Melding of school, town IT on table

BY BRIAN MESSENGER STAFF WRITER

Got IT expertise? The town may be interested in your services.

To identify potential cost savings, a selectman and a member of the School Committee hope to form a five-member technology committee this summer that will examine town and school information technology assets.

A draft proposal outlining the formation of the committee and its initial goals has been presented to selectmen and Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski by Selectman Alex Vispoli and School Committee Member Dennis Forgue. The proposal, referred to by Vispoli as an unsolicited draft, could potentially lay the groundwork for creating a townwide strategic technology plan. Town Meeting approved $50,000 this year for town technology equipment upgrades.

"We have a large organization," Forgue said. "I think there are opportunities for efficiencies, opportunities to deliver better tech support for potentially less dollars. So it's something we have to look at."

Technology committee members would not be employed by the town and would have experience in information technology architecture assessments, under the current proposal.

Forgue said the idea of consolidating Andover's now-separate town and school IT departments is nothing new. "It certainly has been discussed by many people for a while," said Forgue. "I mentioned it in my campaign. "We all know we need to look at opportunities for efficiencies," said everly Pascarella remembers Michael Chiklis as a kind of "second son" who always wanted to be an actor, but never a star.

Heralded on the steps of the Town Offices June 23 for his Hollywood success, Chiklis echoed those aspirations in front of a hometown crowd after being given a symbolic key to Andover by Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski.

"Fame wasn't really the issue for me," said Chiklis, best known for his award-winning role as crooked cop Vic Mackey on the popular television series "The Shield." "I wanted to entertain people and make them think and feel.'

Growing up with Beverly's son Bob Pascarella, Chiklis played in multiple garage bands over the years at the Pascarella residence. The two men remain good friends to this day, Chiklis said.

After the ceremony, Chiklis fondly reminisced about his days playing drums for his band, Double Talk. Just the mention of the band name got Chiklis' friend, Stephen Stabile, chuckling with nostalgia nearby.

"Mike has what you call extremely deep roots," said Beverly Pascarella. "Everybody has roots. His are deeper. He'll always be an Andover boy.'

Roughly 200 people joined town officials and several of Chiklis' former teachers and coaches to recognize the actor for his accomplishments. Chiklis spoke with many in attendance afterward, posing for pictures and signing autographs.

Chiklis won an Emmy Award in 2002 for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Drama Series for his role as Mackey in "The Shield." He also received a Golden Globe Award in 2003 for Best Performance by an Actor in a Televi-ing to be closed for a year and half, but we know we'll be even better in a year and a half when we reopen.'

A highlight of the Addison's last few weeks is a collection titled "Then and Now," which features great works from the museum's permanent collection, said Allen, including examples of painting, drawing, photography, sculpture and prints.

Two special spring exhibits also will be on view through July 13: a collection of landscape photographs by Texan Frank Gohlke and a survey of prints by Connecticut native Carroll Dunham.

The Addison has free admission and is open every day except Mondays.

"One of the great things about the Addison is that every individual that comes to the museum finds his or her own perfect place. The museum has so many spaces that are so elegant, and every visitor finds his or her own home. People often can't find that in a very big museum," said Allen.

The $30 million renovation and expansion project will provide enough storage space for the Addison to keep all of its art collection within the museum building, as well as return the galleries to the sizes intended when the build-

REDESIGN: Curbing and sidewalk work to begin

"It's a good thing in the end," said Breighner. "We know it needs to get done and it's going to be beautiful. And we're going to celebrate when we're done.'

Stapczynski said he was pleased thus far with the coordination between project contractor Newport Construction and the town. As a result, town officials have been able to keep residents up to date on upcoming work, he said.

"Newport seems to be very responsive," said Stapczynski. "The state has a good team out there."

Stapczynski said signs have been put up to inform passersby that downtown businesses will remain open during the next steps of construction, which will include the repaying of portions of Route 28 and installation of new sidewalks.

"In my opinion, if Newport does the sidewalks as well as they've done the work to date, I think we'll get a good product with minimum disruption," said Stapczynski.

Selectman Brian Major said he has received few complaints from residents and his conversations with downtown businesses lead him to believe the project has run smoothly.

"It's not having a drastic impact on their businesses," said Major. "I'm very pleased with the impact thus far.'

Contractors have been working overnight along Main Street to move the project along. Stapczynski said Bay State Gas will continue its overnight work for several more weeks. Once it moves beyond Elm Square and further toward Stevens Street, however, workers will return to performing daytime construction, he said.

"I thought it went well," said Stapczynski of the completed overnight work. "I thought it was a good technique to use, to get a lot of work done when there was little or no traffic and we had the road to ourselves.

Stapczynski said overnight construction is advisable only when there are few direct abutters.

Breighner also credited the use of overnight work as a method of minimizing the impact on businesses

"I'd have to say, for what we're experiencing, it's been rather

After Bay State Gas completes its night work in Elm Square, it is expected to return to daytime work due to the many homes between the Andover Safety Center and Stevens Street.

Newport Construction commences work downtown. Its schedule as of Townsman press time was as follows:

On the west side of Main Street from Chestnut Street to Elm Square (in other words, from TD Banknorth to Kaps): Sidewalks will be excavated; existing curb will be removed; conduit, electric hand holes and new light poles will be installed; new curbing will be installed; sidewalk will be prepared and new scored concrete will be poured and cured. smooth," said Breighner.

With selected on-street parking spaces along Main Street being occupied during construction, town officials provided additional allday parking in late June for downtown business employees on both Bartlet and Elm streets.

Selectmen also approved a plan June 30 that will install nine new spaces in the public lot behind Old Town Hall.

More changes to the town's downtown parking plan and parking rates are expected to be announced by Police Chief Brian Pattullo at an upcoming selectmen's meeting.

Stapczynski said any disruptions hopefully will be forgotten once the project is completed and the town can enjoy its newly redesigned downtown.

"The project is going to be great when it's over and I think they'll forget about the disruption after the trees are planted and the road is paved and life is back to normal on Main Street," said Stapczynski. "I know it's been disruptive, but we're doing what we can to keep people informed."

'Flash fire' damaged Phillips residence hall

BY BRIAN MESSENGER STAFF WRITER

A "flash fire" broke out last week inside a Phillips Academy residence hall, triggering two overhead sprinklers that caused significant water damage to portions of the building, according to Andover fire Chief Michael Mansfield.

No injuries were reported in relation to the June 26 incident, which occurred before 3 p.m. on the second floor of the Alfred E. Stearns House West, while a worker was conducting asbestos remediation.

Mansfield said a worker was removing asbestos floor tiles from the hallway of the building, using a buffer and a tile adhesive remover in an enclosed area

Mansfield said it's likely that a spark was created either from an electrical short or friction from the floor buffer, and this spark may have ignited vapors from the tile-adhesive remover. Mansfield said the asbestos remediation worker is lucky to have escaped the incident without injury.

'Typically the type of clothing he had on, the Tyvek suit, will actually light like shrink wrap when exposed to a flame," Mansfield said. "He's extremely fortunate."

Mansfield said the worker refused further medical treatment after being checked out by Andover emergency medical workers.

The residence hall normally houses 33 students during the school year. No students were on campus at the time of the incident, according to Sally Holm, Phillips Academy spokeswoman.

The two families of faculty members who live in Stearns House West were temporarily relocated on campus until the building was approved for habitation by the town's building and health divisions this week, Holm said.

According to an incident report filed by Phillips Academy's Office of Physical Plant, Holm said no fire actually broke out, though a spark from a floor buffer set off the building's sprinkler system, causing "extensive water contamination of the electrical circuits." A minor leak was reported in a faculty apartment, with repairs expected to be completed this week.

Holm said the floor buffer was being used by an employee of the North Reading-based Dec-Tam Corp.

"Somewhere along the line, there was a spark or a short,' Mansfield said. "It got hot enough for a long enough duration to pop off those two (sprinklers).'

Mansfield said the sprinklers are triggered by a temperature of at least 165 degrees Fahrenheit. The sprinklers are designed to disperse between 32 to 35 gallons of water per minute, he said.

A total of 12 firefighters responded to a reported building fire at 6 Chapel Ave. at 2:44 p.m., along with two engines, a ladder truck and ambulance from both Central and West stations, Mansfield said.

Town electrical inspector Paul Kennedy also responded to the scene.

Kennedy said he was told by eyewitnesses that the chord of the floor buffer was hit, potentially causing the spark. Kennedy said he was unable to inspect the buffer immediately after the incident.

Mother's Walk memorials rekindle city memories

By SARAH HALLOWELL CONTRIBUTOR

Who is to say that mothers are only celebrated one Sunday in May?

Several Andover residents have found a way to celebrate their wives and mothers 365 days a year. They are among the thousands who have bought stone pavers with their loved one's names on them as part of the Mother's Walk in the Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy Greenway in Boston.

Mark Waskeliewicz bought a paver to honor his wife, Tracey, for her dedication to raising their children.

notorious Big Dig. The leftover land that once was part of the Central Artery is now 15 acres of parks, fountains and paths.

And Sheryl, too, Doherty adds. He said that Sheryl, her mother and Christopher's mother are all "Boston girls," all raised in the city.

Kathleen Hess and her husband have followed the progression of the Greenway since the project began and have walked the completed parts several times. Hess bought a paver in honor of her mother, who loved the city. Her mother always lived within commuting distance and loved to shop downtown; she was a frequent passenger on the Red Line.

"She never drove," Hess said. 'Always took the MBTA, even to Andover."

Contrary to the name, the Mother's Walk is not just for moms.

Mykyta said the "symbolic" stones are a chance to honor someone who has influenced a person's life; mother, father, mentor — anyone, she said.

The Mother's Walk pavers will be placed in the north end of the Wharf District section of the Greenway, just south of the Christopher Columbus Park. The particular path in which the pavers will be placed was designed to look like rolling waves, winding around the park. The Wharf District Parks are supposed to be representative of a combination of harbor and city. Mykyta said 1,388 stone pavers have been ordered and the Mother's Walk has room for about 2,000.

The pavers will be engraved and installed on a rolling basis just in time for the Mother's Walk Dedication during the Greenway Inaugural Celebration the first weekend of October.

Doherty plans to take his mother to the ceremony.

"It's great to be part of a living event dedicated to mothers," said Doherty

For Martin, the ceremony will be a family affair. She and her sibling will be bringing her father, who is in his 90s, to the park to see their mother's name inscribed in the walk.

"Boston was such a big part of her life," said Martin."It almost brought her back to life.'

STUDY: Officials to evaluate town, school IT merger

Forgue. "This is obviously one to look at. I don't know what the solutions are."

The proposal was not greeted without resistance on June 23, as School Committee member Arthur Barber questioned how Vispoli and Forgue's plan differed from a plan approved by Town Meeting under the $50,000 capital appropriation.

"It's very clear what should be taking place and this is not how it's taking place," said Barber at the selectmen's meeting.

Barber suggested Vispoli and Forgue would be better served proceeding first with Stapczynski and Superintendent Claudia Bach before soliciting the services of residents to examine the town's technology assets.

"What we want to do is develop a strategic plan for technology, for all town and school departments, and look at organizational strategy," said Stapczynski. "That's why I want to make sure what Alex and Dennis are talking about is in line with what Claudia and I are talking about. ... The four of us need to meet to review the intent of each of our proposals.³

Stapczynski said that no meetings have been planned to discuss the technology committee.

"I'm looking forward to working with whatever group evolves from the discussions," said Stapczynski. "What can be consolidated and combined? I don't know."

"There are concerns across the board in terms of how to do things and how to do things right, respecting the need to save money and show efficiencies and achieving the goals of the individual departments' IT needs.'

On the school side, Barber said similar privacy issues exist concerning students' grading software.

Barber said school officials have been interested in consolidating town IT departments for a number of years.

Two or three years ago, Barber said he and Selectman Brian Major formed a focus group with town and school employees to examine the potential for reshaping Andover's two IT operations.

"I applaud both of them for taking it up and moving forward," said Barber, referring to Vispoli and Forgue. "A lot of work has been done already. ... I don't think any of us are satisfied with how long it's taking.'

Barber also expressed interest in soliciting the help of residents through the proposed technology committee.

"I'm all for using private citizen talent whenever we can save money," said Barber. "It's a heavy IT town, a lot of IT gurus."

Barber used the dual town and school Human Resources and Plant & Facilities departments as prime examples of successful consolidation efforts. "I think we expect to see that out of IT," he said.

Forgue said the draft proposal Stapczynski said that when it will likely develop as conversa-

20 from Andover set for bike challenge

On Aug. 2 and 3, 20 residents from Andover will donate their time and hands to volunteer in the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge, the nation's pioneer charity bike-athon. They will be among more than 2,600 PMC volunteers who come together to help raise millions for adult and pediatric cancer research and care at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through its Jimmy Fund.

This year's goal is to raise $34 million, bringing its 29-year Jimmy Fund contribution to more than $238 million.

"PMC volunteers are at the heart of our organization," says Billy Starr, PMC founder and executive director.

Volunteers are needed to help with setup, registration, luggage transport, medical support, bike repairs, security, food service, clean up, and office support leading up to the event. Massage, occupational and physical therapists are also needed to soothe the sore muscles of thousands of weary cyclists as they ride up to 190 miles over two days. Volunteers are also given the option of volunteering on Saturday and riding Sunday on a for-volunteers-only, 84-mile route from Bourne to the Babson College finish line in Wellesley.

To become a volunteer, a virtual rider, or make a financial contribution, visit www.pmc.org or call 800-WE-CYCLE.

IRS says 478 from Andover missing out on money

If you are a retiree or disabled veteran, you could be one of 478 Andover residents eligible for an economic stimulus payment. But you must apply for it.

The Internal Revenue Service has announced a new summer campaign to reach those retirees and disabled veterans who qualify for the economic stimulus payment but have not filed to claim it. New statistics indicate about 74 percent in this group are accounted for in the stimulus payments being sent, leaving about 5.2 million potential recipients remaining.

In Massachusetts, 66 percent of the 443,000 potential retiree/disabled veterans' filers are accounted for, leaving about 151,000 potential recipients still needing to file for their economic stimulus payments. The IRS says that 478 of these people live in Andover.

"Most people only need to file a tax return as they normally do," said Peggy Riley, IRS spokesperson for New England.

"The IRS will calculate eligibility and the payment amount. However, many retirees and veterans do not normally file a tax return because their benefits are not taxable. This year, they must file in order to receive an economic stimulus payment," Riley said.

Riley also stressed to retirees that receiving the stimulus payment should have no impact on other federal benefits currently being received. The stimulus payment is not taxable. Absent any other filing requirements, filing a tax return to receive a stimulus payment does not mean that retirees will have to start filing tax returns again.

Riley also reminded people that it has more than 400 local Taxpayer Assistance Centers operating normal business hours Monday through Friday. These centers can provide assistance to retirees and veterans trying to receive their payments. A list for address-"Contact My Local IRS Office" at www.irs.gov.

"Some retirees and others who normally do not file a tax return may be eligible and not know it. And, that's where we could use the public's help as well. If you know of a retiree or a disabled veteran who might qualify, please pass along the information to them," said Shulman.

2008 generally provided for payments of $600 ($1,200 for married couples filing joint returns or the amount equal to the 2007 net income tax liability, whichever is less,), plus $300 for each qualifying child. Payments also begin to phase out for individuals with adjusted gross incomes greater than es and office hours can be found at $75,000 ($150,000 married couples filing jointly).

Volunteering earns girl national prizes

By SARAH HALLOWELL CONTRIBUTOR

Alexandra Hsu checks the daily bulletin at Andover High School once in a while. One particular time she saw two award contests that grabbed her interest. She entered both, but did not think she would win.

Alexandra, who has finished her junior year, was shocked when she won both the Princeton Prize in Race Relations and the Alexander Hamilton Citizen Achievement Award.

"I was so amazed," said Alexandra. "I just came upon them. I didn't expect to win, especially the Hamilton Award."

Both awards were for her community service project at the Henrv K. Oliver School in Lawrence. Only 50 students nationwide win the Hamilton award — and two of them were from Andover High this year, with David Hu also winning.

Two years ago, Alexandra went to her mother and told her she wanted to do community service, specifically tutoring students in Lawrence. Alexandra's mom, Stephanie Maze-Hsu, who is a consultant in the Lawrence school system, said she put her daughter Spanish-speaking households," said Alexandra.

At first, just Alexandra was involved, but five or six other Andover students joined "Stories, Songs, and Snacks" after hearing the interesting stories that Alexandra told at school.

"I would come in school on Friday and say 'Oh guess what, so-and-so Alexandra and other Andover sing."

DAVID HU HONORED WITH HAMILTON AWARD

Alexandra Hsu is not the only Andover resident to win the Alexander Hamilton Citizen Achievement Award this year. David Hu, another student at Andover High School, also was honored. According to a press release from the Alexander Hamilton Friends Association, David is very involved with the Esperanza Academy in Lawrence, where he is a math tutor and helped design the school's Web site. He has also won several other awards for his achievements in writing.

High School students sing songs, read stories and play games with the first- and secondgraders to help them improve their English.

Alexandra also helped the kids get ready for the Oliver School's Literacy Night, where the students perform for their parents. She said the performance showed parents how much their students are learn-"Many of the students are from ing. This year's theme was patriotic, and Alexandra said she taught the children a few songs, like "This Land is Your Land" and "My Country Tis of Thee." Maze-Hsu said more than 150 students and parents attended and each of the students said at least one thing that they loved about literacy.

"A few got stage fright," said did something really cute," she said. Alexandra. "Most of them love to

According to its official Web site, the Princeton Prize, open to all high school students, was created "to promote harmony, understanding and respect among people of different races by identifying and recognizing high school students whose efforts have had a significant positive effect on race relations in the schools or communities." Hsu was one of six area students recently honored with the Princeton prize.

Alexandra was also one of 50 students nationwide who received the Alexander Hamilton Citizen Achievement Award. This award, given by the Alexander Hamilton Friends Association, recognizes students with outstanding citizenship and achievement. Winning this award entitles Alexandra a scholarship and the opportunity to attend a leadership conference in Seattle.

BOOK REVIEW Tale of light leaves readers lighthearted

By MARI MIYACHI CONTRIBUTOR

"Stories are light," Gregory the jailer tells Despereaux, a misfit, daring and heroic mouse. In fact, "The Tale of Despereaux: Being the Story of a Mouse, a Princess, Some Soup, and a Spool of Thread" by Kate DiCamillo, is a story of light. The book follows the separate lives of three characters, all of whom are in the pursuit of light in the contrasting darkness of their worlds. Despereaux Tilling is a mouse who loves music, reading and the Princess Pea - loves that are forbidden by the Mouse Council. Roscuro

- a rat named after chiaroscuro, which is the use of contrasting lights and darks in creating art — lives in the dark castle dungeon, yearning for the one thing that no rat should ever want: light. Miggory Sow is an abused, ugly servant girl whose only wish is to become a princess, like Pea.

All are equally out of place in their respective worlds, and all desire what is forbidden. When these characters meet in their pursuit of their illicit "light," they are led down to the depths of the maze of a dungeon. The pursuit interweaves the lives of a very unlikely hero, Despereaux, and a rat and a human, both of whom are characteristic enemies of the mouse world.

DiCamillo, author of "Because of Winn-Dixie" and "The Tiger Rising," proves her strength as a narrator, telling "The Tale of Despereaux" with wit, humor and wisdom. She often addresses the reader during her narration: asking questions, giving words of advice, foreshadowing the future. It is DiCamillo's strong and vibrant voice, shining though the entire narration, that sets "The Tale of Despereaux" apart from other novels aimed at similar age groups. Not only are the characters endearing and empathetic, but DiCamillo's own character as narrator is entertaining and often poignant.

I would give "The Tale of Despereaux" an 8 out of 10. A quick and easy summer read, great for the beach, it provides the reader with a satisfying story of heroism and forgiveness. At times predictable, Despereaux still maintains to keep the reader's interest, perhaps due to its short length. DiCamillo is one of the strongest narrators for young adults, and Timothy Basil Ering's illustrations, delicate and airy, provide a beautiful contrast to the writing of DiCamillo.

In fact, "The Tale of Despereaux," which won the 2004 Newbury Award, was so well received that it is being produced into a major motion picture. The movie, set for release in December 2008, features such big names as Emma Watson as Princess Pea, Dustin Hoffman as Roscuro, Matthew Broderick as Despereaux and Sigourney Weaver as the Narrator. After reading this book, I look forward to the silver screen adaptation.

DiCamillo ends her story by writing, "Reader, I hope you have found some light here." DiCamillo and her "Tale of Despereaux," with its great charm and heartwarming messages, succeeds in providing just that. A great novel for younger readers, it leaves you feeling lighthearted, inspired and satisfied.

ROYAL CELEBRATION

Residents have seen the holes downtown, the construction equipment, the police details. They ain't seen nothing' yet.

The Main Street redesign will shift into high gear beginning Monday, when workers start tearing out some sidewalks and replacing some curbs, according to the latest schedule available at presstime. Until now, much of the work being done was considered preparatory below-the-ground work, or was work done by utility companies. The town and state also have been able to plan a good portion of the work in the center business district during the night to eliminate as much disruption as possible. But redesigning the downtown — with the intent of creating a better town center — will not happen without some piles of debris and aggravation.

Further south down Main Street, signs of construction have appeared outside the Addison Gallery of American Art on the Phillips Academy campus. Construction equipment, mounds of earth and safety fencing stretches right to the steps of the first museum devoted entirely to American Art. The planned $30 million renovation and expansion project will close the Addison, one of Andover's underused jewels, after July 13.

All this work will mean residents won't be able to visit the Addison Gallery until the spring of 2010, and that trips to the downtown shops may be a little less convenient this summer. There will be some dust, noise and disruption. But when all the work is complete, Andover's respected museum should have galleries that have been restored to their original size. All of the museum's collections will be stored on site, meaning they will be easier to display for residents or even local groups who seek a specific item. In the downtown, the state road project should create a better and safer flow for both vehicle and foot traffic. Extra money approved by Town Meeting should help beautify the area. Andover's picturesque downtown and the Addison Gallery are attractions for Andover. A little patience and understanding now as these areas receive face-lifts should pay off in the features being more attractive than ever.

After celebrating their American League championship (above), the Royals went on to win their division of the town Little League, capping a 19-0 season.

Name calling on global warming

Editor, Townsman:

As a scientist I am disappointed to read Sam Washburn's characterization of global warming as a hoax and junk science, which is nothing but name-calling. It's not that I mind his skepticism. In science, you should be skeptical, but you also have to be open-minded.

If you look at other evidence, you can't deny that something is going on. Historical photos show that glaciers all over the world are receding at alarming rates. Pretty soon we'll have to think up a new name for Glacier National Park, and I'm not joking. Last summer the Arctic sea ice shrank to the smallest coverage ever recorded, and so far this summer it's no better.

There are reasons to believe the ice melting is a result of human activity: We are putting billions of dle, egg and flying saucer sculptons of carbon dioxide into the air tures at the other end of the lievery month. Carbon dioxide lev- brary? els are rising year after year. The basic physics of the greenhouse effect is well understood; briefly, carbon dioxide absorbs infrared "heat" radiation coming from the Earth's surface and then radiates some of it back, which keeps the planet warm. The argument that water vapor has more greenhouse effect than carbon dioxide is true but misleading. The crucial difference is that water vapor does not tend build up in the long run. And you can't beat the price. If you price a pint of bottled water at $1.25, then a gallon of bottled water is about $10, many times the cost of Andover's fine drinking water. So, if you want to save money in hard times, think about filling up your canteen at home and then use the saved money to fill up the family car with another overpriced commodity. Given the outrageous price of bottled water, the going rate of regular unleaded gasoline at just over $4 per gallon will seem like a bargain. John F. Zipeto

Happy Fourth!

Americans have an added bonus this Fourth of July, with the patriotic holiday falling on a Friday. In Andover, the festivities will launch Thursday, July 3, with fireworks at Andover High School. The next morning will include the usual Andover party of Horribles Parade, pancake breakfast and activities in the Park, with the added bonus of 5to 10-minute hot-air balloon rides, with the fee to ride going to charity.

With the hectic pace that many of us keep, this long weekend is the perfect opportunity to spend more time with the family, friends and neighbors who help make the town and country a special place worthy of celebration.

Alumnus: Trustees should consider dean's 'fitness'

BY BRIAN MESSENGER STAFF WRITER

A local attorney and Massachusetts School of Law graduate wants the Andover law school's board of trustees to "consider the fitness of Lawrence R. Velvel to continue on as dean," because Velvel will host a conference to coordinate the war crimes prosecution of top U.S. officials.

Velvel has suggested in writing that, if found guilty, top officials should face prison time or even hangings.

Andover resident Peter Cotch, a 2007 graduate of the law school, sent a letter to trustees Chairman and New York-based attorney A. Paul Victor on June 25 requesting the review of Velvel, who cofounded the school.

In comments published June 15 on the site www.opednews.com, Velvel revealed his plans to hold a two-day conference Sept. 13 and 14 at the Massachusetts School of Law's Federal Street campus.

Velvel has since confirmed that the conference likely will be moved off-campus to an undisclosed, alternate location.

Titled "Planning for the Prosecution of High Level American War Criminals," the conference is meant to plan and coordinate war crimes prosecution of President George Bush and members of his administration.

"Because domestic politics are obviously useless for holding the guilty accountable, we must try to do what was done in the 1940s to the leaders of nations who committed evil," Velvel wrote. "We must try to do what was done to the German and Japanese leaders from top Nazis and Tojo right down to lawyers and judges ...

"Not unless leaders fear prison or the gallows for actions that violate law will there be anything to check the next headlong rush to war for allegedly good reasons that later prove false," Velvel wrote > taste for both the September conference and Velvel's comments. He said he has received numerous phone calls from disapproving alumni.

"It reflects negatively upon my alma mater and I have an unyielding fondness for that school," said Cotch. "I truly love that institution. But in my opinion, Larry Velvel is going out of his way to disgrace it and that's just not right."

Multiple calls to Victor were not returned this week. Andover lawyer Arthur Broadhurst, also a member of the school's board of trustees, said any major concerns by law school graduates would be addressed by the board.

"That's something, obviously, Cotch, a Republican, said he is that if it's brought to our attention, not alone among Massachusetts if people aren't happy, we'll have who added he was unaware of the nated the efforts of more than 500 Bush administration's reasons beletter sent by Cotch regarding Velvel.

Saying the conference is not an official Massachusetts School of Law event and will be moved to an off-campus location, Broadhurst also said he has not concerned himself with the dean's comments.

"He's taken on challenges like this his whole life, so this stuff doesn't surprise me," said Broadhurst. "It really doesn't concern me what he does on his private time unless it affects the school. At this point it hasn't."

Contacted this week, Velvel would not reveal where the conference will be held now or the reasons behind the venue change. Velvel also declined comment on Cotch's letter.

The dean also chose not to elaborate on his written comments or his motivation behind the conference.

"The answers are stated explicitly in the article," Velvel said, referring to his written statement.

Among those planning to attend the September conference is Peter Weiss, vice president of the New York-based Center for Constitutional Rights.

Over the past several years, Weiss said the center has coordidefense lawyers representing U.S. detainees held at Guantanamo Bay.

'These are lawyers who believe in the constitution," said Weiss. "It has nothing to do with 'liberal.' It has to do with whether you believe the rule of law."

Weiss said numerous cases in foreign courts have been brought against top U.S. officials for war crimes, particularly in Europe and South America. However, such cases have made little headway, he said.

Weiss said he believed war crimes have been committed by top U.S. officials, but did not believe such officials will ever be tried for them.

"I don't see it happening in this country and I don't see it in the foreseeable future, these suits being successful," said Weiss. "But that's not a matter of law, that's a matter of politics.'

Weiss said any war crimes charges put forward would likely revolve around the use of torture by the U.S. military, including waterboarding, sleep deprivation and the use of stress positions. The destruction of religious or cultural sites could also result in charges, as both are prohibited by American and international law, Weiss said. Though he disagrees with the hind the Iraq war, state Sen. Steve Baddour, D-Methuen, a Mass. School of Law graduate, said he believes the conference is more of a publicity stunt than a legitimate legal effort.

"I just can't see this movement going anywhere except for academia," said Baddour. "They operate in their own universe and this is no exception."

Mass. School of Law graduate and state Rep. Barry Finegold (D-Andover) declined comment on the conference.

Richard D'Agostino, also a graduate of the law school and now the assistant attorney for the city of Lawrence, said he believes the conference is meant to raise the school's profile.

"I'm not pleased. I have a lot of respect for Dean Velvel," said D'Agostino. "I'm certainly very put off by the perspective and the comments."

Cotch said if the conference is held off campus, that would not change his expectations about how the school's trustees should address the dean's comments.

"I'm confident it is in the hands of the board of trustees, where it belongs," said Cotch. "And it is in their purview to determine what, if anything, should be done."

"People think it's glamorous because they see me on the Emmys once in the year," Chiklis told the crowd, which gathered on Bartlet Street in the mid-day heat to see him. "It's a lot of hard work. It's a lot of dedication. I was really blessed growing up because I knew what I wanted to do."

Though Chiklis said his career had given him the opportunity to travel around the world, Andover still holds a prominent place in his mind. "I'm being honored by the finest," he said.

FIVE YEARS COMING

Last week was actor Michael Chiklis' first trip back to Andover since 2003.

Chiklis said his busy work schedule with "The Shield" and "Fantastic Four," combined with family commitments, created the five-year gap between homecomings. "This is the longest I've gone without coming home," said Chiklis. "Hopefully that won't happen again.' Chiklis fondly remembered trips to Lake Winnipesaukee in New Hampshire growing up and summers spent by his backyard pool in Andover. He credited New England as home to the best people around, he said.

"My best friends, they are my best friends now," said Chiklis. "They're still my guys to this day."

As for what's next for the actor, Chiklis said he is hoping to finalize plans for a new independent feature film.

The final season of FX's "The Shield" will also begin Sept. 2.

"It's the best season yet, I'd have to say unequivocally, and I've never said that," said Chiklis. "Things happen now that you can't take back."

King, a former teacher at Andover High School and also the actor's former drama instructor and a high school football coach.

Also present to honor Chiklis were his former Andover High teachers and coaches Dick Collins and Dick Bourdelais.

Bourdelais recalled how Chiklis' acting ability once got him no-

Townspeople Ball games and Christmas visits

For the past 10 summers now. senior baseball buffs have boarded a school bus at the Andover Senior Center, ready for the fun ride to a Lowell Spinners baseball game. The gas tank is full and the tickets are free, compliments of the firefighters union, and organized by Deputy Chief Jim Dolan.

The night out is set for Thursday, Aug. 7, this year, and Dolan, an 18-year member of Andover's Fire Department, already has the tickets in the hand.

Last Friday, June 27, seniors made sure Dolan had something else in hand too - their 2008 Shining Star Award.

Dolan and his wife, Sharon, were honored by the Andover Council on Aging and the Friends of the Andover Senior Center in part for making the popular summer trip happen all these years.

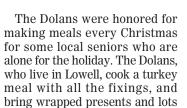

"Jim makes sure that seniors are treated to a fine evening with food and fun to enhance the baseball experience," said Nancy Mulvey, co-chairwoman of the Council on Aging.

Dolan credited the firefighters union, saying it is "a great group of guys" who are happy to help with the event every year.

Organizing the minor league baseball trip is not all Dolan does for local seniors, however.

of smiles when they deliver their homemade meals.

Sharon Dolan said the couple's children are now grown and out of the house.

"So we don't have our kids opening presents on Christmas morning," she said. These days, the Dolan family works together on Christmas morning, cooking and mapping out the Andover stops they'll make that day. Over the years, they have visited between two and 12 seniors.

"We get the call the week before Christmas, find out how many homes we will visit and do the cooking," said Sharon Dolan, who gets support from her A-list of businesses that are happy to donate to her goodie baskets. "It's wonderful for us to be together to do this."

She handles the cooking with her daughter, Alison, who flies in from California to visit, while her husband handles the driving.

Mulvey said if not for the Dolans, those seniors would have no special meal for the holiday.

"This award is important, because there are many extraordinary volunteers, like the Dolans, who do special things for the seniors," she said. "This is our way to say thanks."

Several days ago, David Haartz, a former Andover resident, looked at a photograph in "EM-MA - Espoo" Museum of Modern Art in Finland. He was surprised to see that the photo's title was "Foster's Swan" and that it was taken at Fosters Pond in Andover. The photographer was Arno Rafael Minkkinen, who was described by the museum as a Finlander living in the USA.

Mr. Haartz said the photograph, "Is that of an extended arm and in the background a swan floating on water. But the photo was taken in such a way that the swan looked like it is sitting on the arm."

Mr. Minkkinen is an internationally known photographer who has an exhibit in Beijing as part of a retrospective of his works that is on a world tour. He lives quietly in Andover. If you go online and search his name, you will see how many awards he has won and the quality of his work. It is original and unusual, and quite good to this untrained eye.

Scout hopes art will get friendship campaign rolling

BY BETHANY BRAY STAFF WRITER

Participants in last week's annual Paul King memorial skate-a-thon at the Andover Community Skate Park might have left feeling a little friendlier than usual.

Not only did the event raise money for improvements to the 10-year-old skate park behind West Middle School, but it was the first weekend 20 colorful murals extolling the message to "just say hi" were on view.

The murals were installed the week before by Boy Scout Eric Simpson.

Simpson, who graduated from Andover High School last month, organized the painting and installation as part of his Eagle Scout project, titled "just say hi." It aims to convince Andover residents, through art and social awareness, to be friendlier, and literally to "just say hi" to someone they might not know, he said. Simpson believes his campaign is relevant to Andover, where many residents are driven and concerned with numbers -- class rank, GPA or checkbook balance — instead of reaching out to others, he said. He teamed with Bill Fahey, director of Andover Youth Services, to start his project. He enlisted the help of 26 friends to help design, paint and hang the murals.

The 20 murals each have a different design within the "just say hi" theme. Some depict alternative ways to say hello, such as with a handshake or a greeting in a foreign language. Others explain the deeper aspect of the campaign, said Simpson, "the call for more unity, more community-based connections.

The murals range from deep and serious to "really, really funny," he said.

The corner of Clark, Bannister and Dascomb roads is known as Blueberry Corner by old-timers in the 'Vale, according to Pam (Darby) Nichols, who send me an email awhile ago. She says her mother, Evelyn (Hall) Darby, has lived on that corner for all of her 84 years. It would be nice to see the town or Andover Historical Society place signs so that these names live on.

The "Infamous Rumble"

Ed Munroe grew up in Andover and now lives in Woodstock, Conn. While doing research for the AHS class of '58 reunion this fall, he came across my column about "the infamous rumble," he said. The "rumble" occurred about 1957 and was a planned fight between Lawrence gangs, although some Andover kids wanted to join in. Its location was just inside Andover off Greenwood Road. It was a widely anticipated event, and a number of spectators were expected. Ed was one of the spectators. However, the Andover police found out about it and handled it quite nicely.

Last fall, Ed went to the Class of 1957's reunion (that was Punchard's last graduating class) and talked with Barry Benson about the infamous rumble. Ed says, "By the way, I never saw a punch thrown. Barry was at the Greenwood Road site when I arrived with Donald 'Shadow' McBride. We were in Don's car. When it was apparent the police were coming, Barry threw me the keys to his beautifully restored 1939 Ford and asked me to evade the police and get it out of there. Which I did. Barry crawled on his hands and knees through the woods and avoided capture. He retrieved his car at my Lowell street house eight hours later."

Ed and Barry initially got away, but days later word went out that the Andover police had a list of everyone at the scene and it would go easier on those who turned themselves in. Ed says, "Barry turned himself in and had

The Shadow remembers

When I was growing up, Donald "Shadow" McBride was my next-door neighbor at 59 Chestnut St. He now lives in Jacksonville, Fla., and adds this comment: "I remember after we split up that night, I rode around with (two friends) for a while. When I returned to downtown, I and others were rounded up and taken to the police station (which was in the back of the Old Town Hall) and put in the squad room. Also there were the opponents, including the '49ers' from Tower Hill in Lawrence. (The "49ers" were sonamed because they owned 1949 cars.) We had not run into each other earlier in the evening, so no fight ever occurred. Now we were all in one room and unsupervised. The police took all of our names and turned us loose. We all became friends after that. I also had my license pulled for

Punchard and the Blue Devil

The Class of 1958 was the first one to graduate from Andover High School. Except for its senior year, the class went to Punchard. I've been asked why the name "Punchard" was dropped as the name of the high school. Anyone with information about the reason can contact me. It had such a long, good tradition that it seemed a shame to lose it.

A few years later, the "Blue Devil" mascot was also dropped. I'm not sure why that happened either, although it wasn't too much of a loss, because it only existed about 10 years. However, in my senior year ('61) we had a contest to design a new Blue Devil, and I remember that Elizabeth Doig, a junior, won the prize.

Simpson painted one mural himself, and the rest were each painted by a different friend. One of the requirements of an Eagle Scout project is that the Scouts enlist volunteers to help, he said, and having 20 artists ensured that each of the murals would have a different feel and perspective.

"The only thing I did was hand them a brush and paint, and explain what the project was about," he said. "Everyone came to the table with different ideas.

"It just shows that a bunch of kids can get together and make something that has meaning. Here's 26 kids that got together under the leadership of one and said something that challenges people to think about relationships, and think less about money and success. (It shows) that all different walks of life and kids from different schools can come together stand up for something," he said.

For his project, Simpson found volunteers through the Facebook social networking Web site, as well as friends, fellow AHS seniors and teens he knew from his youth group at Faith Lutheran Church on South Main Street. A parent of a friend, Roland Heinrich, also volunteered, he said. Doyle Lumber in Andover gave him a deal on lumber and U-bolts for the project, and White Street Paint in Lawrence donated all the paint and brushes, said Simpson. The murals took about a week to complete, including painting, sealing and hanging the pieces, he said. After the project was finished, Simpson had a cookout for the volunteers.

Pull out a blanket, load the kids in the car and head to the high school because the Fourth of July festivities kick off tonight, Thursday, July 3.

The fireworks will be at Andover High School, 80 Shawsheen Road. Although safety officials were concerned originally that the explosives might accidentally ruin the school's new artificial turf football field, state and local officials have come up with a way to keep the fireworks at the high school varsity baseball field, between third base and home plate, near Shawsheen Road.

Because of the new launch location, fireworks fundraiser Jerry Silverman said most of the hill at the high school will be off-limits and some parking will be lost.

Silverman wouldn't say how much money a fireworks committee has raised for this year's display, which he said will be bigger then last year. Town Meeting approved $8,000 for fire-

"We're not finished yet," Silverman said, "but I guarantee that there will be enough money to cover the fireworks and have a little left over for next year."

He added that anyone who wants to write a check can make it out to "Town of Andover" with "fireworks" in the memo line.

A new addition to the fireworks evening this year will be the music of the 30-piece Middlesex Concert Band. Sponsored by the fireworks committee, the band will be playing from 7:30 juice will be made and served by past and present town officials until 11 a.m. The breakfast, games and activities will be in the Park at the corner of Chestnut and Bartlet streets.

Also starting at 8 a.m. will be the Blair Bettencourt Jazz Band. The jazz band will play in the Park until 9:30 a.m. when it will lead the Horribles Parade.

People interested in being in the parade should line up at 9 a.m. The parade will start at 9:30 a.m. on Bartlet Street then, move down Punchard Avenue, Main Street, Park Street and Whittier Street before finishing back in the Park.

Children's activities and games will be available in the Park from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Activities will include a moon bounce and face painting.

A new event this Independence Day will be hot air balloon rides in the Re/Max balloon on Friday from 8 to 10 a.m. behind Doherty Middle School, which is next to the Park.

Rides will be $5 for both adults and children.

The balloon was recently at Smolak Farm Strawberry Festival in North Andover. Re/Max helped raise money for the farm's charity, Smolak Fund, which benefits arts and education in North Andover.

Sherry Smith, office manager of Re/Max Partners, approached the Department of Community Services in Andover and volunteered one of the real estate company's famous hot air balloons to use at the celebration.

"We wanted to give back," she said.

On Friday, Smith and other agents will set up and staff the ropes of the balloon.

The basket of the balloon holds no more then four people. The balloon will go 50 feet straight up and then come back down. Sarah estimates each "tethered ride" will be five to 10 minutes.

Sports MAKING THEIR MARK

Wilmarths give Phillips tennis first NEPSAC title

BY DAVID WILLIS STAFF WRITER

With a pair of United States presidents, countless renowned scientists and writers and Patriots head coach Bill Belichick listed among its alumni, it's difficult for a student to make history at world-famous Phillips Academy.

But Andover's Lauren Wilmarth, with the help of twin sister Victoria Wilmarth, permanently etched her name into Big Blue lore thanks to her work on the tennis court.

The junior bested archrival Milton Academy's top player in the decisive match that gave Phillips Academy its first ever NEPSAC tourney title.

valry had grown between Phillips and Milton Academy. A year ago, the Big Blue cruised through the regular season undefeated, only to fall to Milton in the New England Prep tourney. This season, the Big Blue lost only once in the regular season, to Milton Academy.

"Initially it was a shock because we hadn't lost a (regular season) match in two years," said Lauren Wilmarth. "It was devastating, but it also made us stronger and we channeled our energy toward the tournament.'

But advancing to the finals of the 15team tourney held on May 24 wasn't easy 90s, Wilmarth had to win three matches to earn a berth in the finals. She did just that, but the work took a toll on her body.

"During the early matches my back began to hurt," she remembered. "I was scared because I had made it that far. But my mom (Mary Ann) is a physical therapist and she helped me stretch out. I sat in the shade and drank a lot of water and tried to keep my mind off it."

Another challenge waited in the finals in Milton's Sarah Miller, who had dealt Wilmarth a loss in the regular season.

"I knew she was coming," Wilmarth and win it." As her match was about to begin, Phillips coach Martha Grant was still occupied with the other Big Blue matches that were already in progress. So it was Victoria Wilmarth, who was not competing, that stepped up to coach her sister.

"Lauren and I have played together for so long that I can coach her," said Victoria Wilmarth. "I tried just to give her pointers and suggest shots to try. I didn't want to add any pressure."

But during the match, word came that she would decide the championship.

"I had an idea when the other (Phillips matches) were ending," said

Massachusetts in USTA rankings. Scored 750 on math portion of SATs.

About Victoria: Plays doubles for Big Blue. Served as a coach for her sister during NEPSAC tourney. Helps arrange Phillips' Non Sibi Day and studied children's rights in Mumbai, India.

Lauren Wilmarth. "But then (senior captain) Maggie Maffione told me we needed my match to win the tournament.

"I tried not to psych myself out. I was feeling the pressure because I wanted to win it for my team. I knew I just had to stay focused. The whole team was 10 feet behind me trying to calm me down.'

After needing a tie-breaker to win the first set, Wilmarth pulled away in the second set and won her match 7-6, 6-4 to clinch the title.

"It was really extraordinary," said Lauren Wilmarth. "I turned around and the whole team started screaming. I shook hands (with Miller), then the whole team ran onto the court and tackled me. We had never won it before, so this goes down in history.'

On her own

Winning the NEPSAC added to the growing list of accomplishment for Lauren Wilmarth, who is ranked No. 12 in New England and No. 6 in Massachusetts in the 18-and-under girls category of USTA.com.

During the summers, she plays in USTA tournaments around the country. In the past year she has traveled to New York, Virginia, Florida and California for tournaments.

"I was really excited to go to California," said Wilmarth. "To be able to play against girls out there was great and the weather was amazing. It's exciting to see how much skill there is out there and how diverse it can be."

At Phillips, Wilmarth finished 12-2 this season and won the Danta Tennis Trophy for a girls tennis player that shows sportsmanship, leadership and character. She is a captain elect for next season and also plays on the varsity squash team. Also a standout student, Wilmarth scored an outstanding 750 on the math portion of her SATs. Over the summer she is taking part in a medical forum in Boston to explore her interest in becoming a doctor. She also said she is interested in becoming a veterinarian.

Giving back

While admittedly not on the level of her sister, Victoria Wilmarth also stood out for the Big Blue at doubles, and participates in some USTA tournaments.

Tennis is really a family thing," she said. "My mom likes to play, so it's fun to do it as a family. We love watching tennis and make the U.S. Open every few years.'

One of Victoria Wilmarth's passions has become community service. She is helping to arrange Non Sibi Day, which is a day in September when Phillips Academy students and graduates around the world take part in community service.

Last year, she made a trip with classmates to Mumbai, India, to study children's rights.

"It was a great experience," she said. "Working with local children from Mumbai and looking at child labor and heath systems.'

Victoria Wilmarth, who scored very well on her ACTs, is looking into studying international relations and public policy in college.

Your Eyes - Unforgettable!

Mike

Call us today to discuss if you might be a canidate for these procedures.

Drooping upper eyelids or puffy lower eyelids (bags under the eyes) often make people look tired and aged. Eyelid surgery can result in a more alert, youthful appearance without an extreme makeover. After surgery you will still look like yourself, only younger and more vibrant.

Dr. Kapadia is a board certified Ophthalmologist and a fellowship trained Ophthalmic Plastic Surgeon. He has more extensive training in Blepharoplasty and other forms of eyelid surgery than any other type of physician. Training based at the nation's top medical schools including Harvard and The University of Pennsylvania.

More information about eyelid surgery and Dr. Kapadia's credentials, as well as before and after patient photographs are available at: www.bostoneyelids.com.

Consultations are available at the North Andover and Haverhill offices. We will also be offering appointments in our Salem, New Hampshire office.

For more information o to arrange a consultati on eyelid surgery, Botox Restylane, Perlane or aderm, Please conta na Renaud at (978) 688-0108 x273.

ALL THOSE YEARS AGO

From the July 6, 1888, Townsman:

The Fourth of July occupies a conspicuous place in American history for other reasons than that it is the national birthday. In celebrating it, we naturally dwell exclusively on the scenes in Independence Hall at the adoption of the Declaration, but had this illustrious event fallen on any other day, the Fourth should have still held a prominent place in the people's memory. Yet, curiously enough, it is not at all a notable day in military history. No doubt it is well that we have neither to commemorate a great victory won, nor to lament a battle lost upon this day. Though the nation was at war during twenty of the first hundred years of its existence, and has been engaged in more than four hundred battles, yet, with a single exception, there has been no blood shed upon the Fourth.

Several actions have taken place on the third day of the by means of the Erie Canal. It is month — the most noteworthy being the culminating struggle of the Civil War at Gettysburg and on the fifth, but had it not been for the unfortunate assault of the Confederates on Helena, Ark., in 1863, the surrender of Vicksburg, that same year, would have been the only important military event connected with the national anniversary.

Mention, however, might be made here of an incident in Washington's career, the memory of which doubtless threw an occasional shade over his rejoicings at the recurrence of this day. During a campaign against the French and Indians in 1754, Washington, at the head of a small force, was compelled, by a greatly superior body of the enemy, to retreat to some hastily constructed entrenchments, which were characteristically called Fort Necessity.

On the night of July 3rd, after a combat which had lasted ten hours, the French commander Colonial officer to surrender. The parleying continued until late at night, when Washington agreed to the honorable terms offered him, and on the morning of the Fourth marched out of the fort with all the honors of war.

But while few associations of military glory cluster about the "no less renowned than" those of birthday.

war, have been numerous. Five treaties with foreign nations have been signed, and one, with Great Britain, ratified on this day, while, on July 4, 1827, slavery ceased in New York.

The first political event of importance which is connected with this date is the first Tariff Act, which was passed July 4, 1789. In view of the present interest in this subject, it may be well to recall the pregnant words of the preamble:

"For the support of the government, for the discharge of the debts of the United States and the encouragement and protection of manufacturers, that duties be laid on goods, wares and merchandise imported, etc.'

"Independence Day" is associated with at least one great commercial enterprise.

On July 4, 1817, Governor De Witt Clinton of New York, turned the first sod in the then gigantic work of connecting the waters of the Great Lakes with the Atlantic well to quote here an extract from another governor's diary, showing the humble beginnings of what was once, and doubtless will be again, a great national industry. Governor Winthrop, of Massachusetts Bay, writes under date of July 4, 1631: "The Governor built a bark at Mistick, which was launched this day, and called the Blessing of the Bay".

Mention may also be made of the fact that the first Cunard steamship, the Britannia, sailed from Liverpool for Boston on July 4, 1840.

One great calamity has marked the day - the destruction of a large part of Portland, Maine, by fire in 1866.

But the most solemn associations with the day are those which death has given it. On July 4, 1826, while the nation was celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of its Independence, Thomas Jefferson, to whom more than to any other single man the language of the Declaration was due, closed summoned the brave young his eyes on this earth. On the same day, in his distant home, John Adams, his companion in the Continental Congress and fellow-signer, and his predecessor in the presidential chair, finished his earthly career. Five years later, James Munroe "passed over to the majority," making three Presidents of the United States Fourth, the "victories" of Peace, who have died on the national

Our heroes this week are responsible for making July 4 a big bang holiday.

They are our country's founders.

America wasn't always a country. People living in the 13 colonies were British subjects under England's King George III. They didn't have many rights and liberties. They were unhappy with the way they were being treated.

In 1774, the 13 colonies sent delegates to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The gathering was the First Continental Congress. The people wanted changes but were not ready to go to war with the British.

Things did not improve over the next two years.

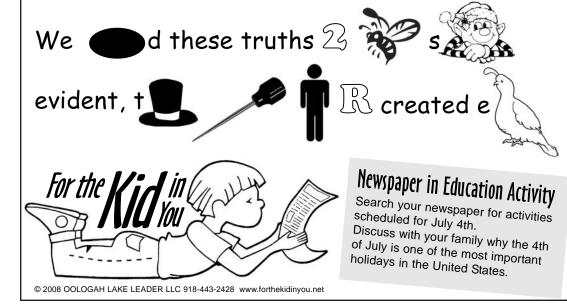

In May of 1776, the colonies sent delegates for a Second Continental Congress. The delegates agreed that their differences with England could not be worked out.

Delegates selected five people to draft a Declaration of Independence: Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Robert R. Livingston and Roger Sherman. The committee asked Jefferson to write the original draft.

Just 17 days later, the draft was presented the revolution. to the Congress. Congress debated the declaration on July 3 and 4 and made several and independent America. changes.

Independence Rebus

Rebus puzzles were very popular at the time of the American Revolution. Can you solve this rebus?

On July 4, the declaration was approved. The United States of America was born!

John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress, was the first person to sign the Declaration of Independence. Historians noted that he signed "with a great flourish" so "King George can read that without spectacles" (his glasses).

The King was not happy about his subjects voting to become independent. The American Revolutionary War lasted until 1783. It ended when the Treaty of Paris was signed.

The first Independence Day celebration was held on July 4, 1777, even though the new country still had to win its freedom in war. The annual celebration has come to include picnics, parades, and fireworks.

> The 56 Americans who signed the Declaration of Independence showed heroic courage. What they did was an act of treason against Britain, punishable by death.

They risked their lives. Several were killed for taking part in

Champagne wishes

Being a professional photographer isn't all fun and games. Andover resident and professional photographer Winslow Townson tasted – or at least absorbed – champagne along with the NBA Champion Celtics, as this photo shows. "I'm sending (Kevin) Garnett the laundry bill," he joked in an e-mail to friends.

TOWN TALK

Home on the move

A Salem Street house will be given a new home on High Street next weekend. Selectmen unanimously approved (3-0) a plan by Michael Ristuccia to move the structure currently at 120 Salem St. to the rear of 33 High St. on July 13. A rain date for the proposal is slated for July 20. The plan will temporarily close portions of Salem, South Main and High streets and cause traffic detours along Route 28. To avoid damage to overhead utility wires, Ristuccia said the roof of the home will be removed. Ristuccia also said he would be providing the needed insurance for the town. "The move should be one that's hopefully uneventful," Ristuccia told selectmen on June 30.

Ristuccia said the home's footprint is 22 by 34 feet.

"It's a good fit," said Ristuccia of the move to 33 High St. "It's a good, affordable house for somebody to come to town and live downtown."

AHS football coaches remain

Amid rumors in late June that one or more of Andover High School's assistant football coaches planned to resign, Andover High football head coach Ken Maglio has stated that all four varsity and junior varsity assistants will remain with the team this fall.

In mid-June an assistant coach sent a letter of resignation to co-Athletic Director Brian McNally through e-mail, McNally confirmed. But after a staff meeting, Maglio said it was determined that the coach would stay with the team.

McNally said all paid football coaches work under one-year agreements for the athletic department. Assistant coaches for the Andover High varsity and junior varsity football teams were paid $4,700 last season.

Along with volunteer coaches, two assistant coaches for the freshman football team work under Maglio. One of the freshman team assistants will not coach for Andover High School next season, McNally said.

Maglio said the coach's decision is for personal reasons.

Ciao from Venice!

Addison Gallery Director Brian Allen spoke to a Townsman reporter for the page one story about the museum's anticipated closure and renovation via cell phone from Venice, Italy. Allen was in Venice for the installation and opening of the show "Coming of Age: American Art 1850s to 1950s" at the Peggy Guggenheim Collection, to which the Addison sent 70 paintings and sculptures. The exhibit runs through October.

The cell phone conversation with Allen was probably the first time an Andover Townsman interview was conducted in St. Mark's Square in Venice, overlooking the city's famed canals.

Wednesday grill nights begin

Outdoor grill nights at the Andover Senior Center will be held on Wednesday evenings on the outdoor patio from 5 to 7 beginning July 9. Burgers, hot dogs and chicken will be available each night, along with weekly specials like shrimp or steak tips. Dinner costs range from $4 to $8 and include side dishes, dessert and beverages. Advance reservations and payment are necessary. Menus are available at the center.

'We love you Conrad, oh yes we do ...'

Andover natives Corey Desjardins and Wendy Mellin have been cast in North Shore Music Theatre's summer musical, "Bye Bye Birdie." The show opens July 15 at the Beverly professional theater.

"Bye Bye Birdie" revolves around rock 'n' roll superstar Conrad Birdie (loosely based on Elvis Presley), who, to the dismay of his adoring fans, is about to be drafted into the Army. Comic complications ensue when, as part of one last publicity stunt cooked up by his agent, he promises to give a goodbye kiss to one lucky girl from Sweet Apple, Ohio, on "The Ed Sullivan Show."

Sime an Andover Performances are July 15 through Aug.
 For tickets or more information visit www.nsmt.org, call 978-232-7200 or stop by the theater at 62 Dunham Road, Bev-erly.
