"It's very positive downtown, lots of momentum," said Planning Director Paul Materazzo.

"We're very happy about this." He said there are two key reasons for Andover's positive economic news happening

"First, Andover is a great place to be," he said. "And the Main Street reconstruction is complete. That's very important."

That caught the attention of Daniel Vargas who owns Casa Blanca restaurant, a Mexican restaurant on Route 125 in North Andover. He just signed a lease to open a Mexican restaurant on Main Street, in the second-

ANDOVER H1N1 CLINIC - FOR SOME

The Andover Health Division will offer its first H1N1 flu vaccine clinic next week, but only for specific types of people due to the limited supply.

The clinic will be Monday, Nov. 23 from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Andover Senior Center.

Due to the limited amount of available vaccine, the clinic will be for Andover residents who are medical professionals with direct patient care, pregnant women and their significant others, or parents of infants younger than 6 months of age. "Children will not be vaccinated at this time as there will be no pediatric services available. Clinics for children will be scheduled at a later date when additional vaccine supplies are received," according to the department.

the end of the day, we will not end up with a 600 student (new) Bancroft and no change at Shawsheen," said Lorraine Finnegan, a representative of Symmes, Maini and McKee, the project architect.

Shawsheen is a choice school, with students from around the district attending pre-K through second-grade. If Shawsheen were to close, those students would most likely attend to their neighborhood schools, necessitating redistricting to combat overcrowding at some schools.

The majority of students at Shawsheen come from the West Elementary district, noted Finnegan.

School Committee members agreed that healthy districts have to regularly consider redistricting. The Bancroft project aside, Andover would probably be looking at redistricting in the near future anyway, said Gilbert.

If Shawsheen remains unchanged through the Bancroft building process, the town will have to address its future eventually. Built more than 80 years ago, the building is not handicapped accessible or energy-efficient.

"Operating 10 schools in expensive. I don't see keeping Shawsheen open long-term. I think we all have to look ahead as this as a possibility," said Silberstein on Nov. 10. "I'm leaning toward a 700-person school."

283 students, including 75 in the later date, said Gilbert. pre-K program. Fifty percent of the students in the pre-K have special needs, and don't pay tuition by state mandate.

Bancroft had 469 students, as of Oct. 1.

Who goes into the new building is a School Committee decision, and where the building is located on the Bancroft property is a School Building Committee decision, noted Gilbert.

"All things being equal – educational opportunity, fiscal realneeds, (the School Committee must decide) 'what is the ideal population for the Bancroft school?" said Gilbert on Nov. 16.

Once an educational model is chosen, a feasibility study, including the model's environmental and neighborhood impact, will be done. Based on the study, the As of Oct. 1, Shawsheen had school size and population at a December.

The School Building Committee is aiming to open the new school in the fall of 2012, said Gilbert. That date would be more flexible if Bancroft remained open while a new school was built on another spot on the property.

Many of the families with students at Shawsheen this year will not have students there if or when it closes in two years.

Some parents and abutters to Bancroft, which is located in a residential district near Phility and district-wide population lips Academy, have expressed concern about traffic issues, if a larger school is built. A wellattended public forum was held Saturday, Nov. 14, to discuss possible locations for the new school on the Bancroft property.

A traffic study will be done at the Bancroft property, said Finnegan, but not before the School Committee can revise the building size is chosen in

I-93 development meeting put off until after holidays

By Bethany Bray STAFF WRITER

A public forum on zoning for the Interstate 93 interchange project originally scheduled for today, Nov. 19, has been postponed until January due to lack of interest.

Previous forums on the project, which will build a new exit onto Interstate 93, opening up 700 acres of previously landlocked property

"You're talking about 700 acres here, and three communities," said Paul Materazzo, Andover's director of planning. "The charettes [meetings] are really hands on, held to define and sculpt this project. This is going to be a new part of town.'

The I-93 interchange, planned for between the Route 125 and Dascomb Road exits, has a construction completion date of September to development, had 20 or 30 people 2016, said Steve McLaughlin, an attend from Andover, Tewksbury engineer with the Massachusetts

Materazzo believes part of the reason why public forums have had sparse attendance is because folks have a hard time conceptualizing something that is years away in a remote area of town.

The big push to design zoning for the interchange area will come in January, said Materazzo, and the Nov. 19 forum will be rescheduled for after the holidays.

On Nov. 12, a public forum about the interchange design – rather the interchange could handle,

Department of Transportation. than the zoning plan - was held which depends of the type of interchange stands at $150 milat Old Town Hall and was better attended. One hour into the fourhour drop-in session, 25 people had stopped by from the three towns.

"This is the horse, and the cart (zoning plans) is coming," said Materazzo, looking around Old Town Hall as residents looked at maps and diagrams detailing traffic, noise, drainage and environmental studies.

We're working on what development, of course," said McLaughlin.

MassHighway has narrowed designs down to six models, one of which includes not building an interchange at all. By the end of August 2011, they will submit a preferred design, as well as a few alternatives, to the office of the Massachusetts Environmental Policy Act for public feedback and environmental study. Estimated cost for the lion, said McLaughlin.

As the interchange is being designed by the state, the towns of Andover, Wilmington and Tewksbury are creating zoning for the project simultaneously. This will allow any developer to avoid having to deal with three separate towns' zoning quirks.

Tuttle again watching schools' money

School Business Administrator David Keniston's last day in Andover was Thursday, Nov. 12, and his job is being filled on a per-day basis by Bernie Tuttle. Keniston left to take a job as business manager for the Peabody school district.

Tuttle is Andover's former school business administrator and served as interim before Keniston was hired in April

For years, town boards have mentioned consolidating the town and school finance operations. Keniston said knowing his job may change or be eliminated caused him to look elsewhere.

The School Committee began advertising for Keniston's position on Sunday Oct. 18. A classified ad listed a salary range of $95,000 to $110,000 and required a masters degree, certification and a "distinguished record as a school business administrator."

Selectmen to set tax rate on Dec. 7

Selectmen will vote to set the tax percentage paid by residents versus businesses at their Dec. 7 meeting.

Town Assessor David Billard made a presentation to selectmen Monday, Nov. 16, noting that assessed property values dropped 4.51 percent this

In fiscal year 2009, Andover had a 1.46 tax shift, with commercial and industrial properties paying a higher rate than residents. This year, the average single family home paid $7,054 in property tax, the average commercial tax bill was $42,846 and $79,217 for industrial property.

If Andover were to adopt a 1.46 shift again for 2010, the average resident property tax bill would be $7,201, with $44,632 for commercial and $82,509 for industrial, said

Andover's tax classification factor has been at the 1.46 shift since fiscal year 2007, when it increased from 1.42. The Dec. 7 meeting will begin at 6 p.m., with a public hearing, deliberations and a vote before selectmen join the Finance and School committees for a triboard session.

Capital Improvement Program hearing bumped to Nov. 23

The Nov. 16 selectmen's meeting ran long, so members decided to postpone a public hearing on Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski's Capital Improvement Plan until Monday, Nov. 23 at 7 p.m. in the second-floor meeting room of Town Offices, 36 Bartlet St.

Selectmen will meet with the Finance Committee and School Committee to discuss CIP items on Dec. 7 and take a vote to adopt the CIP on Dec. 21.

Stapczynski recommends $7,655,207 in new vehicles, maintenance, repairs and upgrades to town buildings, property and infrastructure. It's the lowest CIP number he's ever recommended, a reflection of the economic times, he has said.

The full CIP can be found on www.andoverma.gov and printed copies are available at Town Offices and Memorial Hall Library.

Borenstein said Johnson has done paving work, earth moving and installed an unconnected sewer line since spring 2005, in preparation for building.

James Lyons contended that Johnson's earth-moving project "has nothing to do" with the proposed single-family home.

FLU ANTIVIRAL DRUGS

"Should I take Tamiflu?" Many people are worried about the H1N1 flu, particularly if they cannot get the H1N1 vaccine.

There are 2 antiviral drugs available. Tamiflu is a pill taken twice a day, and Relenza is a powder that is inhaled. Both require a prescription, and work best if started within 2 days of getting sick.

Who needs them? Tamiflu or Relenza should be used early to treat flu in people who are very sick such as those requiring hospitalization, or those suffering shortness of breath, chest pain, dizziness or confusion. They are also recommended for those at risk of serious flu complications including children less than 2 years old, adults over 65, pregnant women, and people with asthma, heart failure, chronic lung disease, HIV and other illnesses causing weakened immune systems.

The most common side effects of Tamiflu are nausea or vomiting, less likely if taken with food. Relenza can cause dizziness, sinusitis, stuffy nose, cough, diarrhea, nausea or headache. Either drug can cause mental confusion and abnormal behavior, but that's rare.

I'm happy to discuss in detail the pros and cons of these medications or any interventions with my patients. For information about my practice, please browse my website, then call 978-470-0001 for a complimentary "meet and greet" appointment.

Line up of heroes for Veterans Day

Town shares book on veterans, message from Iraq

By Neil Fater TOWNSMAN EDITOR

Some of Andover's oldest and most decorated veterans were recognized on Veterans Day and given a book that can help explain their sacrifices to their children and future generations.

The publication "Heroes Among Us: Book 1" is the first of what is expected to be a series on Andover veterans, and it covers the stories of 29 decorated Andover veterans of World War II and Korea. More than half of the men in the book, or their families, were there to accept the books. Three men have died since being interviewed. Toward the end of the Veterans Day ceremony at Ballardvale Green, Burke shared a message from Pat Robb, an Andover police officer and town native who is serving as a heavy equipment pit commander at the Al Asad Air Base in Iraq. Robb's mother, Victoria Robb, shared the entire e-mail with the Townsman.

Pat Rob writes, "I've been in country for just over a month now. While it's not quite as nice as being at home it's definitely a better place than it was five years ago. The amenities here now, compared to then, are remarkable; infrastructure has improved as well. My Marines are doing an incredible job. I can't say enough about them. Knowing the signs of carbon monoxide poisoning could save your life.

- persistent headaches
- nausea
- dizziness
- blurred vision
- confusion
- rapid heartbeat

Carbon monoxide. It's colorless. Odorless. And deadly. It affects thousands of households each year. How? It forms and accumulates when a heating system lacks proper ventilation, chimneys are clogged with debris or when fuelburning appliances aren't properly installed or maintained. That's why it's important to recognize symptoms of carbon monoxide exposure.

Take action. Install one or more ANSI/UL-approved carbon monoxide detectors in your home — preferably near bedrooms. Be sure to have your chimney or heating flues checked annually before each heating season. And pay close attention if you've had major renovations recently.

If you suspect the presence of carbon monoxide, please go outside and call 911 and 1-800-233-5325 immediately.

Louise Littlefield DeMallie

NEBUNKPORT, Maine — Louise field (Storer) (Robinson) DeMallie died

Monday, Nov. 16,

2009 at Goose

She was born Louise Littlefield Storer, Sept. 3, 1918, in Kennebunk, Maine, just over the line from Wells, to Leslie Howard and Mildred Alta (Littlefield) Storer of Wells, and spent her childhood in Wells and in Lynn, where her parents settled before retiring to Saint Petersburg, Fla., and North Andover. The Storer family had come to Wells by 1680, and the Littlefield family by 1643, when Thomas Gorges granted Edmund Littlefield 100 acres there.

After graduating from high school, she attended Katharine Gibbs School in Boston and was employed as an executive secretary at the Boston Herald before marrying Thomas Dudley Robinson, Dec. 23, 1940, in Cambridge.

She raised six children in North Andover before moving to Miami, and finally to Goose Rocks Beach in Kennebunkport, where she had summered since the early 1960s.

During her years in North Andover, she was an active member of the Andover Garden Club, the Hay Scales Exchange, the Lawrence General Hospital Auxiliary, and the The New England Home for Little Wanderers, serving in various positions and boards of each organization.

land surveyor and 54-year residied Saturday, Oct. 31, 2009 at Notre Dame

Long Term Care Center in Worcester. He was 86.

Over the years, Mr. Goodwin became known for his expertise in the Merrimack Valley's topography, landscape, and the various civil engineering rules and regulations of Andover and neighboring towns. He served Andover as a member of the Planning Committee and the Conservation Commission in the 1970s and later was a sought-after consultant to the town and local attorneys, bankers, and residents. As a surveyor and civil engineer, he was fascinated by such phenomena as the Egyptian pyramids, the Great Wall of China and Stonehenge; he built topographical models of these and other sites and authored and self-published a series of short humorous books on these topics.

A classically-trained Baritone who also was a big-band drummer in the late 1940s, Mr. Goodwin composed and recorded a handful of songs. Over the years he directed and sang with nieces and grandnephews. A an eclectic mix of local choral groups and choirs, including those of Christ Episcopal Church, Free Christian Church, Temple Emmanuel, the former Unitarian Universalist Church, and South Parish Church. Mr. Goodwin was born Feb. 20, 1923 in Haverhill, 28 Florence St., Andover. To offer the youngest child of Esther and Clinton Goodwin, an architect

Autumn is an active time in Andovers

Most of the beautiful leaves are off the trees and need to be raked. Frost appears on the ground most mornings. The Patriots lost a heart-breaker to the Colts. But there's reason to cheer. The next few weeks are perhaps the best two weeks of community events that Andover offers.

Thanksgiving brings not only the usual Homecoming football game, but one of the Merrimack Valley's premier events, the Feaster Five road race. Thousands of Andover families and others gather each year to walk and run the race, from former Olympians to people whose only other exercise this year may be walking to the mailbox for their next Netflix movie. The point for most is not how fast the event is completed, but how much fun they have doing it. Whatever the weather, the race is always a blast, topped off with an apple pie for the road.

The Sunday after Thanksgiving some of the same families, and many more with young children gather for the holiday parade arranged by Andover firefighters. Those in the parade hand out candy and the festivities end with Santa Claus waving from a fire truck. Santa will return to town the next weekend for a breakfast with Andover children.

Finally, on Dec. 4 the Andover Business Center Association will offer Holiday Happenings, a growing event that offers community activities such as hay rides and a Christmas tree lighting while showcasing the downtown and its shops. Downtown merchants have taken hits this year because of the economy and the Main Street construction project. With that project now complete, they are hoping for a good holiday season. Holiday Happenings is a great time to come together with others in the community and, if you see a gift you like, to offer support to local businesses.

So get out there and enjoy the events. At the very least, they should take your mind off the Patriots' fourth-and-two play, and the reality of approaching snow.

Debates needed for US Senate

Debates are the best ways for voters to get to know candidates for office - especially when those candidates have never served in a specific office before. Especially when they are not well-known to the electorate. So it is a major disappointment to see Attorney General Martha Coakley, the leading Democrat in all the polls heading into the Dec. 8 primary election for the U.S. Senate seat vacated by the passing of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, dodging debates with her fellow Democratic candidates, Congressman Michael Capuano, Boston Celtics co-owner Steven Pagiluca and City Year cofounder Alan Khazei. The only televised debate was more than three weeks ago, on Oct. 26. There was one radio debate and some forums, but nothing head to head. The candidates, as all candidates do, have made extravagant promises of how they will "fight" for any number of causes, groups or principles — the economy, the poor, women's rights, gay marriage, universal health care, energy independence, winning or ending wars in Iraq and Afghanistan and protecting us from terrorism. So, if they're promising to be effective fighters, why not show us how they do in a rhetorical battle with one another? There are less than three weeks until the primary, and with the Thanksgiving holiday weekend in the middle of it, really only two weeks to help voters make an informed choice. Debates are the best way to do it. That ought to be a priority for all the candidates, including the front-

REFLECTIONS ON FALL

Aidan Sasser, left, of Andover looks out across Field Pond while walking with Jen Rheaume and Perry Sasser on Sunday morning. The three said they saw lots of ducks and geese in the pond and a variety of mushrooms along the trail due to the wet weather.

Captured on tape – Your every move!

Sue Tabb

ago when I worked at a cable system office, some elderly folks calling to ask if we could see them through their television sets. I used to get a real

I remem-

chuckle out of that. The idea that they actually thought we were monitoring their actions through their LCD screen seemed absurd. Now I'm right there with them, wondering if the folks at Bic can see me through the tip of my pen or if the employees at Gap are laughing when they review the tape from the monitoring device they may have placed in my new "sexy boot cut" jeans. What's she doing in those?")

Every action is now one that can potentially embarrass us. If we look ridiculous in something we are trying on at the mall, there's a surveillance camera for that. If we are adjusting our undergarments, there's someone nearby with a too. I had the sudden urge to flip video for that. If we make a funny face, there's a cell phone camera for that. For everything else, there's You Tube.

People take pictures of everything and anything. They record video of everything and anything. And uploading pictures and videos to the Web has become America's favorite pastime (Sorry, A-Rod). In this age, no one is safe from the amateur videographer who decides you will be the star of their new production. Your consent is irrelevant; just ask Britney Spears or more recently, Maria Shriver. TMZ makes a lot of coin because of the technology that makes celebrity-watching child's play.

Think about it: You can sit at home and pull up views from cameras along major freeways. watch animals frolicking at a zoo or take a virtual ride on your favorite rollercoaster. When you are out, you are being recorded as you buy that candy bar at the local convenience store, fill up your gas tank or pick your teeth while withdrawing cash at the ATM.

The other day, I was sitting at a red light and realized there are cameras mounted there get out of my car and stage an impromptu performance of Lady Gaga's Just Dance. I didn't have a wig or a sequined pair of short-shorts so I let the opportunity pass and simply waved and smiled. I then realized that I forgot to put my seat belt on and I was gabbing away on my cell phone. Good thing I drew attention to myself.

The point is we are not safe anywhere. Or perhaps we are even safer. I mean, when it comes to catching criminals, these tapes have proven to be useful law enforcement tools, but at what price?

And now this: A recent AP report discusses the recent decision of authorities to mount 165 surveillance cameras around the quiet, predominantly Amish community of Lancaster, Pa. to keep watch over residents around the clock. The video will be monitored by ordinary citizens between 18- and 24-hours per day. The cameras sit atop utility poles and businesses and are peering down on the folks riding in their horses and buggies.

This gives a whole new meaning to the adage "the world's a stage." I mean, really, we can watch old episodes of John and Kate Plus 8 if we want to peer into the uninteresting personal lives of average people. And we all know how that ends.

It's just starting to get a little creepy. Not only are we constantly watched, but we can be tracked via our cell phone usage, our GPS, and the Web sites we visit. And yet, we are still constantly bombarded with information on privacy policies. What privacy?

If someone is interested, they can find out how much you owe on your home, who your first crush was and what store you frequent to buy your underwear. Let me save you some time: way more than we should, Tim from the third grade and Victoria's Secret. Who really cares all that much?

So now we know what's it's like to live like a celebrity, under the unforgiving lens of a powerful microscope. The only difference is they get paid big bucks to be carefully scrutinized and ridiculed. We just get sent a link to an amateur Facebook video someone posted of us during a hazy moment at the company holiday party. Hardly seems fair.

Manager: Conditions require water hike

Editor, Townsman:

I am writing to express my concerns about the story "Call for water rate hikes 4 of 5 years" in the Nov. 5 Andover Townsman. The article reported that "In May 2009, Jack Petkus, director of Public Works, urged residents to approve money for a new roof at the Robert McQuade Water Treatment Plant, saying they would not face a rate increase this fiscal year." The official transcript of 2009 Town Meeting shows that the DPW Director did not speak on that article. The only comment was the following, made by a member of the Finance Committee as part of their approval recommendation: "The funding for this repair is derived from water user fees and will not effect taxation."

I would like to take this opportunity to rearticulate the convergence of conditions that required a water rate increase this year. During the course of budget review starting in December 2008, through the Special Town Meeting in October, both the FY 2009 and FY 2010 water budgets went through substantial reviews and revisions. There were three primary factors that led to a water rate increase for FY 2010. First, the actual revenue collected in FY 2009 was lower than what was budgeted. Water sales were less than projected due to the recession and the rainy months this past year. Second, water operating expenses from FY 2007–09 increased by 24 percent. Most of this increase can be attributed to chemical costs to treat the water and electricity to produce and pump the water. These two expense items alone comprise 62 percent of the water operating expenses budget. Third, our Water Reserve Fund has been drawn down and used over the past few fiscal years to fund capital projects and to keep the water rates stable. Use of the reserves in this manner has resulted in lower borrowing costs and stable water rates from 1995

FY 2009 water budget expenditures were frozen in the spring of this year, and the FY 2010 budget underwent a thorough re-evaluation. The revised water budget approved at the October Special Town Meeting was 14 percent less than what was actually spent in FY 2009. This revised budget reflects deep cuts in maintenance and operations, with only necessary and emergency work being performed, along with union concessions and staffing reductions. There were three televised Board of Selectmen meetings where the water budget and proposed rate increase were discussed. A fiveyear Water Budget & Rate Projection was also developed and presented. These projections will be monitored on a monthly basis to insure that the water revenue tracks to the budget. The water budget has undergone comprehensive review and scrutiny to insure proper revenue projections, adequate funding and replenishment of reserves. This scrutiny will continue with detailed reporting to the Board of Selectmen on a monthly basis. In closing, the town has operated a well managed, award-winning and efficient water-treatment system for many years, and will continue to do so going forward. REGINALD S. STAPCZYNSKI

[Editor's note: The Townsman article does not say that Jack Petkus spoke at Town Meeting. It refers to comments made by Petkus for a Townsman article "TOWN MEETING 2009 PRE-VIEW: With approval, water bills would pay for new roof," published for residents on May 21, in advance of Town Meeting.]

Bach put schools, not image, first

Editor, Townsman:

I am 2003 graduate of Andover High School and am writing in response to Claudia Bach's premature resignation as superintendent. I am saddened by this news, as Dr. Bach has been the rock of the Andover School system, making it one of the top systems in the state, as well as many other accomplishments during the 12 years she acted as the watchful guardian of our schools. Though she has been controversial, she has always put the interest of our students, teachers and schools above her own sometimes misrepresented image.

It is not the job of a superintendent to win popularity contests, but rather to do what is necessary to foster and sustain Andover's reputable school system for our students. In some ways, I admire Dr. Bach's ability to see through the larger picture, problem solve, and make important decisions despite what people think. I have always liked Dr. Bach and respected her intellect, insight, hard work, and most importantly her sustenance and consistency in doing what was best for the schools and for making the schools one of the top in the state.

Though I find her loss unfortunate, I do hope that we can find a superintendent who can be as deeply committed and focused on the true matters of the schools as Dr. Bach. She was dedicated to the core needs of our schools, without a political agenda, or without persuasion of people who had power over her. She will be greatly missed.

Sign has his wheels turning

Editor, Townsman:

There is a situation which has been causing me more than a ponder. It has to do with the intersection at Chestnut and Main streets. Whilst waiting for the light to change, and waiting and waiting, I read the recently installed sign on Chestnut Street. It reads: "To request green wait for Bike" The word "bike" actually is not there. It is a picture of a bike to help those of us who are illiterate.

Read these words over and over to see if they make any sense to you. I have meditated at length as to their meaning. Finally, it has come to me. This is a new service, possibly only available in Andover. It creates a new job. helping with employment. There is an attendant who will doubtless be at the light. He/she will come on a bike to the window of your car and ask, "Sir/Madam, do you request a green?" If you do, a remote control, in possession of the attendant will change the endless red to a pleasant green.

In the meantime, is there anyone who can interpret this mindless, obtuse bit of signage, thank you in advance.

You may have noticed ings will triple." Andover's streets are a little darker – and it's not just because daylight saving time ended this month. National Grid has shut off 626 street lights in town, completing the money-saving project town leaders approved this summer.

The shutoff was completed earlier than expected, said Jack Petkus, director of Andover Public Works, who estimated his department has received between 10 and 20 complaints since lights went off.

"The earlier you turn them off, the more you save," said Petkus. "After one calendar year, the light is physically taken off the pole, and when it's taken off the pole, our sav-

He also offered advice to those living in darkened areas of town.

"If you're walking your dog at night, common sense says carry a flashlight, wear light or reflective clothing, walk facing traffic, or turn on a porch light," said Petkus. "Even with streetlights, you can get in (dark areas) between lights.

gents, his growth of beard is two days ahead of him, and his grizzled appearance fits the edgy profile of the conifers and boulders that dominate the landscape around here. His big smile and friendly voice tell me he'd be the first one to help you if you needed it.

When he's in his yard, I often stop and talk. Jim stays busy, working on his neat little house, struggling for dominance with bushes and trees that want to take over. We talk about the beauty of the area, the wild animals, and the taxes, of course.

I stopped by a couple of days ago. A sharp wind was blowing dark scut above the tallest pines and shaking the dead leaves off the maples. His smile was gone and his face was low with sadness. He and his younger brother, only a few years apart in age, worked at the same assembly plant most of their lives. His brother was retiring this

They were within seeing distance of each other at work. My neighbor said they smiled and waved at each other across the assembly floor. Last year, my neighbor's brother fulfilled a dream of many years and built a cabin, where he and his wife would retire. With his brother Jim's help, it took him nine months to complete the home.

They did the work themselves, and Jim's only reward was that he was doing it for

Non Sibi Day reaches Djibouti

Navy Cmdr. Robert W. Patrick Jr, a 1988 graduate of Phillips Academy in Andover, and his fellow sailors of Patrol Squadron 10 "Red Lancers" (VP-10), Naval Air Station Jacksonville, Fla., recently completed the fourth month of their six-month deployment to the Navy's Africa Command and Central Command, operating from bases in Quatar, Djibouti, and Japan.

While deployed, the Lancers have conducted operations in support of Operations Iraqi Freedom and Enduring Freedom to include maritime security operations; anti-submarine warfare; intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance; routine maritime patrol and anti-piracy missions in the Arabian Gulf, Gulf of Oman, the Arabian Sea and the Gulf of Aden and maintained a 99.5-percent sortie-completion rate.

The Lancers introduced a contingent from Patrol Squadron One "Screaming Eagles" (VP-1) to Central Command theater of operations during the Screaming Eagles' twoday visit from Widbey Island, Wash. The Screaming Eagles will replace the Lancers at the conclusion of the units deployment in December.

In Djibouti, during a "Non Sibi" day, the PA slogan meaning not for ourselves, the Lancers helped distribute 10,000 units of clothing donated by Carter's Inc., Atlanta, Ga. The influx of 270 boxes temporarily shut down the camp post office until the sailors loaded the donations on a truck and moved them into storage. The donations were then distributed with the assistance of the base staff, U.S. Embassy personnel and the Ministry of Women and Family Affairs.

Resident, trooper earns Medal of Merit

State Police Trooper Edward H. Troy, an Andover resident, has received the Massachusetts State Police Medal of Merit. He was honored during a ceremony at the Statehouse for "his outstanding investigative skills, leading to 11 felony narcotics arrests.

On May 20, 2009, Trooper Troy led an investigation into a major marijuana trafficking ring. This investigation resulted in seven arrests for trafficking and the seizure of more than 500 pound of marijuana and over $182,000. On June 1, 2009, Troy's initiative and expertise led to the seizure of more than five kilograms of cocaine and $2,250 and the arrests of three suspects for trafficking. On June 13, 2009, Troy was again the lead investigator in a cocaine distribution case. Troy closed this case quickly with the arrest of one subject for possession with intent to distribute cocaine, and the seizure of over $385,000.

Trooper Troy is a 23-year veteran of the Massachusetts State Police and is assigned to the state police Andover barracks. He was previously assigned to the Massachusetts Attorney General's Special Investigations Unit, the Middlesex County State Police Narcotics Unit, the Suffolk County State Police Narcotics Unit, and the State Police Norwell Barracks. He is a 2003 recipient of the Middlesex County District Attorney's Office Trooper Joseph F. Moynihan Award, and previously received a New England Narcotic Enforcement Officer's Association Award.

Troy is a 1979 graduate of West Roxbury High School and holds a bachelor's degree in law enforcement from Western New England College.

the love of his brother.

Jim says that whenever his brother and wife were together they held hands. When he said this, tears came to his eyes. A week ago, Jim's brother left work on one of his final days before retirement. He got behind the wheel of his car and his heart stopped before he started the car. There had been no warning.

My neighbor could barely talk about it, but mentioned that brother's wife's pension would be so low that she would not be able to afford the cabin.

And he mentioned again that his brother and his wife always held hands.

Donald P. MacGillivray has been providing counseling for couples, both together and individually. A licensed independent clinical social worker, Mr. MacGillivray also works with siblings, parents and their adult children and couples seeking premarital counseling, in addition to his work as a marital counselor.

For more than three decades,

When one person in a marriage wants to have counseling against the wishes of the other, coming to therapy can become an issue. Mr. MacGillivray says that the person who wants to come to counseling can feel powerless. However, he says that one person doing therapy is likely to change the dynamics of the marriage.

"Marriage is a living, breathing thing. The quality of the relationship is what each brings to it. Those pieces that haven't been resolved in each of us get played out in relationships. When we do work on inner issues, that will shift some of the behaviors in the relationship. People can make changes in what they experience and can learn to behave and respond differently to things that happen in a way that works better for them. A lot of behavior is habitual - done without awareness. The questions for awareness are 'what and how.' What are you doing that's not working for you and how are you doing that? What follows? What is the consequence (everything has a consequence - nothing's for nothing)? And what does work and how and feel more in charge of yourdo you do that? My job is to get self, less dependent, and with less a sense of powerlessness.""

Regional Asian Center looks to attract businesses

By Judy Wakefield STAFF WRITER

The local Asian Center started out as a gathering center for new immigrants, including many who had escaped from war torn homelands. It was the place to go for inexpensive English classes.

Grants earmarked for language programs for refuges paid the rent and salary stipends for years at the Asian Center of Merrimack Valley, which was founded in 1987 by nuns, the Sisters of Charity.

Now, 22 more peaceful years later, grant money is drying up.

"But there are so many Asians now. In Andover alone, the population is growing," said Yang Schmitt, an immigrant from Beijing, China, who married an American. The couple live in Andover with their daughter.

She's a new face at the Asian Center and looking to take the programs to the next level.

Times have changed. Now, we need to be more about Asian culture, Asian business, not just language," Schmitt said. "It's a whole new generation [and new business climate in Asia, Asian Center.

Her Chinese culture tidbits start right at registration. She's asked often why the number 51 is included in the e-mail address for class registration.

"To the Chinese, 51 is a very lucky number, and, so I put it in,"

In addition to lucky numbers, students can expect to learn about about the Chinese economy and how much it has changed in the 25 years since Schmitt left Beijing.

"I earned 24 yen a month and now that same job (in a hotel's front office) pays 10,000 yen a month. That's a big change," she said. "In America, the change in 25 years is usually in new houses, but it's not like that in China."

She also plans to teach some key Chinese words suitable for any business exchange.

'The Chinese love it when you know words from their language, really love it," Schmitt said. "Little cultural things that you need to know and may help you is the focus (of the class). With so much Chinese-American connections, I think this course will really help businesses."

Schools set aside $15,000 for superintendent search

By Bethany Bray STAFF WRITER

The School Committee has signed a $8.500 contract with an outside agency to find a new superintendent for the Andover Schools, and top finalists for the job will be announced Feb. 8.

The committee voted unanimously to hire the Massachusetts Association of School Committees on Nov. 10, paying it $8,500, plus up to another $6,500 for travel, advertising and other expenses for the four-month search and interview process. Member Dennis Forgue said the school department would need to pay for travel, advertising and other expenses even if Andover conducted the search itself.

MASC representative Mike Gilbert outlined a search timeline on Nov. 10, which has the School Committee voting to appoint a superintendent on March 4.

Claudia Bach, Andover's superintendent since 1998, announced Committee Chairwoman Debra her resignation last month. Her Silberstein. One option discussed Parents: What do you want in the next leader?

Parents and community members are invited to attend one of the focus groups hosted by Michael Gilbert, of the Mass. Association of School Committees, the consultant running the superintendent search in Andover. The goal is to develop a superintendent profile based on the imput of parents and community members. These meetings are for parents with children in any of Andover's Public Schools. Parents should choose the meeting that best meets their personal schedules, and do not necessarily have to attend the meeting held at their child's school.

The proposed schedule for consultants' focus groups is below, with the parent focus groups in bold.

Remembering an educational visionary

Ken Seifert

the article written by Meredith Price about Ted Sizer, former Phillips headmaster from 1972 to 1981, I was deeply moved by the

For almost 10 years I had the good fortune to be working in the same town with one of the greatest education visionaries in our history. When you personally know and witness someone with unselfishness, vision, objectivity, and a sense of humanity you are compelled to say something about such a Sizer was one of the most intellectually honest and egodetached persons I have known. His perspective on education, schooling and moral imperatives exuded from his personality. We shared many luncheons at the Andover Inn. Sometimes they were more like seminars on what makes a good school. I must admit I did more listening than speaking on such occasions. No matter how small the item he was passionate about what he thought. It was infectious. He was an extremely logical man and could discuss issues based on the merit of the idea and not his feelings. However he was a very empathetic man and considered the impact an idea would have on people. He was also a courageous man. He spoke his beliefs without fear or concern he might be alone in his thought.

On one occasion we discussed the sharing of resources for the mutual benefit of children. He said if Phillips Academy had extra seats in some of its classes with a low teacher pupil ratio, Andover public school children could audit the course. We worked out a process over a cup of Henry Broekhoff's soup. When I read I went back to the high school and within a week we had five students auditing Chinese Language classes. They had to provide their own transportation. I think Ted could see the role China would play in the world's

I gave him a similar offer to audit classes in our high school. He was also a pragmatist. He said, "How could I defend sending private school students to a public school? The alumni and parents would be all over my back." He would have fought the battle. I thanked him for the offer and many of our children took advantage.

In 15 minutes you could share an intended strategy. He would give you the merits of the idea and proceed to tell you where the alligators in the swamp were. He was a patient man but did not waste his time.

After the Phillips experience, he launched his ideas on the national and world scene. Walter Annenberg, a publisher gave him $50 million to dream. He chose Brown University as his dream center creating the Annenberg Institute for School Reform. In a short time, Brown was one of the most exciting places for teaching and learning in the country. It was here that he established one of the finest innovations in 50 years, the Coalition for Essential Schools. For more information, just Google the topic.

To be candid, if one examines what it proposes, it makes most practices in today's schools look like the 1920s. It emphasizes the power of individual teachers and schools as the hope of the future. It provides assessments that answer the basic question: what do you know and how can you show it? I wish I had taped his comments on MCAS and No Child Left Behind.

SEARCH: $15,000 to find a new school leader

"We're hopeful she (Bach) will be here until the end of the year. Given these times, we need her leadership. But we (the School Committee) will be able to act right away (if she leaves before June 30). If there is a void, it won't be there for

Earlier this month, the School Committee collected bids from outside firms to conduct a search for Bach's replacement, saying a better candidate could be found by an organization with recruiting expertise and connections.

Besides MASC, the committee also received bids from the firm Hazard, Young, Attea and Associates, which quoted a price of $18,500 plus expenses and the New England School Development Council, a Marlborough-based nonprofit, which asked for $13,252, plus expenses.

This week, the School Committee began conducting a survey, garnering resident input to form a candidate profile. The survey can be found on www.aps1.net. Residents have a chance to offer their input at meetings scheduled for different schools (see related item).

The position will be advertized on Dec. 16 listing an annual salary range of $180,000 to $200,000. Job requirements include 10 years of experience in education, a master's degree and to be licensed as a superintendent in Massachusetts. Internal candidates will have to go through the same application process as external candidates.

Superintendent salaries in area school districts comparable to Andover range from $152,000 to $199,000, said Gilbert.

Gilbert said he estimates receiving 50 applications for the superintendent job. About 30 applicants try for each superintendent position, but for such a high-performing district such as Andover, the number is often higher, he said.

Alien encounters: Life as the new kid

From Germany

Michael Kaluzny

MichaelKaluzny, an eight-year Andover resident and recent graduate of Phillips Academy, is spending 10 months as a resident of Neustadt am Rübenberge. Germany. He is there as part of the Congress-Bundestag Youth Exchange, a scholarship program jointly sponsored by the U.S. Congress and the German Parliament. While he is in Germany, his family is hosting another exchange student, through the AFS program.

Michael will share his experiences in Germany with Townsman readers, and this dispatch came shortly after his arrival.

On my third day In Germany I was exhausted. The initial excitement and rush of being in a new country had worn off and the effects of jet lag finally caught up with me. Despite my fatigue, day three also marked the beginning of my German education. I enrolled as a 12th-grader in the local gymnasium, the secondary school designed for students on a university track. Students select a specialization and then complete a centralized curriculum in preparation for the Abitur, an exam you take when leaving secondary

Currently, my school has 13 grades, but the final year is being phased out throughout the country. In my case, as a high school graduate, I didn't have to select a specialization and since school had been in session for five weeks, I enrolled in classes that still had space. I have a grand total of 10 classes, ranging from history to English to physics.

I noticed right away that the other students had already settled into their seemingly unwavering daily routines. As I tried to insert myself into this daily grind, I had a definite feeling that I was out of place. Being the "new kid" at any school is daunting to begin with. Being the unfamiliar face, without the life line of a common language is downright terrifying. Then the terror slowly evolves into a desperate self-examination as you realize just how alien you are in this environment. Who you are, or at least who you think you are, is something that you are constantly aware of.

AT_AT_20091119_1_17-18

Luckily, I got hopelessly lost that first day. To find my politics class, I struck up a conversation with a group students who graciously shepherded me to my classes for the day. Thanks to that first point of contact, I managed to get to know people from the whole school. However I noticed that school is exclusively a place for academics. In the US, school is also an chance to meet with friends, play sports, or get involved in extracurriculars. In Germany all those activities happen outside of school.

The class structure is also radically different. Classes meet once or twice a week for up to 90 minutes. The day starts at 7:55 and goes until 1:30 or 3:20 depending on your schedule. There is no lunch period. Instead, every 90 minutes there is 15 to 20 minute break. Students bring snacks or small sandwiches to eat, since most families eat a large meal together in the afternoon around three.

One could debate the merits and faults of the US and German school systems in perpetuity. The biggest observation that I have taken away from my school experience so far is that the problems, fears, joys and successes that young students have are universal. They may manifest themselves differently, but that shared link is enough to connect us.

I asked him why he did not put emphasis on school systems as opposed to individual teachers and schools. He said it was a practical matter. The political and traditional barriers are much too time consuming and the payoff is minimal. It takes courage and the collective will of the community to move forward. I argued my disagreement with his premise. He told me, "Do what you think. I wish you the best of luck." I must admit I am beginning to accept his point of view. I hope that someday school systems can be a source of significant change.

Every so often in our human history there are bright lights who point the way and devote last breath on earth. When they move on, where they go is still one of the greatest mysteries to be solved, unless you have faith. One thing for sure is Ted Sizer will be the dean of the Galactic School of Education. He is already forming a Coalition of Essential Planets. Thank you, Ted.]

Ken Seifert is a 40-year Andover resident and former their lives to a cause, until their superintendent of schools.

Young St. A students go clubbing

St. Augustine kindergarten through second grade students enjoyed some inside exercise this fall and learned the value of teamwork and good sportsmanship as members of the school's Junior Basketball Team, said teacher Karen Landers.

Players met after school for practice, learning the basics of dribbling and shooting, and delighting in the sound of their sneakers squeaking on the gymnasium floor, reporterd Landers. The fifth-grade teacher hosted the club for its second season with first grade teacher Sr. Kathleen Leary.

Junior Basketball was one of several after school clubs offered at St. Augustine School this fall, along with computer/video broadcasting, chess, and "Mad Scientists. This winter will see the return Home. It's our refuge. The place we long for at the end of each day. Where we gather with cherished family and friends. Where we all hope to spend our final days surrounded by people and things that are meaningful. When staying at home at end of life is just not possible, the Merrimack Valley Hospice House is a comfortable and supportive alternative.

Nestled in a wooded area at 360 North Avenue in Haverhill, the Merrimack Valley Hospice House features 14 private suites for patients with accommodations for family who are welcome anytime day or night. Each suite includes a private dressing area and bathroom, a comfortable sitting area and a private patio with views to the surrounding woodlands. Special features inside the house include:

- Libraries and common gathering areas
- Indoor and outdoor dining areas
- Kitchen with a breakfast nook
- Sanctuary for meditation and reflection Indoor play area for visiting children
- Spa/water therapy treatment room

Gardens and walkways

The hospice house is staffed with specially trained nurses who provide 24 hour care along with physicians, aides, social workers, chaplains and volunteers.

Since opening in June, the hospice house has cared for more than 100 patients who have ranged in age from 4 to 93. The Merrimack Valley Hospice House is licensed to, and has cared for children. Certainly, the care of a critically ill child is very difficult. Our hospice house is well equipped to provide the special care and support children and families need.

Comments that I hear from visitors and families is that the house is warm and inviting with just the right blend of quiet space and common areas. For more information about the Merrimack Valley Hospice House please contact us at 1-800-475-8335. You can also take a virtual tour by visiting our web site at MerrimackValleyHospice.org.

Andover sets records, cruises to North swim title

Records were falling as petition to claim the North Section swim championship on Saturday.

"It was a phenomenal day." said Andover head coach Marilyn Fitzgerald. "We opened by winning the medley relay and that set the tone for the meet." The Golden Warriors registered 335 points to outdistance Acton-Boxboro, which had 196. Archrival Haverhill finished seventh with 84 points.

Andover's Rachel Moore continued her record-setting accomplishments. Her time of 51.16 in the 100 freestyle topped Jenny Norton's 24-year-old meet record of 51.83. Moore also set a new when her time of 56.05 — which erased Andover legend Connie Brown's 10-year old mark of 56.71.

Freshman Maggie D'Innocenzo's 4:59.14 beat Katelyn Martin's twoyear-old record by a scant 0.3 seconds.

Moore grabbed two firsts (100 freestyle and the 100 backstroke) and the Golden Warriors recorded single wins from Monica Patterson (200 freestyle), D'Innocenzo (500 freestyle) and Ashlee Korsberg (100 breaststroke).

Warriors battle, but fall just short

For much of the final 20 minutes of the contest, Andover threw all of the pressure it could at its opponent. But, in the end, the Golden Warriors couldn't find the back of the net.

No. 2 Andover allowed a first half goal, and despite controlling the pace of play in the second half, could not tie the game and fell to No. 3 Weston 1-0 in the Division 1 North semifinals last Tuesday. It was the second straight year the Golden Warriors (19-1-1) were eliminated by the Wildcats.

"Andover definitely held the Andover rolled past the com- momentum in the second half," said Weston coach Laura Galopim. "We weren't playing aggressive enough, and had to call a time out. But our goalie was great."

The Golden Warriors held the ball in the Wildcats' zone for nearly the entire second half, outshooting Weston 8-1 after the break — all while a player down due to a penalty.

"I thought we played so hard," said Andover coach Maureen Noone. "We just started running wild in the second half instead of trying to make the pretty passes. We were moving the ball up and just running really well. But it wasn't enough."

Firing shot after shot, the standard in the 100 backstroke Golden Warriors saw one blast go wide of the net, and another sail up and over the net.

Andover fell behind in the first. Playing without standout back Nicole Giroux, who had left the game with an injury, Emily Quinn tallied the game's lone

BUY OR RENT?

While home ownership is an imporant aspect of the American Dream, nany people question whether they should buy or rent. To be sure, the decision to buy a home is hardly a ourely financial choice. In terms of dollars and cents, however, a standard often used to make the buy/rent decision is the"price-to-rent ratio." This calculation involves dividing the price of a home by the cost of renting a similar home in a particular area. The average ratio is considered to be "15," meaning that home prices are 15 times the annual rent that could be earned from the homes. When the ratio is below 15, it is considered to make good financial sense to buy rather han rent.

IRS sees sunny future

Internal Revenue Service is set to add geothermal and solar-power features to its Andover building. The IRS will break ground today, Nov. 19, on construction to modernize its building off Route 133.

According to Cathy M. Menzies, communications specialist, the project "will allow IRS to expand accounts management, compliance services, and criminal investigative functions, as well as support the agency's increased use of automated technology. The project also includes green features – installation of geother-array, seismic repairs, window Forget its auditing power, the replacement, HVAC upgrades, and installation of state-of-theart electrical equipment and energy efficient fixtures."
