FROM SHAWSHEEN TO SAMOA

Andover native 'survives' reality TV

By BETHANY BRAY
STAFF WRITER

Growing up in a family of seven children, Andover native Betsy (Gosselin) Bolan says being one of the big Gosselin family "tribe" prepared her early for reality television.

Bolan, 48, was a contestant on "Survivor: Samoa," the 19th season of the reality television show that strands people in remote locales with the motto "outwit, outplay, outlast."

Although the mother of four was voted off by her fellow "tribe" members in the show's second episode, Bolan says she had a great time, and would do it all over again in a heartbeat.

"It kills me to watch (episodes) and I'm not on the show," Bolan said. "The game is definitely more mental than physical. All day and all night, it's constant head games and paranoia (about who might be trying to vote you off)."

Bolan is a graduate of the Andover High School Class of 1979 and grew up on Haverhill Street. Now married, she lives in Campton, N.H., and works as a police officer.

She will return to her hometown — one of her first trips back since her 10-year high school reunion — for Andover Day on Oct. 17. She will sign autographs throughout the afternoon.

She was "honored," said Bolan, when Selectman Ted Teichert

For future, balanced budget means belt tightening

Town Meeting

By BETHANY BRAY
STAFF WRITER

This summer and fall, as town leaders worked to close a budget deficit that grew to more than $2 million, many discussions centered on claims that the town has an unsustainable cost structure.

A recession affords the chance to reflect on spending habits that may have spiraled out of control in better times, argued Finance Committee member John Stumpf, one of many to voice concerns at the Oct. 7 special Town Meeting.

"We need to do some major restructuring and reorganizing," said Superintendent Claudia Bach, addressing voters at the Oct. 7 meeting. "We see this as ongoing work."

With a balanced budget passed by last week's Town Meeting, town finances are in check for now. But town leaders say more cuts to local aid from the state may not be too far off, and they have begun to discuss ways to streamline future budgets.

"If anything, the lesson learned is that we can't provide all the services people want. This is the end of the era that Andover can do all things for all people," Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said.

"There's an opportunity for savings, moving the town in a more efficient model of delivering services. It's going to be

Restaurant tax is a boost, not a solution

By BETHANY BRAY

An 0.75 percent restaurant meals tax that failed by just eight votes at an Aug. 31 Town Meeting was resurrected this month, after residents at a Special Town Meeting Oct. 7 approved the increase.

The 768 voters in attendance also approved a plan presented by town officials to balance the town's $130 million budget and to sell a town-owned home on Pearson Street.

The meals tax increase, brought forward as a private warrant article by resident John Zipeto, passed by 148 votes at the Oct. 7 Special Town Meeting. The increase amounts to an extra 75 cents on a $100 restaurant tab; the estimated $206,000 revenue it generates will go into the town's free cash account.

"Times change, circumstances are different. I took a chance to see who would show up and vote," Zipeto said after the Oct. 7 meeting. "It could have gone either way, but I felt it was worth bringing back ... This certainly isn't the entire solution, but I think it's going to help."

Passage of the meals tax does not negate any of the budget cuts and savings found over the summer and approved at Town Meeting to close the budget deficit.

On the floor of Town Meeting, Zipeto argued the tax increase and subsequent revenue will keep real estate taxes and fee increases in check, and poses an alternative to additional budget cuts.

Before the vote was taken, a lively debate ensued, with lines

Main Street redesign to be feted on Andover Day

By BETHANY BRAY
STAFF WRITER

On Saturday, as Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski cuts the ribbon on Main Street, one snip of the scissors will signify $4 million and a decade of planning, redesign and construction of Andover's downtown thoroughfare.

Andover's Main Street construction project and redesign is nearly finished, and Saturday's 1 p.m. ribbon cutting is planned as part of the festivities of Andover Day.

Town Planner Lisa Schwarz, who has overseen the Main Street project since she was hired nine years ago, said her favorite aspect of the project is the new Victorian-style lamp posts.

"I like the crosswalks too, but I think the biggest visual difference is taking away those 22-foot-high cobra head lights, and replacing them with globe lights," she said. "It makes it a downtown, not a highway, especially when the (American) flags are on them."

The construction, funded by the state, repaved Route 28 and reworked Main Street traffic patterns, adding turning lanes, medians and reworked traffic lights. Major construction began in April 2008 with drainage repairs and underground water and sewer work.

The state's total price tag is roughly $3,968,000, Schwarz said.

"As far as I know, right now, it's on budget. No more, no less," Schwarz said. "We haven't been asked to pay anything over what we've anticipated."

In addition to the Main Street construction, the called her "out of the blue" to congratulate her on the show and invite her to Andover Day. Teichert also graduated from AHS in 1979.

Betsy (Gosselin) Bolan

"Survivor: Samoa" began airing on Sept. 17; Bolan returned home in July. She will be on television again in December, for the live reunion show revealing the $1 million winner.

Living in crude accommodations with no plumbing didn't really bother Bolan, nor the constant filming.

"There's always a camera on you," she said. "It's about 24 hours before you say, ugh, whatever, I don't care."

Bolan attributes her early demise from the show to Russell, the show's well-known villain.

"I knew he was a snake, but nobody would listen to me," Bolan said. "I'm a very strong person, and did well in the challenges. But the thing was, Russell had the other girls vote me off because he knew I was on to him. I just could not talk those girls into voting off Russell. I just didn't work fast enough."

"They do a good job editing. Russell really is a jerk, and Ben (another contestant) really does have a big mouth. It's not scripted at all, it's definitely real," she said.

Bolan was stranded with her "Survivor" castmates on the island of Samoa for eight weeks this summer, without any contact with her family. She missed her family terribly, she said, but credits her husband with holding down the fort.

The entire Bolan family enjoyed the show even before mom was a contestant. "Survivor" nights are the only time the television is on during the week, she said, when they sit down to watch together as a family. Bolan sent in "Survivor" audition tapes 13 times before being selected as a contestant.

"It started out because I needed a vacation," Bolan said with a chuckle. "I was thinking it's heaven - no laundry, no cooking."

MEETING: Town needs to consider more ways to save

a lot of heavy lifting at the end of the day," Selectman Alex Vispoli said. "It's really building on the things that worked in this last exercise (balancing the budget)."

Consolidation is at the top of Vispoli's list of ways to save money, including the combining of town and school technology departments, which a committee has studied for the past year. Also, selectmen signed an agreement last week to share a sewer truck with North Andover, and will be discussing further ideas, such as sharing building inspectors.

In the next few weeks, the School Committee will begin working on a strategic plan that will highlight educational programs that can be reorganized to find savings, Chairwoman Debra Silberstein said.

Personnel expenses — the biggest portion of the town's budget — are under scrutiny as union contracts expire at the end of 2010. This year, the teachers and firefighters unions refused repeated requests for salary concessions or give-backs.

In the next round of negotiations with the Andover Education Association, "there are a number of structural and policy changes to existing contracts that will need to occur," Silberstein said in an e-mail.

"We need to control personnel costs. That's the biggest part of our budget," Stapczynski said. "Hard negotiations will be key (in renegotiating labor contracts) ... All departments have to acknowledge we can't add additional employees. We just can't do it. We have to find ways of operating our systems with less people, and there are ways to do it. We won't have the luxury of staff that we've had in the past years, for both town and schools."

Besides personnel costs, Stapczynski and Vispoli targeted health insurance and other expenses, such as contracts for trash pickup or street sweeping, as opportunities to find savings.

Stapczynski also said he is getting started on a business retention plan with the town planning department. The goal would be to keep businesses, especially large corporations such as Pfizer and Proctor and Gamble, in town, along with their tax dollars.

School departments will continue to scrutinize expenses, Silberstein said, including outsourcing or sharing services

The Townsman posed the same question to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski and Superintendent Claudia Bach: Going forward, what do you feel should be done differently to keep future years budgets under control?

STAPCZYNSKI: "Going forward, our municipal revenues are going to be severely strained. We're not going to enjoy the same kinds of budget increases we've had in the past 10 years. The importance of tri-board meetings — either full or subcommittees — is going to be key in getting us through the next three to five years. We learned some valuable lessons over the past four months in coming up to (Oct. 7) Special Town Meeting.

Although the process appeared cumbersome, time consuming, perhaps even disjointed, it worked. We were able to come to terms to budget reductions ... If you look at the way municipal government is set up, particularly with town meeting form of government, it's a messy, cumbersome, time-consuming, conflicted process. It's not set up to be easy. We have enjoyed the open Town Meeting and board of selectmen system for 50 years, and somehow every year it works. And it will continue to work because of the cooperation, collaboration and coordination of the finance committee, selectmen and School Committee."

BACH: "I agree that going forward we have an unsustainable budget, so there has to be some substantial change in the coming years, maybe as soon as the coming year. The town spends more than the revenues it takes in. For a number of years, to arrive at a balanced budget, we have been cutting back on the Capital Improvement Plan and/or going to reserves, free cash, or special education contingency or circuit breaker money. Very likely, we will have over-runs this year and will need to come to the spring Town Meeting for supplemental funding. I keep saying that we can't keep going like this — cutting back on needed programs and services and borrowing from next year to get us through the current year. Simply stated, we need additional revenues (from state and/or local sources) or we need to cut back on programs and services. The school department (and other departments) cut back significantly this year in programs and services (music, technology, library, and core courses and electives at the high school), and took funds from the special education contingency. To maintain the excellent school system we now have, we simply can't keep doing this."

with neighboring towns. Expanding special education programs will also garner savings, reducing out-of-district tuition costs for special education students whose needs currently cannot be met in Andover.

"Finally, we anticipate huge financial challenges ahead and must be realistic that in the short term, staff reductions will be one way to address these challenges," Silberstein said.

Through September, a six-person subcommittee, comprised of two members each from selectmen, finance and School Committees, met to hash out possible budget savings. They called themselves "team 470," named for the $470,000 budget shortfall they were working to close.

Through discussions, the team named more than 50 long- and short-term cost-saving possibilities, which they brought back to their respective boards.

"The subcommittee allowed a more nimble group to get together. Just the sheer amount of people in the tri-board is not the best way to evaluate options and possibilities. This group of six was a model that worked, and we'll continue with that model," Vispoli said.

ANDOVER'S BUDGET TIMELINE

- Over the summer, town leaders faced a $2 million deficit for fiscal year 2010, which began July 1.
- The deficit was adjusted to $1.4 million after residents at an Aug. 31 Town Meeting voted to approve a hotel/motel tax increase, bringing in $320,588 in additional revenue, and an estimate of a deficit in property tax growth changed $350,000 for the better.
- To close the gap, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski created a list of savings, including reduction of public safety overtime, not filling several vacant positions, including the library assistant director and a health inspector, reducing expenses and union concessions.
- The schools saved $430,000 in a renegotiated transportation contract, leaving a $470,000 gap.
- In September, a six-person subcommittee comprised of two members each from selectmen, finance and School Committee met to hash out the remaining $470,000. The week before Town Meeting, they agreed on a balanced budget with reductions to the health insurance budget, Capital Improvement Plan allocated for school technology, special education out of district contingency fund and reserve fund in the town operating budget.

forming at both the "pro" and "con" microphones.

"If you strip away the emotional arguments, (the meals tax request) is the equivalent of the town having a drug addiction, and using the tax revenue to cover costs," resident Bob Pokress said. "Passing the meals tax is like giving an alcoholic one more drink to get through the night."

Selectman Jerry Stabile Jr. countered, saying "I don't think the town has a substance abuse problem. There's a storm brewing. We haven't seen the worst of it, and we may be back here again before the year is out (for another Special Town Meeting)."

Both the selectmen and Finance Committee recommended rejection of the article, saying it will feed more money into a cost structure that can't be supported

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING VOTES

All eight articles on the Special Town Meeting warrant were approved in under two hours.

- They were:
- Article 1: Request by Town Manager to change writing on bronze tablet in honor of William Madison Wood at Wood Park in Shawheen Square: APPROVED
 - Article 2: Request by Planning Director to amend bylaws governing private property on Main Street sidewalks, allowing privately owned flower pots, planters and urns: APPROVED
 - Article 3: Request by Planning

Director to amend bylaws governing outdoor dining to require that all furniture must be secured during the hours it is not in use: APPROVED

- Article 4: Request by Town Manager to sell home at 16 Pearson St.: APPROVED
- Article 5: Request by resident John Zepeto to adopt a .75 percent local meals excise tax, APPROVED 443 to 295.
- Article 6: Request by School Committee to amend the appropriation to this year's Capital Projects Fund by $86,000, transferring the money to the operating budget: APPROVED while hurting town businesses.

"Quite simply, the town is spending more than it can afford, and has been for years," Finance Committee member Jon Stumpf said. "The recession affords a chance to reflect on spending habits that have spiraled out of control in better times."

But the School Committee and resident Bonnie Zahorik argued that the town needs to diversify its revenue stream and reduce its dependence on the property tax.

"This is a discretionary tax. Everyone has to pay their property tax, but no one has to go out for an expensive meal," she said.

And selectmen opposition was not unanimous: Selectmen Jerry Stabile Jr. and Mary Lyman went to the floor to speak in favor of the tax increase.

After the meals tax passed, a large group of people left the meeting, and residents continued to trickle away throughout the remainder of the meeting.

Town Meeting moved through budget amendments line by line, with little discussion from residents as they approved each item. The selectmen, finance and school committees presented a unified front, recommending approval of every budget item.

The week before Town Meeting, the three committees had agreed to a balanced budget, closing a shortfall with the following reductions:

- $110,000 reduction to the health insurance budget because fewer employees subscribed than originally anticipated
- $86,000 reduction in the Capital Improvement Plan allocated for school technology (voted on as warrant article 6)
- $275,000 reduction in the school budget for special education out of district contingency funds for additional placements or tuition increases not confirmed when the budget was developed
- $19,000 reduction in the reserve fund in the town operating budget

'Greening' discussion at the library

A discussion called "Greening Andover" will grow on Saturday, Oct. 24, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Memorial Hall Library.

The purpose of this event is to bring together elected officials, town leadership, residents, business owners, and the local utility provider National Grid to discuss the problems, solutions and savings around energy consumption.

"By doing so, this event will aid residents, business owners, and town leadership in finding solutions and cost savings to problems associated with the rising cost of electricity and will help us become a more sustainable community," said a release from the office of state Rep. Barry Finegold, who will host the event with the Andover Green Advisory Board. "We invite the community to join us for this great educational event for kids, parents, and community members."

Tsongas to host service academy forum

Congresswoman Niki Tsongas has announced she will be hosting a forum for students from the Fifth Congressional District who are interested in attending one of the U.S. Service Academies. Tsongas' second annual U.S. Service Academy and Military Career Forum will be held on Monday, Oct. 19 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Billerica High School cafeteria, 365 Boston Road, Billerica. The event will offer information to students on how to pursue appointment to these elite educational institutions and is open to all students in grades 8 thru 12 who reside in the Fifth Congressional District.

Representatives from the United States Service Academies and Tsongas' nominations committee will be on hand to answer questions about the academies and the nomination process for admission.

Nonprofits supported by Tower Scholarships at Merrimack

The Peter and Elizabeth C. Tower Foundation awarded Merrimack College a $22,500 grant to provide organizational scholarships to staff employed by nonprofit organizations that operate preschools and who serve children and adolescents impacted by mental illness, developmental disabilities and substance abuse issues from the Greater Lawrence area. The grant will provide for two full scholarships per year for the next three years to students participating in Merrimack College's non-profit management certificate program.

"We are proud to support local non-profits with these scholarships," said Glenda Cadwalader, executive director of the Peter and Elizabeth C. Tower Foundation. "The health and well-being of our communities depends upon strong nonprofit organizations that have the resources to provide safety net services to these vulnerable populations."

The non-profit management certificate program, a collaboration between Merrimack College's Girard School of Business and International Commerce and the School for Advanced Studies, is designed to introduce entry-to-mid-level employees of human service organizations to the fundamental theories and business practices that guide successful leaders within the field of social services. Through the organizational scholarship program, the Peter and Elizabeth C. Tower Foundation will be building the capacity and improving the organizational effectiveness of local nonprofit organizations.

"Many non-profits are struggling in this economy," said Jane

Larkin, dean of the School for Advanced Studies at Merrimack College. "We are grateful to the Tower Foundation for demonstrating its commitment to cultivate non-profit leaders in our community who will serve with compassion and approach the challenges that nonprofits face from a business perspective."

Non-profit staff, such as social workers, nurses, licensed alcohol and drug counselors, teachers and other employees involved in the delivery of services to vulnerable populations are eligible to compete for the scholarships. For more information about the non-profit management certificate program and to apply for the Peter and Elizabeth C. Tower Foundation Scholarships, call Jane Larkin, dean of the School of Advanced Studies, at 978-837-5327 or E-mail her at jane.larkin@merrimack.edu.

The clinics are open to Andover residents 18 years of age and older, as long as vaccine supplies last. There is no cost for the vaccine, but Medicare eligible residents are asked to bring their insurance cards with them to the clinic. Appointments are not needed. Vaccine information and permission slips are available at Town Offices, Memorial Library, the Public Safety Center, and from the Andover Health Division's Web site, www.andoverma.gov/health.

The Oct. 20 clinic is designated as a Family Clinic, where children age 2 and above will be able to receive either the injected vaccine or the nasal spray, Flu Mist. Flu Mist is for healthy people between the ages of 2 and 49 years.

The seasonal vaccine provided does not offer protection against the H1N1 Swine Flu. The Health Department intends to offer the H1N1 vaccine sometime in November or December when the federal government starts shipping it to communities. Those clinics will be scheduled and advertised separately once the vaccine arrives.

To stay healthy this flu season and prevent transmission of the virus, wash your hands, cover your cough and sneezes, use hand sanitizer appropriately, and get your flu shot. If you or your child are sick, stay home from work or school until 24 hours after the fever subsides without the use of fever reducing medicine.

Remember, "IT'S UP TO YOU TO STOP THE FLU!"

Flags placed on graves Sunday

On Sunday morning, Oct. 18, Andover veterans, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and interested citizens will meet at 11 a.m. in the parking lot adjacent to the Park to replace 3,600 flags on the graves of deceased Andover veterans. The process takes about 90 minutes and affords an opportunity to see parts of Andover's history up close. In case of inclement weather, the flags will be placed on flags at 11 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 25. For more information, call the Veterans Office at 978-623-8218.

Expansion, exit on local restaurant scene

Grassfields expands, Serene bids good-bye

By JUDY WAKEFIELD
STAFF WRITER

It simply came down to too many unfilled seats during the dinner hour served with a sagging economy looming in the background for one local restaurant.

Sally Fabian of Andover, owner of the now-closed Serene Restaurant on Main Street, said the last meal was served at her restaurant on Oct. 3. But her 18 months of operation in downtown Andover was terrific, she said. She raves about the numerous regulars at Serene, many of whom live in town. They came to eat and often stayed for live jazz music that was performed every Friday night.

"That's what I'll miss most ... the people ... I met so many nice people," she said.

Andover friends have rallied around her as she has already geared up for her next endeavor. Fabian said she is heading to Florida where she plans to open a smaller restaurant with the help of her college-age daughter, Ashley. Ashley is a student at Johnson & Wales, the culinary college in Rhode Island, and will enroll in the school's campus outside Miami. The new restaurant will be in the Delray Beach or Boca Raton areas of Florida.

"We're trading snow for sandy beaches," laughed Fabian, whose Chestnut Street home will be sold. "Lots of my Andover customers said they will visit me when they are in Florida."

"It's unfortunate," she said of Serene's closing. "But we're up for a new adventure."

But further down Main Street, the restaurant news is anything but bleak. Grassfields, located in Shawsheen Plaza on North Main Street, is expanding. At the Sept. 14 Selectmen meeting, restaurant owners presented alteration plans that were approved unanimously by the three selectmen attending.

The popular restaurant will take over the space currently leased by the neighboring Arrow Floor Carpet One. Selectwoman Mary Lyman said. Expansion plans call for turning about 3,700 square feet into a storage room for liquor and the kitchen, three walk-in freezers, an office and a mechanical room. It is not clear if seating will expand.

"The economic climate is improving, and this includes the expansion of Grassfields," Lyman said.

James Murphy of American Food Systems of Burlington directed all inquiries about the expansion to the spokesman for the company who did not return a telephone call to the Townsman as of presstime.

Lyman also said inquiries about vacant space downtown are increasing a bit, another sign of economic recovery in town. She said there has been some interest in the vacant Mawby's while downtown is getting a new restaurant on Post Office Avenue. "Yella," a Lebanese restaurant, is planning to open around Nov. 1. It is located where the restaurant, Cassis, formerly was located.

Meanwhile, Fabian said she does not know if her Main Street restaurant space, which housed Vincenzo's Restaurant for many years, has a new tenant.

Andover school joins National Grid's 'Power to Save' school tour

West Elementary School has been selected as one of a handful of schools to participate in National Grid's "Power to Save" regional school tour, an innovative, energy-efficiency education effort.

As part of the tour, Andover will host a Go Green Night for students and families on Thursday, Oct. 22, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The tour launched at Millville Elementary School, which piloted the program last year and kicked off this year's tour on Sept. 24. The tour will culminate with student projects from each school being showcased during the Boston Stop of the National Energy Star Home Exhibit Tour at Halloween Town on Oct. 24 and 25.

Working with students in four Massachusetts elementary schools, including Andover, and one Rhode Island middle school, National Grid will engage students, families, teachers, administrators and area residents in curricula and events that highlight energy-efficiency opportunities both at home and in their schools.

"Our schoolwide theme is 'Think Do Succeed,'" West Elementary Principal Elizabeth M.G. Roos said. "We look forward to working with National Grid in assisting us to think about how we use our resources, help us to plan how to preserve our resources and be successful in lowering our energy consumption."

Power to Save is a service of National Grid's Whole Building Assessment Initiative. During its pilot year at Millville Elementary, students actively participated in energy efficiency classroom and community projects, special presentations and family activities.

In addition, efficiency upgrades conducted at Millville Elementary implemented through National Grid's Whole Building Assessment Initiative and various other National Grid energy efficiency programs included installing ENERGY STAR qualified lighting and motion sensors, plus mechanical improvements to heating.

Most of Andover Inn to be gutted Renovation began in September, will be complete by end of 2010

Erland Construction, Inc. was recently awarded a major renovation of the 33,000-square-foot Andover Inn at Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass. Teaming with architecture firm Arrowstreet, Inc. on a design/build basis, Erland began construction in early September and will complete the project in late 2010. Renovations to the 31-room hotel, built in 1930, will include upgrades to both the interior and exterior of the building.

The inn will be completely gutted and rehabilitated — with the exception of the main lobby and dining areas, which Phillips Academy wanted to preserve because of the richness of their architectural detailing.

When completed, the Andover Inn will feature new mechanical and electrical system as well as a new modernized look that will blend contemporary style with the historical nature of the inn. This project marks the fourth time Erland has worked on the Phillips Academy campus. The previous three include the new Gelb Science Center and two dormitory renovations — the Claude M. Fuess House and Johnson Hall.

"We're very excited to work for Phillips Academy again and to team with Arrowstreet for the first time," said Jeff Ellowitz, Erland's residential group manager. "These renovations are really going to revitalize the Andover Inn, and we're looking forward to getting started after an extensive preconstruction period." Back in class: SHED invites alumni to 25-year celebration

STAFF WRITER

After 25 years, the Shawsheen Extended Day program estimates it has 3,000 alumni. On Saturday, Oct. 24, they are inviting them all to a birthday bash to reconnect and celebrate.

"We're celebrating 25 years of caring and sharing with families," said Sydney Bialo, executive director and founder of SHED Inc. "This is the first time we've done anything like this in 25 years. We're hoping for a really big turnout. We've got alumni that are college kids, or married with families of their own ... It's so gratifying to see how the children have grown and turned out."

Bialo said she's connected to almost 900 SHED alumni through the program's page on Facebook, an online social networking site; they have also mailed 1,000 postcards to announce the 25th birthday bash. A dedicated group of SHED parents have been planning the festivities for months.

The big event will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at SHED's home at 65 Phillips St., on the campus of Phillips Academy. It will be a family-friendly event, with food, games, a balloon artist, craft activities, hair braiding and beading activities by the local boutique Bella Beads.

Also, SHED will have archive photos on display and will run raffles and a silent auction as a fundraiser. SHED youngsters have been hard at work painting works of art to be auctioned at the event.

Bialo stressed the birthday party is more a "friend-raising" event than fundraiser. The main goal, she says, is to reconnect and share conversation and memories with children, families and staff from the 25 years.

SHED alumni often return as teenagers to work at the program, she said, and most of the core adult staff have worked at SHED for most or all of its 25 years. Last year, SHED had a monumental first — the child of a SHED alum enrolled as a student.

SHED'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

When: Saturday, October 24 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Where: 65 Phillips St., on the campus of Phillips Academy
What: Family fun, including games, crafts and kid's activities; silent auctions
Contact: To get in touch, or for more information, e-mail SHED Director Sydney Bialo at SBialo@shedinc.org

SHED SHOPPING EVENT

■ Visit dresscode, Elm Square, and General Goods, 93 Main St., the weekend of Oct. 24, and 15 percent of all sales will go to SHED
■ On Nov. 4, Whole Foods market, Railroad Street, will donate 5 percent of all sales to SHED

SHED SNAPSHOT

■ SHED began as a Department of Community Services program for half-day kindergartners at Shawsheen School, but quickly grew from there. After five years, SHED became a free-standing nonprofit organization.

SHED began as an after-school program for half-day kindergartners, when all of Andover went to kindergarten at Shawsheen School. In the beginning, there were few if any other options for parents who both worked and, some years, people would camp out overnight to guarantee they could register their children in the program. The program has expanded and evolved to serve kindergarten through eighth-graders in multiple summer, before- and after-school programs.

CELEBRATING SHED

■ In the late 1980s, Shawsheen School was at capacity, so SHED was moved into portable classrooms on the property. SHED was the only after-school program of its kind in the area, with a limited number of enrollment slots. Parents would form a line the day before registration and would sleep outside overnight to ensure their child got a spot.

■ In 1993, kindergarten in Andover was split between all the elementary schools in town, not just Shawsheen, and SHED started their "Kid's Club," which held after-school activities for first- through eighth-graders.

■ In the mid-1990s the program moved to the Korean church on Route 133.

■ Things fell into place when Phillips Academy offered SHED the use of their laundry building near the intersection of Phillips and Abbot streets, which was unused, Bialo said. Ten years ago, SHED moved there and built a new building next door to house Kid's Club.

■ Now, SHED serves about 300 children every day, kindergarten through eighth-grade. Besides out-of-school programs for half-day kindergarten and older students, SHED has a springboard to kindergarten program that serves children who are beyond preschool, but not quite ready for kindergarten.

Once the 25th birthday events are over, Bialo said she'd like to continue fundraising efforts to start a SHED endowment, which could fund scholarships to cover SHED tuition for struggling families.

"We have a certain number of families that need financial assistance, and we only have so much we can offer. We'd like to be able to do more," Bialo said. "As a nonprofit, in these times, it's sometimes hard to stretch the money."

Roundtable to address food allergy issues for parents, school nurses

The Merrimack Valley Asthma and Allergy Educational Support Group will hold a roundtable discussion for parents and school nurses on Wednesday, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m. at the Atkinson School, 111 Phillips Brooks Road, North Andover. The meeting is free and open to the public. Pre-registration is not required.

Topics will include a discussion of school issues and policies affecting children with food allergies. The special concerns surrounding Halloween will also be discussed. Parents are encouraged to bring ideas for safely celebrating Halloween and preparing for the upcoming holiday season.

"Family gatherings can be as 'scary' for some people as Halloween," says Sharon Schumack, director of education for the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, New England Chapter, which sponsors the support group programs. "Now is a good time talk over some new strategies for celebrating safely with family and friends."

AAFA New England organizes educational programs throughout the region, publishes a newsletter, and runs a telephone resource and referral line for people coping with allergies and asthma. For more information, or a free copy of "Eating Out with Food Allergies," call 781-444-7778 or see www.asthmaandallergies.org.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

Domestic violence is abuse that occurs in a personal relationship. It is incredibly common, affecting one in four women at some point. It usually starts as verbal or emotional abuse and often escalates to physical and/or sexual abuse. Abusers commonly control the other person by using fear, breaking things or making violent threats against the person's children, other family members or pets. Victims may suffer repeated injuries, and develop chronic problems such as headaches, depression and posttraumatic stress disorder.

If you know someone who is being abused, be a good listener and caring friend. Remind the person that no one deserves to be treated this way, abuse is against the law, and help is available. Help the person form a plan to stay safe, understanding she/he may not be able to leave immediately.

If you are being abused, get help! Call the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-SAFE to contact the local domestic violence group for information and support, including shelters and legal support. Talk to the police. Talk with a trusted friend, family member or doctor. Your doctor can be a major resource if he/she hears your predicament. Please browse my website for more information, then call 978-470-0001 for a complimentary "meet and greet" appointment.

Education

Let's have an education town meeting

Ken Seifert

From 1967 to 1969, just before I became superintendent of the Andover Public Schools, I was the assistant to the superintendent of Clark County, Nevada (Las Vegas). We had a student population of 68,000 students and were growing at the rate of 5,000 per year. We held our opening faculty meeting in the Convention Center. One of the many show bands would entertain us as we assembled. There were more than 3,000 faculty members. It was one of the three fastest growing communities in the country.

We had our own Facilities Division. We were planning, building and opening six elementary, three middle and one high school each year. When I left Las Vegas to come to Andover, there was a similar plan for the next decade there. Of course there were modifications based on demographics, but at least 5,000 new students came each year.

There are advantages and disadvantages to all jobs and circumstances. One great opportunity I was given was to chair an activity that was probably one of the most exciting, creative, challenging and significant of my career. The goal was to create a vision or action plan, and suggested personnel for each school. Although it was assumed we would have a consistent curriculum kindergarten through grade 12, we tried to have a specialty for each school to give it a unique identity. The personnel department would then set up job descriptions and special qualifications to fit the school. You wanted to get the people who best fit the job and were motivated to do so. We had teachers, administrators, parents, contractors, university staff and occasionally a student on the committee to create the plan. We asked for volunteers but listed the kind of skills we wanted on the committee, people who understood the task, and felt they could do it.

When finished, a document was submitted to the superintendent for review and changes and then submitted to the School Board for approval, changes or disapproval. (Some states have school boards, some school committees. Their functions are the same.) This was then sent to the finalists, who bid on the project. It was clear what we wanted in a school.

I have discovered it is much easier to innovate, apply up-to-date research and common sense in a new school in a newly formed community rather than one that is already established. An established community can get set in its ways and do next

Schools short nurses as flu season arrives

By BETHANY BRAY
STAFF WRITER

The Andover Public Schools are short three school nurses, just as cold and flu season has arrived.

Rita Casper, director of nursing services for the district, says they will advertise for the three vacancies and the remaining nursing staff has stepped up to go the extra mile.

"It's definitely impacted me, and it will impact our nurses. But we have wonderful nurses in the district who are helping out as much as they can," said Casper. "I feel that this is nursing. One of the skills of a nurse is to be able to adjust to whatever's in front of you. This is what we do best."

Between two retirements and one nurse leaving to start a new job in a different school setting, Bancroft, West and Sanborn elementary schools are either without or will soon be losing their school nurse.

The district is also experiencing a shortage of nurse substitutes, said Casper. Substitutes, paid $100 per day, are needed when a school's regular nurse is out or accompanies a field trip to administer medications.

The three full-time employees leaving the district are licensed practical nurses, and Casper said she'd like to replace the positions with registered nurses, which have more years of schooling.

The change will not affect the school budget, Casper said.

Andover's starting salary for a school nurse is $49,000 per year, said Casper.

"Our salaries in Andover are very low, in comparison to many other school districts, as well as other forms of nursing (such as at a hospital)," she said.

Besides a nursing degree, school nurses are required to have an educator's license from the state. Because of the extra requirements, qualified school nurses can be hard to find, said Casper.

They also have to be able to work entirely on their own and handle a variety of situations – from depression or an eating disorder to juvenile diabetes or severe allergies. They sometimes treat school staff as well, or help educate parents of a newly-diagnosed child.

"You have to make instant decisions, pulling from your own experience," said Casper. "These nurses are looking after hundreds of kids, or in the high school, 1,800 kids. We see kids with more complex medical needs, emotional issues, diabetes."

"The role of a nurse has changed quite dramatically, even in just the four years I've been with the Andover school system," she said. "There's still a huge myth out there that school nursing is just applying band-aids."

BOOK REVIEW

'MOUNTAINS BEYOND MOUNTAINS'

By TRACEY KIDDER

Paul Farmer seems like someone I should have known about before reading Mountains Beyond Mountains. One of the founders of Partners in Health, a non-profit health-care organization based in Boston, a Harvard professor, and leading expert in the field of medical anthropology, Farmer is undoubtedly an accomplished and impressive man.

Mountains Beyond Mountains: The Quest of Dr. Paul Farmer, A Man Who Would Cure the World by Tracey Kidder presents Farmer's life story, from child to medical student to high-powered health-care specialist. From humble beginnings growing up with a highly eccentric family, Farmer began to develop a curiosity and fascination with Haitian culture and the economically underprivileged, which eventually led him to Haiti, the first Partners in Health site. Farmer's life work has since been devoted to socially conscious healthcare, particularly targeting diseases like tuberculosis, with sites not only in Haiti, but in Peru, Russia and Rwanda.

While the arc of Farmer's success story is remarkable on its own, as are his impressive credentials, it was his personal story and initiatives that I found most compelling. Kidder reveals that Farmer has achieved extraordinary goals through unconventional means.

year what it did this year. This process can go on for decades. Some towns create similar but newer structures and deliver the same kind of strategies as the schools of the '30s and '40s.

The major yardstick for many: It is OK if it mirrors what we had when we went to school 30 to 50 years ago.

Most people might say the vision and plan is the most difficult step. That is true if you have not spent time in thinking about what you want a school-house to do. My contention is not what the plan is, but rather "what plan do you want?" There are too many plans to list.

We could have an education town meeting and the topic could be "what should an elementary school do that no other institution can do?" We could also ask anyone in the community who has a vision to come to the meeting and offer it. We could ask "what programs should we offer that will prepare our children for the greatest challenge facing the next generation? How will we compete in a global economy?"

In the next few columns, I would like to present a few ideas for the intended strategic plan. Here are a few of the thoughts: a charter middle school, each elementary school with a specialty, more challenging diploma requirements, a parent center, school certification process and a unified youth-activity program for all of our youth.

Once again let me state no one has a monopoly on ideas. I am sure there are excellent ones in our community.

Preventing Falls in the Home

Falls in the home are a common occurrence which can lead to injury and sometimes, hospitalization. The risk of falling increases with age and is greater for women than for men. Two-thirds of those who experience a fall will fall again within six months. Many falls are preventable. Here are some simple ways to prevent falls in your home:

Exercise
Exercise is one of the most important ways to reduce your chance of falling. Exercises that improve strength, balance and coordination are the most helpful. Ask your doctor or health care provider about the best kind of exercise for you.

Make your home safer:

- Get rid of scatter rugs or mats! It's easy to trip on the edge of the mat, and mats can slip from underneath you if not properly secured to the floor.
- Keep stairways and other areas free of clutter. Arrange furniture so that walkways are obstacle-free.
- Bare wooden stairs should be treated with a skid resistant surface, or with non-skid contrasting tape. 3 strips placed one inch apart on a typical step should work well.
- Install handrails on staircases.
- Install adequate lighting in hallways and stairwells. Use night lights in areas you walk in when it is dark.
- Wear shoes that give good support and have thin non-slip soles.
- Use an anti-slip mat in the tub. Also, install grab bars next to your toilet and in the tub or shower. Be sure to clean up any water on the floor after a bath or shower.

Have your health care provider review your medication

Have your doctor look at the medicines you take (including ones that don't need prescriptions, such as cold medicines). Some medicines, or combinations of medicines, can make you drowsy or light-headed, which can lead to a fall.

Have your vision checked

Poor vision can increase your chances of falling. Taking just a few moments to make some minor changes in your home can help prevent you or your loved ones from suffering injuries from a fall.

REVIEW

For example, Farmer rarely attended classes during his time at Harvard Medical School, instead flying every week from Boston to Port-au-Prince to attend to patients at the burgeoning Partners in Health site in Haiti. Once PIH become well established, Farmer never bothered himself with monetary statistics, as he focused on providing care for the demand, regardless of cost. Indeed, Farmer's story is one of passion - even after achieving great personal success and respect, and changing the face of global tuberculosis treatment, he maintains his original priority of providing clinical treatment.

It becomes quite easy to idolize Farmer and his righteous morality. Kidder recognizes this, and successfully humanizes Farmer, revealing his personal struggles of balancing a family with a life-consuming occupation. In one of the most poignant moments of the book, Dr. Jim Kim, a co-founder of PIH, says, "Paul is a model of what should be done. He's not a model for how it has to be done."

I give Mountains Beyond Mountains a 9 out of 10. Mountains Beyond Mountains is positive and inspirational, but not a eulogy: it is a multi-dimensional portrait of one man's incredible commitment and spirit, giving attention to the many people who touched his life along the way.

Real, lasting budget work awaits

After two Special Town Meetings, on Aug. 31 and Oct. 7, town officials only have managed to create a bandage for the budget. It's a bandage some leaders say they are not sure will even be strong enough to cover the financial wound for the rest of this fiscal year. This means the issue that town boards have been passing to their successors for years — the need for manageable contracts and, therefore, potentially tougher union negotiations — can no longer be avoided. It is time for town and union leaders to address the real problem with the Andover budget, the salaries, and, to greater extent, benefits given to Andover employees.

As they have in some previous years, town officials prior to Special Town Meeting chose to dip into emergency or contingency accounts and to rework cost estimates as a way to balance the budget, rather than to rely more heavily on cuts to annual expenses. Many employee unions did step forward and make concessions, such as accepting a smaller raise for the year than originally bargained. However, the town's largest union, its teachers union, did not, nor did the firefighters union, another of the town's largest bargaining groups.

As the focus shifts to next year's budget, it's clear the sick-leave buyback, overtime, generous combination of raises and other perks and benefits cannot all continue if Andover is to keep similar levels of employees and services. The time for real, lasting change is now. Andover must walk quicker down the road to combining school and town departments and regionalizing services, some of which has been slowly underway for years. It must create more reasonable contracts. There won't be much break between the Oct. 7 Special Town Meeting and when town officials begin looking at their needs for the fiscal year 2010 budget. We encourage town elected and appointed leaders and union heads to work together, think creatively and come up with new economical ways to deliver services and retain jobs. As always, the Townsman pages and its Web site are open to those with new ideas.

Andover Day, take 2

With rain in the forecast two weekends ago, the Andover Business Center Association wisely chose to postpone Andover Day to this Saturday, Oct. 17. That means residents have a great chance this weekend to enjoy the downtown, play games, eat food, shop and learn about the groups that make Andover special. Andover Day is a day for all ages and residents.

Andover has a lot to offer. So does Andover Day. We hope for a dry, comfortable fall day that will let both shine this Saturday. We hope to see you there.

Goats are a good idea

Last week's question: On Tuesday, Oct. 6, the Conservation Commission approved a pilot program to allow farm animals to graze on town conservation land. A goat farmer on High Plain Road will be the first participant, walking her dairy goats to graze at the Virginia Hammond Reservation. Last week, we asked how you felt about the grazing pilot program. With 37 responses, you said:

This week's question: Restaurant tax reduction

On Oct. 7, Town Meeting voters passed a restaurant tax increase of 0.75 percent, a measure that failed by just eight votes at an Aug. 31 special Town Meeting. The increase amounts to an extra 75 cents on a $100 restaurant tab, and the revenue will go into the town's free cash account.

How will the tax increase affect your dining habits?

- I will make an effort to go to restaurants out of town, to save money
- I will make an effort to go to restaurants in town, so that my money goes back to the town budget
- It won't affect my dining habits either way
- Who has the money to eat out in this economy?
- None of the above

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

This is not a system that is 'mostly working'

Editor, Townsman:

Thanks to Mr. Edholm for replying to my letter. To respond to his letter, and Ms. Eastlick's letter in his support:

Ms. Eastlick, quoting a single study, suggests that almost half of those without health insurance are "voluntarily uninsured," with average household incomes of $65,000 yearly. Assuming for the sake of argument the study's accuracy, of the 47 million uninsured, 23.5 million would be uninsured of necessity. I don't find that an acceptable number, and neither does a single industrialized nation on the face of the earth other than the United States. A household income of $65,000, under a 15% federal tax bracket and a 10% average state tax burden, becomes $48,750. The average annual premium for family health insurance (in 2006) was $11,480, which, if purchased, leaves $37,220 for room, board, transportation and a subscription to the Townsman. I leave it to Ms. Eastlick to further opine as to whether this is "affordable," or whether a family in such circumstances that doesn't purchase health insurance is doing so voluntarily. And this would be an average "voluntarily uninsured" family, with half below even this low number; the federal poverty guideline for a family of four is $22,050. The study can, though, be criticized. The US Census of 2007, for instance, estimated 46 million uninsured, most of whom were US citizens, employed, whose employers don't provide insurance — hardly the picture Ms. Eastlick paints.

Mr. Edholm's assertion that the American system works well for 285 million out of 300 million uncritically accepts the lower figure for uninsured touted by Ms. Eastlick, and is belied by polls which, while fluctuating both in time and with respect to polling entity, consistently show majorities of Americans supporting a government role in health insurance, with 51% in a recent Times poll supporting federally guaranteed insurance for all. In that poll, tellingly, opposition to universal health insurance dropped below 30% when those polled were reminded that 46 million currently don't have insurance.

And even those happy with their plans often consider their cost to be a major issue. Health expenses caused no less than 62% of personal bankruptcies in 2009; astoundingly, more than three-fourths of the new bankrupts had health insurance as their illness began. This is not a system that's "mostly working."

I agree almost entirely with Mr. Edholm's suggestions in the second paragraph of his Sept. 17 letter, and regret any impression I made that he resisted any change in the system. But by every measure of public and private health, we are doing not quite as well as many other countries that cover all their citizens and spend considerably less money per capita than we do. Americans could surely adopt healthier life styles, and every doctor in the country would agree. But for us not to measure up to a group of countries as disparate in diet, habits and geography as France, Germany, Japan, Australia and the Scandinavian countries? That isn't just lifestyle. We aren't getting what we should out of our health care dollars. It isn't an "indefensible intuitive leap," but a response to the facts, to so hold. And it removes any excuse for not providing our citizens with cost-effective, universally available health care. It's being done, right now, all over the world. If we can't do it too, shame on us.

Age as criteria for driving test discriminatory

Editor, Townsman:

Last February, an 87-year-old woman drove through the front window of a bakery, injuring several people. This was one of many accidents involving elderly drivers that seemed to occur within months of each other and created a stir at the Statehouse for immediate action. However, I believe that the bill expected to be released soon by the state Legislature's Transportation Committee is not the measured thoughtful response that should be warranted. Under the provisions of the bill, all Massachusetts drivers age 75 and older would have to pass a still-undefined mental and physical fitness test to renew their licenses. Using age as the sole criteria instead of driving records is discriminatory and would require the already burdened Registry of Motor Vehicles to create a system of testing in consultation with its medical advisory board.

I agree with numerous elder advocacy groups who have proposed that the issue should focus on medical conditions and disability as opposed to age. If an older adult is deteriorating mentally because of a diagnosis like dementia, has failing vision, or has a medical issue that diminishes reflex and reaction time, then it seems wise to consider some form of safety testing for that individual. The Registry of Motor Vehicles supports that premise as the most effective criteria to use in measuring someone's safety to drive, regardless of age.

Older people are relatively safe drivers. According to AARP, persons age 65 and older have lower rates of accidents involving injury than younger drivers. You don't find them texting or using cell phones as often and, in fact, elders have the lowest rate of accidents involving alcohol and represent the highest rate of seatbelt use of any age group. A spokesman for the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety notes: "Despite the high profile crashes that get a lot of media attention, there is almost no basis for singling out elderly drivers as being a menace to other drivers on the road."

For anyone, losing the right to drive is an enormous loss.

Public transportation services are becoming increasingly limited. Families often work or live a long distance away, and without a license many healthy and independent elders could find themselves with very limited access to grocery stores and pharmacies and create greater social isolation at a time when community engagement is so important.

Some form of testing might be appropriate for any driver if a medical condition warrants it regardless of their age. Requiring doctors to report such impairments maybe difficult but is possible. We also should look at the public benefit of improving public transportation and road signs so that all of us can drive more safely. In this way, we can all retain our independence a little longer and improve our safety on the road.

Thanks, Fresh Air Fund volunteers hosts

Editor, Townsman:

This summer, 42 New York City children found out once again just how special summer is in Eastern Massachusetts. Fresh Air Fund hosts, volunteers and local supporters dedicated their time and efforts to help these inner-city youngsters experience simple summertime pleasures in your community.

None of this would be possible without Mary Carroll, your local Fresh Air Fund volunteer leader, who works throughout the year to make sure host families and children have the opportunity to enjoy memorable summertime experiences together. I invite you to join Mary and the local Fresh Air Fund committee to help spread the word about the wonderful opportunity of hosting next summer.

The Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, has provided free summer vacations to over 1.7 million New York City children from low-income communities since 1877. For more information on how you can help to continue this wonderful tradition of volunteering, please call Mary Carroll at 978-975-4182 or visit www.freshair.org (where you can also check out photos from 2009!).

Non-stop German leaves Andover exchange student kaput

Andoverite abroad

Michael Kaluzny

Michael Kaluzny, an eight-year Andover resident and recent graduate of Phillips Academy, will spend for the next 10 months as a resident of Neustadt am Rübenberge, Germany. He is there as part of the Congress-Bundestag Youth Exchange, a scholarship program jointly sponsored by the U.S. Congress and the German Parliament. While he is in Germany, his family is hosting another exchange student, through the AFS program.

Michael will share his experiences in Germany with Townsman readers. This is his first dispatch.

After almost 30 hours of non-stop travel by plane, train and bus, I met my German family for the first time. As my train heaved into the Hanover station I noticed my host sister and mother on the platform, uncertain excitement filling their faces. Despite my fatigue, my hands trembled and my heart raced with nervous enthusiasm for my arrival in a new country. We had only talked via e-mail and exchanged a few pictures. Neither party knew what to expect of the other. In the next few moments, we would become family.

The door hissed open and I dragged my suitcase, filled with a year's belongings, onto the platform. I had been awake for close to 50 hours; I wanted to take a shower and get some sleep. Instead, I had to present myself to the people I would be living with for the next 10 months. First impressions mean everything, right?

I feebly attempted to string a greeting together, but was interrupted by my host sister who wrapped her arms around me and welcomed me with an exuberant, "Willkommen in Deutschland!" hug. I had finally arrived and there was nothing I could do about it.

The next few hours were a whirlwind of introductions, tours and questions. I was anxious to learn about my school, my room, my neighborhood and also eager to share stories about my life in Andover.

I was keenly aware that I wasn't at home.

I must adapt to my new family and how they operate and interact. I'm slowly learning what I can use and what I can't, where everything is and how everything works.

Luckily, my four years of German serve me well, and I haven't had much of a problem communicating with my family or classmates. That being said, it is exhausting to speak, listen and think in a foreign language all day. I come home from school and I am total kaput, totally dead.

Nevertheless, I get up the next day and navigate the same unknown world once again. Slowly but surely I am learning how this country works.

That is all I have for now. Auf Wiedersehen!

Taste what the Andovers have to offer

Celebrating its second year of combining the restaurants of Andover and North Andover, the Taste of the Andovers is ready to roll to raise funds for scholarships.

The event, which will showcase the culinary talents of many of the finest restaurants in Andover and North Andover, expects more than nearly 25 food establishments on Wednesday, Oct. 28, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Wyndham Andover Hotel, 123 Old River Road, Andover. Last year, nearly 400 area residents attended.

The event is sponsored by the Andover Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the Merrimack Valley Chamber of Commerce. Proceeds of this annual event will benefit scholarships for local high school students.

The Taste of The Andovers is an opportunity for people to sample delicious hors d'oeuvres, entrees, delicacies, rich desserts and other menu items from approximately 25 local restaurants and food service facilities, while relaxing and socializing with local business people, town officials, and area neighbors.

To name a few, The Chateau, Glory, The Meat House, The Lanam Club, Sandrino's Best of Thymes, Greater Lawrence Technical School, and Whole Foods are among the many restaurants and food establishments signed on for the event, with the list growing longer by the day.

"The Taste of the Andovers is a perennial favorite for many in the Merrimack Valley. We are again delighted to bring together so many Andover and North Andover friends. All of us enjoy seeing our friends and neighbors at this event, and it is a great way to support our restaurants," says organizing committee member Maureen Pollard of Northmark Bank in Andover.

The cost of tickets is $25 with a cash bar.

Available by contacting the Merrimack Valley Chamber of Commerce at 978-686-0900. Tickets will be mailed upon receipt of payment and must be presented at the door.

STREET: Improvements include lights, crosswalks, benches

town of Andover has paid for "streetscape" items, such as benches, granite curbing and the new lights, which Schwarz says gives the downtown more character.

Crosswalks include tactile pads on handicapped ramps and about 600 meters of red pavers that look like brick — an upgrade from regular crosswalks with painted stripes.

"Without it, you would just get a typical highway project. Because it was downtown, we felt it was very important to keep the character," Schwarz said.

In 1999, Town Meeting voters got the project started by approving $304,000 for streetscape improvements, including street lights, benches and a irrigation system for trees. Three years later, 2002 Town Meeting voters approved $269,500 for streetscape and safety improvements as part of the Main Street project.

From that money, Schwarz said $275,000 will go to Mass Highway and Newport Construction for the "nonparticipating" streetscape items in their contract. Additionally, money was spent on trash receptacles and creating a pocket park at the entrance to the Olde Andover Village parking lot in 2005, consultant services for design in the last three years, and sealant for the sidewalks this year.

In 2000, the Main Street Committee was formed to help with design, comprised of residents and business owners. Seven of the committee's 10 members have volunteered on the board since its inception, attending more than 150 public meetings. "They've been really instrumental in making sure the town's voice was heard. Without the Main Street Committee, we wouldn't have the project we have today," Schwarz said.

Workers from Newport Construction, the state's contractor, will be gone by the end of the month, Schwarz said. Through the next two weeks, they will finish a "punch list" of odds and ends, including a few sidewalk cracks and driveways that need to be sloped differently.

Also, workers are coordinating the timing of all of Main Street's traffic lights through the next couple of weeks.

"Because of this project, all of the lights from Wheeler to Stevens Streets will be coordinated. Before that, they were all separate systems," Schwarz said.

Next spring, the Main Street Committee will coordinate the planting of three trees in front of CVS on Main Street and shrubs and perennials into planters on Elm Square, in front of dress-code boutique. News racks combining several newspaper and publication boxes into one large structure will be coming downtown next year as well, Schwarz said.

The sidewalk in front of CVS was left bare as more than 50 trees were replanted along Main Street this spring, due to a Verizon duct just 14 inches below the sidewalk. Trees will be planted in raised planters in front of CVS next spring.

Now that the Main Street project is winding down, Schwarz said she will be turning her attention to working with the Planning Board to create a new master plan for the town. The town's latest version, which encompasses land use, housing, preservation, open space, economic development, infrastructure and more, is from 1992.

"It's so old that people don't reference it any more," Schwarz said. "We're going to gather up some folks and figure out where the town is going for the next 20 years, our goals and objectives. The 1992 plan talks about reworking Andover's downtown. We can check that one off, done!"

NECC to receive ARRA funding

Northern Essex Community College will receive $3.1 million from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. The allocation of ARRA funds to each of the state and community colleges was recommended by Gov. Deval Patrick and the Legislature earlier this year, but was contingent on each institution submitting a spending plan. The spending plan submitted by NECC was approved by the Department of Higher Education and Executive Office of Education. The bulk of the $3.1 million will be spent to deploy the latest in instructional technology throughout classrooms and labs, upgrade facilities with energy and cost saving lighting improvements, and continue partnerships with local high schools.

"This is exciting news for the college and its students," said David Hartleb, Northern Essex president.

Hartleb said the news was especially welcome since the college's operating budget has been hit hard this past year. State support to the college was cut by over $3 million in FY10. As a result, the budget of each division of the college will be between 3 to 9 percent lower this year as compared to last year. Because the $3.1 million in ARRA funds was one-time funding it was not used to support on-going operations.

THE WISDOM OF EXPERIENCE

Your wisdom: Clearing the Mind

Bill Dalton

Joan Patrakis wrote this insight: "I love making jigsaw puzzles! Especially ones that show a collection of items — buttons, marbles, jelly beans, etc. I'm fascinated by the variety of colors, shapes, designs and how they fit together to form the whole picture. Puzzling is therapy for my overloaded brain, helping it to sort things and figure out a game plan.

"I do the borders first — then I'm drawn to an object or color. I sort one section at a time. Often, if I stand back and look at the puzzle from another angle, I see something I didn't notice before.

"When I work on one I leave it on a small table in front of a window seat. I can sit for hours or take a quick stab at it when I have only a few minutes. The puzzle might sit for weeks. I'm in no hurry. The object is to make the puzzle in my leisure.

"Through the years I've come to realize a jigsaw puzzle teaches valuable life lessons. It challenges me to be patient, persistent and open to all possibilities. It prods me to see the close up view, as well as the overall one and to look at the picture from other angles. In other words, it teaches me there is more than one way to look at things. Its most obvious lesson is this: a 'puzzle can be solved piece by piece.'"

Joan's last sentence reminds me of a favorite quote, which comes to my mind when I'm facing a complex matter. In Alice in Wonderland, the White Rabbit was overcome with work and asked the King where to begin. The King said, "Begin at the beginning and go on

It started out in the basement of Christ Church in Andover with 10 very young students, two nurses and a few staffers. The year was 1974.

Fast forward 35 years to 2009 and you'll find The Professional Center in its own building on Osgood Street in Andover — since 1987 — and services also offered at its location on Parker Street in South Lawrence. Its staff now totals 80.

"This has been an Andover institution," Parent and Community Liaison Ellen Waddill said. "It's a staggering number of kids who have benefited (from The Professional Center) over those years."

The nonprofit, community-based agency provides children and their families with the opportunity to grow and develop to achieve their full potential. There's early intervention for infants through age 3 and a developmental day school for kids with complex health care needs, ages 3-7. Pediatric therapy and parent support services are also offered, providing help for more than 1,000 young children helped at the center each year.

An Andover parent will tell you that having these medical professionals so close-to-home is truly a blessing.

Susan Bond of Oak Street said you never know if a child will need some early intervention before kindergarten starts. Her son, Alex, did, and she and her husband, Josh, turned to The Professional Center for guidance after a pediatrician referral. Speech therapy and physical therapy for a tight muscle that was delaying Alex's walking followed. Now Alex, 3, is thriving and his parents are grateful for the close-to-home services that helped him.

South Church holds its 10th annual Day of Service Nov. 7

South Church's 'Day of Service' is an opportunity for members and guests to volunteer their time and talents at one of the many non-profits located in Andover as well as throughout the Merrimack Valley. In response to this year's great needs in the community, as well as to celebrate the 10 year event, South Church is welcoming the local community to participate through service or donations. There will be over 15 service projects for 300 people, as well as four or five donation opportunities. Projects will be offered for varied interests and schedules.

Local Andover projects will include making a recycle station for the ABC House, raking leaves for local senior citizens, singing for residents at Marland Place and other nursing homes, sorting and packing food at the Neighbors in Need food pantry, and working on local Andover trails for the Conservation Commission. Children and families will make holiday centerpieces and cards that will be delivered to senior citizens at Ashland Farms and Edgewood Assisted Living communities in North Andover. Other projects will serve local organizations such as Habitat for Humanity, Bread and Roses, Esperanza Academy, Cor Unun Meal Center, the Sabre Foundation, Merrimack Valley Hospice, Corpus Christi Residence Center and many others.

If you cannot donate your time, there are several donation opportunities such food and supplies for Bread and Roses, baby items for expecting moms at the Women's Resource Center, backpack supplies for children in need through World Vision and bicycles for Bikes Not Bombs.

South Church will be hosting sign-ups on Sunday, Oct. 18, after the worship service at 10:30 a.m. There will also be music provided by The Jazz Disciples.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Annual Day of Service is welcome to visit that Sunday. Visit the South Church Web site at www.southchurch.com to see the list of projects and details about the donations, or e-mail South Church at scand@southchurch.com.

DALTON: Sharing wisdom

till you come to the end: then stop." I have said this to myself and others a thousand times.

I'm routinely polyphasic (thinking of several things at once). Sometimes it's so bad I describe it as "busy-brain." When too many thoughts are buzzing, I resort to "bouncing ball therapy." It may be silly, but it works. I take a rubber ball and bounce it on the floor from one hand to the other, concentrating on the ball and catching it, thinking only of the ball and nothing else. It's a form of meditation but works better for me than sitting on the floor counting breaths.

A little different but similar: if I have a big problem that needs concentration, I'll find a project that needs physical work, preferably outdoors. The project distracts much of my brain, allowing the rest of it to concentrate on my big problem.

My wife, Katharine, supplied the following insight. It falls under the old saw, "No news is bad news."

Katharine says, "When people in an uncertain situation aren't given information, they'll often fill the void with the worst-case scenario. As an example, I saw the following when I was a human resources director. During a particularly difficult time, several employees walked past a boardroom filled with executives, who were starting a meeting that had not been posted on any schedules. Immediately, gossip screamed throughout the office that layoffs were afoot. This could have been avoided if the purpose of the meeting, which was mundane, had been posted.

"On an individual level, an email that receives no response can cause a friend to fret that you are unhappy with her, when the real reason might be that your laptop is on the fritz. Recently, I was upset and hurt when a Facebook "friend request" to a long-lost buddy went unaccepted for weeks. When it was finally accepted, I learned that her tardy response was due to her being sick from her chemotherapy!

"Since I am a major offender of the 'filling an information vacuum with my own insecurities' pitfall, I believe in giving as much information as possible, repeatedly, and in writing. Don't give people a chance to transplant their worries into an information void."

There are many more bits of wisdom and insights that I've received from you, my readers, and I ask that you keep sending them. The "Wisdom of Experience" will be a permanent part of future columns.

Bill Dalton writes a weekly column for the Andover Townsman and likes to hear from you at billdalton@andovertownie.com.

McGillivray wins Jimmy Fund award

Dave McGillivray, longtime supporter and friend of the Jimmy Fund and Dana Farber Cancer Institute, won the prestigious 2009 Jimmy Award. In 1983 the Jimmy Award was established to honor those who have, over the years, committed themselves to the mission of Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the Jimmy Fund. McGillivray, who is president of DMSE Sports Inc. and BAA Boston Marathon Race Director, was presented the award on Monday night at the International Golf Club in Bolton.

Mike Andrews, executive director of the Jimmy Fund presented Dave with the award. The two have known each other for more than three decades, both having begun their Jimmy Fund "careers" at the same time.

"Although I would like to think I've given a little bit to the Jimmy Fund over the years, I truly believe I've received much, much more in return. The determination and the courage the kids being treated at the Jimmy Fund Clinic display is both inspiring and humbling. None of the obstacles I have ever overcome in my life will ever compare to what they face everyday. I believe it is our responsibility and obligation to give back, and that what we get in return and learn from these will stay with us for a lifetime," McGillivray said. Since his solo run across the country at age 23, McGillivray has raised millions of dollars and covered thousand of miles all on behalf of raising funds and awareness for the Jimmy Fund and Dana Farber Cancer Institute.

A partial list of McGillivray's Jimmy Fund related accomplishments in the past 30 years:

1978: Ran across America

1980: Run up East Coast
1981: New England Run
1982: Martha's Vineyard Swim
1983: 24-hour swim
1986: 24-hour bike ride
Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk – helped to create, produce and direct every year (21 years).

Center. It steps off on Sunday, Oct. 18, at 10 a.m. at The Professional Center. This year marks the 17th annual race which attracted some 200 runners last year, according to organizers.

Also mom to 10-month-old, Nina, it's been difficult to schedule training time. She's turned to the family treadmill often, but this local 5K race runner giggled that some days just don't allow training time. Any parent with two young children would agree.

But just thinking of the Center is a key part of her motivation. "They have helped our family so much," Bond said. "The staff is so competent, so professional."

Or she thinks more specifically of that Elmo cookie box that her son loves so much. That's when the running shoes come out, for sure.

"His physical therapist gave it to him and he just loves it. She always brought little toys for him. ... He would be so excited to hear she was coming," she said.

Nina is also getting some help from the center for a tight neck muscle. A physical therapist visits every week.

"The therapist comes to the house, which is great," Bond said.

Cash in on Gold Rush Oct. 22

Sts. Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Ladies Philochochos Society will hold its annual fund raiser on Thursday, Oct. 22 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the church at 71 Chandler Road in Andover. It's hoping people will bring more jewelry than they can wear.

The idea of the event, dubbed Gold Rush 2009, is for people to bring their old or broken gold or silver jewelry and sell it to a reputable company. People also could use that money to begin their Christmas shopping at the 16 vendors that will be on hand, say organizers. The vendors include Silpada Jewelry, Lia Sophia Jewelry, Teddy Bear Beginnings, Pampered Chef, Southern Living, Jafra Cosmetics, Tupperware, Tastefully Simple, Creations by Pauline, Belts and Accessories by Laura Devaney Designs, Barefoot Books for Children, Swarovski Crystal Jewelry, The Fashion Bug, Eurowholefoods, Silver Pouch & Linda's Personalizations.

Dessert and coffee will be served. Admission is $5. For ticket information, call Olga Pithis at 978-664-1126. All proceeds benefit local and national charitable organizations, the organizers said.

Newspapers carry the torch of freedom

The first week of October is National Newspaper Week. Newspapers are vital to our lives. Newspapers deliver detailed information to the public, but they do a lot more than that.

The First Amendment to the United States Constitution guarantees freedom of the press. Because of this, journalists can tell citizens about the workings of the government without being censored.

Citizens and members of the press can write about what happens in national, state and local government. Reporters attend meetings and become the watchdog for those who cannot go. They report about the important discussions and decisions made during the meetings. They also report if the members of the boards follow the rules and laws.

Without a free press, the government could hold secret meetings and control what information the public knows.

Newspapers also tell readers about safety and health issues. For example, journalists keep people informed about the H1N1 flu. Some governments might want to keep information about potential health risks secret.

Newspapers tell us about important events in people's lives. You can read about new babies, weddings and deaths. They also report on sporting and community events.

Newspapers in the United States have access that is unequalled in the world. They truly carry the torch of freedom.

Protecting press freedom protects the freedom of our citizens. Stay informed and keep the torch of freedom burning.

C. Teresa Hurley, 87

ANDOVER — C. Teresa Hurley, of North Main Street, Andover, passed away suddenly on Oct. 9, 2009 at age 87.

Being a life-long resident of Andover, she was well known for her amusingly feisty nature and a tactful wit.

Teresa enjoyed sitting on her front porch, greeting the occasional honking car with a wave and a, "Who the heck was that?"

For decades, her home was a landmark to many, and her passing will leave a void with all who loved her.

Teresa was the youngest child of Angus and Nellie (Sweeney) Burbine, and was predeceased by three sisters, Mary Surette, Marguerite Gray, Helen McCauly; and six brothers, Jerome, William, Joseph, Henry, John and an unnamed infant. She was the widow of William "Buff" Hurley, and is survived by five children. Mary Ellen Barnes of Lynn, Kathleen A. Clancy and husband John of Highland Village Texas, P. Bridget Perry and husband Kevin of Cynthiana, Ky., Sheila M. Clark of Plaistow N.H., and William A. Hurley and wife Namsuk of Andover. Teresa had nine grandchildren. William Archibald of Lynn, James Barnes and wife Jaime of Nashua N.H., Judiann Hernandez and husband

Luis of Lawrence, Vanessa Perry of Rutherford, N.J., Laura Agyeman and husband Eric of Plaistow N.H., Eric Hurley and fiancée Krista Hardy of Andover, Harley Perry of Cynthiana, Ky., Ryan Hurley of Andover, and Christine Perry of Cynthiana. She also had two great-grandchildren, Anthony Hurley and Robert Barnes; as well as many nieces and nephews.

She attended St. Augustine school and graduated from Pynchard High in 1939, being the captain of the basketball team for three years. She retired from Tyer Rubber after 30 years of service, producing deep-sea diving suits. She then worked at Market Basket in Andover, where she taught the younger workers the value of dedication and hard work. She enjoyed volunteering at Bread and Roses in Lawrence, serving food to the homeless and needy. She was also a lifelong member of St. Augustine Parish in Andover.

She will be deeply missed but will forever live on in our hearts.

ARRANGEMENTS: Her funeral Mass was celebrated in St. Augustine Church, Andover, Tuesday, Oct. 13. Calling hours were in the Burke-Magliozi Funeral Home, 390 North Main St., Andover, Monday, Oct. 12. Burial was in St. Augustine Cemetery, Andover. Memorial donations can be made to Bread and Roses, St. Augustine Parish, or The Andover Senior Center. He attended Valparaiso Tech. and graduated from Purdue University with a B.S. in Electronic Engineering. He was a member of the U.S. Steel Co. Band and Chorus of Indiana. He was inducted into the U.S. Army Signal Corps in 1953 and served in Germany.

When he returned, he married a fellow choir member, Bette J. Patrick, and raised two sons. Robert W. Kidwell of Andover, and Jeffrey Scott Kidwell of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. After decades of Quality Control Engineering at various companies in Ohio and Massachusetts, such as Raytheon, Bose, and Sylvania, he also volunteered many years of time for CLASS, Inc./Shop with class and creative living/classic threads in Lawrence.

ARRANGEMENTS: A memorial service will be held on Oct. 15, 2009 at 2 p.m. The service will be held at Burke-Magliozi Funeral Home. For directions, please go to www.burkemagliozi.com. Robert A. Pustell, 86

ANDOVER — Bob was born into a Lithuanian immigrant family in New Britain, Conn. on Dec. 24, 1922. After growing up in New Britain, Bob attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute to study Mechanical Engineering.

Halfway through his time at RPI, Bob joined the Army to serve in World War II. Shortly before he "shipped out," he married his college sweetheart, Margaret A. Carman.

While overseas, Bob was wounded in Germany. He earned the Purple Heart, the Combat Infantryman Badge and the Bronze Star. After a period of time in the post war Army of Occupation, Bob finally came home from Germany to take a deferred honeymoon with his bride. After completing his studies, Bob and Marg began their family and his career.

After five years of frequent moves and a couple of different engineering jobs, Bob found his professional niche as an engineer in the pioneering stages of jet engine development with General Electric. Bob stayed with GE for many decades, always in jet engine development and design. He earned several patents and many awards for his work. If you have flown in airliners or military jets, you have most likely trusted your life to his designs.

They settled in Melrose, and raised a family of five children. After the children were grown, Bob and Marg resettled in Andover.

In both Melrose and Andover, the Pustells were active in local affairs. They held positions in local government and in various civic organizations. His niche in this part of his life was the Andover Conservation Commission. He served on that body for several decades, much of that time as Chairman.

Early on the seventh of October, after a long battle with Parkinson's and cancer, Bob died at his home with his family at his side.

Bob is survived by his wife of 64 years, Margaret A. Pustell; and their five children (Robert J. Pustell, James M. Ostell, Marie Montgomery, John C. Pustell, and Stephen E. Pustell); 13 grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren. He is also survived by one brother, and numerous cousins; nieces and nephews. He will be missed.

ANDOVER — Beryl Dean Sullivan, 73, a longtime resident of Andover, died Friday, Oct. 9, 2009 at Lawrence General Hospital after complications of lung cancer.

Born in Westport, on June 28, 1936, daughter to the late George and Ethel (Wood) Dean, she was raised and educated in that town and was a graduate of Westport High School, Class of 1953. She furthered her education at Boston University and earned a degree in Music Education.

Early in her career she accepted a teaching position in the Syosset School District, a hamlet within the Town of Oyster Bay, Long Island.

In 1958, while in New York, she met Lt. Commander Martin J. Sullivan of Lawrence, a young Navy fighter pilot who flew the legendary F-4 Phantom jet. They were married a short time after at Oceana Naval Air Station in Virginia Beach. She would remain at his side touring the world, living abroad as well as stateside to include La Jolla, Calif., until his untimely death. He was lost at sea on Feb. 12, 1967 during his 3rd tour of Vietnam while serving on the USS ENTERPRISE.

A deep-rooted sense of respect and appreciation for our country and armed forces stayed with her for all of her life.

After his death, she returned to the Lawrence area and resumed her work in teaching, now in the North Andover schools. Prior to coming back home, The Sullivans, her mother and father-in-law had also passed away, leaving one son, Francis T. Sullivan. The shock of the sudden loss of his only sibling as well as both of his parents and her husband found commonality and ultimately grew into affection between Francis and her. She married Francis T. Sullivan, on June 2, 1968, in St. Michael's Church, North Andover; they raised a family and shared 26 years of marriage. They spent most every weekend with family and friends at their West Dennis home on Cape Cod and looked forward to retiring there. When he was diagnosed with melanoma cancer, she became his primary caregiver; he died in her arms on March 10, 1994 after a two year battle.

She was an active member of the Gold Star Wives of America. Among many others, her charitable interests included The Disabled American Veterans Association and the Wounded Warriors Foundation.

For many years she was a faithful communicant and supporter of St. Patrick Church, South Lawrence. She played piano beautifully and gave of her time and talents to the residents and activities director of Prescott House, North Andover.

Mrs. Sullivan was diagnosed with lung cancer on Aug. 15, 2009, but she never let cancer take over her life. She may have had it, but it never had her. She enjoyed watching sports and followed all the Boston home teams. She will be remembered as a wonderful mother and grandmother, who had a great sense of humor and a kind word for everyone she met. Her legacy of love of God and family are the greatest gifts she leaves to all she knew and cared for. She will be sadly missed.

In her life: She is the proud mother of one daughter, Lisa St. Andre of Arlington, Va. and one son, Sean Sullivan and his wife Julie of Fremont, N.H.; and their infant son, Brady Sullivan; one brother, George Dean and his wife Patricia of Westport; two nieces, Jody of Westport and Lori of Minnesota; two nephews, Skip and Alan of Westport. She also leaves her handyman and loyal friend, Alberto Echevarria and his family of Lowell.

ARRANGEMENTS: Funeral from the Diaz Healy Funeral Home, Inc., 107 South Broadway, opposite St. Patrick Church, South Lawrence. A memorial reception will be held Thursday, Oct. 15, 2009 from 9 to 10:30 a.m. in the funeral home's south chapel. Relatives and friends are kindly invited to attend. A Mass of Christian burial will follow in St. Patrick Church, 118 South Broadway, South Lawrence at 11 a.m. The funeral cortege will process to our parish cemetery, Holy Sepulcher, Waverly Road, North Andover, where her casketed remains will be laid to rest alongside her husband. Courtesy local transportation to the services will be provided on request by calling Manolito "Manny" Diaz at tel. 978-685-5732. Condolences may be registered at www.diazhealy.com.

Whether it's calling out instructions or handing out encouragement like here, Ashleigh Ryans' voice is a powerful one throughout Andover High swim practices and meets. Ryans, a senior tri-captain, is out of competition after suffering a torn ACL while working with Andover Youth Services this summer.

Rocky start, injuries can't stop Ryans from becoming heart of Andover swimming

By DAVID WILLIS
dwillis@eagletribune.com

When the letter arrived at her home, Ashleigh Ryans reacted like most anyone would. She was devastated.

"I cried," she said. "I threw the letter out. I didn't tell my mom for a long time because I was so disappointed in myself."

It was at the close of her freshman season that Ryans received the letter from her coach questioning her dedication to the Andover High swim team. But now, nearly three years after the note that changed her outlook, the senior finds herself at the heart of the powerhouse Golden Warriors despite being kept out of the pool after suffering a surprise injury.

"She is one of the true leaders at Andover High," said Warriors coach Marilyn Fitzgerald. "She has just taken charge of this team. She is just a force as a leader."

But Ryans remembers when her actions nearly cost her an opportunity with the Blue and Gold.

"Going into my freshman year I wasn't sure I was going to try out for the (swim) team," she said. "But I ran into Ms. Fitz in Marshalls and she said I should."

"I did try out and made the team. Then I thought, 'I made a varsity sport. I don't have to try anymore.'"

Ryans said she eased through much of her freshman year with the Warriors that won the Division 1 state title. But it was not until after the season that she realized her error.

"I got the letter at home," she remembered. "It said that I better pick it up or I am off the team. And it said I would have to try out again."

While initially upset, she quickly took the criticism to heart, and turned it into a positive.

"I wish I had kept that letter," said Ryans. "Because it was the greatest motivation I have ever received. After I was done being angry, I realized I wasn't just slacking at

Defense, Johnson too much for Andover

FILE PHOTO

Whether it was on defense, where he had two interceptions, or on offense when he notched a 60-yard touchdown catch, Jimmy Johnson was a nightmare to Lawrence in a 28-0 Andover win.

By HECTOR LONGO
hlongo@eagletribune.com

LAWRENCE — Andover's offense had already delivered its breakout game, and on Friday the Golden Warriors defense did the same.

"They (Lawrence) have a ton of great athletes," said Andover quarterback/safety John Hennessy. "We really geared up and took away their stars."

Its intricate passing game riddled by swarming Warriors, red-hot Lawrence simply had no answers for Hennessy, who threw three TDs and ran for the fourth in a 28-0 Andover blow-out win.

Andover, now 4-1 overall and 3-0 in the Merrimack Valley Conference, pounced on four Lawrence turnovers, converting all four for TDs.

Continuing his breakout senior season, Jimmy Johnson was a nightmare to Lancers QB Nick Elwell, picking off a pair of passes. Craig Newton added another pick.

"The quarterback likes to throw to (Francis Nova) so we just keyed on him and (Michael) Calzetta," said Johnson. "We had a great (defensive) game. They ran at least 12 screens against Lowell, so we knew they'd be throwing it a lot."

Flush with weapons, Hennessy connected with Johnson, a 60-yarder, Christopher McConnell and Brian Miller for second-quarter touchdowns. The senior now has nine TD passes on the year.

The Warriors played ball-control in the midst all night, pounding the middle with reliable Nick Enxing in a 24-carry, 143-yard performance.

With no room downfield, Lawrence went to its extensive screen game, and all to often the ball, linebacker and Lancer found themselves on a three-pronged collision course. Star Lancers receiver Calzetta left the game after taking a helmet to the collarbone.

"We worked on the screen game all week," said Hennessy. "That's a big play for them, and we just shut it down. Our defensive line and linebackers did a great job."

The pace picks up again this week for both teams as Andover faces Chelmsford and the Lancers get a trip to Billerica, which for sure will be a bit ornery after the upset loss to Tewksbury last night.

Andover High School senior swim captain Ashleigh Ryans is a key motivator for the team.

RYANS: Letter changed her outlook, commitment swimming. I was slacking in school, too. After I got the letter, I realized it was no joke. I needed to buckle down.

"That meant the world to me. It changed my outlook on everything."

She returned with a new mindset her sophomore year, went through tryouts again (athletes that made the team once are generally never asked to try out a second time) and once again made the team.

"She came back and was totally committed," said Fitzgerald. "She was never going to be a superstar, but she has shown the true leadership she has and been a great captain. She may be the only person I have ever met that is louder than me. She is amazing."

Injuries abound

While her effort is no longer in question, Ryans' career in the pool has been plagued by injuries. As a sophomore she dealt with tendinitis in her shoulder and an obstruction in her ear canal. A year later it was tendinitis in her ankle. But none compared to what happened out of the pool this year.

"This summer I was

SINGING A TUNE

Andover High swimming tri-captain Ashleigh Ryans doesn't just use her voice to motivate teammates. She is also an accomplished singer.

"She is extremely talented," said coach Marilyn Fitzgerald. Ryans, whose talents were discovered by a teacher in the third grade, sings the National Anthem before swim meets and girls and boys basketball games, and is a member of a select chorus at school. She has been asked to sing at functions and hopes to study music in college, but plans to major in social work.

"I love to sing," she said. "I always have. But I also want to help people, and social working is a wonderful way to do that."

supposed to be working for Andover Youth Services," she said. "We (Youth Services) were doing a team-building exercise jumping rope. But it was wet out and I wasn't thinking. I jumped in (while two others swung the rope), ran out and heard a pop.

"I rolled over on my back and started to yell. It was more the sound that came out of my body than the pain. When I am injured I usually try to walk it off. But this time I got up, heard a crunching noise and fell back down."

Ryans was brought to the hospital, where she was informed she had suffered a torn ACL (anterior cruciate ligament).

"It all caught up to me when they told me I needed surgery," she said. "I just started balling my eyes out. I had just received my captainship."

Ryans underwent surgery on July 28, and that was followed by rehabilitation to address such issues as range of motion that she continues to work on to this day. While doctors have told her that she would not return this season, she is holding out hope that she can swim in at least one meet.

"I would give anything to be back in the pool with those girls," said Ryans. "When you are in the pool you are thinking that everything is so hard, and 'I'd rather be sitting.' I know I have thought that. But that bit me in the end. I miss it so much."

While she cannot be with her teammates in the water, Ryans does whatever she can to continue to contribute and has not missed a practice this season. In fact, Ryans said she takes her greatest pride in her work from the side of the pool.

"I love motivating the girls," she said. "I do whatever I can to get to them. Yelling at them when they're not in the water or if they do something wrong I correct them. But if they do something awesome, I yell then, too, it's funny."

TOWN TALK

Heading north

Alpers Gallery is still vacant on Main Street at the corner of Post Office Avenue, but its former owner has gone north and is ready to open a new gallery in Vermont.

Peter Alpers left Andover last January. The Rutland Herald reported last week that Alpers will run Edgewater Gallery in Middlebury, Vt., as of Nov. 1

Alpers told the newspaper that the economic downturn and his overhead turned into too much of a squeeze as it appeared he had saturated the market in Andover.

"People ran out of wall space," said Alpers, adding that he plans to bring artists from the Andover gallery to his new digs.

The witching hour is set

Attention all Andover ghouls, goblins, superheroes and fairies: the town has set official trick-or-treat times for 5 to 7 p.m. on Halloween, Saturday, Oct. 31.

Think you've got the best or most creative costume in town? Send a digital photo to townsman@andovertownsmen.com and you may just end up in print.

Schools unveil new Web site

The Andover public schools redesigned their Web site, www.aps1.net, and went live with the more user-friendly and visually appealing site this week.

Andover was a winner of an "extreme Web site makeover" from the company ePoweredSchools.

Residents can sign up for a variety of e-mail alerts as well as find school lunch menus, School Committee agendas, phone directories, bus routes and athletic schedules on the new site. Parents can also tailor online school calendars to track parent and student activities across multiple schools.

Get massage, help Ironstone

Dr. Richard Tellier, DC, of Align Health, will join with Dr. Christopher Stucchi, DC, and Kathy Hunt, LMT, to host an open house on Nov. 7 to benefit Challenge Unlimited at Ironstone Farm.

Tellier offers a technologically advanced approach to chiropractic care by using the "Pro Adjuster" — a tool that provides patients with gentle spinal analysis and adjustment.

Challenge Unlimited at Ironstone Farm provides therapy for people with physical, emotional and cognitive disabilities. The two primary programs are Challenge Unlimited and Ironstone Therapy, both using the horse's unique ability to enhance a person's movements and touch a person's heart.

The open house will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Align Health at 28 Andover St., Suite 230, and will provide new and existing patients with a variety of services for only a $10 donation, with 100 percent of the proceeds going to Challenge Unlimited. For $10, participants will receive a spinal analysis, chiropractic adjustment, and chair massage. The hope is to increase awareness of the benefits of the Challenge Unlimited programs. Walk-ins are welcome, but due to time restrictions, we encourage you to schedule in advance.
