our favor) with the furtherance of the War. It could be that by the Fourth of July 1946 we'll see the Japanese threat fully throttled and they subdued as Germany is now. A fervent prayer by all Americans, that it will be realized.

25 years ago, July 2, 1970

It's going to be a good-old fashioned Fourth of July in Andover this year, as the town and the Andover Service club combine to provide entertainment for all ages beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday. All of the events will be at the Andover Playstead and park beginning with a softball game between the Gillette All-Stars and the town of Andover Allstars. There will be a horseshoe contest, a doll carriage decorating parade, tricycle and bicycle decorating parades, sack races, three-legged races, pie eating contests and novelty races.

The Andover Police and Fire Departments will engage in a tug-of-war contest.

There will be amusements including such things as antique car rides, antique truck rides, fire engine rides, London bus rides and pony rides. The committee will have 28 booths for refreshments and games. One of the outstanding features of the day that it is designed to be a real old-fashioned Fourth, with the maximum price of 10 cents on all items such as rides, refreshments and yes, even hot dogs.

Concerts are planned in the afternoon, and square dancing is scheduled from 7:30 to 8:30.

The overall event will be capped off with a spectacular fireworks display.

10 years ago, July 11, 1985

An all-town breakfast started off the annual Fourth of July celebration as hundreds of people lined up for flapjacks, sausage, juice and coffee. Andover's revised traditions, the Horribles Parade, saw over a hundred youngsters and adults marching along Main Street in costumes and riding along on their decorated bikes. Marchers included the now infamous Bartlet Street Onsemble (BSO).

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

By Katherine Urquhart Interim coordinator

The Council on Aging Board is moving forward with plans to expand the Senior Center while several old issues keep cropping up. We hope that by focusing on the range of programs, activities and services available through the Senior Center, you will have a better understanding of both senior issues as well as the center as symbolic of much more than just a building.

As we celebrate Independence Day, let's take a moment to reflect on the Declaration of Independence which so eloquently identified our "Rights...to Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness...", which perhaps we take for granted. Imagine how you might pursue those rights as well as your independence if you were over 70 and among the fastest growing group in this country. Then again, maybe you just have to look in the mirror like I do and see a few gray hairs. Perhaps aging is something we do day by day, which we do so much more gracefully if we acquire knowledge and skills along the way.

SENIOR MENUS

The following meals will be served to senior citizens next week at the Senior Center on Whittier Court:

Monday: Veal roulade with brown sauce, rice pilaf, corn, assorted whole grain bread, fruit cup.

Tuesday: Sliced turkey with gravy, whipped potatoes, stuffing, peas, assorted whole grain bread, fudge brownie.

Wednesday: Shepherd's pie with gravy, mashed potatoes, carrot wheels, assorted whole grain bread, fresh fruit.

Thursday: Chicken ala king, white rice, green beans, assorted whole grain bread, pudding with topping.

Friday: Baked fish, scalloped potatoes, vegetables, assorted whole grain bread, ice cream.

For reservation, call 470-3830 before 2 p.m. on the business day before the lunch you plan to attend. The Senior Center will serve baked chicken on Monday, July 17, and baked stuffed pork chop on Tuesday, July 18.

Upcoming events: Country Western Cook-out, great food and entertainment, on Tuesday, July 18, 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m. Tickets are $4 and will be available at the Senior Center. Space is limited, so purchase them in advance.

North Shore Music Theater Will Rogers Follies Wednesday, Aug. 23. Bus will leave at 12:30 p.m. Round-trip transportation and show costs $33. Deadline is July 3. Sign up early.

With the hot weather here, if you don't have air conditioning, don't forget the Senior Center has and you are more than welcome to come get out of the heat.

The Andover Council on Aging board meeting is Monday, July 10, at 8 a.m.

Haven daytrips: Odyssey Luncheon Cruise on July 12 and Wrights Mill Farm on Aug. 24. Call Dot Bresnahan at 475-2347 for more information or to make reservation.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hoggood, D.M.D.

A STICKY SUBJECT

Which snack food is healthier for children's teeth, chocolate or raisins? As might be expected, chocolate does not do any favors for teeth, but raisins are even worse. The fact is that those sugary and starchy foods which stick to teeth pose the biggest risk for creating tooth decay. When such foods as raisins, fruit sticks, chewy candies, potato chips, crackers, and cookies mix with bacteria (found in plaque), acids form which can dissolve enamel. Those foods that stick to teeth and lodge in crevices between teeth for prolonged periods pose the biggest threat to oral health. To protect teeth, it is best to brush them (or at least rinse) after all meals and snacks.

Prevention is the key to good dental health. When you choose dental-friendly snacks and practice proper brushing and flossing, you are maximizing your control over dental health. One of the most important services we offer here at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93, is a plan for preventive dental care, including nutrition counseling. Share your dental care with us - call 475-2431 for an appointment Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, for complete family dental services.

P.S. Surprisingly, chocolate does not pose as great a threat to teeth as other sugary snacks because fat and casein (a protein) in milk chocolate afford a degree of protection.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

IT PAYS, IN THE LONG RUN

One of the first things that any good financial planner will tell a client is to "pay yourself first." What this means is that those who have trouble setting aside savings should take a percentage out of each paycheck immediately upon receiving it. This compares with the usual doomed strategy of waiting to see what is left over for saving at the end of the month. The preferred amount to set aside is ten percent, but any amount will do. The important thing is to establish the habit of regularly putting aside a specific amount (that can be later increased) for investment. Once clearly defined financial objectives properly mesh with household discretionary income after taxes and major expenses have been met, the way is paved for the security that a nest egg provides. We can help you not only establish the discipline of the regular investment process, but also to select investments that fit your goals and time frame. Please give us a call today!

BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES, is New England's oldest and largest full-service financial planning firm. We offer a wide array of financial plans in the areas of retirement, individual investments, life and disability insurance, estate planning and education planning. Want to learn more about how to make the most of your money? Please call us here in Andover at 475-9212. We are located at 10 Essex St. We also have a Boston office at 100 N. Washington St. (617) 523-4500.

HINT: Ask about the benefits of dollar cost averaging. This can be a very beneficial investment strategy over the long haul. Let's discuss how or if it can be applied to your investment goals.

Jessie Koffman and Jackie Powers performed a number from South Pacific.

Viewing the talent are Janelle LaRose, Alyssa Brenner and Lisa Hagopian.

ON CAMPUS

Philip D'Agati, Beth Bergeron and Jason McNeil, pages at Memorial Hall Library, have each won $1,000 scholarships.

Mr. D'Agati, a graduate of Central Catholic High School in Lawrence, will attend Merrimack College in September, where he plans to major in history. Ms. Bergeron, a graduate of Methuen High School and a member of the National Honor Society, will attend UMass Lowell, pursuing a degree in math science. Mr. McNeil, a graduate of Andover High School, will attend UMass Amherst, where he will study environmental science.

Karen Herman, chairwoman of the board of trustees, presented the scholarship awards. The trustees annually provide scholarships to graduating seniors who have worked at the library for at least 18 months, demonstrating a dedication to their work there, and maintained a B-average in their studies.

Gregory J. Arserio, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Arserio of 7 Sheffield Circle, was named to the dean's list at Clarkson University in Potsdam, N.Y. The sophomore is majoring in mechanical engineering.

Tara A. Coccozza of Pendant Court received a bachelor of arts degree cum laude from College of the Holy Cross at its 149th commencement May 26.

The daughter of Mark and Susan Coccozza majored in Spanish and psychology.

James B. Damon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn J. Damon of Andover, was named to the dean's list at Emory College, the undergraduate, liberal arts college of Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., for the spring semester.

Andrew M. Frankenberger, son of Lois E. Frankenberger of 33 Alden Road, received a bachelor of arts degree magna cum laude from Duke University in Durham, N.C.

Eric R. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barry E. Green of 26 Pleasant St., received a bachelor of arts degree from Saint Anselm College in Manchester, N.H., on May 20. Mr. Green majored in psychology.

Eleanor S. Kimball of Andover was one of 40 men and women to receive a master of divinity degree from Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Centre, the oldest Protestant graduate school of theology in the United States, on May 22.

Ms. Kimball is a member of West Parish Church, United Church of Christ, and is serving as interim pastor of the Evangelical Congregational Church of Harvard.

P.J. Johnson of Andover received a degree in civil/environmental engineering from Villanova University May 21. Mr. Johnson was named to the dean's list for the fall 1994 and spring 1995 terms. He began work last week as an engineer for Turner Construction in Boston.

Dennis Mahoney, son of Barbara S. and Daniel D. Mahoney of 100 Argilla Road, received a bachelor of fine arts degree in sculpture from Rhode Island School of Design on June 3. Mr. Mahoney is a graduate of Andover High School.

Outstanding students were recognized at a recent honors convocation at Merrimack College in North Andover.

Students from Andover honored: Karl T. Bateson, management; Gail M. Campbell and Catherine A. Stelzner, liberal arts (English and psychology); Cherry W. Lo, business economics; and Brenda J. Walsh, accounting.

The Massachusetts School of Law in Andover awarded the degree of juris doctor (J.D.) to 247 students, the sixth class to graduate from the school since it opened in 1988, and also the largest.

The following Andover residents were in the graduating class: John Gorman, Sean Higgins, Barbara Lazaris, Gregory Batten, Jared Healey, P. Mark Martini, Richard Fleming, Michael Smith, Lisa Degallery, Mellonie Fleming, Jeffrey Noonan, Luan Giannone, Keller Mackie, Laura Tandara-Kuhns, Martha Drouet, Robert Ciampitti and Jay Raxenberg.

Chad Murphy of Andover, a student at Emerson College in Boston, was honored during the 1995 Emerson Evvy Awards ceremony. The annual event, sponsored by Emerson Independent Video, a student organization, recognizes Emerson student achievements in the fields of television, film, audio, journalism, creative writing and advertising. Mr. Murphy won in the category of best news director.

More than 2,300 University of New Hampshire students took part in the university's 125th commencement ceremony Saturday, May 20.

William Koromhas, son of Vera and William Koromhas of 105 Lowell St., received a bachelor of science degree from the Life Sciences and Agriculture College. The water-resource management major received an alumni scholarship, and N.H. Timberland Association and Lloyd Hawkinson scholarships, awarded by the Department of Natural Resources.

Heather Bryce Marchessault, daughter of Joan and Claude Marchessault of 421 High Plain Road, received a bachelor of arts degree. She is a member of Pi Gamma Mu, the honor society in social science, and Golden Key National Honor Society. Ms. Marchessault will teach French at Berwick Academy in South Berwick, Maine, while completing her master's degree at UNH in elementary and special education.

Alissa N. Park, daughter of John and Jennifer Park of 29 Michael Way, was awarded a bachelor of arts degree cum laude at Wellesley College on Friday, June 2. The economics major plans to attend Columbia University Law School in New York City this fall.

Ms. Park played the harp with the Wellesley College Philharmonic Orchestra and was a tutor for the economics department. She held internships at the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston's Research Department, Mass. Department of Public Health and Mass. Taxpayers' Foundation.

N. Read Norton, son of Perrine Colmore of Andover and Nathaniel Norton of Charlotte, Vt., received a bachelor of arts degree at Colorado College on Monday, May 22.

The 1990 graduate of St. Mark's School in Southboro majored in political science.

Mr. Norton received distinction on his thesis, "The Challenge of the Islamic Movement in Egypt."

He was a member of the men's varsity lacrosse team.

Jay Parker, son of Joanne and Donald Howard of Andover, will receive a bachelor of science degree from Northeastern University this month. Mr. Parker majored in sociology with a minor in philosophy. He played a major role in promoting handicap awareness on campus.

The 1990 Andover High School graduate will focus on implementing charter schools.

Four Andover students graduated from North Shore Community College Friday, June 2, at the O'Keefe Center at Salem State College.

They are Michael J. Beirne, Susan Lustig, Perry Raffi and Barbara Sefarian.

Jeremy Parker of Andover was inducted into Alpha Lambda Delta, the freshman honor society at the University of Massachusetts Lowell. Students who finish either the first or second semester of their freshman year with a grade-point average of 3.5 or above, out of a possible 4.0, are eligible to join the honor society. Mr. Parker is studying electrical engineering.

Hilary D. Driscoll and Amy B. Smith, both of Andover, received bachelor of arts degrees from Williams College in Williamstown at the college's 206th commencement exercises Sunday, June 4.

and a member for four years. Ms. Driscoll was coxswain of the men's varsity heavyweight team that won the New England competition and earned fourth-place at Champion National Regatta. She also competed in the Henley Royal Regatta in Henley, England, at the end of June.

Ms. Smith is the daughter of Linda Mason-Smith. The political economy major graduated cum laude. She was involved in Amnesty International, field hockey and ice hockey.

John Prochilo Jr. of Fossen Way, the CEO of Northeast

Rehabilitation Hospital (NRH), recently returned to his alma mater, Sargent College of Allied Health and Professions of Boston University, to deliver its commencement address.

Mr. Prochilo cautioned graduates that they are entering their professions in the midst of a health-care crisis. He reflected on his 14 years as clinician, administrator and even patient, diagnosing the present health-care system as "Not consumer-friendly; it's confusing, at some levels counter-intuitive and, on occasion, extremely wasteful." He urged the graduates to "advocate for setting rational limits on health-care spending," warning that, "if we fail to do this, external groups will make arbitrary decisions on our behalf. All too often the insurance claims actuary comes between the clinician and patient."

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz TIPS FOR FINDING GREAT TENANTS

When you buy an investment property, finding and keeping good tenants is very important. We have found that a little caution during the screening process can save a lot of headaches later on.

Many property owners rely on an intuitive sense of how a prospect feels to them. While this is an important aspect of a landlord's decision-making process, following up intuition with some fact checking is also definitely worthwhile. Have prospective tenants fill out an application giving employment references and the names and addresses of previous landlords. The application should also include written permission for you to run a credit check. In most areas, it is difficult and expensive to evict someone who turns out to be less than a model tenant. Only after you check their references and credit history should you make a commitment to allow them to move in. To keep good tenants, many successful investors charge slightly lower than market rents. Then they make it up in very low vacancy rates.

If there is a move in your future, the real estate specialists at Century 21 Carriage House are ready to serve you. Feel free to visit our office at 10 High Street, or phone us at 475-1243.

Summertime - and the livin' is easy... Especially when you're at camp, sitting in an inner tube, floating down a lazy river, and taking a picture of your sneakers...

Andover campers take their tubes to start down the Pemigewasset River near Plymouth State College in New Hampshire, during last year's summer camp.

WHAT'S UP

Due to popular demand

Andover Youth Services announces Summer Camp 01810

By the Youth Services Staff

Here are the top 10 reasons, compiled by the home office on Bartlet Street, to attend Andover Youth Services Summer Camp 01810:

10. Why not?
9. What are you gonna watch on TV? Ricki Lake and Bob Barker?
8. No homework or parents allowed.
7. Our counselors are serious, but not that serious.
6. It's wicked cheap.
5. Rock climbing, archery, hiking, swimming...
4. Red Sox, tubing, canoeing, Water Country and more!
3. You can eat Twinkies for breakfast.
2. 1,000 water balloons...
1. You make the rules!

Weekly sessions at Summer Camp 01810 include the following events: opening day, Omni Theater, Hampton Beach, theme days, hikes on Pawtuckaway, Mount Chocura, Mount Cardigan and Mount Monadnock, tubing on the Pemigewasset River, Olympics, Red Sox, deep-sea fishing, Wingersheek Beach, Ipswich River canoeing, Lawrence Boating Club, YMCA for rock-climbing and archery; Canobie Lake Park, Newburyport skate and ice cream, field trips to Boston and Harvard Square in Cambridge and Water Country in Portsmouth, N.H.; and various sports, games, activities and crafts.

Here's how to register

- The program has been revised to accommodate more options. Flexible enrollment allows kids to participate for one or more weeks. Sign up at the Department of Community Services office today. First-come, first-served.

- Dates: Summer Camp 01810 program starts Wednesday, July 12, and ends Aug. 18.
- Location: Doherty Middle School, located on Bartlet Street. Every program day will start and end here.

- Costs: Program costs are $50 per week, except for the first week, which will be prorated to $30. The price includes all trips except major out-of-town trips, which may have additional costs of between $5 and $35 (for example, Water Country).

by Garry A. Burke

KINDNESS

Is there not a timeless quality to Robert Nathan's words: "Kindness: what a strange word to find on anybody's lips these days. It is like a style in clothes which is no longer worn, or like a rusty language no longer spoken... It is and instrument which has lost its usefulness. It is of no use either to the hero, or to the commune; it is an attribute neither of the lion nor of the ant. At best it is a feeble virtue; and it has had no part in history, for history is made by force. Nevertheless, it has a way of returning every now and then to earth, when one least expects it. The military bands stop a moment for breath, the hunter pause to sleep, and there is kindness again, nesting stubbornly in people's hearts, lifting a small peaceful voice, ready for the millennium."

The most inevitable fact of life is that it will end one day. Pre-arranging and pre-financing a funeral are important decisions. You should approach realistically the logic and economics of planning now what might not take place for many years. For more information about pre-arrangement, call BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200. Located at 390 North Main Street, we are a non-sectarian home. (Continued from page 16)

Mr. Prochilo received two degrees from Boston University: a B.S. physiology in 1979 and an M.S. in applied anatomy and physiology in 1981. He came to NRH seven years ago as an assistant administrator and was named CEO in 1990.

After the ceremonies, Mr. Prochilo described his feelings on the podium and during the ensuing ovation, "It was one of the greatest days of my life." His wife, Cheryl, oldest son, John III, 10, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Prochilo Sr., were present.

Ironically, Mr. Prochilo said he did not get to attend his own 1981 graduation because it conflicted with his wedding day. One of his professors, invited to the reception, presented his diploma to the young groom amid cheers and applause from family and friends.

Karyn Elizabeth Ragonese, daughter of Mary and Frank Ragonese of 215 Salem St., received a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from North Adams State College Sunday, May 28. Ms. Ragonese worked as a one-year intern for alumni relations as well as did volunteer work and events for the development office. She was treasurer of the Student Alumni Association.

Ms. Ragonese is a graduate of Andover High School.

Willard Jay Robinson, son of Willard and Joyce Robinson of Andover, received a master's degree in public and private management from Yale School of Management. He completed a two-year multidisciplinary program that integrated management issues from the business, government and nonprofit sectors into a single curriculum.

Mr. Robinson will work as a senior consultant for the international management consulting firm of Deloitte & Touche LLP in its Boston office. He has a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from Worcester Polytechnic Institute and a master of science degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University. Mr. Robinson graduated from Andover High School in 1983.

Manish H. Shah of 22 Lucerne Drive received a bachelor of science degree in engineering from Case Western Reserve University in commencement exercises held on campus May 14. Mr. Shah majored in biomedical engineering.

Jonathan M. Shine, son of Daniel J. and Rosanne M. Shine of 11 Granada Way, received a bachelor of arts degree from Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., Saturday, May 27.

The 1991 graduate of Phillips Academy will enter Georgetown University School of Law in the fall.

James M. Pathiakis, son of Anna and Nick Pathiakis of 14 Blanchard St., graduated from Merimack College cum laude. He received two bachelor of science degrees: one in computer science and one in business administration.

Joshua Russo, the son of Tony and Elaine Russo of 45 Old County Road, received a bachelor of arts degree from Colgate University in Hamilton, N.Y., Sunday, May 21. The English major was a member of the Colgate Thirteen choral group and the student residential life staff.

He is a 1991 graduate of Phillips Academy.

Three students from Andover graduated from Simmons College on May 21.

Kerry Ann Woods, daughter of Kathleen and Paul Woods of 34 Porter Road, received a bachelor of science degree in physical therapy. She was a member of hall council and the physical therapy club. She will return to Simmons in the fall to complete her master's degree in physical therapy.

Jennifer M. Callison, daughter of Malcolm Callison and the late Priscilla Callison, received a bachelor of arts degree in graphic design and art. She designed the publication Sidelines, and worked at both Daher's Shoes and Barrons.

Samantha Genier, daughter of Cynthia and Robert Genier, received a bachelor of science degree in biology. She was president of the Biology Liaison.

Three students from Andover received degrees from Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., Saturday, May 27, at Saratoga Spa State Park.

Maura Anne McGrail of 39

Shipman Road received a bachelor of arts degree in English. Michelle Sharon Messinger of 4 Garfield Lane East received a bachelor of arts degree in English philosophy, summa cum laude. Curt Vincent Solomon of 187 Woburn St. received a bachelor of science degree in business cum laude.

Noel Sloboda, a senior at Connecticut College in New London, Conn., was elected to membership in Pi Beta Kappa, the national academic honor society. Membership signifies the student is in the top 10 percent of the class. It is the highest academic honor awarded by the school.

The 1991 graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy in Exeter, N.H., is the son of William and Marion Sloboda of Osgood St.

Darrel C. Waugh, son of Donald and Nancy Waugh of Andover, was among the 230 law students awarded degrees from Western New England College Saturday, May 20, at Springfield Symphony Hall.

Mr. Waugh received a juris doctor degree cum laude and was awarded the Benjamin D. Novak Award.

Four Andover residents graduated from Suffolk University in Boston at May 28 commencement exercises at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

Victoria (Kiki) Chiungos received a juris doctor degree cum laude. She has a bachelor of arts degree magna cum laude from the University of Massachusetts. Ms. Chiungos is a legal assistant in the law office of Leonard Fisher in Brookline. She has two sons: Byron, class of '98 at the University of Pennsylvania, and Dean, class of '97 at Phillips Academy.

Yoang Hoon Jung received a juris doctor degree. The area coordinator for the Massachusetts Department of Revenue in Boston has a bachelor of arts degree from Gordon College. He and his wife, Myong Sook Chang have four children: JiEun, Jia, Jason and Mia.

Gregory S. Danisch was awarded the degree of juris doctor cum laude. The accountant at Massachusetts General Hospital graduated from Macalester College with a bachelor of arts degree. He is married to attorney Melissa Morris Danisch, a 1990 graduate of Suffolk Law School. They have a son, Joseph.

Jennifer A. Doherty, daughter of Anne C. Tedford of Andover, received a master degree in public administration. She graduated from Boston University in 1992 with a bachelor of arts degree. Ms. Doherty is a legislative aide to Massachusetts State Representative Brian M. Cresta.

Pamela Wells, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald A. Wells of Andover, graduated magna cum laude from Haverford College in Haver-

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

TREATING MORE THAN BACK PROBLEMS

Perhaps the fact that about half of all chiropractic patients seek treatment for problems with the lower back has led to the general perception that chiropractors treat only back problems. The fact is, however, that chiropractors specialize in treating a variety of muscle- and joint-related disorders anywhere in the body. Aside from commonly being called upon to treat neck pain (with or without referred pain to the arm), chiropractors often treat headaches and migraines. In addition, patients consult with chiropractors about frozen shoulder (adhesive capsulitis); tennis and golfer's elbow; such wrist and hand problems as arthritis, carpal tunnel syndrome, and small wrist ganglia; and abnormal jaw function. The back is only a starting point.

At DeLorenzo Chiropractic Group, we look at your overall health - focusing not only on your low back, but also on your lifestyle. This integrated approach helps determine the best treatment for your problem. Chiropractic - a natural way to better health. For more information, or to schedule an appointment, please call 475-5042. We're located at 15 Central Street. Don't suffer needlessly. Chiropractic works.

P.S. Chiropractic can also effectively address respiratory, digestive, and genito-urinary conditions.

A pancake breakfast and a concert in The Park, a Horribles Parade for the kids, jugglers, and fireworks Monday night rounded out Andover's Fourth of July celebration.

To view Tuesday's Horribles Parade, Elaine Schofield and Amy Glendinning had the best seat in the house, out the window of an apartment at the corner of Main Street and Barnard Street.

Matthew Phaneuf was well equipped to fight the sun and salute the country.

The Andover Historical Society marched behind masks of Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, carrying a sign saying, "Andover Historical Society Salutes the Buzz." Tom Edmonds, curator, and Karen Herman, board member, had the idea of adults participating in the parade because it was an adult, evening parade in the early 19th century. Adults would lampoon town officials in a friendly way.

State Rep. Gary Coon was one of several officials flipping pancakes.

Allison Caffrey, 11, of the Yankee Doodle Dandies, walked the entire parade route on stilts.

Paralyzed

stretch his legs before resting over the weekend. Nick Scalse, his barber at Coco's of Andover, was able to swap Mr. Doran's 3 p.m. appointment with an 8- or 9-year-old boy's 12:30 slot. Mr. Doran had hurried out of the office to get to the appointment.

"Needless to say, I never got out of the barber shop," he says today from his wheelchair.

He woke up in the trauma center at Lawrence General Hospital. A doctor was saying they'd been unable to contact his family. They needed permission to operate immediately to save his life.

"Yes," Mr. Doran remembers saying.

As he was passing out again, the last thing he heard was, "Cut off his suit." He was wearing a new suit he'd just bought from Enzo Fossella, of Enzo of Andover, and remembers thinking, "Oh, no. I just paid a thousand dollars."

The suit went. And there was no Bulls game. No dinner. No marathon.

It was two weeks before he learned the truth. He asked a nurse if he would ever walk again. But he didn't need to hear the answer.

"I could tell by the look on her face what the answer was, and by the tear in her eye," he says. "I'm a quadriplegic. I try to act like I'm not."

Mr. Doran was a general agent for John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. with ownership of the local sales agency. He'd come from New York to take over an office that was 148th in sales of John Hancock's 148 offices in the country. In seven years, with help, some good people he hired, and hard work, it had come up to fourth, he says.

"We were well on our way to becoming the number-one sales office in the country when this happened," he says. "My career was going very well."

That all ended for Mr. Doran that Thursday. He'd taken a seat at the back of the barber shop and Mr. Scalse had gone up front to take a payment from a customer. What Mr. Doran didn't know was that next door in the liquor store Rene DiLiveau was using a nailgun to install a display. Mr. DiLiveau had been under the impression that all four walls of the liquor store were cinder block. They were, except the last six feet of the wall shared with the barber shop. One of the nails, fired by a .22-caliber shell, went through the dry wall, ricocheted off a two-by-four stud, exited the drywall on the other side and flew across the barber shop. It might have kept going had it not been for Mr. Doran's neck.

The 3-inch spike entered his neck, leaving only a pinhole and a spot of blood on the surface. It went right through his spinal chord between the first and second cervical discs, severing the motor nerves and leaving him paralyzed from the neck down. He was left with some sensory nerves. He can sense pressure, but not pain.

"I have full feeling from the neck up," says Mr. Doran, now 47 years old.

Mr. Doran cannot breathe on his own. He has an electronic pacemaker that stimulates his chest and lungs to breathe for him. That first day at Lawrence General, the doctor cut open the back of his skull to relieve pressure in the back of his head, and was able to push the nail out at the same time.

"I don't think I would have made it without the trauma center."

He went from LGH to the spinal chord unit of the Veteran's Administration Hospital in West Roxbury on April 22, where he spent the next "25 months to the day" before returning home to Andover.

$15 million

Mr. Diliveau was using a nailgun rented from Taylor Rental. Taylor shouldn't have rented him the gun, because in Massachusetts, the user is required to have a Firearms Identification Card, which Mr. Diliveau did not, according to Mr. Doran. Taylor is owned by Stanley Tool Co. of Connecticut, and the gun was manufactured by Remington Corp. All three companies were named in the suit filed by Mr. Doran's attorneys, but the companies settled for $15,350,000 as the jury walked into court. The owner of the building where the barber shop is located, which at the time was for sale, voluntarily kicked in $250,000 of the total "in good faith" because he felt obligated to do something, Mr. Doran says.

The settlement made his a landmark case at the time, he says.

"Mine was the highest settlement of its kind by about $5 million."

Lawyers arrived at the figure by taking his income, about $150,000 a year, and adding 30 percent a year growth. An economist projected future earning power and determined medical costs over a normal life span. Mr. Doran said he felt the settlement was enough to support and educate his children, and provide them with a good start in life.

Homeward bound

While leaving the hospital, Mr. Doran had to decide whether he wanted to go back to New York, where he grew up and had many friends, or stay in Andover. Although the Dorans had been in Andover only seven years when he was hurt, he'd made a lot of friends through business and social affairs.

"I enjoyed Andover from the day I moved here."

He realized his high school friends were no longer his closest friends, although he still keeps in touch with some, and he was comfortable in Andover. And the Andover business community had responded after his accident with meals for his family and in any way it could, while friends, neighbors and business associates made sure his children got to their soccer practices and other sporting events, and tried to make things easy and as normal as possible for them.

"So I felt a real attachment and sort of a love affair with Andover," he says. "I have no plans to ever leave."

The Dorans lived on Barrington Drive at the time of the accident, but that house could not be renovated to accommodate Mr. Doran's needs. So Mr. Doran bought a property at 89 Holt Eugene Doran Jr. and his mother, Antoinette Doran, in the sun room.

Road, razed the house that was on it and built a new one.

"It was more or less designed and built for him," says his mother, Antoinette Doran, who lives with him.

The doorways and halls in the 11,000-square-foot house are wide enough for his electric wheelchair to maneuver through easily. There are no thresholds in the doorways, and he has a ramp to the garage and his specially equipped van.

The house is intentionally filled with photographs and paintings of animals, flowers and other wildlife scenes to bring inside as much of the outdoors as possible. There are no fluorescent lights in the house because they have too much of an "institutional" feel, according to Mrs. Doran. A sun room was added to the back of the house four years ago to allow Mr. Doran to be nearer the outdoors more of the time. It's all glass, even the roof.

"We can lift up the shades and watch the snow come straight down," Mrs. Doran says.

The entire house is climate controlled. Mr. Doran makes sure visitors are comfortable, explaining that he often is cold.

Friends and family

On a recent Monday morning visit to the home, a maid, Donna Barrieau, of South Lawrence, and Nancy Scotina, his personal nurse/executive assistant, were there, along with Mr. Doran, his mother and Casey, the family's large male golden retriever. Only he and his mother live in the house. The accident was more than the Dorans' marriage could take, according to Mr. Doran. While he was still in the VA hospital, his wife of 16 years realized she could not spend the rest of her life caring for him, he says.

"Unfortunately, the accident resulted in a divorce," he says. "It was the kind of disability that just destroys families."

Kathleen A. Doran now lives about a quarter of a mile away, on Robandy Road, with the couple's three children: Colleen, 22; Eugene III, 20; and Caitlin, 13. The divorce was very difficult at first, he says, but he and his wife put their feelings aside and concentrated on the children.

"I think in the long run we've done well and the future is even brighter for them."

Mr. Doran misses the kids. "My hardest part is not having my children with me all the time."

But if that makes things hard, his mother makes things easy. Mrs. Doran, 69 and a widow, came to Andover to live with her son when he returned home from the VA hospital in 1988.

"I'm his arms and legs. I do the running for him," she says.

Mr. Doran was brought up by "wonderful parents," he says, and was always very close to his dad, who died of a heart attack in 1969 at the age of 42.

"And there's hardly a day now that I don't think of him," he says, apologizing for the tears in his eyes.

Mr. Doran says his mother's coming to live with him has probably been the most important thing that has happened to him. "My mother and my sister's family have been a tremendous support."

Mr. Doran's sister, Patricia Pisano, her husband, Tony, and their four children also moved from New York to Andover to be near Mr. Doran and his mother. They now live on Cherrywood Circle. He also has a younger brother, Doug, who lives in New York but visits often.

"Secondly, I'm a very fortunate man because I have a lot of good friends in Andover, and they haven't forgotten me." Friends come over every week or two for lunch, a drink or just to visit. Mr. Doran also gets out frequently, to the mall for shopping, to watch the children or for lunch or dinner.

"Thanks to my family, my friends and my nurses - they're all very supportive. They try to get me out as much as possible."

He attended Bazaar Days in downtown Andover recently, accompanied by Ms. Scotina, his daughter, Caitlin, and good friend Cliff Howe of Andover. Care

Ms. Scotina is one of a staff of 13 full- and part-time nurses who tend to Mr. Doran 24 hours a day.

"I'm totally dependent for my hygiene care and eating and really all bodily functions. It takes two to three hours in the morning to get me up and get me prepared for the day."

He is up at 6:30. At 7 the nurses change over and do his vital signs and exercise his limbs. Then he has breakfast followed by shaving and personal hygiene. To bathe, a lift attaches to a mesh pad under him and raises him into the shower.

Ms. Scotina, of Peabody, was a trainee when she began helping Mr. Doran make the transition to home eight years ago. She has become not only his private nurse, but his executive assistant as well. She manages his personal care full time, scheduling the nurses and maintaining the equipment. She also manages business matters pertaining to his care and assists with his personal affairs and finances. She has gone to school for computer training and a number of personal computers in the home are now used to track scheduling of his care, insurance claims, billing and payroll, and for word processing of letters.

"She keeps everything running as smoothly as possible," Mr. Doran says.

All the staff are dedicated and loyal, he says.

"We've only had two people leave in seven years," and those were for personal reasons, he says.

The chair

Mr. Doran spends much of his time in his wheelchair, which operates on a "sip and puff" system. The straw-like tube just in front of his mouth is connected to mechanical and electronic devices that move his chair forward and backward. He sips air for reverse, blows for forward and blows slightly harder or softer for right and left.

The pacemaker that breathes for him is adjustable, and is set to give him 10 breaths a minute. In conversation, he sometimes has to wait in the middle of a phrase or sentence for the breath to give force to his words. The result is that he doesn't always get to choose where the punctuation goes.

The battery-operated pacemaker is implanted in his chest. It connects the phrenic nerve to his diaphragm, and an electric shock stimulates the diaphragm to take a breath. Some wires are internal, others are external but are not visible under a shirt.

He also has a portable ventilator under his chair in case the pacemaker system fails. He has a tracheostomy in his neck in case the ventilator is needed.

His lungs produce mucus as they are supposed to, but he cannot cough to clear it. So several times a day his nurses have to manufacture a cough — by timing a Heimlich maneuver-like push on his stomach with the breath from the pacemaker — so they can suction it out. The result even sounds like a natural cough, according to Ms. Scotina.

The cushion of his wheelchair is made of plastic air bubbles.

"It moves as I move," to keep from giving him sores.

Battling back

Mr. Doran said the VA spinal chord unit is "an excellent place," one of the best in the country for acute spinal chord rehab. But he doesn't think he could live through 25 months there again.

"When I think back, the thing that scared me the most was the 25 months I spent there."

His kids — 4, 9 and 13 at the time — could do very little for him while he was being rehabilitated, and he spent a lot of time watching television, reading, or staring out the window, "an empty window."

"I'd rather do two years of war" than do that again.

He knows what he's talking about. A veteran, Mr. Doran served in Vietnam from 1966-1968 and earned the Bronze Star. He was reported missing and presumed dead during the Tet Offensive in 1968, and his parents were notified. His platoon had been separated from other forces, suffered a lot of casualties, ran out of munitions and food and were left "basically hiding."

"It took 10 days for the troops to find us."

Mr. Doran was always very athletic. He grew up in a densely populated area of Long Island, N.Y. He graduated with 1,400 classmates. Still he lettered in three sports. And he always enjoyed running.

He was affiliated with the Jimmy Fund during work, and appreciated visits from Larry Bird and Dennis Johnson, both former Boston Celtics; Mike Andrews, former member of the Red Sox and executive director of the Jimmy Fund; and several other athletes while in the VA Hospital. He received a picture and autographed ball from Mickey Mantle. He was also visited by Cardinal Bernard Law.

Faith

Mr. Doran went to Mass every day while he was in the VA hospital, "and it was a great help to me."

"When I can't make Mass, I talk to God. I pray."

He prays not just for himself or his family, but also "tries to focus on the big picture," such as world peace and eradication of starvation and illness.

He tries to attend Mass at St. Augustine Catholic church when possible. His faith has also helped a friend get back to the church, he says.

Cliff Howe hadn't attended Mass in 25 years, but when Mr. Doran came home, Mr. Howe took him to Mass.

"And it reunited him with God and the Catholic church," Mr. Doran says. "And he often makes church now more often than I do."

Mr. Doran says Mr. Howe credits

Doran's hopes for Superman

Christopher Reeves, the actor who played Superman, recently suffered an injury similar to Mr. Doran's when the actor was thrown from a horse.

Fortunately, Mr. Doran says, it appears Mr. Reeves did not sever any of the main nerves in his spinal chord, and it is possible he may recover some movement and maybe even the ability to breathe on his own.

"I'm hoping he'll be that lucky," Mr. Doran says. "It would be much easier handling (the disability) to have some movement and the ability to breathe on your own."

If Mr. Reeves is not that lucky, Mr. Doran says he hopes he's at least lucky enough to be able to be fitted with a pacemaker like his own.

"From all reports, he's an achiever — a person who thinks positive. These are essential things. Whatever the outcome, I remain optimistic. It is so important."

"He'll need his inner strength to survive. He'll need this to be of use to himself and his family. It can be done, obviously. But there is life after a tragedy like his or mine," Mr. Doran says. "I think Christopher Reeves will have the strength that he will need."

Mr. Doran is hoping to write to Mr. Reeves, but will wait to hear his prognosis to be sure there is a fair comparison before writing.

Mr. Doran says the spinal chord unit at the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Roxbury is "an excellent place," one of the best in the country for acute spinal chord rehab.

"I'm hoping Chris Reeves gets to go there. His best chance at rehab is there."

Mr. Doran's doctor, Mehdi Sarkarati, "has already been consulted by Reeves' doctors," Mr. Doran says.

It's good that the general public is gaining a greater awareness of the needs of people in his situation, Mr. Doran says, but it's too bad it takes an accident like Christopher Reeves' to bring that about. He says Mr. Reeves, prior to his accident, had visited a spinal chord hospital to research a part for a movie he was making, and made the comment that he was amazed at how easily an accident like this could happen.

"And he's absolutely right," Mr. Doran says.

him with Mr. Howe's going back to church.

"If that's true, I feel very good about it because that's something I did for him after all he has done for me in the past, and (he) continues to work hard to make my life easier and happier. You don't find many friends in life like Cliff."

Moving on

Mr. Doran says he never suffered depression or bitterness. He says he had 38 good years, "and one bad second."

"My mind only works in one direction — forward. I'm a lucky person that way. My thoughts were, 'OK, here you are. What are you going to do from here, because I'm not going to die.'"

He never met Mr. Dilveau, the man who shot him, and doesn't dwell on what happened.

"I have to be reminded of his name because I never think about it at all."

The only positive part of Mr. Doran's accident is that being in that barber chair may have saved the life of the little boy with whom he'd switched appointments.

"That's probably the only good thing," he says.

He can laugh about the suit from Enzo's having to be cut off, and says Mr. Fossella now makes many of his clothes, and makes them for a sitting position. Mr. Doran still has a sense of humor, Ms. Scotina says.

"Boy. Does he ever," she says. "He can think and talk and make you laugh just fine."

"I think I had a sense of humor before the accident and I don't think it's diminished at all. I'm a happy person," he says.

"The hardest thing for me is, I can't do the things I enjoy, simple things like running or driving. I was always in control."

Mr. Doran has applied to serve in any way he can on Andover's newly created Commission on Disabilities.

"I've been searching for a way to be helpful to the community, the state, whatever," to help people with disabilities, he says.

Mr. Doran says Andover has done a good job in making things accessible for the handicapped. But as much as people try to create access, unless they've lived through an injury like his, they put their best foot forward, but it's not enough, he says. The result is a curb too high, or a ramp not balanced or leaning one way or another.

"It's a hard thing to understand if you're not in that position, but I think it's getting better and people do care."

Mr. Doran hopes he can be an inspiration to his family and to anyone else who can benefit.

The town was helpful to Mr. Doran after his accident, he says. The Towle Fund, a trust set up in the '50s to help Andover residents who are elderly, unemployed or disabled, paid for an elevator to be installed in Mr. Doran's house and for the purchase of a special van, even though he didn't think they should, he says. The trustees felt they wanted to help in some way, he says.

"And I'll always be grateful for that."

Someone once asked Mr. Doran, "What's your feeling about life?" His answer has not changed.

"I'd like to know everybody and I'd like to live forever. I don't want to miss anything. I felt that way before the injury and I still feel that way."

A center for the entire community

More than a year ago when the idea of a new teen center came up in Andover, the Townsmen asked the community if we wouldn't rather have a community center.

Afterall, the seniors were talking about needing a center, and so were the teens. Why not build one center where seniors would have space, teens would have space, and so would the rest of the community, including all those who aren't teens or seniors.

Teens and seniors would benefit from a swimming pool. Teens and seniors would enjoy a bowling alley. Teens and seniors could make use of a theater, and so on.

Today we still believe a community center would be more useful than a separate senior center and a separate teen center.

Yes, we have heard the seniors: they don't want a center that would include teens. But we believe those seniors with that opinion are the seniors who frequent the Senior Center at Whittier Court. We still don't think the senior citizens in Andover who do not attend programs at the Senior Center have been heard from. We believe those seniors would frequent a community center that featured all of us in Andover.

So we have to say we agree with Selectman Larry Larsen when he says "a community center has a great deal of appeal."

To answer the teens' needs, a community center would feature some separate space for them, just as seniors would have some of their own space.

Our only fear is if we start raising the question again of a community center, a space for teens will take even longer than it's already taking to build one. And we want to see the seniors' needs addressed sooner rather than later, also.

Still, it makes sense to ask the entire community the question: What will it be, a senior center and a teen center, or a community center that features more facilities for everyone?

Andona explains its scholarship policy

Editor, Townsmen:

I am writing on behalf of the Andona Society, a non-profit, volunteer civic organization founded over 40 years ago to raise funds to benefit the youth of Andover. In recent years our contributions to the community, including camperships and scholarships, have been nearly $30,000 annually.

In 1995 Andona offered three $1,500 scholarships to graduating seniors residing in Andover. One was specifically designated for an Andover High School graduate. Andover residents graduating from any high school, public or private, were invited by notice in the local press to apply for these scholarships, the requirements being placement in the top half of the graduating class and acceptance at a four-year college or university. Applications were available by mail, at Memorial Hall Library and at Andover High School. All applications submitted were reviewed by the Andona Scholarship Committee in terms of academic achievement, civic contribution, and extracurricular involvement (music, sports, employment, etc.). Recipients were chosen solely on merit.

In addition, the Andona Society funded two $500 scholarships for post high-school education. One of these was reserved for an Andover resident graduating from the Greater Lawrence Technical School, and one was reserved for a Chapter 766 student graduating from Andover High School. The recipients of these awards were chosen by the guidance department of the VoTech and by the Chapter 766 PAC, respectively. Andona had no voice in the selections.

I trust this explanation will correct any misconceptions which may exist about our scholarship program.

Reader infuriated by Larry Larsen's view

Editor, Townsmen:

The infuriation I felt while reading Dr. Larsen's article ("Larry Larsen pushes for community center," June 29, page 14) has prompted me to write to the Townsmen. The contradiction of his article proves to me that Dr. Larsen isn't fully aware of what the seniors (and youth) of Andover want. Despite knowing that both groups have opposed the idea of a community center, Dr. Larsen believes "...a community center was what in our souls we were all thinking about... I think that a community center has a great deal of appeal. Both groups should stop and take a breath and say, 'Is this doable?'" Has Dr. Larsen been listening to his constituents and does he really know what the Senior Center offers and what the seniors want?

Despite his belief that "... what the seniors want has not always been clear... The seniors have been a difficult group to follow," the Council on Aging members have known for quite some time that they would like to build or add on to our current facility. It is due to the lack of support and contradictions from the School Committee and other players that the Council has had to adjust their plans accordingly. If the Council knew specifically what could or could not be done, their plans could be finalized.

Although Dr. Larsen believes that the Senior Center is "basically bingo, lunch, and day care," many more

Advocating for children to have fun

By Perry Colmore

At the risk of re-alienating an already alienated reader I write to urge parents to chill out, have some fun, relax.

Last Friday a man called to ask one of those open-ended questions:

What are your priorities when it comes to news? How do you decide what goes on page 1?

I am only too happy to answer those questions, and often do, but this guy wasn't listening. He had his own agenda. The thing that irked me was that he wouldn't come clean with his agenda.

He objected to the page-1 story from last week, "What's happening July Fourth in Andover? Horrible things." It was the word "horrible" he said upset him. He didn't want horrible things on page 1. He wanted stories that teach kids values.

Come again?

Why, he wanted to know, were there two South School stories on page 20 about a poetry contest and about teacher Dot Pelc retiring, and Shawsheen second-graders receiving certificates on page 16 (he said those were only certificates, not achievement awards), as well as West Elementary School Math Olympiads, also on page 16, when South School's graduation and awards ceremony were nowhere in the paper.

"What is your policy?" he wanted to know. "How do you decide what goes on page 1?"

Kids achieving should go on page 1, he said.

Indeed, often they do. Sometimes they don't. Kids in Andover often achieve. You wouldn't read the paper if that was our policy: If a kid achieves, put him on page 1.

I explained that the news from the elementary schools - awards, honor rolls, assemblies - almost always come from the school. The Townsmen staff is too small to send a reporter to cover an event such as South School's graduation, even if it is important. So we rely on the help of the schools to compile news. Sometimes schools' news comes late. Sometimes we have to hold good news because we don't have room for it that week.

(In fact, it turned out that South School hadn't given us a story about graduation, nor one about an awards ceremony. We are not saying those two events aren't important. What we are saying is we can't send a reporter to cover them, and we will run them as soon as we can after the school gives them to us.)

Yes, I told the caller, I am in charge of what goes on page 1, with the help of the staff here. We try to create a mix of stories for page 1. We hope at least one page-1 story appeals to every reader. We try a mix of hard news and soft news for page 1; a mix of ages, styles. Well, you get it.

This man was objecting to the word "horribles." He didn't want anything horrible on page 1. He said he wanted stories that would promote values. He didn't want his children reading the Townsmen if the page 1 stories don't promote values.

I told him the word "horrible" here meant funny things. I explained a horribles parade involved the fun of dressing up one's dog and running streamers from one's bicycle handle bars and riding down Main Street, laughing and having fun.

"I think kids need to laugh and play," I said to the caller, most likely further alienating him. Achieving is good, but relaxing and playing is important, too.

LETTERS

activities and programs are offered each day. It is the attitude and lack of knowledge that has many people believing a larger Senior Center is not needed.

For those who are not aware of the Center's activities, let me inform you that we also have a gift shop, library, educational classes, support groups for caregivers of Alzheimer's and Parkinson's diseases, and stroke and widow/widower support groups. Meals-on-Wheels are delivered to over 40 Andover residents who are unable to prepare their own meals. Additionally, our volunteer coordinator arranges medical transportation for seniors who would otherwise be unable to get to their doctor's appointments.

As the outreach coordinator, I refer seniors and their families to services offered through the private and public sectors. Additionally, I assist many with questions regarding Medicare, supplement insurances, and questions with medical bills.

In an attempt to redeem himself at the end of his article, Dr. Larsen says that (the day care) "should be run separately and have its own quarters... spirit has come into our Council on Aging... all they're asking from the town is for space to build."

Is he now trying to agree that the seniors need their own facility? The spirit he thinks has sprung into the seniors has actually been around for a number of years. Listening to what the seniors want, rather than jumping the gun to promote a community center is what should be done.

Warrior logo: World has become too PC

Editor, Townsmen:

Every time I think of Andover High School I think of the "Golden Warrior." The logo has always given me a sense of pride and now it is unfair to say to the newcoming freshmen, "You will not be part of the great tradition." It is scary enough going to a new school, but going to a new school that doesn't have a school logo is kind of funny. I mean if you think about it, we could be going to school next year at a school with a logo called the "Andover Fluffy Little Golden Bunnies."

I think all around people have become too politically correct. People want the past to be some nice, perfect time that never had any problems. The way we're going, kids of later generations will think that the world was a perfect spot without problems or wars. Because of this, when a problem occurs we won't know how to deal with it.

Native Americans don't want to be remembered as Warriors but they should look at the reality that the Americans fought the Indians, and many brave Indians were called "Warriors." I can see why they want the Washington Redskins to change their name. That would be like having a team the "New Orleans Blackskins."

My suggestion is that the people who think the Warrior logo is offensive should come up with the new logo. They must be sure it's not offensive to anyone or anything.

On a closing note I would like to comment on the Boston Celtics logo. That symbol of the drunk little Irishman makes fun of the Irish a ton, but Irishmen are proud to have it as a mascot. It must be because we're not so "politically correct."

Don't tell me not to be offended

Editor, Townsmen:

I am writing in response to a letter written by Charles F. Dalton Jr. which was printed in the June 29 issue of the Townsmen. ["Why the Golden Warrior should stay," page 30.]

I ask you, Mr. Dalton, who gave you the right to tell the rest of us whether or not it is acceptable for us to be offended? It certainly is not your place to say that "to view this symbol (the Golden Warrior) as derogatory or threatening is simply not acceptable to the majority of those individuals who have roots in this town and who have worn the school colors and logo with pride and honor over the decades." You do not have the right to tell others which of your actions they may be offended by.

To use a group of human beings as a mascot is derogatory and dehumanizing. To take a title as general as warrior and to represent it by an ignorant depiction of a Native American without any regard to its historical accuracy or to the sacred religious rank of the warrior in Native American tribes is even more derogatory and dehumanizing. It is completely inappropriate for you, Mr. Dalton, to try to trivialize the concerns of those who are in favor of changing the Warrior symbol by telling us that we are not justified in feeling this way or to try to belittle the pain felt by Native Americans at seeing their people, culture, and religion mocked and derided.

Although the Warrior symbol may have been chosen as a representation of bravery, strength, courage, and pride, it is now nothing more than a symbol of ignorance. Andover has been hiding its face behind a mask of ignorance, claiming to be unaware of the inappropriateness of the Warrior as a school symbol and mascot.

Fortunately, that mask has been removed by Native American members of our community and schools who have come forward to inform the community that they are in fact hurt and offended by the Warrior logo. Now there are no more excuses to hide behind. Whether or not the Warrior symbol is changed comes down to the question of whether or not the School Committee will uphold the decision of the High School to show compassion and basic human decency towards Native Americans.

Kidnap suspect nabbed in West Andover

By Don Staruk

A Lowell man was arrested in West Andover Saturday and charged with kidnapping and assault and battery after allegedly using a knife to force two women to drive him from Lowell.

Jimmie L. Bynum, 22, of Lowell, was charged with two counts of kidnapping and one count of assault and battery. He was held over the weekend and was due back in Lawrence District Court yesterday, Wednesday, for a hearing to determine whether he should be held until trial as a dangerous person.

According to the police report, two Lowell women, 21 and 16 years old, stopped in Lowell to ask for directions to a friend's house. Mr. Bynum said he was a cousin of the friend and, as the driver pulled over to get out of traffic, he got into the back seat of the car. He then told them they were going to New Hampshire and asked if they had money for the toll. The driver told him no several times. Mr. Bynum told her to pull over. When she did, he got into the front seat, pulled out a knife, put it between his legs and told her to get on the highway.

On the highway he dropped a cigarette and when the driver told him to pick it up he said no. The 16-year-old then tried to move his seat to get at the cigarette and he turned and struck her.

When the driver tried to tell him they were going the wrong way and that they'd have to turn around, Mr. Bynum allegedly grabbed her arm and told her to drive faster. The women both said they felt they had no choice than to do what he said, according to the report by Officer Craig Poirier.

Then the driver recognized where she was and told Mr. Bynum she needed gas. She pulled off the highway and into Rolling Green Mobil on Lowell Street at Interstate 93.

The two women went inside and Mr. Bynum went to the restroom. The girls were hysterical when they told an employee of their situation, according to the police log.

Seeking volunteers

The Andover Commission on Disability (ACOD) is still seeking townspeople to serve. Send resume and brief letter of introduction to Mark Walker, c/o N.I.L.P., 20 Ballard Road, Lawrence, Mass. 01843-1018 by July 31.

ACOD will meet Wednesdays, July 12, 26; and Aug. 9, 23, at Town Offices, 36 Bartlet St., from 6 to 8 p.m. Agenda items will include membership, awareness and 1996 goals and bylaws.

Call Mark Walker at 687-4288.

The employee called police.

Officer Poirier was the first to arrive and found Mr. Bynum outside with several store patrons. The women were inside the store.

Mr. Bynum was arrested and a 10-inch steak knife was found on the front passenger-side floor of the car.

The women were escorted to the police station. They were so scared and shaken, one of their parents had to be called to come get them because they were afraid to drive, according to police.

windows on a Chevrolet Corvette stored there by the building's owner, Stephen Frost of Boxford. The building is for sale, so there was relatively little else of value inside, but office furniture was turned over and most anything that could be disrupted was, according to detectives.

"They just made a mess for no reason," Detective James Haggerty said this week.

Mr. Mesquita allegedly told police that the group had been drinking in an outdoor area nearby. Mr. Mesquita said he started throwing rocks at the windows of the building and the others followed suit, according to Detective Haggerty. Some of the group then entered the building.

"We have the names of a couple of others who we are going to be looking for," Detective Haggerty said. "We have a pretty good idea of who they are."

Detectives Haggerty, Donald Pattullo, Kevin Winters and David Grant assisted in the investigation.

Elm Green ground breaking is set for this week

By Don Staruk

Construction of the new Elm Green Veterans Memorial at Elm Square was scheduled to begin yesterday, Wednesday. The ongoing work could cause some minor traffic problems in the square in the coming months.

The target completion date for the project is Sept. 5, according to John C. Doherty, one of the organizers of the project.

Workers will start removing the foliage that is on the V-shaped site at the junction of High, Elm and North Main streets this week, including the large blue spruce. The existing rock and cement walls will later be taken out and new ones will be installed, along with nine new pine trees and a number of shrubs and bushes.

"When it's finished, it should be a lot greener than it is now," Mr. Doherty said.

The centerpiece of the memorial will be a large flagpole.

Mr. Doherty said some of the work will cause occasional "minor delays" on High Street. Those delays will be compounded by the simultaneous closing of the Harding Street bridge, connecting High Street to Main Street. That closure is already taking place during the day and the bridge will soon be completely out for the better part of a year while it is being replaced.

Mr. Doherty said the bids for construction of the memorial were "astoundingly high."

Organizers budgeted $50,000 to $60,000, but the low bid came in at $67,000. One bid was for more than $200,000.

To avoid overspending, 90 percent of the planned work will be completed initially.

Water and electrical service to the green will be added later, after more funds are raised, Mr. Doherty said.

Library offers notary public service

Did you know that Memorial Hall Library now has two notary publics on its staff? Nancy Richards and Nan Becker recently received commissions as notary publics. One or the other of them is available during the day, as well as two evenings per week and two Saturdays and two Sundays per month to notarize official documents and administer oaths.

There is no charge for this service.

If you need the services of a notary public, follow these steps:

1. Call the library at 475-6960 to verify that a notary will be available when you plan to come in.
2. Do not sign your document until you are in the presence of the notary.
3. Bring a photo ID with you - a license, passport or military ID are best.

4 Little League teams going to District 14 tourney

By Rick Harrison

Andover will send four Little League All-Star teams into action this week as the double-elimination Massachusetts District 14 Tournament begins with play in the Major 11-12-year-old, Junior 13-year-old and Senior 14-15-year-old divisions.

Local teams have enjoyed good success at the Major 11-12 level over the past decade, with both the American and National teams winning the tourney three times.

In 1988 the Andover Nationals captured district, bi-district, state and regional titles en route to a once-in-a-lifetime appearance at the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa.

That squad, coached by Jim Arnold, Red Harris and John Murphy, went 1-2 in Pennsylvania en route to sixth place in the world. Andover lost 8-2 to Spring, Texas in its opening game, then defeated Puerto Rico and lost to Saudi Arabia despite a no-hitter by Toby Guzowski.

Four years ago the Andover 13s, coached by Bill Vickers, won the state title and reached the New England Tournament championship game before being eliminated one victory short of the World Series in Michigan.

The Senior 14-15s have never won a District 14 crown, partially because many of the better players in that age group play for the town's two Pony League teams (Blue and Gold).

This year Andover could threaten, however, because it is fielding just one team instead of two in the older division.

Schedule

First in action are the Andover National Major 11-12s, who play South Lawrence West tonight in their tourney opener at the Chandler Road Field (5:45 p.m.).

The Andover American Major 11-

12s will play tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. at Methuen.

The Andover Junior 13s will host Lowell Callery on Saturday at 4 p.m. at the Doherty Middle School field, with Merrimack College as a possible alternate site.

Last year many of the same Lowell Callery players, then 12 years old, won the District 14 title and battled to the state final before losing to a team that went all the way to Williamsport.

The Andover Senior 14-15s travel to play Billerica National on Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Locke School Field in Billerica.

Rosters

Following are the rosters for the four Andover All-Star teams, with each player's regular season team in parentheses:

Andover High School gives out its baseball awards

Senior second baseman Tom Tanin was voted Most Valuable Player of the 1995 Andover High varsity baseball team, while Brian Tisbert and Mark Langone were elected captains for the 1996 season, at the Golden Warriors' annual breakup dinner held last week at the Town Line Inn.

Tanin was one of four recipients of major awards, whose winners were determined by vote of the players.

The Coach's Award went to senior Dana DiFiore, the Unsung Hero Award to senior catcher Pete Daniels, and the Most Dedicated Player Award to senior Nate Roberts.

Captain-elect Langone will be a senior next year and captain-elect Tisbert will be a junior.

Andover Blue notches two victories; record now 3-1-2

By Rick Harrison
The Andover Blue baseball team boosted its Suburban Pony League record to 3-1-2 with a pair of recent victories over Stoneham, 7-5, and Methuen, 17-4.

Blue was scheduled to face intratown archrival Andover Gold last night at Andover High in the first of their two annual showdowns.

Blue also plays at Medford tomorrow night (6 p.m.), and will host the defending league champion North Andover Knights Saturday morning at Andover High (10 a.m.).

The second Blue-Gold game is listed for Wednesday, July 19, at Andover High.

Blue is coached by Rick Peterson, Kevin Rourke and Jim Oppenheim.

Andover Blue 7 Stoneham 5

Lefthander Ben Gibson (1-0) went the seven-inning distance in his debut as a starter, spacing seven hits while walking seven and fanning five.

Blue overcame an early 4-1 deficit en route to the victory, as host Stoneham scored two runs in both the first and second innings before Gibson settled down nicely.

Gibson also collected three RBI to help himself.

Andover grabbed a brief 1-0 lead in the top of the first when leadoff batter Rob Oppenheim singled, stole second and third base, and tagged on the first of Gibson's three sacrifice flies.

Trailing 4-1 in the third, Blue added one run as Oppenheim again singled, Scott Peterson was hit by a pitch, Gibson walked to load the bases, and Aron Bellorardo walked to force home the run.

A three-run fifth gave Blue the lead for good. Jeff Cutler reached on an error, stole second, took third on Peterson's single, and raced across on another sac-fly by Gibson. Bellorardo later plated Peterson with a single, stole second, and scored the go-ahead run when Mark Rocca's grounder was misplayed.

Blue added what proved to be the winning and insurance runs in the top of the seventh. Cutler singled, stole second, took third on Peterson's sacrifice bunt, and scored on Gibson's third sacrifice fly. Bellorardo then reached on an infield error, stole second, stole third and crossed on a throwing error to make it 7-4.

Stoneham rallied for one run in the bottom of the seventh, and had a runner at second base when the game ended.

Oppenheim was the only Blue player with more than one hit, while Ryan Hannigan contributed a

Andover Blue 17 Methuen 4

Three Andover pitchers combined for a two-hitter, and didn't allow an earned run, while Blue scored in every inning including a nine-run eruption in the bottom of the second at Andover High.

John Hogan (2-1) pitched the first three innings, yielding no hits while fanning four and walking none.

Rob Oppenheim hurled the next two innings, allowing two hits while whiffing two and walking none. Two errors in the fifth enabled Methuen to push across its four runs long after the issue was decided (Blue ahead 14-0).

Scott Peterson cleaned up with two innings of hitless, shutout relief.

Blue sent 14 batters to the plate in the wild second stanza. Jeff Cutler contributed a two-run single, Ryan Hannigan added an RBI single, and the winners took advantage of six walks and two Methuen errors.

Cutler finished the game with two hits and three RBI, while Rob Oppenheim and Aron Belorado added two safeties each.

Ben Gibson and Peterson contributed one hit and two RBI each, Matt Antaya laced a single, and scoring two runs apiece were Ethan Murphy and Kevin Barry.

Third baseman Jonathan McHugh was a defensive standout for Blue.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS LAND COURT DEPARTMENT OF THE TRIAL COURT

(SEAL) Case No. 218807 To JOSEPH W. LOVOI, FLORANNE P. LOVOI and to all persons entitled to the benefit of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 as amended; FISHER COLLEGE claiming to be the holder of a mortgage covering real property in Andover, MA given by JOSEPH W. LOVOI and FLORANNE P. LOVOI has filed with said court a complaint for authority to foreclose said mortgage in the manner following: by entry and possession and exercise of power of sale.

If you are entitled to the benefits of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 as amended and you object to such foreclosure you or your attorney should file a written appearance and answer in said court at Boston on or before the 31st day of July 1995, or you may be forever barred from claiming that such foreclosure is invalid under said act.

Witness, ROBERT V. CAUCHON, Chief Justice of said Court this 15th day of June, 1995.

Charles W. Trombly, Jr.
Recorder

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS THE TRIAL COURT THE PROBATE AND FAMILY COURT 36 Federal Street Salem, MA 01970

Essex Division Docket No. 95P 1362-EPI Estate of MARGARET BASCOM late of Andover in the County of Essex.

NOTICE

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that a certain instrument be probated purporting to be the last will of said deceased by DAVID B. EUSDEN of South Windsor in the State of Connecticut praying that he be appointed executor thereof, without giving a surety on his bond, and will be the ATTORNEY GENERAL of said COMMONWEALTH.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Salem on or before 10:00 in the forenoon on July 24, 1995.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving specific grounds therefore, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

Witness Thaddeus Buczko Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Salem, the twentieth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ninety-five.

Attorney Megan Cryans in front of her office in the historic Old Post Office Building.

Megan S. Cryans, Attorney at Law

In June, Attorney Cryans opened her new law office in Amesbury, Mass. She is an Amesbury native and is pleased to be able to establish her practice there. She has moved her office from North Andover and her clients find the ride to her new office very convenient.

Megan Cryans is a new breed of attorney who is client oriented. Her clientele is focused on hard working people, with strong middle class ethics, and small businesses. Her policy is to return all phone calls within 24 hours. She is aware of serving her clients' needs and will meet at their homes, if necessary. This is especially welcome by the elderly and handicapped.

Attorney Cryans brings impressive and varied credentials and experiences to her job. She has a B.S. degree in accounting, Masters in Business Administration, studied fashion design at Endicott College, is a graduate of the Massachusetts School of Law in Andover and was a professor at Hesser College in Manchester, N.H. She also interned in the Andover area. This fall she will teach a course in Business Law at N. H. College, Salem Center. She is in the process of becoming licensed to practice law in New Hampshire, as well as Massachusetts.

Megan Cryans concentrates on family law, bankruptcy, estate planning and probate, although she is skilled in other areas as well. She offers her clients dedication and the best representation while keeping them well informed and involved in the process.

The initial consultation with Attorney Cryans is free. She utilizes a new form of billing, which is advantageous to the client, called Value Billing. It is most often on a flat fee basis and protects her clients from billing surprises. She offers a sliding scale fee to those income eligible clients who are in need of excellent legal representation at an affordable cost.

Megan Cryans' office is conveniently located off Route 495 in Amesbury, Mass., at 100 Main Street. Adequate parking is available. Telephone (508) 834-0488.
